REPRESENTATIVE WALLACE OF MINNEAPOLIS OFFERS RESOLUTION

To Appoint Committee to Investigate Wisconsin Public Utilities Law With View of Duplicating It in This State.

St. Paul, Jan. 13.—Dr. J. N. McCormick, of Bowling Green, Ky., national lecturer on health topics, addressed the senate and house in the house-chamber today on health preventive measures. He stated that if sputum of consumptives could be disposed of properly, consumption could be soon suppressed. Poor sanitary measures are always responsible for typhoid fever. He made a strong plea for a national health department at Washington, D. C.

The sessions of both house and senate were very brief today. In the senate some excitement was stirred up by Senator Works of Mankato, democrat, offering a resolution for a committee of 3 of the senate and 3 of the house to draft a bill for a new department of state lands. Notice of debate was given by Senator Laybourn and the resolution accordingly had to lie over a day. The resolution was blocked to check the democrats from making headway on a measure the republicans wish to father.

St. Paul, Jan. 14.—Politics was played to a finish in the senate today, with the Republicans coming off victors as a result of their overwhelming majority. The political ball opened with Senator Works of Mankato requesting the adoption of his resolution to appoint a joint committee of six, three from each house, to draft a bill for a state department of lands, as was suggested in the governor's report. Works is an active democrat, and the republicans resented his attempt to boost the governor's plans. Such a bill will be considered a little later, but when it is, the republicans intend it shall originate with some republican, and not with a democrat. Accordingly a resolution was adopted referring the Works resolution, with all recommendations of the governor's message, to the proper committees on the various subjects. Ole Sageng, the populistic member from Otter Tail, wanted to know what the resolution meant. Senator Thorpe of Kandiyohi, said such a resolution was customary in congress relative to the president's message. John Moonan of Waseca, raised a laugh by explaining that the rules of congress have evidently been changed, as it seems to be now customary to lay the president's message upon the table.

The senate was in session just 45 minutes in all today, including three minutes devoted to the opening prayer by the chaplain. Another supply of new bills came in. These included the following: by Pauly, for non-partisan primary nomination of district and probate judges; by Nelson, creating a ten per cent income tax on owners of iron mine properties; by Peterson, to increase pay of petit jurors from $2 to $3. Two bills to pension those who fought in Minnesota Indian massacres of 1862 were offered, one by Wright, one by Works; both calling for $12 per month pensions.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 15.—The house and senate were both in session a little over an hour today. The senate then adjourned till Tuesday morning, the house till Monday afternoon.

In the senate today, Senator Works of Mankato introduced the pet measure of the democrats, a bill to create a state board of lands of three members. Each member is to be appointed by the governor and have a salary of $5,000 a year, and to absorb the work now accomplished by the state immigration bureau, state forestry board, state land commissioner. The board is to be assigned quarters "at the seat of government" and does not have to meet more frequently than once in two weeks. It would abolish a lot of republican offices, and place the control of the state's resources entirely in the hands of the present democratic administration. For this reason it will doubtless be assailed by the republican legislative majority. Dr. H. H. Witherstine introduced a novel bill. It provides that every voter in the state must vote at primaries and elections under penalty of a $2 fine, which, if not paid, is to be charged against property as a tax; and if it still remains unpaid, said voter cannot vote at another election until the fine is satisfied. Senator Dar Hall offered a bill to repeal the present corrupt practices act on the ground that the existing law is but a farce in its enforcement.

In the house a number of new bills appeared. Representative Frank White has one to place the office of labor commissioner in the elective list with a $3,000 salary, appointments in the department to be controlled by a civil service board consisting of the auditor, secretary of state and attorney general. Elmer E. Adams, of Fergus Falls, stirred up the prohibition-liquor interests fight by introducing a bill to extend local option from townships and incorporated villages, to which it is now limited, to all cities of 10,000 inhabitants or under. Representative Davies, chairman of the forestry committee, introduced a bill to appropriate $12,500 to pay northern Minnesota citizens who devoted much of their time to forest fire fighting last summer and fall. E. E. Lobeck came to the rescue of "Newlyweds" with a bill making it a crime to serenade "a la charivari." Representative Ferguson offered a bill for a constitutional amendment to permit the legislature to enact a law for an educational qualification requirement for county superintendent of schools.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 18.—The house met for a brief session at 2:30 this afternoon, considered several resolutions, introduced a handful of bills, and then adjourned till 11 a. m. tomorrow. There was no session of the senate today.

Carl Wallace of Minneapolis offered a lengthy resolution asking for appointment of a committee of three members of the house to visit Madison, Wis., to investigate the operation of the Wisconsin public utilities law, with a view to framing a measure for Minnesota, following out the recommendation in the governor's message for supervision of public utilities in Minnesota by the railroad commission. Mr. Rosenwald couldn't see any need for such a law in Minnesota. He thought that the Minnesota railroad commission didn't need any additional powers. Mr. Wallace took the floor to tell Mr. Rosenwald a few things, when argument was cut off by Mr. Brady of St. Paul giving notice of debate. Under the rules this carries the resolution over for the day.

Two resolutions by Mr. Rosenwald of Lac qui Parle were adopted. One called for an investigation of the advisability of canalizing the Mississippi and Minnesota rivers. It calls for a joint committee of six members of the house and five members of the senate to look into the matter, in view of the annual damage done by floods from the upper Mississippi and Minnesota rivers. Rosenwald's second resolution calls for detailed reports of the amount and kinds of logs and lumber examined by the respective surveyors-general of logs and lumber in their several districts, with a report of the fees collected, for each year beginning with 1905, and including 1908.

Then came the introduction of bills. Bicknell presented one for a joint committee on claims composed of three senators and five house members. Spooner renews his old war on railroads with a bill requiring all live-stock trains to make a speed of at least 15 miles an hour. Zelch had a bill to permit county commissioners to grant rights of way on public roads for street car tracks, no grant to be of more than five miles in any one township. This bill, it is understood, is to permit of extension of the South St. Paul street dar line thru Inver Grove. Bicknell has another bill which aims to have the amount of debts secured by real estate mortgages deducted from the assessed value of such real estate.

Saugstad stirs up things political with a bill calling for a convention of party primary nominees for congressional, state and legislative offices the fourth Tuesday in July, at which time each party shall adopt a platform and elect a state committee of two members from each congressional district. Hinds has a bill for a new normal schools, and isn't very particular where it is so long as it is located within his district. The bill says it may be "in some village north of the main line of the Northern Pacific, and west of the meridian passing thru Brainerd. The normal board is empowered to select the exact site. Holmberg offers first aid to consolidated schools which will teach practical agriculture, ocering as state aid $1,000 to each of the first ten schools coming within the law during 1910, and the same offer for ten schools in 1911. The schools must serve a district of sixteen to thirty-six square miles, each must have a ten-acre site for practical agricultural work, and be located outside any village limits. Brady of St. Paul comes to the aid of street car "strap hangers." He would inflict a fine of not to exceed $100 for any street car company which compels more than fifteen people to stand within any one car. Thayer offers a bill to continue the old state board of equalization. Rosenberg of St. Paul introduces an old stand-by,—to prohibit bucketshops. L. H. Johnson of Minneapolis offered a bill to place street railway companies on a gross earnings basis, the rate to be fixed later after consultation with the tax committee and tax commission; the tax collected to be distributed the same as taxes collected on an ad valorem basis.

Back From Cuba.

Fort Snelling.—After spending about two years in the warm climate of Cuba, the First and Second battalions of the Twenty-eighth infantry, comprising companies A to H, under command of Col. Owen Sweet, will arrive at the fort this morning, to be greeted with typical Minnesota weather. Word received from down the line late was that the soldiers did not have any underclothes, and that the trains, as they were speeding their way to the North, had to be kept at a very high temperature.

Brainerd Bank Suspends.

Brainerd, Minn. — The Security State bank of this city closed its doors, its officers requesting the bank examiner to make an investigation of its affairs. The bank opened for business on Aug. 1 of last year, and had a capital stock of $25,000. J. H. Guerin stated recently that every depositor would get dollar for dollar, and that the public examiner would make a statement later as to reasons for closing. Its last statement, dated Nov. 27, showed deposits of $35,850.38. A. H. Guerin is president.

After Specialist Failed to Cure Her Intense Itching Eczema—Had Been Tortured and Disfigured But ### Was Soon Cured of Dread Humor.

"I contracted eczema and suffered intensely for about ten months. At times I thought I would scratch myself to pieces. My face and arms were covered with large red patches, so that I was ashamed to go out. I was advised to go to a doctor who was a specialist in skin diseases, but I received very little relief. I tried every known remedy, with the same results. I thought I would never get better until a friend of mine told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. So I tried them, and after four or five applications of Cuticura Ointment I was relieved of my unbearable itching. I used two sets of the Cuticura Remedies, and I am completely cured. ## How to Know the Trees.

There is an auctioneer whose "gift of gab" and native wit draw many purchasers to his sales, but sometimes he is the subject rather than the cause of amusement.

The man's name is O. A. Kelley. Not long ago he had to sell, among other things, a lot of pine logs, and the day before the sale he went over them and marked the end of each log with his initials.

On the day of the auction an Irishman came along and immediately noticed the logs with the letters on them.

"O. A. K.," he read, loud enough for all round to hear. "Begorra, if 'tis not just like Kelley to deceive us into belaving thim pine logs are oak!"—Springfield Republican.

HER MOTHER-IN-LAW

Proved a Wise, Good Friend.

A young woman out in Ia. found a wise, good friend in her mother-in-law, jokes notwithstanding. She writes:

"It is two years since we began using Postum in our house. I was greatly troubled with my stomach, complexion was blotchy and yellow. After meals I often suffered sharp pains and would have to lie down. My mother often told me it was the coffee I drank at meals. But when I'd quit coffee I'd have a severe headache.

"While visiting my mother-in-law I remarked that she always made such good coffee, and asked her to tell me how. She laughed and told me it was easy to make good 'coffee' when you use Postum.

"I began to use Postum as soon as I got home, and now we have the same good 'coffee' (Postum) every day, and I have no more trouble. Indigestion is a thing of the past, and my complexion has cleared up beautifully.

"My grandmother suffered a great deal with her stomach. Her doctor told her to leave off coffee. She then took tea but that was just as bad.

"She finally was induced to try Postum which she has used for over a year. She traveled during the winter over the greater part of Iowa, visiting, something she had not been able to do for years. She says she owes her present good health to Postum."

WESTERN CANADA'S 1908 CROP

WILL GIVE TO THE FARMERS OF WEST A SPLENDID RETURN.

The following interesting bit of information appeared in a Montreal paper:

"Last December, in reviewing the year 1907, we had to record a wheat harvest considerably smaller in volume than in the previous year. Against ninety millions in 1906 the wheat crop of the West in 1907 only totaled some seventy-one million bushels, and much of this of inferior quality. But the price averaged high, and the total result to the farmers was not unprofitable. This year we have to record by far the largest wheat crop in the country's history. Estimates vary as to the exact figure, but it is certainly not less than one hundred million bushels, and in all probability it reaches one hundred and ten million bushels. The quality, moreover, is good, and the price obtained very high, so that in all respects the Western harvest of 1908 has been a memorable one. The result upon the commerce and finance of the country is already apparent. The railways are again reporting increases in traffic, the general trade of the community has become active after twelve months' quiet, and the banks are loosening their purse strings to meet the demand for money. The prospects for 1909 are excellent. The credit of the country never stood as high. The immigrants of 1907 and 1908 have now been absorbed into the industrial and agricultural community, and wise regulations are in force to prevent too great an influx next year. Large tracts of new country will be opened up by the Grand Trunk Pacific both in East and West. If the seasons are favorable the Western wheat crop should reach one hundred and twenty million bushels. The prospects for next year seem very fair." An interesting letter is received from Cardston, Alberta (Western Canada), written to an agent of the Canadian Government, any of whom will be pleased to advise correspondents of the low rates that may be allowed intending settlers.

"Cardston, December 21st, 1908.

"Dear Sir: Now that my threshing is done, and the question 'What Will the Harvest Be,' has become a certainty, I wish to report to you the results thereof, believing it will be of interest to you. You know I am only a novice in the agricultural line, and do not wish you to think I am boasting because of my success, for some of my neighbors have done much better than I have, and I expect to do much better next year myself. My winter wheat went 53 bushels per acre—and graded No. 1. My spring wheat went 48⅜ bushels per acre, and graded No. 1, My oats went 97 bushels per acre, and are fine as any oats I ever saw. My stock is all nice and fat, and are out in the field picking their own three square meals a day. The weather is nice and warm, no snow—and very little frost. This, in short, is an ideal country for farmers and stockmen. The stock requires no shelter or winter feeding, and cattle fatten on this grass and make the finest kind of beef, better than corn fed cattle in Ills. Southwestern Alberta will soon be known as the farmers' paradise; and I am only sorry I did not come here five years ago. Should a famine ever strike North America, I will be among the last to starve—and you can count on that.

"I thank you for the personal assistance you rendered me while coming in here, and I assure you I shall not soon forget your kind offices."

Friendly Advice.

"If I ever marry," said the bachelor who was beginning to be old, "I shall be careful to pick out a lady whom I can treat as my equal."

"Oh, say, old chap," answered the married man. "I wouldn't do that if I were you. I can tell you from experience that a woman who would submit to such treatment wouldn't be worth having around the house."

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Senator Stephens, of Crookston, has introduced a bill in the state senate to raise the salaries of railroad and warehouse commissioners from $3,000 to $5,000 per annum. And why not the commissioners as well as the governor and the legislators?

The Thief River Falls News claims that others have been advocating the redistricting of the county for years. If such is the case, isn't it odd that nothing at all has been accomplished along that line. There has never been even a petition presented to the county board asking that the county be redistricted. But then the News is not notorious for accomplishing anything even if it did advocate it.

---

The United States senate has passed a bill increasing the salary of the president from $50,000 to $100,000 per year. The salaries of supreme court justices, the vice-president and the speaker of the house of Representatives will also be boosted along a little. That's all right. The president is forced to spend an immense amount of money to keep in the diplomatic swing, and the supreme court justices should receive salary enough to make them independent of boodle. The vice president and speaker of the house both have to supply a greater demand of the smoke social kind of entertainment than any other of the people's representatives in congress. Of course, we do not presume to say if the last named two are worth the price they are getting or not, but we have to have them.

There seems to be a divided sentiment in the Minnesota legislature as to what should be done with the primary election law. Some want it repealed and others want the time of holding the primaries changed so as to come in June or July instead of September. Nowadays, the voters do not pay very much attention to party lines and, if the old convention system of nominating candidates should come into effect again, it is not likely that any political party would nominate a man who was incompetent for any office. And then again the candidates would be better distributed throughout so far as county offices are concerned. At the present time the cities nominate and elect whom they see fit for every office as the primaries are held at a time which makes it impossible for the country voters to attend. We would say, by all means change the date of the primaries, but we doubt the wisdom of repealing the primary law altogether. It should not be repealed until it has a fair trial with the date changed.

A Curious Superstition.

There is a curious superstition common to Shetlanders and Cingalese. How islanders so wide apart—some 15,000 miles—managed to adopt each other's views one does not know, but here is the fact. The rice cultivators of Ceylon and the fishermen of Shetland resemble each other in one or two rather remarkable points. They refrain from speaking of the implements of their calling by their names. They call them something else, by names known only to themselves. The reason is that if the evil spirit were to think that they were speaking of spades and rakes or of nets and hooks he would be tempted to damage them or even to appropriate them. The train of thought is the same with both races: "There is an evil spirit always on the lookout for opportunities of doing mischief. He even hears what we say. If we let him understand that we are talking about our implements and tools, we shall direct his attention to them and shall suggest to him a way of doing an injury. Therefore we will agree to call a boat or a spade by some fancy name known only to ourselves."

She Drew the Line.

Seeking redress for domestic troubles, a negro woman who resembled nothing so much as she did the "before taking" half of an antifat remedy appeared at court.

"I's a wronged woman," she hissed in a give-me-back-those-papers voice. "Ah want redress."

"What's the trouble?" inquired the sympathetic judge.

"It's 'bout mah ole man. He's done been caayin' on high wif a lot uv deese niggah gals, an' it's got so baad twill Ah don' see him more'n once a week. Somephin's got t' be done."

The judge's eye held a crafty gleam. "You are seeking a divorce—a legal separation?" he questioned.

"Go 'long, man! Divo'ce nothin'! Think I'm gwine t' gin him what he wants and 'low dat man who dispute all his cussedness is de handsomest niggah in Kansas City t' go skyshootin' roun' 'mong dem gals? No, sah. Ah don' want no divo'ce ner dat legal septitution yer's talkin' 'bout. What Ah wants is an injunction!"—Kansas

Marlin

For shooting the swift flying, heavily feathered ducks and geese the Marlin 12-gauge repeating shotgun has no superior. This gun is exceedingly strong in construction and yet is not heavy. It is bored to throw an excellent pattern with great penetration. The solid top keeps out the weather and the brush and twigs of the blind, and the side ejector prevents the empty shells from being a nuisance to the shooter. It's the best bad weather gun.

The Marlin 12-gauge is suited to all forms of bird and trap shooting, and for durability, strength and ease of action is unexcelled. Made for both black and smokeless powders and for heavy loads. Two separate extractors make sure work.

Good Company For 1909.

You are careful what choice of friends the young people of your household make. You do not open wide the door to those whose speach and behavior betray ill-breeding and lax morals. Are you as careful to shut it against books and periodicals that present vulgar and demoralizing pictures of life and its purpose? Perhaps you are among those who have found that THE YOUTH'S COMPANION occupies the same place in the family reading that the high-minded young man or woman holds among your associates. THE COMPANION is good without being "goody-goody." It is entertaining, it is informing. In its stories it depicts life truly, but it choses those phases of life in which duty, honor, loyalty are the guiding motives.

A full description of the current volume will be sent with sample copies of the paper to any address on request. The new subscriber who at once sends $1.75 for a year's subscription will receive free THE COMPANION'S new Calender for 1909, "In Grandmother's Garden," lithographed in thirteen colars.

Angel of Death
Enters Our Home.

At an early hour yesterday morning the angel of death entered our home and took from our happy family circle my loved and loving wife. For just ten years we fought life's battles together, through weal and woe, and Heaven had sent to our care three bright little sons who are now bereft of the loving and tender care of the mother whose place can never be filled. She was born in Rice County, Minnesota, thirty six years and six months ago, but with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sargent moved to Crookston when about seven years of age. In Crookston, at the home of her parents we were united in marriage on February 1st, 1899, and on the tenth anniversary of our happy wedding day she will be laid to rest in the family lot at Oakdale cemetery in Crookston, where her only sister was laid nine years ago. Her untimely death has caused a sublime sorrow, known only by those who have felt the blighting call of death in their own homes.

New Telephone Line.

A meeting was held at the residence of Ole Riersgaard, last Saturday to consider the telephone question. One matter discussed by members present was a prospective line between Garnes and Malone. The concensus of opinion seemed to be that this line should be constructed in the near future, and a committee of three was appointed to confer with the directors of the Clearwater Farmers Telephone Co. in an endeavor to cooperate with them. If unable to do this, the line will be built by way of Kratka and Highland to Thief River Falls.

Mayfield Murmurs.

The Mayfield Murmurs arrived to late for publication this week.

Too Well Imitated.

It is no easy matter for a violin maker to rival the famous Stradivarius instruments, but this an American maker did, and did so effectively that experts pronounced his violin a genuine Stradivarius.

The successful man was the late George Gemunder, a famous violin maker of New York. His remarkable ability as a preparer of violins was known to many a distinguished player, such as Ole Bull, Remenyi and Wilhelmj. But he made, so runs the story, his greatest success at the Paris exposition of Eiffel tower fame. To that exhibition he sent an imitation Stradivarius and to test its merits had it placed on exhibition as the genuine article.

A committee of experts carefully examined the instrument and pronounced it a Stradivarius. So far Mr. Gemunder's triumph was complete. But now came a difficulty. When he claimed that it was not an old violin, but a new one made by himself, the committee would not believe him. They declared he never made the instrument and pronounced him an impostor. He had done his work too well.

Coronets.

The coronet of a duke consists of alternate crosses and leaves, the leaves being a representation of the leaves of the parsley plant. The princes of the blood royal also wear a similar crown. The state headgear of a marquis consists of a diadem surrounded by flowers and pearls placed alternately. An earl, however, has neither flowers nor leaves surmounting his circlet, but only points rising, each with a pearl on the top. A viscount has neither flowers nor points, but only the plain circlet adorned with pearls, which, regardless of number, are placed on the crown itself. A baron has only six pearls on the golden border, not raised, to distinguish him from an earl, and the number of pearls render his diadem distinct from that of a viscount

A Bit of Blue Sky.

Professor John Tyndall, who, with many great gifts, possessed a singular skill in devising and conducting beautiful experimental illustrations, actually produced in 1869 a bit of blue sky in the lecture room. In a glass tube three feet in length and three inches in diameter he exhausted the air until it was less than one-tenth the density of the atmosphere we breathe and represented the rarer air high overhead. Into this exhausted air he introduced nitrite of butyle vapor, which is extremely volatile. Then a strong beam of light in a room otherwise dark was passed through the mixture, and in the glass tube there glowed a beautiful blue cloud, rivaling in color the finest Italian sky. Here was blue sky brought down to earth.

Had Knee Cap Cut Off.

Tuesday afternoon a terrible accident took place four miles north of Erskine when a brother of the Great Northern section foreman at that place while working around a circular saw slipped and had his knee cap cut off and a short piece of bone cut from each side of it. Master Carpener Mills happened to be there and with Dr. Kihala drove to the scene and the knee cap was restored and the wound attended to and it is hoped the leg may be saved tho at the best it will be stiff.

Ralph Green came in from his home in Equality on Monday evening and made a business trip to Red Lake Falls from which he returned yesterday. He remained in town for another day in order to help a little with the neglected business at the PIONEER office. Mr. Green is a veteran of the type case and has not forgotten the work in the press room.

Greatest Danger to Swimmers.

"It isn't cramp," said a life guard, "that carries off so many good swimmers. After all, what is a leg or arm cramp? Couldn't a good swimmer easily turn on his back and float till the attack departed? No, cramp won't account for the strange seizures that in a twinkling turn a very fish of a swimmer into a helpless, speechless, drowning paralytic. What accounts for this business is water inhaling. A swimmer inhales spray through the nostrils, it passes through the pharynx, behind the epiglottis or windpipe guard and so down into the windpipe The result is nearly certain death. Swallowing water does you no harm, but breathing it may kill you How to avoid accidentally breathing it, though that is a question nobody seems able to answer."—Philadelphia Bulletin

Ice and Mice.

For horses suffering from inflammation of the lungs an old prescription was a mixture of shot and powder in milk This has even been applied to human beings. In "Idlehurst" mention is made of sparrow shot, five or six to the dose, to be taken twice a day, as a remedy for "brown kiters," which is believed by the English farm laborers to be caused by the "lights" (their term for lungs) rising up the windpipe The shot is supposed to weight them down in their rightful place. Sussex, England, is the scene of "Idlehurst." It was a Sussex woman who was ordered by the doctor to put some ice in a bag and bind it on the temples of her sick boy. Inquiring after his patient the next day, the physician received the reply, "Oh, Tommy's better, but the mice are dead!"

The Final Shock

Patient—Doctor, I don't think I can use the battery any more. Will it be necessary to shock me again? Doctor —Only once more. I'll send in my bill tomorrow.

Wise men read very sharply all your private history in your look and gait and behavior.—Emerson.

An Angry Elephant.

A sentinel in the menagerie at Paris has had a curious experience with one of the largest elephants. The sentinel was very conscientious and always requested the spectators not to give the animals anything to eat, which seemed to displease the elephant in question to such an extent that he several times sprinkled the sentry's head with water from his trunk. One day a bystander offered this particular elephant a large cake. The sentinel interfered, as usual, and the elephant promptly discharged in his face a violent stream of water. A general laugh ensued, but the sentinel, having calmly wiped his face, stood on one side and continued as watchful as before. Soon afterward he found it necessary to repeat his admonition, but no sooner was this uttered than the elephant laid hold of his musket, twirled it round his trunk, trod it under his feet and did not restore it until he had twisted it into nearly the form of a corkscrew. Then he gave a snort at the discomfited sentinel, as if to say, "Now I hope you'll mind your own business!"

A Neighing Cock.

Camden says the Thames was once called the Cockney, and therefore a cockney means simply one who lives on the banks of the Thames. Wedgwood says a cockney, or cockerney, is one pampered by city indulgence, in contradistinction to rustics hardened by outdoor work. There is, however, a legend, almost too good to be true—namely, that a Londoner who had never before slept out of sound of Bow Bells had occasion to go into the country and was detained all night. He was much disturbed by the lowing of the cattle, the grunting of the pigs and other sounds of country life, which he could not understand, and in particular he was frightened by the crowing of the cock. In the morning, in response to the farmer's inquiries, he said the sound of the wild beasts had kept him awake. Just at that moment the cock crowed again, and the Londoner said: "That's the one! He's been neighing like that for hours!" Since then Londoners have been called cockneighs or cockneys.

The Python.

Contrary to general belief, the python or boa constrictor rarely attacks people and is looked upon very differently by the people from the hamadryad and cobra. The python will take up his abode in a neighborhood and will not disturb anything except the henroosts. These he disturbs very much, as he has a great fondness for chickens; also for a stray dog or small goat. I know of one case, however, in a floating house where a python attacked a woman and, contrary to the preconceived idea, did not crush her in his folds, but attempted to swallow her, commencing with one of her feet. When she was rescued her foot and ankle were badly lacerated by the snake's teeth. The Chinese kill the python to make medicine from the liver, which has a high repute among them. They also use the dried skin for medicine. Any Chinese drug shop in Siam will have a number of python skins for sale.—Medical Journal.

Woman the Tougher Sex.

Although men, as they run, are perhaps muscularly stronger than women, their inability to withstand the elements and their reliance upon clothes place them considerably below the so called weaker sex in the matter of unclothed toughness. Women wear clothes for ornament. Men use them as protective covering. A group of men marooned clotheless on an island in the temperate zone might be expected to die off in a month from drafts and colds and rheumatism. The health of women similarly placed would suffer little from the enforced exposure. The fact appears to be, therefore, that in everything but muscle—in vitality, ruggedness, character, disposition, brain power, etc.—woman is the tougher, not the weaker, sex.—Kansas City Journal.

A Xantippe Outwitted.

An Englishman of Lymington had the misfortune to live in a continuous quarrel with his wife, who was a modern Xantippe and threatened in case she survived him to dance over his grave. It was her lot to outlive him, but it was not so easy to carry out her threat. The husband had the precaution to make an injunction in his will requiring his body to be buried in the sea near his residence and without ceremony. The injunction was complied with.

Showing Him How.

"You young scoundrel," said the father, seizing his disobedient son by the hair. "I'll show you how to treat your mother!"

And he gave him several bangs on the ears and then shook him until his hair began to fall out.

Youthful Assurance.

"When I was your age," said the stern parent. "I was accumulating money of my own."

"Yes," answered the graceless youth, "but don't you think the public was easier then than it is now?"—Washington Star.

The Republic's captain and crew were taken off at the last minute before the great ship went down by the revenue cutter Gresham. The hundreds of passengers, first taken on board the Florida following the collision and later transferred to the liner Baltic, were landed at New York. They owed their safety to the wireless, which called vessels to the aid of the cripple steamers. Two of the Atlantic's passengers and four of the Florida's crew were killed in the collision.

Gymnasium for Carleton.

Northfield.—Carleton college is to have a new men's gymnasium. The trustees announced at the chapel service that Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Hill of Northfield have made a gift of $35,000 for that purpose, provided $20,000 would be secured for its maintenance. This obligation the trustees have already assumed, one of their number, Myron Skinner of Northfield, himself pledging $1,000 for this purpose.

For the securing of the endowment a committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Scriver and Jepson of Minneapolis, Dr. Ogden and Mr. Nason of St. Paul and Mayor Goodhue of Northfield. Mr. Hill is to act on the building committee, with Messrs. Jones of Minneapolis, Mr. Olson, dean of the school of agriculture, and Messrs. Page and Nutting of Northfield.

Work is to begin on the new building just as soon as weather conditions permit, and it is expected that it will be ready for occupation early next fall. Plans will be ready in a short time, and it is understood that the building will be situated between Willis and Williams hall on the campus.

Think Danger Signal Joke.

Austin.—Miss Lizzie Kelly, who was injured by the Chicago Great Western train while walking the track to town Sunday, died at St. Olav's hospital Friday. Her companion, Mamie O'Leary, died soon after being taken to the hospital Sunday.

The girls live a little distance out of town and they were coming to the hospital to see the father of Lizzie Kelly, who has been under treatment at the hospital for some time. Their attention was directed to the crew of a Milwaukee train, the waving of whom they took to be in the spirit of jest and they were returning it as such. The Chicago Great Western engineer took the waving of the girls to mean that they heard his continuous signaling and that they would get off.

The girls belong to two families, formerly consisting of eight people, who are related, and who have been living in two rooms in the vicinity of the old brick yards.

Creamery Man Ends Life.

Caledonia.—John H. Gaare, a well-known creamery man of Spring Grove, committed suicide on Wednesday by hanging himself in the haymow of his barn. His only child, a girl of 7 years old, discovered him first and called a neighbor, but he then was dead and evidently had been dead several hours.

His motive for committing this tragic act is a mystery, as he was in good health, sober, good financial circumstances and family surroundings apparently happy. He had been prominent in the creamery business in this county for a number of years until two months ago, when he disposed of his interests.

New Postoffice Site Located.

Moorhead.—The United States treasury department has selected the P. H. Lamb corner at Sixth street and First avenue south as the site for the new government building in this city. The site has a frontage of 100 feet on Sixth street, and faces the public library. The government pays $4,900 for the property, $5,000 having been appropriated by congress for the purpose, and it is expected that the present congress will make an appropriation for a building.

Fire and Panic at Show.

Spring Valley.—Fire last night at the Auditorium, starting in the moving picture apparatus of Verne Caswell, damaged his outfit about $400, and the building owned by Burdette Thayer, a member of the legislature about $75. In the scramble by the audience to escape from the building, Mrs. Louie Alberts was thrown to the floor and suffered serious injuries, as did also one or two small children.

Case of the Governor's Wife.

Rochester.—Mrs. John A. Johnson, wife of the governor, consulted with physicians here yesterday as to a possible surgical operation at St. Mary's hospital. She is staying at the home of John Sullivan, the guest of Miss Margaret Sullivan. No decision has yet been reached by the doctors as to Mrs. Johnson's case.

Women have so much to go through in life that it's a pity there is so much suffering from backache and other common curable kidney ills. If you suffer so, profit by this woman's example: Mrs. Martin Douglass, 52 Cedar St., Kingston, N. Y., says: "I had a lame, aching back, dizzy spells, headaches, and a feeling of languor. Cuticura's Efficacy Clearly Proven.

"When about two and a half years old my daughter broke out on her hips and the upper parts of her legs with a very irritating and painful eruption. It began in October; the first I noticed was a little red surface and a constant desire on her part to scratch her limbs. She could not sleep and the eruptions got sore, and yellow water came out of them. I had two doctors treat her, but she grew worse under their treatment. Then I bought the Cuticura Remedies and only used them two weeks when she was entirely well. This was in February. She has never had another rough place on her skin, and she is now fourteen years old. Mrs. R. R. Whitaker, Winchester, Tenn., Sept. 22, 1908."

"I just love cake," said Johnnie, feelingly. "It's awful nice."

"You should not say 'love' cake," corrected his mother. "You should say 'like.' And do not say 'awful'—say 'very.' And say 'good' instead of 'nice.' Now see if you can repeat the sentence correctly."

"I like cake," repeated Johnnie, "It's very good."

"That's better."

"I know, ma," complained Johnnie, "but it sounds just as if I was talkin' 'bout bread."—Everybody.

JOY WORK

And the Other Kind.

Did you ever stand on a prominent corner at an early morning hour and watch the throngs of people on their way to work? Noting the number who were forcing themselves along because it meant their daily bread, and the others cheerfully and eagerly pursuing their way because of love of their work.

It is a fact that one's food has much to do with it. As an example:

If an engine has poor oil, or a boiler is fired with poor coal, a bad result is certain, isn't it?

Treating your stomach right is the keystone that sustains the arch of health's temple and you will find "Grape-Nuts" as a daily food is the most nourishing and beneficial you can use.

We have thousands of testimonials, real genuine little heart throbs, from people who simply tried Grape-Nuts out of curiosity—as a last resort—with the result that prompted the testimonial.

If you have never tried Grape-Nuts it's worth while to give it a fair impartial trial. Remember there are millions eating Grape-Nuts every day—they know, and we know if you will use Grape-Nuts every morning your work is more likely to be joy-work, because you can keep well, and with the brain well nourished work is a joy. EVERYTHING WAS FAVORABLE

SORRY HE DIDN'T MOVE TO WESTERN CANADA BEFORE.

Mr. Austin was a man who had never had any previous experience in farming, but Western Canada had allurements, and he profited. He got a low-rate certificate from a Canadian Government agent, and then moved. What he says is interesting:

"Ranfurly, Alberta, May 10-'08.

"J. N. Grieve, Esqr., Spokane, Washington.—Dear Sir: After a dozen or more years of unsuccessful effort in the mercantile business in Western Washington, in August, 1903, decided to come to Alberta with a gentleman who was shipping two cars live stock to Edmonton. I assisted this man with the stock over one hundred miles out in the Birch Lake Country, East of Edmonton. Indeed, how surprised, how favorably everything compared with my dream of what I wanted to see in a new country.

"Had never had any experience in farming, but I was immediately converted into a farmer. And from that moment I have prospered. Selecting a homestead near Birch Lake, I returned for wife and three small children and freighted out from Edmonton in March following year we shoveled a spot clear of snow and pitched our tent and commenced operations, at that time we had no neighbors. Four years have passed; the locality is well settled, two miles from railway station, with churches and schools, telephone and good road accommodations.

"We are enjoying the privileges granted to any rural district in Washington. The Birch Lake Country is no exception, this great transformation is rapidly going on in every district in Western Canada.

"I estimate that every quarter section in every direction is capable of producing a comfortable living for a family of ten forever. After paying for two horses and a cow, had just $10.00 to go on. Did my first ploughing in my life. I was very awkward in my work; but nature was glad and I was abundantly paid for my efforts. Our cattle has increased to about fifty head, which was very profitable on account of the abundance of forage. To farm was compelled to buy about four hundred dollars' worth of farm machinery on time, and the payments fell due last fall, and you may wonder how I expected to pay for them when we had such a bad year. 'Twas a little bad for Western Canada or for a Missourian. But is not 35 or 40 bushels oats a pretty good yield per acre in many States? Then the price of grain went out of sight, so when I had sold my crop I found I was able to make my payments nicely, besides we had lots of feed. No one has any business raising cattle without growing grain, or vice versa. As to the winters, did not feed my cattle, excepting the calves, a fork of hay until in March. Have found the winters much more pleasant than we did in Western Washington. This is strange and hard to explain, but 'tis true, nevertheless, at 40 degrees below zero we have more comfort than you would at 20 degrees above, so still and dry—with bright, sunny days. My wife says that the only regret she has is that we did not come here ten years ago, as we would now certainly have been in a position to retire from hard work. Most women soon become satisfied as neighbors begin to come round them. Have 98 acres in crop this year, besides two acres potatoes, which have always brought me a fair price. We find a ready market for everything we produce. To the Poor Man—Here is a chance to establish yourself. To the Rich Man—Here is a chance to buy land for $10.00 to $15.00 per acre which will produce more crops than a half dozen acres of your $50.00 to $75.00 per acre land. And if not very much mistaken, this year will prove an eye opener to those who are a little sceptical. The trouble with me is that I have so much to say so favorable to Alberta 'tis hard to be brief. Respectfully,

(Signed) "P. S. AUSTIN."

Editorial Verdict.

From a serious-minded jester the editor received this note, together with a consignment of humor that was heavy enough to go by freight:

"Dear Sir: I read all these jokes to my wife, and she laughed heartily. Now, I have it on good authority that when a man's wife will laugh at his jokes they are bound to be very good —or she is. Yours, etc."

The editor slipped them into the return envelope with the letter, after writing on the margin: "She is."

Professor Munyon has just issued a most beautiful, useful and complete Almanac; it contains not only all the scientific information concerning the moon's phases, in all the latitudes, but has illustrated articles on how to read character by phrenology, palmistry and birth month. It also tells all about card reading, birth stones and their meaning, and gives the interpretation of dreams. It teaches beauty culture, manicuring, gives weights and measures, and antidotes for poison. In fact, it is a Magazine Almanac, that not only gives valuable information, but will afford much amusement for every member of the family, especially for parties and evening entertainments. Farmers and people in the rural districts will find this Almanac almost invaluable.

It will be sent to anyone absolutely free on application to the MUNYON REMEDY COMPANY, PHILADELPHIA.

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The government of Canada now gives to every actual settler 160 acres of wheat-growing land free and an additional 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. The 300,000 contented American settlers making their homes in Western Canada is the best evidence of the superiority of that country. They are becoming rich, growing from 25 to 50 bushels wheat to the acre; 60 to 110 bushels oats and 45 to 60 bushels barley, besides having splendid herds of cattle raised on the prairie grass. Dairying is an important industry.

The crop of 1908 still keeps Western Canada in the lead. The world will soon look to it as its food-producer.

The increased use of "Toris" for rheumatism is causing considerable discussion among the medical fraternity. Take in tablespoonful doses before each meal and before retiring."

Toris compound is a product of the laboratories of the Globe Pharmaceutical Co., Chicago, but it as well as the other ingredients can be had from any good druggist.

MINNESOTA SOLONS

HOUSES NOW HAVE OVER FOUR HUNDRED BILLS PENDING.

Prospects for a Long Session—Senator Schaller Makes Strenuous Kick on Young Ladies Who Make Eyes at Him.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 21.—Prize fighting will be legalized in Minnesota if a bill introduced in the house today by Representative T. J. Greene of St. Paul, passes. The bill legalizes boxing bouts of not to exceed six rounds in cities of over 50,000 inhabitants, providing the contestants pass a physical examination and their contest is authorized by the mayor of the city. No gloves of less than six ounces are to be allowed, and no decisions are to be permitted at the end of the six rounds. The bill was referred to the committee on general legislation.

Representative J. T. Johnson got after the state fair management with a resolution calling for an investigation by a committee of five to be appointed by the speaker. The resolution passed with but one vote against it, and without any debate. It recited that no detailed financial report has yet been submitted to the lawmakers, though they were given to understand one was coming, and that the matter of granting privileges should be looked into. At the present time a skating rink is being conducted in the big livestock exposition building.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 22.—Two bills of particular interest put in appearance at today's legislative session; one in the house by A. K. Ware calling for county option, and the second in the senate by A. D. Stephens to permit of remunerating inmates of the state prison that their needy dependent families may have some little money to help make ends meet.

The Ware bill, which is already known as the "official" bill of the prohibitionists for county option, provides that in any county, on petition of 25 per cent of the voters, the question of whether liquor licenses shall thereafter be granted within the county must be submitted to the voters at the next election. The Stephens bill in the senate fixes a remuneration of 25 cents a day for state prisoners, the money to be sent to their needy families by the board of control; or, if they have no dependent relatives, the money accumulates to give them a new start in life when they are discharged. The board of control is authorized to establish rules whereby part or all of the remuneration may be forfeited for attempt to escape or other breach of discipline.

Representative Austin of Duluth got after wife deserters today with a bill declaring such desertion shall be punishable as a felony. Representative Doyle introduced a bill to establish an additional branch agricultural school at Foley.

It is understood that some time next week the women suffragists will be given a public hearing on the Sageng bill for such suffrage. After the hearing, the slated action seems to be to bury the bill the same as has been the case with most measures introduced by the lone populist member of the legislature.

Senator McColl of St. Paul has announced his intention to introduce a bill next week for state guarantee of bank deposits, a fund for this purpose to be secured by a tax of one per cent on banks in proportion to the amount of deposits each bank holds. The bill follows out the democratic platform of the last state campaign.

The senate adjourned today till next Tuesday at 11 a. m., in order that the members might spend the mileage money which they secured today by passing the house mileage allowance bill under suspension of the rules. The house adjourned till 2 p. m. Monday—probably with the same idea in view.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 25.—H. O. Bjorge this afternoon introduced in the house a new bill for a tonnage tax on iron ore which is to supersede his former one. His first bill called for a 5 cent per ton tax on all ore over 49 per cent iron. The new bill fixes a graded tax. All iron ore which is less than 54 per cent iron is to pay a tax of 2 cents per ton; ore grading from 54 to 57 per cent, 3 cents per ton; ore grading from 57 to 59 per cent, 4 cents per ton; all ore of grade above 59 per cent, 5 cents per ton. The new bill is House File 227.

Representative Lee came to the front with a novel measure which prohibits treating in saloons. The bill is stringent in its terms, inflicting a fine ranging from $5 to $20 for either offering or accepting a "treat" drink. It fines the saloonkeeper who permits treating in his place and demands that each saloonkeeper have a sign displayed in four-inch letters reading. "Treating Prohibited by Law." Representative Thayer has a bill to amend the severity of the present law on the large game hunter who accidentally shoots a man for a deer. The Thayer bill provides that the hunter shal not be held for manslaughter if the man he shoots is dressed in headgear or color of clothes to resemble a deer. Representative Robertson who secured fame two years ago as author of the peddlers' license bill which Gov. Johnson vetoed, today introduced another such measure. The bill of two years ago provided for a county license. The new bill calls for a state license issued by the secretary of state on a graded schedule; an annual fee from the man who carries his pack on his back, of $10; for the man with a push-cart, $25; for the fellow with a one-horse wagon, $75; for the more prosperous peddler with a team, $100. Representative John Stence has a new bill to permit county commissioners to levy a one mill tax to raise a fund for special advertising of the attractions of each respective county. Representative Carl Wallace introduced a bill to prohibit all kinds of slot machines. Representative Andrews presented a measure for legal recognition of naturopathy, a school of nature cures for ailments. J. N. Johnson introduced a measure for woman suffrage, and Rosenwald one to prohibit unfair competition, both these bills being the same as pending measures on these subjects in the senate.

On motion of Frank T. White, the "anti-charivari" bill got a death blow by being referred to its author, Mr. Lobeck.

There was no session of the senate today. Both branches of the legislature convene at 11 a. m. tomorrow.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26.—In spite of over 400 bills now pending in the legislature, both house and senate are holding but short sessions daily, and hardly half a dozen bills have yet been actually passed. The hard grind of the sessions has not yet started, and it seems certain that the lawmakers, now under a salary of $500 a year, will remain in session the full constitutional limit, the same as in past years, when they received $5 a day.

There was little of importance in the legislature today. In the house, there was a long fight as to whether one more janitor shall be employed, the momentous question finally being answered in the affirmative. In the senate, Albert Schaller of Hastings broke forth into one of his humorous speeches in which he took exception to a newspaper story to the effect that he was unmarried. He said he had noticed the young ladies making eyes at him of late, and he did not want them to do so under a misapprehension of the facts.

A. K. Ware of Northfield today introduced in the house the most radical iron ore tax bill that has yet appeared. It calls for a tax of 10 cents per ton on all iron ore taken out of Minnesota mines, no matter what its grade, and fixes a penalty of 10 per cent for nonpayment of the tax in thirty days, and of 1 per cent each month thereafter. Burdette Thayer and J. D. Johnson introduced bills to place express and telephone companies under the railroad commission. F. B. Wright of Minneapolis presented a bill to tax on a gross earnings basis all public utility corporations, the rate to be fixed later. John McGrath of Barnesville introduced a bill to give police powers to street car and railway conductors.

Kerry Conley of Rochester introduced a resolution in the house, commending the course pursued by President Roosevelt in office, especially in regard to his use of the secret service. John D. O'Brien of St. Paul got the resolution tabled until tomorrow by giving notice of debate.

In the senate, Senator Works of Mankato today introduced a resolution asking for an investigation of mineral right privileges, grants, and reserves. It recites that much land in northern Minnesota is sold with the mineral rights reserved, and that this retards development by settlers. The resolution asks the tax commission to investigate with a view to ascertaining how these reserved mineral rights may be taxed. The resolution went over for the day on notice of debate by George R. Laybourn of Duluth.

A lengthy petition was received by the senate today from Minnesota farm implement manufacturers against the bill for manufacture of farm machinery at the new state prison. It has been decided to give these manufacturers a hearing before further action is taken on the pending bill covering the subject. The manufacturers allege the bill in its present form would not only hit trust-made articles, but would seriously hamper the business of certain Minnesota farm machinery makers. No important bills appeared in the senate today beyond one by Senator J. M. Hackney, to appropriate $200,000 for a mechanical training building and school at the state agricultural college, St. Anthony Park. The new school would permit of farm boys who are unable to take a long engineering course at the state university, to take a short, practical engineering and building course at the agricultural college.

The ink was stored in the engineer's warehouse during the holidays to prevent freezing. The entire supply of writing fluids as well as many highly expensive boxes of India drawing ink were removed by the robbers and not a drop of ink can be obtained at the institution.

HOME COUGH CURE.

Go to your druggist and get one-half ounce Concentrated pine compound, two ounces of glycerine, half a pint of good whiskey; mix it up, and use it in doses of a teaspoonful to a tablespoonful every four hours, shaking the bottle each time. Any druggist can supply ingredients.

The Concentrated pine is a pine product refined for medical use and comes only in half ounce bottles, each enclosed in a round case which is airtight and preserves the fluid in its full strength, but be sure it is labeled "Concentrated." A prominent local druggist says he has filled this prescription hundreds of times and has seen it work wonders.

The Use of a Fat Man.

"I don't know whether I'll like Jack or not when I see him again," said she. "He wrote me he was getting fat. I hate a fat man."

"A fat man's all right," said the boy who was playing cards on the floor, "when a burglar gets in. A fat man will scare a burglar."

"But," she demurred, "I'm not marrying a man just because he's good to scare burglars with, am I?"

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

His Plan Was Simple.

Frederick the Great once requested his generals to submit to him plans of campaign for a supposititious case. Hans Joachim von Ziethen, the famous cavalry general, produced a queer diagram in black ink. It represented a big blot in the center, intersected by two black lines, whose four terminals ended each in a smaller blot. The king was furious and upbraided his old comrade in arms bitterly for what he considered disrespect.

In explanation Von Ziethen said: "Why, your majesty, I am the large blot in the center. The enemy is any one of the four smaller blots. He can march upon me from the right or left, from the front or rear. If he does I simply advance upon any of the four lines and lick him where I find him."

Frederick was satisfied.

Statistics.

In all probability the first administrative act of the first regular government was to number its fighting men and to ascertain as nearly as was possible what amount of taxation could be levied on the rest of the community. As human society grew more highly organized there can be no doubt that a very considerable body of official statistics must have come into existence. We know that such was the case in Greece, Rome and Egypt, but it was not until within the last two or three centuries that systematic use of the information available began for purposes of investigation rather than mere administration.—New York American.

Life without liberty is joyless, but life without joy may be great. The greatness of life is sacrifice.—Ouida.

A Deal in Gum.

Some of these little newsboys are resourceful little mites. A day or two ago a business man dropped a silver mounted fountain pen through the grating in front of a building on West Third street. They told him in the store that there was no access to the hole from the inside. He seemed to be up against it. Two newsies saw him peering down into the grating and got interested.

"I'll git it out fer you, mister," spoke up one of them, "if you'll stand the expense. It'll take about a nickel's worth o' chewin' gum."

The man said he would finance the gum scheme, whatever it might be.

A minute or two later the boy had dashed into a store and got a yardstick. He was chewing hard on an entire 5 cents' worth of gum. As soon as this was properly softened by the process of mastication he placed it on the end of the yardstick, stuck the stick through the grating until the gum met the pen and brought the pen up with the utmost dispatch.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Sand Fish.

At low tide in midsummer on certain parts of the Breton coast men and boys with baskets and hoes descend the white beach to the sea's edge. They are anglers, but the fish they seek live on dry land. With his hoe each fisherman makes swiftly in the packed sand shallow parallel trenches, very close together and about a yard long. If the luck be good every scratch of the hoe uncovers three or four silvery fish, the size of sardines, that leap up glittering into the air. They must be seized quickly or at once they bury themselves in the sand again They are called lancons. The smaller ones are used for mackerel bait; the larger, with their heads cut off, make, fried, an excellent dish a good deal like fried smelts. With daylight tides the lancons are seldom bigger than a man's middle finger, but with the night tides, when promenaders have not disturbed the sand, they run very large indeed. Then, their lanterns flashing on the beach, the Breton fishermen often capture lancons a foot long.

A Curious Superstition.

There is a curious superstition common to Shetlanders and Cingalese. How islanders so wide apart—some 15,000 miles—managed to adopt each other's views one does not know, but here is the fact. The rice cultivators of Ceylon and the fishermen of Shetland resemble each other in one or two rather remarkable points. They refrain from speaking of the implements of their calling by their names. They call them something else, by names known only to themselves. The reason is that if the evil spirit were to think that they were speaking of spades and rakes or of nets and hooks he would be tempted to damage them or even to appropriate them. The train of thought is the same with both races: "There is an evil spirit always on the lookout for opportunities of doing mischief. He even hears what we say. If we let him understand that we are talking about our implements and tools, we shall direct his attention to them and shall suggest to him a way of doing an injury. Therefore we will agree to call a boat or a spade by some fancy name known only to ourselves."

She Drew the Line.

Seeking redress for domestic troubles, a negro woman who resembled nothing so much as she did the "before taking" half of an antifat remedy appeared at court.

"I's a wronged woman," she hissed in a give-me-back-those-papers voice. "Ah want redress."

"What's the trouble?" inquired the sympathetic judge.

"It's 'bout mah ole man. He's done been caayin' on high wif a lot uv deese niggah gals, an' it's got so baad twill Ah don' see him more'n once a week. Somephin's got t' be done."

The judge's eye held a crafty gleam. "You are seeking a divorce—a legal separation?" he questioned.

"Go 'long, man! Divo'ce nothin'! Think I'm gwine t' gin him what he wants and 'low dat man who dispote all his cussedness is de handsomest niggah in Kansas City t' go skyshootin' roun' 'mong dem gals? No, sah. Ah don' want no divo'ce ner dat legal septitution yer's talkin' 'bout. What Ah wants is an injunction!"—Kansas

Inpressive Services Held.

Under the above heading the Crookston Daily Journal of last Monday, February 1st, contained the following item:

This after noon the funeral services were held over the remains of Mrs. Chas. Latta at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sargent, 706 South Ash street, a short sermon having been preached by Rev. Willard S. Ward of the Presbyterian church. The house was filled with the friends of the bereaved family who desired to pay a last tribute of respect to one loved and honored by all who knew her. The floral tributes were numerous and aside from the individual contributions there was a special contribution "from the newspaper fraternity" of which the bereaved husband has been an honored member for years.

May E. Latta was 36 years and 7 months of age. She died at her home in Plummer at 2:15 a. m. last Friday as the result of internal hemorrhage. Tho she had been ill for some time her condition had promised complete recovery until the attack which resulted in her death which was very sudden. She was the only surviving child of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Sargent and her remains were laid to rest beside those of her sister, Miss Maude Sargent in Oakdale Cemetery, who died several years ago. Deceased came to Crookston from Rice county with her parents in 1879 and has lived in and near Crookston ever since, having moved to Plummer four years ago. She leaves three little sons aged 7, 5½ and 3 years respectively, and a sorrowing husband.

A specially sad feature of the funeral is that today is the 10th anniversary of her wedding which took place at the family residence where the funeral was held this afternoon, ten years ago this evening.

Deceased had been a faithful member of the Woman's Relief Corps in Crookston for years and that order attended the services today in a body and sent a special floral offering.

The pall bearers today were Messrs. John Crawford, Robert Cram, I. W. Kinder, Walter Stone, D. H. Turner and Archie Hillard.

The members of the stricken family have the deepest sympathy of all in their hour of sorrow. Deceased was loved and honored by all who knew her and her sudden death has cast a veil of sorrow over both Crookston and Plummer.

In time of great sorrow the burden of the afflicted is lightened and the keenest bitterness taken from their grief when true, kind hearts lend their sympathy and aid. Without these manifestations of human sympathy we are prone, in times of [illegible], to lose our faith in the good of humanity and in our God. For several years the writer resided in Crookston and was principally engaged in newspaper work. During those years it was a pleasure many times enjoyed to speak well of the glorious christian work of the Women's Relief Corps and many other of the true hearted people in that fair city. The mission of the members of the Relief Corps is to help and comfort the afflicted and the noble band of women belonging to the order in Crookston are never known to fail in the full performance of their duties as members of their order and as true christians. They have soothed many an aching heart, lightened many burdens of sorrow and helped in many ways to smooth the way for weary feet and aching hearts.

On behalf of the bereaved father and mother, and my children and myself I tender heartfelt thanks to the members of the Women's Relief Corps for their kind ministrations; to the newspaper fraternity of Crookston for their remembrance and courtesies extended; to the true hearted friends we knew in bygone years, and find still true friends, who forsook the duties of their everyday life to assist and attend at the last sad rites for our loved one. Words are sometimes too weak to express our full meaning, but the many kindnesses received by us from these will always remain fresh in our memory and preserve in our hearts a kindly feeling for the people of Crookston.

"No," she murmured. "It's only a cold, you know. But go on with the treatment."—Ladies' Home Journal.

THE SHIPWRECKER.

His Life Made Up of Hardships, Adventures and Accidents.

The career of the shipwrecker consists of a series of hardships and adventures and accidents and narrow escapes from the first day he enlists with a big wrecking company up to the time he is brought ashore from the grim ship he calls "home" crippled or fatally injured. Of all the professions that demand heavy toll of human life none, not even mining or powder making, is as dangerous as the one of these wreckers. Every year these daring men, who brave storm and wave and tempest to save the stranded liner, to raise the sunken ocean greyhound, to rescue the ship impaled upon rocks and, if nothing else, to salve what valuable cargo may be removed from helpless wrecks, meet death by the score. Many of them, exposed often for days and nights to the icy blasts of winter seas, to driving blizzards and to drenching storms that bite to the marrow, succumb to pneumonia. Others at work on the pitching, tossing barges have legs or arms shattered during the risky operations of removing masts or of slinging wrecking pumps or other castings that weigh tons. Others have hands or feet so dreadfully frozen that these must be amputated, and still others are wiped out of existence after suffering hours of untold agony and exposure before the eyes of their helpless comrades.—Appleton's Magazine.

HICCOUGHS.

A Simple Treatment by Which They May Be Cured.

Did you ever take nine swallows of water to cure the hiccoughs? Do you remember the time some one scared the hiccoughs away by telling you of a whipping due for some meanness?

Well, science has been studying hiccoughs and caught the hiccoughs by the "nape of the neck." The nine swallows of water had a little science in it, and so did the scare cure. The scientific hiccough cure consists in pressing down to numbness the nerve that connects the stomach, heart, lungs and brain, the pneumogastric nerve. The pressure partially and locally paralyzes ~~this nerve and of necessity~~ the hiccoughing must cease.

Have the hiccoughing patient sit down and be at ease, with the muscles of the neck relaxed as much as possible. Grasp both sides of the neck somewhat toward the back part and press down steadily and as hard as the subject may permit for about one minute, having the patient work the head from side to side. Within about one minute the nerve will be numbed and rested, and the spasmodic motion will cease. It may require longer pressure in some cases, but the result is sure if patience is maintained. — O. S. State Journal.

A Thirteenth Century Drink.

Thirteenth century tastes in food had few limitations. Besides the "fowl of Africa and the rare godwit of Ionia" mentioned by Fitzstephen, gourmets in the time of King John used to regale themselves on herons, cranes, crows, storks, cormorants and bitterns. Some would wash their meals down with wine, but the majority drank mead or metheglin. Mead, according to Holinshed, was only the washing of the combs after the honey had been taken from them and so poor a beverage that it had to be spiked, peppered or made palatable with sweetbrier or thyme. But metheglin contained one hundredweight of honey to twenty-four gallons of water and must have been much more intoxicating than the strongest old ale of the present day.—London Chronicle.

Calling the Deaf.

"To waken a deaf person who wishes to be called at a certain time in the morning is about the hardest proposition a hotel clerk runs up against," said a member of that fraternity. "To ring the telephone is useless, because the man can't hear. Knocking, for the same reason, is futile. Now and then a guest who has lost his hearing suggests that he leave his door open so we can walk right in and shake him, but even if he does appear to be dead game there are so many chances of somebody less guileless than ourselves walking in ahead of us that we can't consent to that simple expedient. It seems to me the man who can patent a device for waking the deaf is sure of fame and fortune, not to mention the gratitude of the brotherhood of hotel clerks."—Exchange.

One In; T'other Out.

"It must be very nice," said the caller to the author's wife, "to have your husband at home so much of the time."

"Yes," replied Mrs. Richard Darlington Spriggles. "It gives me a chance to go out."—Harper's Weekly.

No Novelty.

"A novel always ends with the marriage."

"Which is proper. There's nothing novel about the subsequent hunt for a flat and a cook and a job lot of furniture."—Puck.

MINNESOTA SOLONS

PUBLIC EXAMINER BILL PASSED BY THE HOUSE.

This Official Will Hereafter be Elected by the People and Not Appointed by the Governor.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 28.—Gov. J. A. Johnson today sent his predicted special message to the legislature—both house and senate—recommending legislative enactment to provide for a commission of three, an attorney, an employe, and an employer of labor, to make a full investigation during the coming two years with a view to reporting an ideal employers' liability act to the next legislature. The message is accompanied by a petition signed by representatives of a number of labor organizations, of the State Bar association, and of the Minnesota Employers' association. It asks for the commission which the governor recommends. In the house, the message was referred to the labor committee; the senate started to debate the subject, but was interrupted by the arrival of the time for a memorial in memory of the late Senator P. Fitzpatrick of Winona. The senate will dispose of the message tomorrow.

Senator McColl of St. Paul today introduced a measure which carries out the democratic state platform of state guarantee of bank deposits. It provides for a tax of one-half of 1 per cent on the amount of bank deposits to thereby create a state guarantee fund. A bill for an appropriation of $25,000 to aid high schools, graded and consolidated public schools, in establishing agricultural courses, was introduced by Senator H. S. Putnam. It provides that the state pay two-thirds of the expenses of such new departments for a year.

In the house today there was a merry political tilt on the subject of the W. A. Nolan bill to make the office of state public examiner elective. The democrats decried the bill, on the ground that the examiner should remain appointive so as to be responsible to some one, and so the governor might pick out a man of special training for the place. The republicans replied through Burdette Thayer that it is wrong to have the examiner a dependent of the governor, and one of his official family; that this is demonstrated by the fact that there is today being wrongfully suppressed a report made by the examiner of another department of the governor's official family (referring to the board of control).

W. B. Douglas.

The special commission, consisting of Carl Wallace, J. H. Dorsey and W. H. Putnam, which visited Madison, Wis., to investigate the operation of the Wisconsin public utilities law, reported in its favor and introduced a bill which is practically a copy of the Wisconsin law.

Some 200 women gathered in the senate chamber this afternoon and for over an hour fired "hot shot" at the senate election committee in the shape of reasons why the Ole Sageng bill for woman suffrage should pass.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 29.—The first "big" bill of the session passed the house today—the W. A. Nolan bill to make the office of public examiner elective. The bill was hotly contested by the democrats up to the very last, but on the final roll call, eight of the democrats broke from their party and voted with the republicans, making the vote 78 in favor of the measure to only 27 against.

Representative Saugstad today introduced a resolution limiting the session to March 31, and March 10 as the last day for introducing bills. John Lennon of Hennepin gave notice of debate, so that the resolution will not be acted upon until tomorrow. It is doubtful if it will pass, as the legislature now has nearly two hundred more bills before it than it had the same legislative session day two years ago.

The session in the senate today was uneventful except for a surprising report presented by Senator Swanson of Fridley, as chairman of the special committee which had been named to investigate the efficiency of the tuberculine test for cattle and horses. The report severely criticised the state live stock sanitary board, which board, according to the report, absolutely refused the committee's request for the aid of a veterinarian, or to co-operate in any way in helping the committee. The committee played a clever trick, however, which seems to demonstrate that the tuberculine test for cattle is little to be depended upon. Nineteen cows which had passed the test were purchased and sent to South St. Paul for slaughter with a lot of other cattle. Federal inspectors in post mortem examinations condemned the meat of all nineteen, declaring the animals to have been infected with tuberculosis in spite of their having passed the tuberculine test. The committee also reported finding a number of horses which had been condemned by the test some years ago, which are at present still in apparent excellent health. The report was referred to the senate committee on live stock and dairying.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 1.—Kerry Conley of Rochester wants an investigation made as to whether owners of mining properties in Minnesota have paid their proper taxes in past years, and the back taxes collected if possible. He presented a lengthy resolution to this effect at the opening of a thirty-minute session of the house this evening.

The resolution recites that whereas "it is evident that some of the owners of iron mining properties in this state have not been paying their just proportion of the taxes, that it therefore be

"Resolved, That the speaker of the house appoint a committee of five to investigate the matter and report to the house; that said committee be empowered to subpoena witnesses, take evidence, and use every effort to recover any such back taxes due the state."

The resolution went over until tomorrow for action on notice of debate given by C. A. Congdon of Duluth.

John Lennon of Minneapolis introduced a resolution for a committee of five to investigate the state labor bureau and its methods of operation, and report to the house. The resolution is quite lengthy and calls attention to the many irregularities of the department as shown in the recent special report of Former Labor Commissioner W. H. Williams, who charged the bureau was but a political machine for the present administration. The resolution was laid over for the day on notice of debate by J. H. Dorsey of Glencoe.

A few new bills put in an appearance. T. J. Brady, of Ramsey, secured some notoriety with two bills; one to repeal the anti-pass law, and the second an anti-cigarette measure to prohibit the sale or giving away of cigarettes, cigarette tobacco and cigarette paper. Bendixen and L. H. Johnson jointly introduced another bill to claim state title to mineral lands lying beneath the waters of meandered lakes. An old-time bill which comes up every session was presented by Kneeland. It calls for submission to the people's vote the question of holding a convention to revise the constitution. Bendixen had a bill for a constitutional amendment to permit the state to build terminal public elevators. There was no session of the senate today.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—Are the grain dealers of the state "doing" the "poor farmer?" A resolution introduced in the lower house of the legislature today by N. J. Holmberg of Renville, says they are, and the house took enough stock in the proposition to pass the resolution and authorize an investigating committee of five to get busy. The resolution recites that velvet chaff wheat is purchased at a very low price by grain dealers, then mixed with blue stem wheat, and the mixture all sold for the No. 1 article—to the gain of the grain man and the detriment of the farmer who had to sell his velvet chaff so low. The investigating committee is to report at its earliest convenience.

T. J. Brady of St. Paul introduced a resolution in the house today, calling for the appointment of a committee of seven representatives and five senators to join with the governor and his staff to go to Washington and there uphold the dignity of the state of Minnesota at the Taft inaugural ceremonies, the expenses to be paid out of the legislative expense fund. The resolution was received by the house with a laugh. Elmer E. Adams solemnly offered an amendment to increase the number of representatives from 7 to 119—the entire house membership. The house "caught on," and adopted the amendment, then voted to send the resolution to the rules committee—where it will rest forever more.

Bills introduced in the house today included: Mattson, to cut down prairie chicken hunting season from 30 to 15 days, Sept. 15 to Oct. 1; Rines, to provide for separate assessment classification of mineral rights; Wallace, to appropriate $500,000 for a state historical society building.

In the senate today, little was accomplished outside of routine work. Senator S. A. Nelson of Lanesboro charged on divorcees with a bill which prohibits them from remarrying within a year from date of divorce. A bill by Senator W. W. Dunn of St. Paul appropriates $55,000 for a hospital for crippled children to be erected near Phalen Lake, St. Paul. Senator Pauly of Minneapolis introduced a bill to establish a system of weights as the standard measurements for the sale of vegetables, except fresh green topped vegetables. The senate finance committee today recommended for passage the Sullivan bill to appropriate $3,000,000 for a new prison.

GOV. HASKELL IS INDICTED

SIX OTHER PROMINENT OKLAHOMA MEN ARE ACCUSED.

In Conspiracy to Defraud—Executive Talks of "Hearst's Crooked Manipulations"—Dishonesty Is Denied.

Muskogee, Okla., Feb. 3.—As a result of the investigation by the grand jury of the alleged frauds in connection with the scheduling of town lots in this city, seven indictments were returned tonight. The charge against the defendants is conspiracy to defraud the government.

The names of those indicted are:

Governor Charles N. Haskell, F. B. Severs, A. Z. English, C. W. Turner, W. T. Hutchings, Jesse W. Hill and Walter R. Eaton.

Attorney Thomas H. Owen of Muskogee, representing Governor Haskell, made arrangements for the governor to enter his appearance Friday morning and give $5,000 bond for appearance for trial.

The writs issued are returnable forthwith.

Governor Haskell is at Guthrie. There is but one indictment against him, charging him with conspiring with Walter R. Eaton and Clarence W. Turner to defraud the government. There are two indictments against Turner and one each against the others.

Turner was first to give bond in the sum of $10,000. Hutchings and Eaton called and gave bond in the sum of $5,000 each. All will probably be arraigned before Judge Campbell Friday morning.

English is at Los Angeles.

Governor Haskell, when informed that he was indicted, issued the following statement at Guthrie:

"I have just heard of the indictment for conspiracy coupled with seven or eight of the oldest and highest charactered citizens of Muskogee, men who developed and built up that country by their unselfish effort. From now on the proceedings will be open to both sides.

"Hearst's crooked manipulations will be at a discount.

"I am satisfied the interior department has been misled by false statements. I am confident there has not been a dishonest act done by any of the indicted parties, and that good citizens in general, regardless of politics, feel the same way."

Walter R. Eaton, one of the men indicted, is a brother-in-law of Walter J. Ritchie, Jr., of Lima, Ohio. He is the secretary of the Indianola Contracting company, of which Governor Haskell is president, and which, it is alleged, scheduled the names of many "dummies" to secure town lots. Jesse W. Hill, another of the indicted, came here from Texas and became identified with the Muskogee Development company. It is claimed that he disposed of a large number of lots fraudulently scheduled.

The report of the jury came at a time wholly unexpected by the public, as the government had announced only two hours before that other witnesses were coming from Mississippi and Ohio. There were not more than twenty persons in the court room.

In addition to about one hundred alleged individual purchasers of the Chief Porter lots, there are a number of corporations named as co-defendants. Chief among these are the Interstate Mortgage and Trust Company of Parsons, Kan.; the Farm and Home Savings and Loan Association of Missouri, with offices at Nevada, Mo.; the United Bank of Detroit, Mich.; the Indianola Contracting Company of Muskogee, and the Enterprise Gas and Oil company and several banks and trust companies located in Muskogee.

Among other things charged in the bill is the allegation "that the said Turner and Porter and Charles N. Haskell and Walter R. Eaton confederated and conspired together for the purpose of securing all the lots into which the said (described) tracts had been platted at one-half their appraised value and thus evading the provisions of the Creek agreement and defrauding the Creek Nation of money which would have come to it through auction sales; that in order to carry out the conspiracy it was agreed by and between the said parties that all of said property should be scheduled and sold to persons under the control and domination of the said parties or some of them and persons nominated by them and that an arrangement would be perfected with the parties to whom the property was to be scheduled and sold to immediately reconvey the same to the said Turner, Porter, Haskell or Eaton or to some person designated by them, and that the said property, profits and proceeds good health, with its blessings, must understand, quite clearly, that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best, each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to living aright. Then the use of medicines may be dispensed with to advantage, but under ordinary conditions in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time and the California Fig Syrup Co. holds that it is alike important to present the subject truthfully and to supply the one perfect laxative to those desiring it.

Consequently, the Company's Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna gives general satisfaction. To get its beneficial effects buy the genuine, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

ITCHED FOR TWELVE YEARS.

Eczema Made Hands and Feet Swell, Peel and Get Raw—Arms Affected, Too—Gave Up All Hope of Cure.

Quickly Cured by Cuticura.

"I suffered from eczema on my hands, arms and feet for about twelve years, my hands and feet would swell, sweat and itch, then would become callous and get very dry, then peel off and get raw. I tried most every kind of salve and ointment without success. I tried several doctors, but at last gave up thinking there was a cure for eczema. A friend of mine insisted on my trying the Cuticura Remedies, but I did not give them a trial until I got so bad that I had to do something. I secured a set and by the time they were used I could see a vast improvement and my hands and feet were healed up in no time. I have had no trouble since. Charles T. ### HIS GOOD MONEY THROWN AWAY.

Why Old Man Potts Regretted Giving Bill College Education.

"Well," observed old man Potts, "I've spent a heap of money on my boy Bill's education, more'n $900 jest to see him through Yale. And I ain't through yet. It shorely makes me sore to think of the money I'm wastin' on a boy who ain't got as much sense now as he had before he went to college."

"What's the matter, father?" asked Mrs. Potts. "Mebbe you're a little hard on Bill."

"No, I ain't, Mary," answered the old man. "Jest to show you—a little while ago I says to him I thinks it was going to rain to-morrow. What fool answer d'ye suppose he made me?"

"I'm sure I don't know, father."

"He begged my pardon!"—Harper's Weekly.

Willing to Take a Chance.

The other evening a particularly woe-begone and souseful looking person stopped James J. Buckley on East Sixth street.

"Gimme a dime for a bed, won't you, mister?" asked the stranger in that half whisper they always use.

Buckley looked at him for a minute thoughtfully. "Well," says he, seriously, "bring the bed around and if I think it's worth the price I'll give you a dime for it, of course."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Prof. Munyon says: Cure a cold and you prevent Consumption. His opinion is now shared by the leading physicians of the country, and the wonderful cures that are being made by Munyon's Cold Remedy have attracted the attention of the whole medical fraternity. These little sugar pellets break up a cold in a few hours, and almost universally prevent Bronchitis and Pneumonia

Camphor as Medicine.

As a medicine camphor is invaluable if used judiciously. If six or ten drops are taken on a lump of sugar when sneezing starts, a bad cold in the head can often be checked. This dose should not be repeated closer than an hour apart. Be sure that it agrees with you.

Yom Kippur.

When everything else is surrendered that is distinctive of Jewish ceremonialism the atonement retains its grip on the vast majority of Israelites. Kippur is the last link binding them to their community, their faith and its peculiar observance.

AWFUL GRAVEL ATTACKS

Cured by Doan's Kidney Pills After Years of Suffering.

F. A. Rippy, Depot Ave., Gallatin, Tenn., says: "Fifteen years ago kidney disease attacked me. The pain in my back was so agonizing I finally had to give up work. Then came terrible attacks of gravel with acute pain and passages of blood. In all I passed 25 stones, some as large as a bean. Nine years of this ran me down to a state of continual weakness, and I thought I never would be better until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The improvement was rapid, and since using four boxes I am cured and have never had any return of the trouble."

THE RETRACTION WAS WORSE.

Second Statement "Piled Up the Agony" on Rival Editor.

District Attorney Heney of San Francisco, a short time after his wounding, discussed with a reporter at his bedside one of his statements about the San Francisco boodlers.

"They expect me to retract that statement, do they?" he said, grimly. "Well, if I did retract it, my retraction would be like the Tombstone editor's.

"He, you know, printed a story to the effect that a rival editor's father had served 37 years in jail. Pressure was brought to bear on him, and finally he agreed to retract that statement. In his retraction he said:

"'We find that we were mistaken when we said in last week's issue that the Clarion editor's papa had passed 37 summers in the penitentiary. All efforts of friends to have his sentence commuted to life imprisonment failed, and the old man, as a matter of fact, was hung.'"

TRAMP JOKE IN GERMANY.

Woman to Conduct Large Estate.

Mrs. Jennie L. Doane of Brockton, Mass., has been appointed to administer the half million dollar estate of the late R. N. Packard and also to have complete control of his large shoe factory. Mr. Packard died suddenly without making a will. His heirs were a brother and two sisters, none of whom knew anything about his business. Mrs. Doane had been in the employ of Mr. Packard for a number of years and he had often spoken of her ability to his relatives, declaring that she had more brains than any two men of his acquaintance. For that reason his heirs asked to have her appointed and put in full charge of his business.

Cause for Complaint.

Jones, the dairyman, loved his little bouts occasionally, and at such times celebrated riotously. He was prevailed upon to sign the pledge, and this piece of news was given wide publicity. But in a few weeks Jones turned upon his temperance friends and again sought old-time friends and acquaintances.

"The idea!" grieved Jones, as he told the waiter to duplicate an order. "Me driving a milk wagon, and those fellows advertising that I am on the water wagon!"—Judge.

DIDN'T KNOW

Coffee Was the Cause.

Many daily habits, particularly of eating and drinking, are formed by following our elders.

In this way ill health is often fastened upon children. A Ga. lady says:

"I had been allowed to drink coffee ever since I could remember, but even as a child I had a weak stomach, which frequently refused to retain food.

"The taste of coffee was in my mouth all the time and was, as I found out later, the cause of the stomach rebelling against food.

"I now see that it was only from following the example of my elders that I formed and continued the miserable habit of drinking coffee. My digestion remained poor, nerves unstrung, frequent headache, and yet I did not suspect the true cause.

"Another trouble was a bad, muddy complexion for which I spent time and money for creams, massaging, etc., without any results.

"After I was married I was asked to try Postum, and would you believe it, I, an old coffee toper, took to Postum from the very first. We made it right—according to directions on the pkg., and it had a most delicate flavor, and I at once quit coffee with the happiest results.

"I now have a perfectly clear, smooth skin, fine digestion and haven't had a headache in over two years."

"There's a Reason."

LINCOLN

By S. E. KISER.

New heroes rise above the toiling throng,
And daily come resplendent into view,
And pass again, remembered by a few,
To leave one form in bold relief and strong
That higher looms as ages march along;
One name that lingers in the memory, too,
And singers through all time shall raise the song
And keep it swelling loud and ringing true!
Lo, where the feet of Lincoln passed, the earth
Is sacred, where he knelt we set a shrine!
O to have pressed his hand! That had sufficed
To make my children wonder at my worth—
Yet, let them glory, since their land and mine
Hath reared the greatest martyr after Christ!

Letter Reveals Sense of Humor of Which This Great Man Was Possessed---"Tragedy" That Culminated in Joke on Springfield Citizens

Among legal records in the possession of Mr. John F. Geeting, prominent Chicago attorney and editor of American Criminal Reports, is the following letter written by Abraham Lincoln in 1841. It appeared originally in the Quincy Whig of April 9, 1846, and in that article, probably written by Lincoln himself (for it is known that he took much interest in the features of the case) the following lines appear: "On the next Monday Myers arrived at Springfield, bringing with him the now famed Fisher, in full life and proper person." Evidently the letter of Lincoln was written before Fisher had been found.

Springfield, June 19, 1841.—Dear Speed: We have had the highest state of excitement here for a week past that our community has ever witnessed; and although the public feeling is somewhat allayed, the curious affair which aroused it is very far from being over, yet cleared of mystery. It would take a quire of paper to give you anything like a full account of it, and I, therefore, only propose a brief outline.

The chief personages in the drama are Archibald Fisher, supposed to be murdered, and Archibald Trailor, Henry Trailor and William Trailor, supposed to have murdered him. The three Trailors are brothers. The first, Archibald, as you know, lives in town; the second, Henry, in Clary's Grove; and the third, William, in Warren county; and Fisher, the supposed murdered, being without a family, had made his home with William. On Saturday evening, being the 29th of May, Fisher and William came to Henry's in a one-horse dearborn, and there stayed over Sunday; and Monday all three came to Springfield (Henry on horseback), and joined Archibald at Myers', the Dutch carpenter. That evening at supper Fisher was missing, and so next morning some ineffectual search was made for him; and on Tuesday, at 1 o'clock p. m., William and Henry started home without him. In a day or two Henry and one or two of his Clary Grove neighbors came back for him again, and advertised his disappearance in the papers.

The knowledge of the matter thus far had not been general, and here it dropped entirely till about the 10th inst., when Keys received a letter from the postmaster in Warren county, that William had arrived at home and was telling a very mysterious and improbable story about the disappearance of Fisher, which induced the community there to suppose he had been disposed of unfairly. Keys made this letter public, which immediately set the whole town and adjoining country agog. And so it has continued until yesterday.

The mass of the people commenced a systematic search for the dead body, while Wickersham was dispatched to arrest Henry Trailor at the Grove, and Jim Maxcy to Warren to arrest William. On Monday last, Henry was brought in, and showed an evident inclination to insinuate that he knew Fisher to be dead, and that Archibald and William had killed him. He said he guessed the body could be found in Spring creek, between the Beardstown road and Hickox's mill. Away the people swept like a herd of buffalo, and cut down Hickox's mill-dam nolens volens, to draw the water out of the pond, and then went up and down, and down and up the creek, fishing and raking, and raking and ducking, and diving for two days; and, after all, no dead body found. In the meantime a sort of scuffling-ground had been found in the brush in the angle, or point, where the road leading into the woods past the brewery, and the one leading in past the brick grove met. From the scuffle-ground was the sign of something about the size of a man having been dragged to the edge of the thicket, where joined the track of some small wheeled carriage drawn by one horse, as shown by the road-track. The carriage track led off towards Spring creek. Near this drag-trail, Dr. Merryman found two hairs, which, after a long scientific examination, he pronounced to be triangular human hair, which term, he says, includes within it the whiskers, the hair growing under the arms, and on other parts of the body; and he judged that these two were of the whiskers, because the ends were cut, showing that they had flourished in the neighborhood of the razor's operations.

On Thursday last Jim Maxcy brought in William Trailor from Warren. On the same day Arch. was arrested, and put in jail. Yesterday (Friday) William was put upon his examining trial before May and Lavely; Archibald and Henry were both present. Lamborn prosecuted, and Logan, Baker and your humble servant defended. A great many witnesses were introduced and examined, but I shall only mention those whose testimony seemed most important. The first of these was Capt. Ransdell. He swore that, when William and Henry left Springfield for home on Tuesday before mentioned, they did not take the direct route—which, you know, leads by the butcher shop; but that they followed the street north until they got opposite, or nearly opposite, May's house, after which he could not see them from where he stood; and it was afterwards proved, that, in about an hour after they started, they came into the street by the butcher's shop from towards the brick-yard. Dr. Merryman and others swore to what is stated about the scuffle-ground, drag-trail, whiskers and carriage tracks.

Henry was then introduced by the prosecution. He swore that, when they started for home, they went out north, as Ransdell stated, and turned down west by the brick-yard into the woods, and there met Archibald; that they proceeded a small distance further, when he was placed as a sentinel to watch for and announce the approach of anyone that might happen that way; that William and Arch. took the dearborn out of the road a small distance to the edge of the thicket, where they stopped, and he saw them lift the body of a man into it; that they moved off with the carriage in the direction of Hickox's mill, and he loitered about for something like an hour, When William returned with the carriage, but without Arch., and said they had put him in a safe place; that they went somehow, he did not know exactly how, into the road close to the brewery, and proceeded on to Clary's Grove. He also stated that some time during the day William told him that he and Arch. had killed Fisher the evening before; that the way they did it was by him (William) knocking him down with a club, and Archibald then choking him to death.

An old man from Warren, called Dr. Gilmore, was then introduced on the part of the defense. He swore that he had known Fisher for several years; that Fisher had resided at his house a long time at each of the different spells; once while he built a barn for him, and once while he was doctored for some chronic disease; that two or three years ago Fisher had a serious hurt in his head by the bursting of a gun, since which he had been subject to continued bad health and occasional aberration of mind. He also stated that on last Tuesday, being the same day that Maxcy arrested William Trailor, he (the doctor) was from home in the early part of the day, and on his return, about 11 o'clock, found Fisher at his house in bed, and apparently very unwell; that he asked him how he had come from Springfield; that Fisher said he had come by Peoria, which showed that he at the time of speaking did not know where he had been wandering about in a state of derangement. He further stated that in about two hours he received a note from one of Trailor's friends advising him of his arrest and requesting him to go on to Springfield as a witness to testify as to the state of Fisher's health in former times; that he immediately set off, calling up two of his neighbors as company, and riding all evening and all night, overtook Maxcy and William at Lewiston in Fulton county. That Maxcy refusing to discharge Trailor upon his statement, his two neighbors returned, and he came on to Springfield. Some question being made as to whether the doctor's story was not a fabrication, several acquaintances of his (among whom was the same postmaster who wrote to Keys as before mentioned) were introduced as sort of compurgators, who swore that they knew the doctor to be a good character for truth and veracity, and generally of good character in every way.

Here the testimony ended, and the Trailors were discharged, Archibald and William expressing, both in word and manner, their entire confidence that Fisher would be found at the doctor's by Galloway, Mallory and Myers, who a day before had been dispatched for that purpose; while Henry still protested that no power on earth could ever show Fisher alive. Thus stands this curious affair.

When the doctor's story was first made public, it was amusing to scan and contemplate the countenances, and hear the remarks of those who had been actively engaged in the search for the dead body; some looked quizzical, some melancholy, and some furiously angry. Porter, who had been very active, swore he always knew the man was not dead, and that he had not stirred an inch to hunt for him. Langford, who had taken the lead in cutting down Hickox's mill-dam, and wanted to hang Hickox for objecting, looked most awfully woebegone; he seemed the "wictim of unrequited affection," as represented in the comic almanacs we used to laugh over. And Hart, the little drayman that hauled Molly home once, said it was too damned bad to have so much trouble and no hanging after all.

I commenced this letter yesterday, since which I received yours of the 13th. I stick to my promise to come to Louisville. Nothing new here, except what I have written. I have not seen —— since my last trip; and I am going out there as soon as I mail this letter. Yours forever,

LINCOLN.

CAST OF CHARACTERS.

Sir Algernon Alwyn of Alwyn on Alwyn, Bart., a man with a manor and a park.
Henry Alwyn, his brother.
Lady Dorothy Newman (commonly called Lady Banjo).
Lucy Newman, her sister.
The Rev. Dr. Parsifal Penryck (commonly called "Pen and Ink").
Major the Hon. Marengo Marjoribanks (commonly called "Stubbles"), uncle to Sir Algernon.
Lady Marjory Marjoribanks, aunt to Sir Algernon.
Robert Doolittle Marjoribanks, son of Major and Lady Marjoribanks.
Guillaume Perseverance Poynter (commonly called "Pressed Beef").
Messrs. Fudge and McPherson, family lawyers.
Harriet McPherson, wife of the junior partner.
Fraser, a butler.
Messengers, servants, etc.

The period is 1886. The place is a country house near Oxford in England. Scene—The library at Alwyn Hall.

ALGERNON (outside): On no account, Fraser, let me be disturbed—(entering—stands by table)—I must realize my position,—letters—accounts!—Since father died, I have been in a dream, a bad dream—everything has gone to the dogs—bills unpaid—steward postponed—even Harry—my little brother Harry—at Oxford—neglected. First dinner since poor dad died. (Aloud) Yes—There's Lady Banjo—confound it—I mean Lady Newman—our worthy pastor, Dr. Penryck—Maj. the Hon. Marengo Marjoribanks—my gallant uncle—Cousin Bobbie—good chap, Bobbie—Robert Doolittle Marjoribanks, best fellow in the world,—yes, yes, Fraser, in a minute!

(Going to window)—"All mine as far as eye can see! All this is mine! He said to Egypt's king,"—Tush, I'm quoting—Polycrates, bad luck! Poor dad died and I in my turn became Sir Algernon Marjoribanks Alwyn, seventh baronet, of Alwyn on Alwyn—with an income derived from railroad stocks—principally American—according to Fudge and McPherson, our family lawyers, of nearly £10,000 a year.—Fudge says, to be exact, nine thousand eight hundred and sixty-eight pounds, nine shillings and six pence, after deducting commissions—who draws the commissions? Fudge, I suppose, and McPherson?

Let me see, what did he explain? In the first place he demonstrated, quite unnecessarily, that I was sole heir to the title and estate. Estate consists of 1,500 acres of park land. Dad had a row with his tenants some 20 years ago and evicted the lot—turned every inch of ground into park and garden and paddock—ornamental lakes, and so on. Result very charming, but without pecuniary advantages. Moreover, Alwyn hall and park, etc., etc., entailed and can't be sold or rented, and, according to terms of dad's will, there are to be no farms and no tenants. The chap that happens to be baronet must live on his income of £10,000 derived from railroad stock, bonds, etc.—he must keep up the hounds, the chapel, the conservatories, the nursery, etc., etc. So if it were not for the railroads Sir Algernon Alwyn, Bart., would be Sir Algernon Alwyn, Beggar. However, the bonds are there, safe enough in a tin box, at the law office of Messrs. Fudge and McPherson.

There are Harry's letters—drat the boy—he never writes unless he wants something (sitting down and taking up letters).—Immediate! urgent!—very urgent! deliver immediately!—forward at once!—well, he's certainly in a hurry—I'd better open the last one—no use reading the lot.—The devil!—what's this?

"Algie—This is simply to say that if the money is not here by nine o'clock on Tuesday, I shall blow out my worthless brains—"

Tues—why, to-day's Tuesday!—and it's five o'clock!—let's see the first letter (opens and reads):

"Played with Lord Rook, Sir Winslow Sharper—oh, of course—got up—£650 in debt to Rook and Sharper—honor!—family honor!—will repay all from small income—you must send at once, etc."

Of course—of course, and I'll send for Master Harry to keep out of the clutches of my Lord Rook in future,—college life!—nice place for innocent boys—brandies and sodas—cigars—cards—phew!—Well, here goes—telegraph blank—

"Will honor your draft Fudge and McPherson—£600.
Algernon Alwyn."

What? Oh, a note? Just come? All right. Be off with the telegram. Oh—Fudge and McPherson? Business, I suppose? A woman's hand? Fudge and McPherson always typewrite. (Opens letter.) What's this?

"My Dear Sir Algernon—I am addressing myself to you in the hope that dreadful as this communication must necessarily be—and—believe me, no less dreadful for you to receive than for me to write,—it will come less harshly from one whom you have known so long and who was once your dear mother's devoted companion and friend.—My poor husband is so stricken by the blow which has suddenly blasted our happiness, that he has fallen into a stupor from which, I fear, nothing but a miracle can rouse him. Dear Sir Algernon, I will not keep you in suspense but tell you briefly—and perhaps you will say brutally, that our senior partner, Mr. Fudge, to whom my husband looked up with such childlike confidence and pride, left suddenly last week for Australia—yesterday my husband found it necessary to go to your box for some papers, the interest being due on several of your investments, when he discovered that the box was empty!—every security of yours which had been in the hands of Fudge and McPherson had disappeared! Hoping against hope my husband searched everywhere but no trace of your papers could be found,—he came home in the evening—pale, distraught, confessed his trouble to me and then sank into the stupor from which nothing can rouse him. My heart is bleeding for my husband—my heart is bleeding for you—I am hoping, hoping still that there may be some mistake. But Mr. Fudge's sudden departure—the disappearance of all your securities, so easily converted into cash, and the fact that Mr. Fudge drew nearly every penny standing to our credit in the bank, can, I fear, point at but one conclusion: Mr. Fudge, whom we so honored and revered in this community, is a thief!—With tears of sorrow and shame, I am your most distressed servant,

Harriet McPrehson."

(Rises.) Ruined! gone! everything gone!—not a penny left!—cleaned out! Impossible!—I can't realize it! How do I feel—a beggar! A few moments ago I was rich—or thought I was—now I'm a beggar—with a mansion and a park—here goes—(writes):

"Dear Old Nunkey—Can you let me have a cheque for a thou' by bearer—Looking forward to seeing you all at dinner this evening! "Your affectionate nephew,

Algie."

There. Fraser!—Tell Tom to run across to Uncle Marjoribanks with this note and hurry back!—If he stops to talk to Matilda Ann, I'll take his scalp.

But Lucy!—Lucy?—Lucy won't want to be married to a pauper with a mansion and a park—but I know what it will be:—Nothing will change me—Rich or poor, I am yours, Lucy.—Dear old girl (writes).

"My darling Lucy—I have just had an awful shock—Mrs. McPherson writes to say that old Fudge has left for Australia and taken my little 'all' with him,—I love you and shall never love anyone but you in all my life, but of course you won't marry a beggar (even with a mansion and a park), and so, dear, you are free, unless it is your choice to wait until I shall have recovered by hard work my lost fortune. As for me, I am yours until death, only I thought it right to let you know, and even if you give me up, I am, your devoted slave. Algernon."

But she won't give me up,—I know she won't—my little Lucy—(folds letter and addresses envelope, rising) Fraser—(rings bell)—Fraser—(goes to door)—

Here's a letter from auntie and a long letter from uncle:

"Algernon—I am, I may say, fatally wounded—(Good heavens—has he shot himself?)—treacherously shot, mortally injured by a member of my family.—The gun that fired the shot is no other than the letter I have just received from you,—no Martini-Henry could have done its work better. This morning while on a reconnoitering expedition in the village I ran across Mrs. McPherson. As she was flying signals of distress, I halted on my march to question her and I drew from her the information that her husband's partner, Fudge, had absconded with your funds.—The blow was so severe that I was obliged to abandon my position and retire upon the nearest public house, which happened to be the Alwyn Arms. Here I fortified and entrenched myself and it was not until the afternoon that I felt sufficiently strengthened to continue the advance on Marengo House. You can imagine my horror on opening your dispatch to discover the treachery of one, upon whose loyalty I would have staked the campaign. Had it not been for the reconnoisance this morning I should have been under the impression, that, still amply endowed with the fortune your father bequeathed to you, and which you have so recklessly squandered.—(squandered?—recklessly!)—you required a momentary loan of £1,000 and with the motto of my house "noblesse oblige" ever before my eyes, I should have instantly complied—I, an old soldier, would have marched unsuspectingly into the ambush your cunning had prepared for my destruction. I enclose a few lines from your heart-broken aunt.

Marengo Majoribanks.
Late Major Her Majesty's Dragoon Guards."

"N. B.—I need not say that it will be out of the question for me or any member of my family to accept your invitation to dinner this evening."

The old—the old—no, I won't—I won't abuse him behind his back, but when I see him I'll let him know! (Sighs), (writes):

"My Dear Doctor, and My Dear Old Friend—A calamity has overtaken me—to be brief—Fudge has disappeared with all my money—I am, of course, temporarily embarrassed. Remembering your many expressions of good will and your oft repeated request that I should apply to you when in trouble, I do not hesitate now to ask you to aid me by giving bearer your cheque for £1,000, for which I enclose my I. O. U.—I hope that in spite of my misfortune you will not fail to come to dinner this evening and we'll uncork a bottle of '74 to drown our sorrow.

Always your affectionate friend,
Algernon Alwyn."

Ah, let's see what Auntie Munch has to say (opers letter, reads):

"My Dear Algernon—Your uncle has just, with the greatest delicacy and with all possible consideration for my feeble condition, broken to me the fearful crash that has enveloped our house in its awful pall!—To think that only a few moments ago I was a happy woman watering my beloved roses in a sunlit garden, when out of a clear sky the bolt fell and ravaged in an instant, like a pack of cards, the beautiful placid sea on which we were sailing so peacefully. To think, Algernon, that you, in whom I have always had such mistaken faith, should have been the serpent to gnaw away with one blow the foundations of our confidence in humanity!—Your poor uncle says that by your act you have placed yourself within the power of the police and without the pale of society. You will know, of course, why it would have been impossible for us to comply with your attempt to rob us, by yielding up a thousand pounds: We have your cousin Robert to consider! and it is, as you are aware, compounding a felony to rob Peter to pay Paul. I am with every expression of sorrow and horror, your completely collapsed aunt,

Marjory Marjoribanks."

"P. S.—And oh, Algernon, I was looking forward with so much pleasure to our first dinner this evening, that is another sad blow!—P. S. P. S.—you will have to discharge that expensive cook!"

This is getting worse and worse!—Why, oh, why doesn't Tom come back with a word from Lucy—then I wouldn't mind that abusive nonsense!—Six to dinner—three friends gone—No, that's not fair to Bobbie—(writes):

"Dear Old Bobbie—I suppose you've heard by now of my smash?—all gone—nothing left but the house and the park.—Have you any dollars to spare? If so, bring them around at dinner time, if you can get out without a row—We'll have one more good dinner and laugh and chaff and drink brown sherry!—never mind about the dollars if you're hard up, but come! From your old fag, Algie."

(Tears letter open):

"My Dear Sir Algernon"—Oh—formal—I think I'll sit down (sits)—"My Dear Sir Algernon—Lucy being particularly engaged,—Mr. Robert Marjoribanks is visiting us this afternoon,"—damn Robert Marjoribanks!—"I am taking it upon myself to answer your letter. As soon as the dear child read what you had to say she was greatly distressed, and came to confide in me. My Dear Sir Algernon, I am forced to admire your honesty in at once apprising my poor girl of your changed position and the correct and sensible view you take of the situation. To marry upon nothing a year would be absurd and it would take you years to retrieve your fortune. My daughter quite agrees with me in believing that when poverty walks in at the door love flies out at the window. You must not imagine from this that Lucy is not deeply moved and dreadfully upset. She extends to you all her heartfelt sympathy! She would write to you herself but she is on the very verge of a break-down and the necessity to entertain her guests forces her to present a brave front to the world!—and since the engagement has to be broken off it is better to do it now and at once, rather than to prolong the suffering by senseless shilly-shallying. Judging by your own most sensible letter, I have every reason to believe that you will coincide with me in this. With sincere regard from us both and every expression of good will and sympathy, believe me to be, dear Sir Algernon, Yours faithfully, Anita Turnival Newman."

"P. S.—I think it would be better for us not to come to your dinner this evening, so will you please accept our thanks and regrets?"

I don't believe it—I can't believe it—Lucy—to throw me over like that! Lucy, a heartless woman of the world! Lucy to love,—to pretend to love me for my income! No, I'll not believe it! If my faith in her is lost there is indeed nothing left.

Oh, one from Bobbie—(opens letter):

"Awfully sorry, old chapple, it's a damned shame! Wish I could help you! Was just coming over to ask you for a pony. I'm stony broke. Can't come to dinner—Wish I could!—Governor stormy! Swore like a trooper!—Says he disowns you. The Newmans have corralled me for dinner. If you want to get rid of your nags I think I can make a trade. Keep your hair on—you're not the first codger that has come to grief. Speculation's the devil, but I never thought you were a plunger?—Here's how!

Bobbie."

Speculation! Plunger! Very soon they'll accuse me of robbing a bank! And shortly they'll have me arrested for murder! What was that game we used to play? You place a lot of people in a line and you say something innocent to the party at one end, and by the time it's been passed to the other end it isn't fit for publication. So that's what they've told Lucy. Plunger! No wonder she doesn't want to marry an idiot. (Sits down. Writes):

"My Dear Mr. Poynter—Bad news travels fast and therefore no doubt you have heard by now of the serious financial loss I have sustained. I am in immediate need of (I won't ask for a thou' this time, only enough to save Harry), of £600, and I venture to ask you if you will assist me? If yes, will you please send me your cheque by bearer? I should not write if I had not known you all my life as an old and valued friend of my father and of, yours very truly, and with many thinks in advance,

Algernon Alwyn."

Reply from Dr. Penryck? (Reads):

"The Rectory, Tuesday.

"This is no time, my poor boy, to preach a homily or to point a lesson. By now, I imagine, your spirit is sufficiently chastened not to need from my lips any word of reproof, reproach, criticism or condemnation. Your money was your own, but I must say that if my beloved friend's fortune was to be scattered to the four winds in so brief a space of time, I would have prayed heaven to direct its flow into a course more worthy of his hallowed memory! Think, too, what suffering you entail on him who has known and loved you since you were an infant; who held you in these old arms and whose now palsied fingers first guided your baby eyes across the animal alphabet!—I can not feel that I am to blame. Had you listened to my precepts early in life and later benefited by my counsel, had you taken full advantage of my still more recent after-dinner talks, when, with a light and playful touch I none the less earnestly endeavored to sow in your mind the seeds of wisdom, you would not now be seated upon the stool of repentance, contemplating the crumbling ruins of an erstwhile regal fortune!—Alas, your life at Oxford was but the prelude to your present fall:—Let him that is without sin cast the first stone, but still I must decline to become particeps criminis by lending you money. No, it may be that what appears to be now a great affliction may become the cornerstone of your salvation! Perhaps, my dear Algernon, the loss of your wealth may make a man of you. Take your knapsack and your wander-staff and sail for America!—Would I were young enough to accompany you! Heaven forbid that I should deny you consolation or advice, and I will come at eight and take a parting glass with you and wish you godspeed and a better life!

"Your true friend,
Parsifal Penryck."

(A knock at the door. He goes to door—comes down with letter):

Wait a minute, Fraser (opens the letter). To be sure:

"Dear Sir: I am in receipt of your favor of this date. I shall be happy to advance the amount named providing the collateral or security you propose to offer is first-class. I regret to say an important business engagement will prevent me from accepting your invitation to dinner this evening. Yours faithfully, Guillaume Perseverance Poynter."

Wait a minute, Fraser,—(writes rapidly):

"Dear Hal—I'm sending William with the dog cart for you. Leave a note for Messrs. Rook and Sharper to come on here after dinner and I'll satisfy them. I enclose a line for them. Don't fail to be here by eight o'clock for dinner.

"Your Algie."

So! And

"Sir Algernon Alwyn presents his compliments to Lord Rook and Sir Winslow Sharper, and he will be glad to see them at Alwyn Hall this evening when he will satisfy any claims against his brother to the full extent of his, Sir Algernon's, fortune."

Things are about as black as they can be—and I don't see a streak of light—if only, Lucy hadn't thrown me over—I'm glad I didn't go to her!—

(A tap at the window)—what's that?—(tap is repeated)—somebody at the window,—burglar,—well, he's welcome!—policeman perhaps!—(tap repeated—goes to window, leans out)—

Lucy!

S'sh!

Lucy! Lucy, don't go!—Lucy! She's gone—but oh—oh—oh—(comes down with a note in his hand)—Reads:

"My Dear, Dear, Old Darling—I wonder if you believe what the mater wrote you? How could you? She's just told me.—My poor, poor darling—I'm going to rush across as soon as I'm dressed, when everybody will be in their rooms, and give you one kiss—and, dearest, that is to tell you that rich or poor, I am yours to death.

Lucy."

Now, fall walls!—come earthquake! torture me!—hang me!—what do I care?—Lucy loves me!—Lucy's true to me.—All the world may go against me, but my Lucy's's my Lucy and she's my Lucy still.

(Knock at the door—goes to door)—Letter?

(Whistles a tune—opens letter)—

"Dear Sir—Not hearing from you up to closing time, I venture to remind you that I sent you a most important communication yesterday. Thinking that the letter may have escaped your notice I venture now to call your attention to it and request the honor of your commands. I am, dear sir, Your obedient servant,

"George Henry Honeymoon."

Well, just wait a minute, Fraser, and I'll see what it is—(looks over letters on table)—Oh, yes, here's a letter to be sure,—County Bank—(opens letter).

"Dear Sir—I have the honor to inform you that before leaving for Australia, Mr. Fudge, of the firm of Messrs. Fudge & McPherson, deposited with us, for safekeeping, securities, etc., standing in your name and of which Messrs. Fudge & McPherson had charge."—What! What!—"Mr. Fudge desires us to inform you of this and to say that Mr. McPherson being in very delicate health, he thought it wiser, subject to your consent, to put your affairs for the present in our hands. Mr. Fudge was obliged to leave in great haste for Sidney by yesterday's steamer, to attend to your uncle, Mr. Mortimer Alwyn, the great brewer"—(h'm, I've never seen him)—"whom we understand to be suffering from an incurable disease and whose heir we believe you are. We are sending you cheque book under separate cover, and awaiting your instructions, we have the honor to be, dear sir,

"Your obedient servants,
"London & County Bank, Ltd.,
"Per G. H. Honeyman."

Good Lord, Fraser, bring me a whisky and soda—This has been too much—and Fraser, tell the messenger I'll call at the bank to-morrow morning and see Mr. Honeyman—bring me a whisky and soda if you want to save my life?

Ah, here's one from old Ryan,—old sawbones Ryan,—(opens letter)—

"Dear Sir—Mr. Fudge wishes me to inform you before leaving to wind up the affairs of your uncle in Australia that I have been called in by him in consultation with Drs. Clark & Sorrywait, and that we have come to the conclusion that Mr. McPherson will not be able to attend to business for some time, his memory being so severely affected that it is almost certain that he is suffering from a serious disease of the brain,"—h'm, h'm—etc., etc.

(Sits down)—Lucy first (writes):

"Dearest, Dearest, Dearest Lucy—It's all right—we've found all the money and more. My apologies to your mother—tell her to leave everything—I mean, leave dinner and come and dine with me and to bring all her guests—and not to forget YOU—more anon. "Your Algie."

(Takes another sheet of paper):

"Dear Old Nunkey—It was a false alarm—the money is all here—every penny and more in sight—bring Aunty here to dinner at once or never speak again to your affectionate nephew, Algie."

(Now for the American!)

"Dear Mr. Poynter—I'm sorry to have troubled you—it was all a mistake—I am still in possession of my fortune and I hear that it is to be shortly much increased. Put off that important business engagement and join,

"Yours very truly, with many apologies,
Algernon Alwyn."

(An hour later)—H'm—So here we all are again! as we were, only a little wiser. No, we won't be cynical—we'll take the world as we find it and we'll thank God for Lucy—(pours out whisky and soda)—Here's to Lucy! (Drinks.) Ah, there they come—(great noise heard on staircase—goes to door—opens it wide)—Come up!—Come up, every one of you and welcome! Lucy!

(Quick curtain.)

In Gypsy Land.

Roumania is par excellence the land of the gypsy, for the Tsigani, as these wandering folk are called, contribute some 250,000 of the total population of 6,000,000. A hundred years ago they were kept in a state of regular slavery, being freely bought and sold, the Roumanian government owning 80,000 of them. It was not till 1854 that they were granted their freedom, and since that time most of them have accordingly been either rogues or vagabonds, or both, wandering hither and thither, a nuisance to honest people.

In their native Roumania, it is said that the gypsy race is rapidly dwindling away, owing to intermarriage with the Roumanians. Throughout the other countries of the world, however, which they haunt, little diminution has been noticed in their ranks. Indeed, in France they have become such a pest that radical measures have been taken to oust them from the country.

DIET AND HEALTH

By DR. J. T. ALLEN
Food Specialist

Author of "Eating for a Purpose," "The New Gospel of Health," Etc.

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

ECONOMICS OF EATING

Desire is the stimulus that nature uses to lead to obedience to her commands. And so long as the desire is gratified naturally there is harmony, health and growth. But when the desire becomes depraved and its satisfaction abnormal, there is inharmony, unhappiness, disease and death. "Eat what you like," is, therefore, as we have already concluded, the best rule, in spite of pure-food law, food reformer and prohibitionist—so long, that is, as you like what is good for you.

Certainly the average man eats what he likes, without considering whether it is good for him or whether he is getting the most for his money. Now is this wise? Would it not be very much better to have a system of eating—for at present we have none, especially in America, where we eat anything, any time, any way, almost.

I was trying to show the members of a woman's club awhile ago that the Chinese system, living on rice (entire rice) almost exclusively, is better than ours, because it furnishes better nourishment, avoids sickness and saves dish-washing. To which one woman replied when the time came for questions and criticism: "I suppose they live in that poverty-stricken way in that poverty-stricken country because they have to. For my part, I'm glad I don't have to live on rice all the time. And if it is true that a man is what his food makes him, I think China is a good warning to the rest of the world."

I have not advised living on rice, not even on unbolted rice which differs from the rice we use, as whole wheat differs from fine white flour. Rice is a one-sided diet. The system of the Japanese, who eat also fresh fish and beans, is much better, because it supplies, besides heat and energy, an adequate proportion of flesh and nerve food. But the point is, the Chinese, like the Japanese, and most other nations, have a system, and any system is better than none, especially in eating. The Chinese is the opposite of our extreme, but I hesitate not to say that the average Chinaman is better fed than the average American, so far at least as the laborer, who needs the least brain food, is concerned.

"But why," I am asked, " if the Chinese monodiet, is so good, has China been for centuries a by-word for unprogressiveness?"

The resources of the Chinese are not yet understood by the rest of the world. Food, moreover, is but the material factor in life; the mind is the fundamental factor, as I have endeavored constantly to show. The Chinese have had, from time immemorial, a mind-dwarfing system of education that has effectually retarded their progress, but all that is being changed, which with the gradual abolition of the death-dealing opium habit will bring in a new China, another light of Asia.

In the course of an investigation into the relation between food and health, a few years ago, I discovered two interesting general facts, from the statistics of the state boards of health: Death from cancer, which, according to the late Dr. Nicholas Senn and other good authority, is a disease caused by indulgence in eating (especially, I think, in meat), increases rapidly among Germans and Irish immigrants and their descendants, the two races who most quickly adopt our habits of eating, while there is little increase among Italian, Greeks, Bohemians and others who continue, in the second generation, to live largely on their native simple diet. The average foreigner naturally thinks that the chief benefit of higher wages is not better schooling but greater variety of food, including meat every day, a thing possible only for the rich in his own country. Surely good is not always unmixed with evil!

Herbert Spencer says that the most valuable knowledge is that needed for self-preservation, which surely includes knowledge of food, its first essential. We have already considered the constituents of various foods and the uses of each. Let us now consider some of the leading articles of food not already dealt with and their comparative values.

Apples contain but a small amount of solid matter, chiefly sugar, but their minerals, being perfectly assimilable, and their malic acid being beneficial in most cases, they are to be regarded as a most valuable food. In a few peculiar conditions of the liver and in excessive acidity they may be injurious, but they are especially beneficial in torpidity of the liver and excessive alkaline conditions (the opposite of acid). The peach differs little from the apple, but it spoils easily while the apple keeps good for months. There is more or less danger in spoiled or unripe fruit, and a bad speck indicates that the entire fruit is spoiling. Boiling of course counteracts fermentation, but if perfectly sound an apple is best uncooked. Apples are best eaten in the morning, with other fruits, not with cereals, vegetables or meat.

Beans contain 25 per cent. proteid for flesh building and 50 per cent. starch for muscular energy and heat. They are richer than any other food in minerals, except a few of the nuts, though the excessive roasting to which they are usually submitted to make them palatable and to make their starch digestible, largely precipitates the mineral elements and coagulates the albumen in them. It would hardly be possible to find a better diet for hard physical or mental work than beans. Few other foods, except brown bread, are compatible with them, and especially not fruit, milk or eggs. The addition of fat is an advantage, but olive or peanut oil would be better than pork.

Peas, beans and lentils, contain every element of food necessary for vigorous physical and mental life. It is no mere coincidence that they are used, commonly, as a staple in the logging camp and have come to be associated with the name of the Athens of America. The bean is especially rich in potash and phosphorus, two leading brain foods, besides having a larger percentage of iron than milk. I have had an opportunity to watch the physical and mental effects of an exclusive 60-days' diet of beans, which clearly proved them a most complete and substantial diet for physical or mental worker, even though they are not included in the ideal dietary.

Bean starch is much more easily digestible than wheat starch and is far less likely to cause such bowel troubles as appendicitis. An exclusive diet of beans, long continued is, however, liable to cause rheumatism and kidney troubles, owing to the excess of albumen they contain. Peas and lentils differ little from beans, the former being the richest of this class of foods. A few slices of toast or acid fruits only in the morning and uncooked cabbage, lettuce, cucumbers, etc., alternating with prunes, dates or figs, for the evening meal, would be an ideal dietary for a laborer eating beans with coarse bread for the principal meal, at noon.

Bananas are the most nourishing of fruits, except raisins and currants. Properly ripened they are easily digested. But as we ordinarily find them in our northern market they are difficult of digestion and likely to cause constipation. Banana flour is superior to superfine wheat flour and could be produced more cheaply, if transportation facilities were adequate. The ripened banana, with the peanut, form a perfect ration, on which the population of the world could be fed by the product of Texas and the other gulf states and the tropics. Only a suitable method of preserving the banana and an inexpensive method of transportation being necessary, to solve the food problem.

Bacon is almost pure fat and is, therefore, a good source of heat, muscular energy and fat, but it is inferior to olive or peanut oil, which are purer and more easily assimilated. It should be eaten only in winter, in cold climates, if at all. Pork products, in general, are the most objectionable of the flesh foods. The flesh of wild animals, the goat, sheep and fresh water fish, fresh are the best of animal foods. Fish spoils quickly and may become more poisonous than meat. Vegetable-cooking oils are preferable to lard.

Oysters (the edible portion, I mean, for it is as necessary to clean oysters as chicken or fish), are comparatively nutritious raw, but fried they are indigestible. They contain nothing that cannot be obtained from vegetable foods, eggs or fish. Often they are dangerous, causing serious bowel trouble and even typhoid and typhus fever.

Eggs, eaten in their natural state or only slightly cooked in water, not fried in fat, are very nutritious and easily digested. They are, however, stimulating and undesirable unless eaten sparingly. A whipped egg with zwieback is a suitable meal for an invalid; but the curative use of foods will be dealt with in subsequent articles.

Figs, dates and prunes are the most substantial of the fruits, next to the banana. Either of these, or all, makes a suitable evening meal. The chief objection to them is, they are very liable to be spoiled, by fermentation and worms. Prunes can be obtained in cans free from contamination or the objectionable chemicals used in the dried fruit, and as they are chiefly sugar the injury done by cooking is immaterial, as compared with the danger in fermentation in the spoiled fruits.

Cocoa is less objectionable than tea or coffee, being only slightly stimulating. It contains considerable fat, more than chocolate. Cereal coffee is harmless.

Grapes are, next to the apple, for all general purposes, the best fruit. There should be a grape arbor in every garden. Unfermented grape juice is a delicious and highly-nutritious drink, of which we shall have more to say in treating of the curative values of foods.

Pine apple is a true fruit medicine, very valuable in some digestive disorders.

Potatoes are chiefly water and starch, but are rich in the mineral elements of food. They are best baked slowly, at a low temperature; they should not be fried in fat or boiled slowly. If they must be boiled, they should be dropped in boiling water and when cooked allowed to dry on a hot fire after having the water drained off.

Cheese, if fresh, is a rich proteid food, and an aid to digestion, but old cheese is dangerous and it should not be tasted. Cheese, like milk, is extremely incompatible with the small fruits, blackberries, strawberries, raspberries, etc., which need not be eaten at all, except alone, in the morning, fresh, in summer. It is also incompatible with nuts. Full cream cheese, fresh, would make a better combination with beans than pork. With bread it is especially compatible.

Brain work requires more fresh, easily assimilated proteids than manual labor, but in either case the less draft made upon the stomach for digestion the more vitality will be left for work, of whatever kind. This is the physiological side of the economy of eating, not forgetting the relative digestibility of foods and the great difficulty of excreting the waste of albuminous foods as compared with sugars, starches and fats.

Weston's recent great walking feat, known to every newspaper reader, is a good example of the requirements of physical endurance. Mr. Weston's diet was far from ideal, but the one great lesson, constantly taught was, that if a man is to do his best work he must eat only enough to furnish heat, energy and bodily waste. If he is to win in a contest, he must eat proteids sparingly and lose in weight. Digestion and elimination are work, of the severest kind, and the more he saves in that department, the more he will have to spend in muscular and mental work.

A few months ago I published in one of the medical journals the result of some experiments made in "A Tramp's Diet," showing that the best walking was done when only enough food was taken to prevent actual hunger and that a gradual elimination of meat was found to steadily increase the mileage walked. This corresponds exactly with the results of the endurance tests made by Profs. Chittenden and Fisher of Yale and with all the results in the great walking contests in Germany, England and America.

No fallacy in regard to diet is more erroneous or more unfortunate than the common argument that the working man needs meat. The contrary is true. Dr. Wiley of our federal bureau of chemistry, an acknowledged authority on food, says: "A Japanese coolie will carry you around town all day on a pound of rice; you cannot do that on a pound of meat." Mr. William Jennings Bryan says that the Japanese 'riskishaw man will wheel a man 75 miles in a day; and his food is rice (unmilled, of course, corresponding to our whole wheat), and possibly beans and fish. The Bedouin Arab, who will run all day by the side of a magnificent Arab horse lives on dates and figs, never eating meat.

I have nothing to say of the ethical objections to meat-eating. I merely wish in dealing with the economic side of food, to impress, especially upon the working man, that the first step to economy in eating is to omit meat and fine white bread from the diet. The man who eats rye or whole wheat and a few nuts, needs no meat, no eggs, nor milk, though he will do well to drink a glass of buttermilk daily.

Sugar is the cheapest food for one doing heavy physical work, because it furnishes energy directly with little waste. Its best source is prunes, figs or dates.

A spoonful or two of olive or peanut oil should be taken daily. Butter is an expensive food compared with vegetable oils

What the physical worker needs most is, just like the engine, ready, fuel and water. Its cheapest source is sugar and fat, rather than wheat starch and meat, though rye is easily converted into glucose or cereal sugar. A tablespoonful or more of peanut oil may be taken with prunes, or separately. Fat interferes with the digestion of proteids in the stomach but not with sugar. A warm drink of weak cocoa or substitute coffee may follow a fruit meal, facilitating the passage to the intestine where such food is digested. The more liquid the sooner the stomach empties.

The most economical of foods is sugar, and yet much harm is done by cane sugar, as it is eaten in candies especially by young women who have little exercise, and in tea and coffee by men and women of sedentary occupation. The evil effects of cane sugar, including ordinary candies as compared with the natural sugar foods, dates, figs, prunes, currants and raisins (and perfectly ripe bananas), might be compared to the difference between fine white and coarse bread.

Experiments made with men on a march showed that a quarter to three-quarters of a pound daily of cane sugar was utilized readily and caused no distress, but it is a well-known fact that such an amount of sugar eaten in the way it is ordinarily taken by one not making the fullest use of lungs and muscles, requiring the consumption of a large amount of available carbon—that sugar not quickly burned in the system for heat and energy causes catarrh of the stomach and bowels, unfitting them for natural digestion and at the same time overloading the liver and straining the kidneys. Similar results follow the excessive use of starch foods, especially in concentrated form.

As we have already seen, the essential food is albumen, a definite amount of which is necessary, under all circumstances, to support life, as well as to build new tissue in the growing child. But carbon, as sugar, starch or fat, can be much more quickly utilized for maintaining heat and energy. If a sufficient amount of carbon in these forms is not furnished, heat and energy will be sustained by the consumption of albumen, and as the waste products from the consumption of albumen, require many times more energy for elimination from the system through the kidneys, the consumption of more albumen than is necessary, is a serious error in vital economy. Rheumatism, Bright's disease, and other diseases result from the inability of the system to eliminate the excessive waste of albuminous foods.

SPORTING GOSSIP

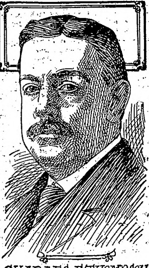
Charles F. Thompson, who has been elected president of the Western Golf association, is a man who has been connected with the Scottish game for years in the Chicago district. His rise to the executive chair has been a gradual one, and he is a man who will doubtless bring the association to an even higher plane than it now occupies. Mr. Thompson, who is a member of the Homewood and Midlothian Country clubs, first served as an officer in the Western Golf association two years ago, when he was elected to the secretaryship. The following season he was raised to the important position of treasurer. In addition to these positions Mr. Thompson is at the present time a member of the executive committee of the United States Golf association. He has for years taken a prominent part in clubdom, belonging to the South Shore Country, Kenwood, Press, Diana Shooting (Horicon, Wis.,) and the Iskigamizsigan clubs. He is also a member of the Chicago Athletic association. Mr. Thompson is a fair golf player, and finds relaxation on the links the year around. For the past six years he has been an officer of the Flossmoor organization. In addition to golf Mr. Thompson finds time in the spring and winter to fish and hunt. He is an expert angler and has bagged many a fine hamper of game. The woods and streams of Wisconsin are well known to him. He is engaged in the lumber and railroad industries.



CHARLES F. THOMPSON

Baseball managers and football coaches are always dead sore when their team loses, and they can scarcely be blamed. Of course the manager of a beaten team, whether it be in baseball or football, gives out an interview in which he "doffs his cap to the victorious manager and congratulates him on having one of the best teams ever," That's nothing more than sublime bunk. That's all part of the game. He says it because he knows the public likes to hear just that sort of "walla, walla." When he's not speaking for publication he can advance no less than 40,000 reasons why his team lost and why they should have won. That's human nature. It's almost as difficult to "fix" a ball game in the major leagues as it is to make a 30-cent alarm clock keep good time. The millions that have been made in baseball in recent years can be traced to the fact that baseball has been conducted along business lines—conducted honestly. Out on the field when the players are in action it is the same. Every man is out to win. While in the game the great stars never think of baseball as a business. The cheers of the multitude, the glory of winning makes them forget for the time all about the salary envelope. The player that is not constituted that way never becomes a star. They refer to him as a mechanical player. He plays ball as he would saw and hammer if he were a carpenter. But, nevertheless, the star's conception of sportsmanship is far removed from that of the amateur. The really great players always want to win. They will use tricks to accomplish their ends, but none of the stars can ever be accused of dirty work. As for being sore when they lose, all that is necessary to satisfy the doubtful ones is to be about the hotel where the team is stopping after a particularly hard-luck defeat. Manager and players are about as cordial and pleasant as a rat terrier is giving battle to a half dozen rodents.

---

Herman Schaefer, second baseman of the Detroit Tigers' American league championship team, has been selected field captain of the 1909 team, to succeed the peerless Bill Coughlin, who returns to the minors. Germany Schaefer has earned his new honors, as he is acknowledged a brainy ball player and a natural leader that never knows he is beaten. He is popular with the players on the Tiger team, and President Navin's announcement gives entire satisfaction to the fans. Last season at times of trouble he did more than any other man to aid Hughie Jennings in inspiring the jaded players to renewed efforts.

FORWARD TRADE MOVE

NEW NATIONAL COUNCIL OF COMMERCE TO PUSH AMERICAN INTERESTS. BY WALDON FAWCETT

NATIONAL COUNCIL OF COMMERCE

Representatives of leading chambers of commerce, boards of trade and other influential commercial bodies recently gathered in the city of Washington and perfected the organization of a national, co-operative trade extension body that is bound to prove of the greatest potency in the promotion of American commercial interests at home and abroad. The delegates present at the inaugural meeting came from all parts of the country and there is no doubt but that the new organization is thoroughly representative of the business life of the nation in its broadest sense.

This new factor in American commercial and industrial progress is to be known as the National Council of Commerce. The first steps looking to the projection of this new force into the Yankee trade field at home and abroad were taken about a year ago when Secretary Straus of the federal department of commerce and labor—himself a business man as well as the official head of that branch of the national government having to do with commercial matters—called a preliminary conference of leading business men in the hope of paving the way for just such an association as has now been created. A temporary organization was effected at that time but it was only at the recent gathering at the national capital that the unique project assumed concrete shape and was put on a practical working basis.

The prime movers in this undertaking confidently predict that it will become the greatest trade organization in the world. The high character of the interests involved and the power of the affiliated organizations can not, perhaps, be better indicated than by presenting the list of members of the executive committee of the new body. This board of directors comprises B. A. Eckhart of the Chicago board of trade; Mahlon E. Kline, of the Trades league of Philadelphia; William McCarroll of the New York board of trade and transportation; George I. McCarthy of the American Meat Packers' association; H. E. Miles of the National Association of Manufacturers; H. Mosle of the Galveston chamber of commerce; Edward A. Filene of the Boston Merchants' association; George C. Perkins of the San Francisco chamber of commerce; L. A. Ransom of the Atlanta chamber of commerce; G. D. Rogers of the Minneapolis chamber of commerce; Gustav H. Schwab of the Merchants' association of New York; James E. Smith of the Business Men's league of St. Louis; D. A. Tompkins of the Southern Manufacturers' club, and Frank B. Wiborg of the Manufacturers' club of Cincinnati.

At the recent meeting which was attended by more than 50 delegates, by-laws were adopted and officers were elected for the ensuing year. Mr. Gustav H. Schwab, well known to business men throughout the country through his connection with the North German Lloyd Steamship Company, was chosen as chairman of the permanent organization. B. A. Eckhart of Chicago was elected vice-chairman; William R. Corwine, secretary, and Frank B. Wiborg of Cincinnati, treasurer. Meetings will be held annually and permanent headquarters will be maintained for the conduct of "missionary work" on behalf of the American trade interests which is one of the principal objects of the new organization. Although this is the first and only association of the kind yet projected on this side of the Atlantic, somewhat similar organization have for years existed in countries which are the most formidable trade rivals of the United States—namely Germany, France, Great Britain, etc., and it was the object lesson afforded by these foreign bodies as promoters of commercial development that spurred the national government to foster the present organization here.

Secretary Straus who, with his right-hand man, Mr. Theodore L. Weed, and the assistant secretary of commerce and labor, Mr. William R. Wheeler of California, were instrumental in starting the ball rolling, will henceforth be connected with the organization only in an advisory capacity, they preferring to leave the active direction of affairs in the hands of the business men themselves. However, Secretary Straus hopes that one of the ultimate results of this new movement will be to bring about a closer relationship between the commercial interests of the country and the national government. In speaking of the matter Secretary Straus said: "Unfortunately the national government has never up to this time been brought as closely in touch as is desirable with the tremendous power and influence and ability of American commercial life because the interests involved have not been brought together in the concrete form necessary to enlighten our government officials and secure their co-operation." In future he believes that, thanks to the new council of commerce, the federal government and the commercial interests of the country will be enabled to work hand in hand. All local or national organizations in any way interested will be invited to make common cause by joining the new council and the nucleus of membership already obtained indicates that there will be the fullest representation of the leading commercial, manufacturing, exporting and importing interests.

CARRIED OFF BY LION.

Horrible Fate of Intrepid Hunter Who Fell Asleep.

Near Tsavo station, 133 miles from Mombassa, during the construction of the line, 29 Indian coolies were killed and eaten by lions, a writer on "Roosevelt's Hunting Grounds" in the National Magazine says. Naturally there was a panic; the men could not work, and three young men, Messrs. Hubner, Parent and Ryal, took a car down to the dangerous locality to slay the slayers of men. The car was left on the side track at the site of a former station long since discontinued, where a few days before a lion had actually sprung upon a man on an open railway truck as the train slowed down at the station platform and carried him, vainly shrieking for help, into the jungle.

The men knew they must keep watch against these man-eating beasts which had lost all fear of man and would exert their utmost subtlety and strength to feed their consuming desire for human flesh. It was arranged that a sentinel should be always on guard, and Ryal held the midnight watch, sitting, rifle in hand, where he could command the doors and windows. Parent made a sleeping place for himself on the floor, Hubner occupied an upper berth, and all three anticipated a successful hunt next morning.

About two o'clock, in the murky gloom of the tropical night, overcome by weariness and the heavy atmosphere, Ryal dropped asleep. A pair of lambent eyes sought him out from the half-open door, a noiseless, powerful form crept by or over Parent as he lay asleep, and seizing him in his powerful jaws the man-eater of Tsavo sprung out through the glass and sash of the nearest window into the cover of the jungle, where Ryal's whitened bones were found later.

This tragedy caused the assembling of a great hunting party which swept the country about Tsavo, and among the lions killed was one great old lion which had imbedded in his scarred and lately-healed hide several fragments of window glass, which undoubtedly identified him as the slayer of poor Ryal.

Pawnshop in Magistrate's Office.

A novelty in pawnshops is to be found in Ichang, China. The town contains a small pawnshop in the magistrate's office, run by the prisoners. The rate of interest is about one cent per 40 cents per month, except during the last three months of the year, when it is reduced to about one-half cent.

Bibles Sent from London.

During the six months between last Easter and Michaelmas 1,436 cases packed with Scriptures, weighing altogether 154 tons, were sent out from the London headquarters of the Bible society for shipment abroad.

COUNTERFEITERS OPERATE IN A NATIONAL BANK

By an Ex-Operative of the Secret Service

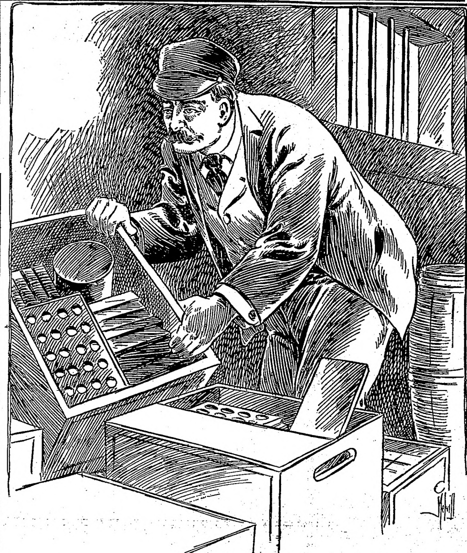
Here Is a True Story of the Uncovering of the Country's Worst Gang of "Shovers of the Queer."

Champagne Cases Furnish Secret of Odd Plot, Unearthed by Captain Dickson—Becomes an Assistant Gardener and Expose of Workings of System Quickly Follows—Cashier Is Placed Under Arrest.



IN THE CHAMPAGNE CASES I FOUND THE MOULDS AND OTHER ACCESSORIES OF THE COUNTERFEITERS.

CAPT. DICKSON and I were again foregathering in front of the cheery log fire at his home. He launched into a capital story of counterfeiting in high places.

"I was once stationed in the city of a great international exposition, to watch for culprits that were expected to put out the customary counterfeit. For the first month or so of the fair there was nothing to do but lounge about the office and, like Mr. Micawber, wait for something to turn up. The four of us who were assigned to this monotonous duty soon grew weary of the inactivity and were on the point of asking for a transfer, when an excellent imitation of the ten dollar gold-piece made its appearance in large numbers. After that, none of the four of us had any cause for complaint on the score of stagnation.

"Saunders and McGrath, two of my companions, by means of a miserably scrawled, anonymous note to the chief of police, secured information of mysterious boxes coming by night to a bank, and it required but a small flight of the imagination to evolve a plot in which the great financial magnate, the president of the bank, was the central figure, regardless of his high social standing, his reputed fabulous wealth, and his irreproachable character.

"I selected the cashier at the factory as my man, and Murphy took the teller of the bank, the man who made up the pay-roll each week. For ten days we shadowed them with dogged persistency. They were both men of the town and both were members of the better class of clubs and moved in the most exclusive circles of society. These matters rather strengthened than weakened our suspicions, for neither of the men was wealthy, and playing society is an expensive game at best.

"But in all our pursuit and in all the lavish expenditures of these young spendthrifts not once did either of them pass or attempt to pass one of the counterfeit coins, so far as we could gather. I don't think they could have done so without its being discovered, so thoroughly did we track them in every turn and move they made during the period we had them under observation. They lived together in a handsomely furnished flat, with a small army of servants, and they entertained lavishly. Their table was of the best and their wines of the rarest vintages.

"We decided that nothing was to be gained by shadowing them further, so we left them to their frivolous social duties. About this time Saunders and McGrath came tagging home, convoying the bank president, tuckered out and disgusted with their fruitless journey.

"The night of their return Murphy and I held a conference with them, at which it was practically agreed that the bank president was innocent, and that there was nothing else to do but take him into our confidence and make the bank itself our point of operation.

"I watched the teller very carefully that week, and especially on the day when he made up the payroll for the factory, which was called for by Saunders. The sack contained both gold and silver, but there was not a single coin in the lot which had not been given birth legitimately at some one of the government's mints. Saunders made sure of this before the sack reached the factory.

"The cashier, a man named Powell, and the teller both kept close watch upon me while I worked in the big vault, as was their duty, and this gave me scant opportunity to investigate the sacks of gold piled away in a pretentious row on a low shelf. In moving them, I thought that some seemed lighter in weight than others, and as this would be valuable information if true, I hit upon what I thought was a rather ingenious way of determining if my surmise was correct.

"Concealing my pen-knife in the hollow of my hand, with the blade open, I selected one of the sacks of ten-dollar coins which seemed to be lighter than some of its mates, and, as I moved it from the shelf, I cut the cord which fastened the mouth of it while the attention of the inquisitive cashier and teller was directed elsewhere.

"Having shaken the mouth of the sack open and frayed the ends of the cord so that my ruse would not be detected. I purposely stumbled and fell as I crossed the vault. The coins poured out upon the steel floor of the big vault in a bright yellow stream, rolling hither and yon, while I sat dejectedly in the midst of the golden flood and rubbed my knee and cursed.

"The two bank officials showed lively concern at my stupid accident, and both set about gathering up the coins. I assisted them as much as possible, but my pulse was beating too fast for my help to amount to much. My ruse had fully served my purpose. The ring of the coins upon the steel floor of the vault had not been true. They had rung dull and heavy, and I knew them at once for their real false character. The verification of this fact came when I fingered them deftly, as I restored them to the sack whence they had come. There was no mistaking the feeling of them. They were greasy and slick; that slimy touch which discloses the spurious coin in the dark as well as in the light. Every one I touched had that slippery, soapstone surface which counterfeiters cannot overcome except by the use of metal of the same fineness as that of the genuine coin.

"As I replaced the sacks, after cleaning the shelf, I was careful to weigh each of them in my hand. There were 15 sacks, each containing a thousand dollars in half eagles, which were light in weight.

"I now felt sure of my ground, but it was still necessary that we secure proof against the teller. I had not suspected the cashier. until his evident trepidation when I spilled the sack of gold.

"The mystery was now more complex and interesting than ever. While I had discovered the big reserve of the counterfeiters I had no evidence against any one, and was still afraid to make arrests. I wanted the makers of the coin and their machinery, and wanted them badly, for this was the biggest case that I had thus far in my career been engaged upon.

"That night I did some tall thinking, and also made a secret trip to the banker's residence, which I carefully examined from the outside, going over the extensive grounds about the house and the outbuildings at the imminent peril of being shot for a burglar. Here I discovered only one thing of importance. In the stable I stumbled on an empty champagne case, which was of the same brand as one I had noticed in the vault of the bank. It might mean something or nothing, but I had long ago learned to take particular notice of small things, and many is the valuable clew that this habit has given me.

"Since the return of Saunders and McGrath, they had been working on the clew of the anonymous letter, and the information it contained about the mysterious boxes which had been seen to arrive at the bank at night. They had located the author, a discharged messenger, who bore a grudge against the teller to whose instance he attributed his discharge. From the messenger they learned that the boxes had been delivered at the back entrance of the bank late at night. They had been brought to it in a one horse express wagon, but the wagon had not displayed a license number and the driver, although muffled in a great coat, had evidently not been a regular expressman, so the messenger informed them. He gave a fairly accurate description of the wagon, which had been of peculiar construction.

"I had seen just such a vehicle at the banker's residence, a sort of delivery wagon which seemed to be employed in hauling feed for the extensive stable of the banker, as it had been filled with sacks of oats and bales of hay when I saw it.

"The next morning I reported sick at the bank, but my service with the banker was not at an end. I had shifted my position from janitor at the bank to assistant gardener and general factotum at the president's residence. Armed with a note from the banker to the gardener, I put in my appearance at his residence. The gardener didn't seem to like my appearance. He regarded me with cold suspicion, while he read the note from his employer, and, it seemed to me, he rather reluctantly accepted me as his assistant. I verily believe he would have driven me away on some pretext, if it had not been for the explicit terms of the note the banker had written at my dictation.

"The gardener was a tough looking customer. There was an atmosphere of suspicion about him which put me on my guard and caused me to watch him with caution. He was a smooth individual, however, and I had served in my new capacity for three days without discovering anything worth mentioning, when he set me at the task of wheeling out the ashes from the big bin in the cellar. The bin was situated at the rear of the furnace, near the entrance of the basement, and in passing to and fro at my task, I noticed several wine-cases piled in a dark corner of the basement. I took advantage of the first opportunity to examine them and, while the lids were securely nailed down, I found, by lifting them, that they were as heavy as chunks of lead.

"That night I burglarized the banker's basement, while two of my companions kept watch outside to see that I was not disturbed. In the champagne-cases I found the molds and other accessories of the counterfeiters, and a large quantity of metal and newly manufactured coins.

"Before we left the banker's residence, the gardener was a prisoner, and before the night was over we had nabbed Mason and Tarley and Cashier Powell. The gardener turned state's evidence and gave the whole thing away. The three society men held out firmly to the last. They were convicted only after considerable difficulty. Except for the assistance of the gardener in securing evidence, we should never have been able to have made out, against them, anything more than a strong circumstantial case. We recovered about $10,000 from the culprits, and in the bank's vault was more than $18,000 of the counterfeit money. The night watchman at the bank was also implicated and convicted.

"The gardener, who had many aliases, was an old offender. He had worked at one time in the 'Frisco mint, and was regarded as a skillful workman. After leaving the mint, he had put out a gold coin of the twenty-dollar denomination, but had been caught and had served a prison term for it. He had drifted east, after serving his term, and had figured out the plan which he had there put in operation. He had manufactured the coins, using the big furnace at the banker's residence for that purpose, and had secured the three society men, all of whom were heavily in debt and therefore ready victims, to palm off the money. Their method was to take good money from the bank vault and replace it with the bad, which they worked off at the factory in the weekly pay roll. The cashier at the bank had secured the place for the counterfeiter at the banker's residence, but this had not been with any particular design further than it was a place that was especially suited to the necessities of the counterfeiter."

Laughter in the Court.

An old plasterer is called upon to give evidence for the plaintiff. Counsel for the defense tries to bully him. "Have you ever been in prison?" "Yes, twice." "Ah! how long the first time?" "One whole afternoon." "What! And the second time?" "Only one hour." "And pray what offense had you committed to deserve so small a punishment?" "I was sent to prison to whitewash a cell to accommodate a lawyer who had cheated one of his clients."

EXTRAORDINARY INCREASE IN FARM LANDS,

"SOUTHERN ALBERTA IS A MIGHTY GOOD COUNTRY."

No stronger or better evidence can be given of the merits of a country than that which comes from the testimony of the settler who has determined to succeed. This is why we reproduce the following letter, which speaks for itself. These people were induced to go to Western Canada through the solicitation of a Canadian Government agent, who secured for them the low railway rates.

"Carmangay, Alta., Canada, 12-15-'08.

"Mr. C. J. Broughton, Canadian Government Agency, 135 Adams Street, Chicago: We had audacity enough to tackle the proposition of buying four sections of land in Southern Alberta, thirty miles east of Clairsholm and heading up on the Little Bow, and our two boys each got a homestead adjoining. We fenced three sections and the two homesteads, and built a house, barn, corrals and granary, and have since enlarged some of these buildings. We have broken 200 acres of land, which has been sowed to oats and wheat. During the severe winter of two years ago the winter wheat killed out somewhat, and our crop yielded only ten bushels to the acre, but the spring wheat went 24 bushels to the acre. In this country we must be prepared for storms and cold, at times 20 to 30 below zero, yet on the whole the winters are mild; and while there are exceptional crops, it is fair to say that the average farmer can depend on having a yield in average years of from 20 to 25 bushels to the acre for spring wheat; and winter wheat in our immediate neighborhood yields from 25 to 30 bushels to the acre on the average.

We have now quite a bunch of horses, over 50 in all, about 350 sheep, after having sold 140 for mutton this fall. We have 20 head of pure bred registered Shropshire, which are worth $20 each. The average price received for mutton sheep was $5.00 and a little over. Pork brings 5 and 6 cents a pound. We have about 30 head of cattle on our ranch now, and last winter they picked their entire living from our pasture, running to the straw stacks for shelter at night.

"The increase of land values has been extraordinary. Our land four years ago cost us a little less than $6.00 an acre. We have sold one section for $15.00, but we would not sell any more for less than $25.00 per acre, as we expect the railroad within four miles of our ranch within the next 18 months. Southern Alberta of Western Canada is a mighty good country for any man or woman who loves outdoor life, and who wants to get good returns for their labor and investment.

"We have been pleased with our treatment from the Canadian Government, and can heartily commend Southern Alberta as a splendid country in which to locate.

"Yours very truly,
(Signed)

THE CLUE

◆

By JAMES FRANCIS DWYER

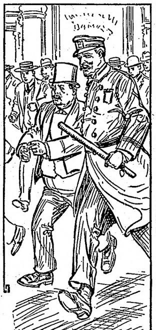
(Copyright, by Shortstory Pub. Co.)

It was midnight. In Fifth avenue there were few pedestrians, and so a fat man in evening dress, hurrying northward, attracted attention. Six night birds, who thought his actions mysterious, followed a few paces in the rear. Occasionally they questioned each other as they trotted briskly along, but the questions were put in the hopeless tone that the questioner uses when he knows the person questioned cannot supply the information he requires.

The fat man didn't speak. He moved at a smart jog trot, looking straight to the front and seemingly unaware of the fact that he was the cause of much conjecture. The mystery scented by the others was caused by the peculiar movements of his hands. His arms were outstretched, and his two hands revolved round each other like the hands of a fisherman hauling in a line. And the inquisitive ones in the rear were unable to explain this movement. It was not a dignified exercise for a fat man in evening dress, and their curiosity was justified.

At Thirty-second street a policeman, dozing on the opposite side of the road, straightened himself as he saw the hurrying group coming towards him. Swinging his night stick he crossed over and waited the approach of the little procession. He was in charge of that neighborhood, and there should be an explanation.

The fat man passed the officer at a gallop. His hands were moving faster and faster, and the tails of his coat were sticking out like little black wings in his rear. The law was a trifle astonished. As he stood looking after the leader of the hurrying squad, he was jostled by the inquisitive ones following, and he became annoyed.



"Sprint a Little, or We May Be Too Late."

He grabbed a straw-hatted youth by the shoulder and questioned him.

"What's the matter?" he cried.

"Search me," answered the questioned one. "Le'me go; I want to see what the ole guy is up to."

The policeman lost his temper. He was being treated with disrespect. A festive citizen was running a fool procession over his beat without giving him the least explanation! So he let go of the youth's shoulder and dashed madly after the man in evening dress.

"Here, what's the game?" he panted. "What sort of a stunt are you up to, anyhow?"

The fat man shook off the grip of the law and ran faster than ever, his outstretched hands circling round each other like the arms of a windmill in a gale.

"Stoop down and I'll tell you," he gasped, as the officer made another effort to restrain him.

The evident respectability of the fat man made the policeman comply with the request, and bending his six-foot frame he ran alongside the other as he listened. The inquisitive mob, now numbering a score, gathered in close, but the nightstick described a circle and they backed into safety.

For nearly twenty yards the policeman ran with bent back. Then he straightened himself up and laughed loudly. "Good for you," he cried. "Sprint a little, or we may be too late." Then he started to run madly alongside the man with the windmill arms.

The curious ones were annoyed. They were taxpayers, and they did not think it right that the officer, who was their servant, should keep the solution of the mystery a secret. They growled angrily whenever the law chuckled over the story that the fat man had whispered, but they followed at full speed. Late revelers joined the group, but when they asked the reason of the chase they were told to watch the movements of the leader's hands.

"Been doin' that all the way from Twenty-eighth street," gasped the early followers, proud in the possession of that much information. "He's told the cop a joke, an' now the hickory wielder is hittin' the trail with him."

At Forty-eighth street the policeman met the officer on the adjoining beat, and hooking him by the arm he whispered into his ear as he kept pace with the fat man. The new policeman guffawed loudly, and again the angry crowd looked vainly for the humor that seemed apparent to the two guardians of the peace. The first policeman slackened speed, called out a friendly "Good luck" to the fat man, and then returned to his own beat, while his comrade trotted swiftly in his place.

The fat man swung east, down Fifty-third street, and new recruits joined the procession at every yard. But all thirsted vainly for information. Questions put by the newcomers were met with the one answer: "Don't know; look at his hands. Been twisting them round and round all the way from Twenty-eighth street."

Crossing Third avenue the fat man halted suddenly. He knelt down upon the car tracks, and the officer stooped beside him. The crowd pressed round till the swiftly-swung nightstick swept them back. The man in evening dress crawled across the tracks and raked the ground with his fingers.

Presently he leapt to his feet and yelled out excitedly. "It's all right, officer," he cried, and once again his hands started to revolve round each other as he dashed towards the water.

Just here a third policeman was initiated into the mystery that was troubling the crowd, and with a merry laugh he took up a position by the side of the fat man. The crowd cursed collectively. Here was a mystery that had been explained three times to bulky policemen, yet they were kept in ignorance. It wasn't fair. They had a right to know why the man in evening dress was doing the windmill performance with his hands, and why that stunt amused the policeman. Much of their breath was exhausted in strange phrases denouncing the secrecy of the police, but they were determined to see the end.

Near Second avenue a man standing on the sidewalk turned when he heard the noise of the charging squad and contemplated the runners. Then he stepped into the street and crossed over. The fat man chuckled. He whispered to the policeman at his right hand, and the officer dashed ahead. The man in front started to run, but his pursuer overhauled him in a dozen strides, and they rolled on the pavement.

"Wot's the matter?" gasped the captured one. "Wot are yer scruffin' me for?"

"This gentleman wants his rubber door-mat," murmured the policeman, relieving his captive of the parcel he carried beneath his arm.

"Hully Gee!" exclaimed the prisoner, rubbing his eyes and staring round him at the crowd. "Where did yer get the mob, an' how did yer know I had it, anyhow?"

"I had you on a string," explained the fat man, holding up a black thread in the light of the street lamp. "I've caught five men who have tried to steal that mat. It's attached to a thousand yards of strong thread, and as they generally grab it when the streets are quiet, the trail is always clear."

Motor Boats on Dead Sea.

The Dead sea is a government monopoly, and at present is leased out to a small native company. They have a wooden boat built for a sailing vessel, but about six months ago had a motor put in it. If this company succeeds they might try a couple more motor boats. The Dead sea is one-third solid matter, the greater part of which is salt, and the question to answer is: Can the hulls stand the action of this salt water? People in this country are not wealthy enough to afford a motor boat for pleasure only, and as no one would be allowed to use one on the Dead sea, Jaffa is the only possible market for boats in the district. The Jordan valley, the river and the Dead sea are the personal property of the sultan. A permit must be first obtained from the sultan before boats of any kind can be launched thereon. Such permits have heretofore been very difficult to procure for motor boats.

Appointment Causes Commotion.

Maj. Gen. Edward Ritter von Schweitzer, a Jew, has received the appointment of field marshal, the highest military rank in the Austro-Hungarian empire. Anti-Semites express themselves bitterly, while the more liberal-minded are loud in their praises of Emperor Francis Joseph for this latest manifestation of his freedom from religious bias.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Protecting Minnesota Game.

Rainy Lake.—There is a special interest for western people who spend their holidays among northern lakes and woods, in the action that was taken at Toronto at the annual meeting of the North American Fish and Game Protective Association, which is composed of well-known sportsmen and many high officials from various states and provinces of Canada. The association considered the question of preserving the great district in northern Minnesota and northwestern Ontaria which provides unequaled fishing and moose and deer hunting, and appointed a committee to take up the matter with a view to securing co-operation between the authorities of Minnesota and Ontario.

Along the three hundred miles of wild-wooded and water-dotted international boundary, from Lake Superior to Lake of the Woods, moose are so plentiful that one day's paddling has often given to travelers the sight of from twenty to thirty moose in the water. But there is a reckless slaughter of these animals on both sides of the line, in season and out of season, which it is hoped to stop.

W. A. Preston, member of the Ontario legislature for the Rainy River district, told the association of an ineffectual chase last summer for a man who was known to be killing moose for the purpose of obtaining their horns while still in the velvet. The carcases of nine big bulls were found, five of them having been sunk with stones in lakes; and other instances of the destruction of game have been recorded. But the depredator eluded the searchers.

It was pointed out that, by the proper preservation of game in the Minnesota-Ontario country, a great commercial asset would be created, and by placing trout in waters, which at present are devoid of the fish, an even greater attraction to the summer sportsman would be provided, with benefit to business generally, similar to that experienced by the state of Maine, which, by judicious game laws, rigidly enforced, has multiplied the number of deer and fish in that locality, and has attracted thousands of sportsmen, who bring millions of dollars into the state.

As an indication of the attraction of the Rainy River valley it was announced that during 1908, since the advent of the Minnesota & International railway to International Falls on Rainy river, four hundred and eighty islands in Rainy lake were sold to Americans—10 per cent of the islands in the lake.

Rainy Lake is now also reached from Duluth by the Duluth, Missabe & Northern and the Minnesota section of the Canadian Northern railway. At Fort Frances and International Falls a great water power is being developed in preparation for the establishment of several factories, and it was confidently predicted that sufficient co-operation between the Minnesota and Ontario people would result in a profitable development of an international preserve.

NEWS NOTES.

Bemidji—Deputy Sheriff Joe Markham returned to the city with two prisoners in custody from Funkley, where he arested Charles Wood and Tom Kennedy. Wood is charged with assaulting his wife with a loaded rifle with the intent to kill, and also with non-support. Kennedy is charged with a number of crimes, and faces six complaints.

St. Cloud—Elva Robertson, the daughter of A. F. Robertson, a retired jeweler of this city, was the victim of an accident this morning in which she suffered injuries which may cost her life. The girl had lighted a fire in the kitchen range and as soon as she applied the match an explosion followed. The doors were blown from the stove, one piece of iron hitting the girl in the side, injuring her internally.

Barnesville—Timber wolves and foxes are reported to be very numerous in the western part of this county this winter, and are doing much damage to live stock in that locality. Old settlers living in the country claim that the presence of so many wild animals is due to the forest fires, which raged in the northern part of the state last fall. Several farmers have succeeded in killing them and have received big bounties from the county.

Frazee.—When Otto Hurtuhum reached the home of his neighbor, Elmer Bangle, yesterday afternoon, he was startled to find the dead body of Elmer Bangle lying in the yard with a shot wound through his head. Mr. Bangle was one of the best known and highly respected young men of the town of Hebert, Ottertail county, and as he had no cares of any kind his death was undoubtedly accidental. When Deputy Coroner Berthold of Perham was notified he decided an inquest was unnecessary. The gun was a 12-gauge hammerless and was very easily touched off.

Winthrop—Gustaf Olson met yesterday with a painful accident, while working in Lindquist's carpenter shop. His arm was suddenly caught between a pulley and a belt, with the result of a fractured limb.

St. Cloud—John Martin, a well-known Holding farmer, choked to death on a piece of meat yesterday morning. A 15-year-old son was the only witness and was unable to aid his father.

Aitkin—Fire destroyed the stock of Noork & Young, general merchandise. The building was also destroyed.

Ask Her This Question

"Do you know of any woman who ever received any benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?"

If any woman who is suffering with any ailment peculiar to her sex will ask her neighbors this question, she will be surprised at the result. There is hardly a community in this country where women cannot be found who have been restored to health by this famous old remedy, made exclusively from a simple formula of roots and herbs.

During the past 30 years we have published thousands of letters from these grateful women who have been cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and never in all that time have we published a testimonial without the writer's special permission. Never have we knowingly published a testimonial that was not truthful and genuine. Here is one just received a few days ago. If anyone doubts that this is a true and honest statement of a woman's experience with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound write and ask her.

Houston, Texas.—"When I first began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was a total wreck. I had been sick for three years with female troubles, chronic dyspepsia, and a liver trouble. I had tried several doctor's medicines, but nothing did me any good.

"For three years I lived on medicines and thought I would never get well, when I read an advertisment of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and was advised to try it.

"My husband got me one bottle of the Compound, and it did me so much good I continued its use. I am now a well woman and enjoy the best of health.

"I advise all women suffering from such troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. They won't regret it, for it will surely cure you."—Mrs. Bessie L. Hicks, 819 Cleveland St., Houston.

Any woman who is sick and suffering is foolish surely not to give such a medicine as this a trial. Why should it not do her as much good as it did Mrs. Hicks.

HORSES AND DONKEYS.

Early Habits That Domestication Has Not Eradicated.

A curious question in evolution was once put to a scientist prominent in the service of the government. "Why is it," some one asked, "that horses shy and donkeys do not?"

The answer was to the following effect:

The ancestors of the horse were accustomed to roam over the plains where every tuft of grass or bush might conceal an enemy waiting in ambush. In these circumstances the must have time and again saved the lives by quickly starting back or else suddenly jumping to one side when without warning some strange object appeared to them. The habit must have indeed been a strong one, seeing that so many years of domestication have not eradicated it.

On the other hand, the donkey is descended from animals that lived among the hills, with the usual precipices and dangerous declivities, and from these conditions, it would appear, there resulted its slowness and sure footedness. The donkey's ancestors were not, then, so liable to sudden attacks from wild beasts and snakes. Moreover, sudden and wild starts would have been positively dangerous to the donkey's forbears. Consequently they learned to avoid the characteristic trick of the horse. The habit of eating thistles, peculiar to the donkey, seems also to have been inherited from its ancestors. In the dry, barren localities they inhabited there was often very little food: therefore they learned to eat the hard, dry and even prickly plants and undergrowth when nothing else presented itself.—New York Tribune.

No Morals In Dreamland.

If, as many writers have suggested, it is the soul itself that guides the imagery of dreams, how are we to explain the fact that in this chaos of ideas and feelings there is so little distinction between right and wrong that when dreaming we commit acts for which we should weep tears of blood were they as real as they seem to be.

As Professor Hoffman has said, "The familiar check of waking hours, 'I must not do it because it would be unjust or unkind,' never once seems to arrest us in the satisfaction of any whim which may blow about our wayward fancies."

From all of which we must conclude that the dream realm is a world that is entirely oblivious to any moral sense and that, though it may be true that a troubled conscience may produce or affect our dreams, the dreams themselves are never burdened with a conscience.—Bohemian Magazine.

Going Some.

Being pursued by a farmer and his three sons after being caught in the chicken yard, a young colored person had just made up his mind that he was not eluding his followers as quickly as might be when a long eared jack rabbit jumped up from the roadside and started down the road ahead of him. The would be chicken thief had run a few hundred feet farther when the farmer and his boys were astonished to hear the negro shout in a voice that quavered with fright, though unrestrained, "Say, for de Lord sake, you rabbit, get out ob de way and let some one run who can run."—Argonaut.

A Doleful Mood.

The proprietor of a Paris cafe noticed that after he had refused to give his pianist an increase of salary the number of his customers dwindled rapidly. It was only when all but one diner had deserted him that he discovered that the pianist had been inflicting Chopin's "Funeral March" on the audience nightly. The pianist, who was proceeded against in the law courts and was fined 50 francs, pleaded that he played according to the mood he felt in after his request had been refused.

Equal to the Occasion.

The author of "Across England In a Dogcart" once stopped to examine a church in the little village of Enstone.

The day was warm, and on leaving the church I rested for awhile in the grateful shade of the building and for the sake of the coolness still kept my hat in my hand. While standing there I overheard one workman ask of another:

"Why do 'e keep 'is 'at off like that out of doors, mate?"

"'Cause 'e's a Quaker, o' course," replied the mate. "Quakers allus do in churchyards."

Here was an opportunity not to be lost. "No," said I, "I am not a Quaker. I am an Episcopalian."

There was a short, awkward pause. Then the first workman, evidently of an inquiring turn of mind, said to his fellow mason, who seemed to be considered an authority:

"A E-piscopale one, 'e says 'e is. Wot's that, Bill?"

"Oh," replied the learned Bill, quite equal to the occasion, "that's one of them fancy foreign religions, sure!"

The Emperor's Orderly.

Frenchmen of every rank and class dearly love titles. The manager of a Paris insurance company was decorated with the Legion of Honor a few days ago, and the clerks in the employ of the company presented him with a piece of plate to which their visiting cards were attached. On looking over these he was a good deal puzzled and amused by the visiting card of the office "boy," an old soldier from the Invalides, who was employed to open the office doors from 9 to 4. Under the man's name was the title "the emperor's orderly." He sent for the old soldier, who stumped in and saluted.

"Of what emperor are you the orderly, and how?" he asked. The old invalide drew himself up to attention.

"I am the orderly of the emperor," he said, "Napoleon, le Petit Corporal."

"But he is dead. He has been dead some time," answered the puzzled manager.

"I dust his tomb for him," growled the old soldier.—London Express.

Sensation at Radney.

Last week the people up in the vicinity of Radney, in the northern part of Deer Park township were treated to considerable of a sensation when Constable Singer arrested a man named Boerak, or Barak, on a complaint charging him with non support of his family. The arrest was made while a dance was in progress at Mike Kolski's and the hearing was to be had before Judge Hunt at Sunbeam on Monday.

According to the rumors that have reached here the accused man came to this country from near Chicago some three or four years ago and took up a claim on the reservation. He established his wife and child there for the purpose of holding down the claim. Later on they all returned to Chicago under the impression that they had forfeited the land by reason of their failure to make the second payment. About this time Congressman Steenerson secured the passage of his bill granting the settlers an extension of one year on their payments and the Boeraks again returned and took up their home on the land. The husband and father visited with them for a while but later on left them to be cared for by other relatives. The women fell ill and is said to be dying of consumption at present. The unfortunate condition of the family was kept quiet until patience ceased to be virtue and the arrest last week followed. Feeling is running high over the affair among the neighbors and they generally hope that the man may be severely punished. This is the substance of the affair as near as we can learn from the rumors heard here. We are not informed as to the result of the hearing on Monday.

"I die in all humility," she wrote, "knowing well we are all alike before the throne of God, and I request, therefore, that my mortal remains be conveyed to the grave without any pomp or ceremony. They are to be moved to St. George's chapel, Windsor, where I request to have a quiet funeral.

"I particularly desire not to be laid out in state, and the funeral to take place by daylight; no procession, the coffin to be carried by sailors to the chapel. I die in peace and wish to be carried to the tomb in peace and free from the vanities and pomp of this world."—London Home Notes.

Ancient Egyptian Stones.

Stones were formed into the shapes of beetles by the ancient Egyptians They regarded the beetle as an emblem of immortality, and hence it was the most popular of all forms of ornament. Counterfeit beetles of common stones were commonly buried with dead persons, and it was customary to engrave upon them the expression of wishes for future repose and happiness, dedications of the soul to God and various hieroglyphs. One of the latter was a hawk with a human head, symbolizing resurrection. Another, the vulture, meant maternity. A goose was the son of a king.

Ripening Bananas.

It is a familiar fact that bananas are imported green, but it came as a new thing to a visitor to the banana district in Colombia to find that bananas are not permitted to ripen on the plant even down there. They are cut and set to hang somewhere until they wither ripe, as the phrase is. Bananas do not have to be yellow to be ripe. That is only the color of the skin when it has dried up. To the person who is accustomed to eating bananas only when they are yellow it seems odd to peel them when they are green and find that they are perfectly ripe within and fit to eat.—New York Sun.

The Prisoner's Retort.

It is a prison chaplain's duty to give a departing prisoner good advice and to exhort him to be a decent and honorable man in the future. In the course of one of these interviews a chaplain said, "Now, my friend, I hope you'll never have to come back to a place like this."

The prisoner looked at him thoughtfully and then asked, "I say, chaplain you draw a salary here, don't you?" When the chaplain replied in the affirmative the prisoner remarked, "Well, say, if me and the other fellows didn't keep coming back you'd be out of a job."

THE MONTEREY CYPRESS.

Found In Its Wild State in Only Two Spots in the World.

One of the most interesting and picturesque trees in the world, as well as one of the most ancient, is the Cupressus macrocarpa, or Monterey cypress. Its native habitat is extremely restricted, for it is found in its wild state in only two spots in the whole wide world—on the edge of a grove of conifers stretching for a few miles between the bay of Monterey and the bay of Carmel (the latter of which bears a striking resemblance in outline and color to its prototype in the Holy Land) and in a similar spot near Pescadero, a little town lying on the coast between Monterey and San Francisco. The Monterey grove consists of only a dozen or two cypresses of large size and most striking appearance. Their trunks are massive and wrinkled with hoary age, while their boughs, gnarled and twisted, grow chiefly on one side away from the stormy winds that have buffeted them for thousands of years. The noble trees are limited to the rocky wind beaten shore, on which some of them have but a precarious hold. Hemmed between the slowly encroaching ocean on one hand and a pine forest on the other, their future is exposed to great hazard. It is therefore gratifying to observe that a fair number of thrifty young cypresses are holding their own against the pines for a short distance inland.—Scientific American.

NEW MEXICO.

How That Portion of Northern New Spain Got Its Name.

The country now called Mexico was not so called till 1810, when the revolt against Spain began. Up to independence the country was called New Spain and was divided into the same number of provinces as Spain, each with a name of a province in Spain, with the prefix of "new," but New Mexico was not included in this division. It got its name in this way:

In 1581 Francisco Ibarra was in charge of an expedition of exploration into what is now northern Durango and southern Chihuahua and discovered an Indian village near where Santa Barbara now stands in which the houses were whitewashed and the people made and wore cotton cloth, raising the cotton in the neighborhood. He wrote an account of his discovery to his brother in the City of Mexico, telling him he had discovered "una nueva Mexico," a new Mexico, another Mexico, meaning that he had found another town like the City of Mexico, and thereafter all this portion of northern New Spain was known as "Nueva Mexico"—that is, New Mexico—which name it has retained, though now much reduced in extent.—Las Vegas Optic.

Muskrats For Meat.

Of all animals that supply meat to man the muskrat has been the most abused and the least understood, says the Baltimore Star. Its name had bred in the public mind a prejudice that has been almost unconquerable, but truth will prevail in spite of fate. As a fact the muskrat is one of the neatest and most delightful of animals. It is a crank in cleanliness. It dines with the care of an epicure. It eats only the whitest and tenderest morsels. And its flesh has qualities that can be compared only to terrapin. Indeed, there are good people along the Chesapeake, where all the best things live and grow, who find in the well served muskrat satisfaction that is equal to the diamondback. Only the ignorant and the prejudiced think differently, and they may be educated.

Tax on Hats.

Not only have hats at various times been subject to taxation, but have even been made the subject of special laws. Thus in Henry VII.'s reign none was allowed to sell hats at a larger price than 20 pence or caps for more than 2s. 8d. Some compensation, however, for this interference with free trade could be found in the fact that in 1571 on Sundays and holidays every one above seven years of age was required to wear a cap of wool of English make under penalty of 3 farthings fine for every day's neglect.—London Chronicle.

Needed Mourning.

The Lady—I haven't much in the house to give you, my poor man, but would you like a piece of my pie? The Hobo—No, lady. But have yer got a old black coat? The Lady—Why do you want a black one? The Hobo—De feller yer gave a piece o' pie to de odder day was a pal o' mine.—Cleveland Leader.

A Convenience.

Curate—And so, Mrs. Howard, you come to church every Sunday? Mrs. Howard—Yes, Mr. Priestly. We're such strangers in town yet that we have no other engagements.—Brooklyn Life.

The Poor Woman.

"He climbed almost to the top of the ladder—and then fell off."

"What was the trouble?"

"There was a woman at the bottom of it."—Life.

"The hole in the roof, is it?" asked Pat, spearing for an excuse. "Oh, yis. I would, ye know, but whin th' rain is comin' in I can't fix it, an' whin it don't rain it don't need fixin'."

NO MEDICINE

But a Change of Food Gave Relief.

Many persons are learning that drugs are not the thing to rebuild worn out nerves, but proper food is required.

There is a certain element in the cereals, wheat, barley, etc., which is grown there by nature for food to brain and nerve tissue. This is the phosphate of potash, of which Grape-Nuts food contains a large proportion.

In making this food all the food elements in the two cereals, wheat and barley, are retained. That is why so many heretofore nervous and run down people find in Grape-Nuts a true nerve and brain food.

"I can say that Grape-Nuts food has done much for me as a nerve renewer," writes a Wis. bride.

"A few years ago, before my marriage, I was a bookkeeper in a large firm. I became so nervous toward the end of each week that it seemed I must give up my position, which I could not afford to do.

"Mother purchased some Grape-Nuts and we found it not only delicious but I noticed from day to day that I was improving until I finally realized I was not nervous any more.

"I have recommended it to friends as a brain and nerve food, never having found its equal. I owe much to Grape-Nuts as it saved me from a nervous collapse, and enabled me to retain my position."

ARMOUR PLANT MAY BE BARRED

RAMSEY COUNTY DELEGATION BACK OF BILL TO PREVENT ITS ERECTION.

Fear Odors Would Prove a Nuisance —Minneapolis Business Interests Ready to Take Active Part in Debate.

Minneapolis, Feb. 11. — Ramsey county's legislative delegation has placed its seal of approval on a bill intended to prevent the erection of the Armour packing plant at New Brighton. A measure prohibiting the maintenance of such a plant within three miles of the state university has been drawn, and will be introduced, probably tomorrow, as a delegation bill. It was considered at a secret meeting of the delegation Monday night and unanimously indorsed.

The avowed purpose of the bill is to drive the Armour plant from its proposed location, on the ground that the odor from it will be unpleasant to the residents of St. Anthony and other districts of St. Paul. It was freely reported at the capitol today, however, that other interests are behind the measure.

Hennepin county senators and representatives were surprised to learn of the move, as their relations so far have been harmonious with the Ramsey men, and there are many questions on which they must act in concert. If the Ramsey solons push the bill in dead earnest it will produce a split in the city delegations that may tie up much needed legislation. It will also arouse members from the country districts, who realize that the farmers want this additional market for their live stock and will not submit quietly to see it taken away.

"Minneapolis people probably think we are actuated in this matter by petty jealousy," said Senator Henry McColl of the thirty-fourth district today. "That is not the proposition at all, as I understand it. The Swift plant in South St. Paul has ruined Dayton's Bluff for a resident district, and at times it sends an odor all over St. Paul. It should have been located farther away, and the Armour plant should be farther up the river than the proposed site. The prevailing winds are from that quarter, and it will absolutely stop residence extension in that direction if the plant goes in. Of course it is a well-known principle that a nuisance cannot be abated till it exists, but after Mr. Armour has put in a big sum of money, it will be hard to stop him from operating and this will serve notice on him. It is no use to say that odors can be prevented in such a plant. That is impossible, and they should be located at a distance from centers of population."

Dr. Justus Ohage, former health commissioner of St. Paul, and father of the public baths, is fighting the Armour plant because he thinks it will pollute the river and spoil the baths.

Wallace G. Nye, secretary of the Minneapolis Commercial club said today:

"We have had wind of some such move for the past few days and so will not be surprised should the bill make its appearance. Its motive is clear. The people of St. Paul as a whole do not, I believe, stand behind it. Rather it represents the action of an element that would keep the cattle market of the Northwest monopolized by one interest and prevent such growth of the market as would divide the business. The alleged solicitude for the university is a thing so transparent that the real purpose shows right through it.

YOUNG GIRL SAVES FAMILY

Pulls Them Through Window of Burning Home.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Feb. 10.—Miss Anna Sime, 18 years old, rescued her parents and brother from burning to death at their home in the town of Arthur yesterday morning. She was awakened by a crackling sound of fire and opening the door to her bedroom found exit cut off. She succeeded in arousing her little brother in the next room and both broke the windows and escaped in their night clothes.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Sime slept in another portion of the house and could only be reached by a window. Miss Sime hurled herself against it and found her parents almost suffocated. She dragged them from the building through the window and then to the barn. Hardly had this been done when flames suddenly enveloped the structure. They remained in the barn six hours before neighbors came and suffered greatly from cold, as none had on more than night clothes. The building and all its contents were consumed.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Tax On Autos Too High.

Mankato.—The Mankato Automobile club held a special meeting to consider automobile legislation. The club is in favor of the bill before the legislature recommended by the state automobile association, but it believes that the tax of $1 a horsepower is too high. It voted to ask the legislature to reduce this by half, and the Blue Earth county delegation will be asked to do what it can to have this amendment passed.

Communications were received from the Rochester and Austin associations opposing the high tax. The Austin association favors a tax proportioned to the weight of the machines, $10 for all machines under 1,500 pounds weight and $5 for each 500 pounds additional weight.

The Mankato club did not favor this plan as well as the tax based on horsepower. The club voted to donate $200 toward improving two of the roads to lake resorts, provided the farmers will assist. It also took up the matter of forming a mutual automobile fire insurance company.

Neighbors were notified and it was necessary for several to descend to lift the body from the iron piping. The injured man lived for several hours, suffering great agony.

Married in Jury Room.

Mankato.—The grand jury yesterday returned three indictments and is still at work. Two persons were indicted and arraigned, Carl Bender being charged in two indictments with forgery in the second degree, and Claude Osgood with assault in the third degree.

No indictment was returned against Fred W. Knoss, Jr., who was charged with aiding and encouraging Gladys S. Pearson in attempting to commit suicide. As a result of pressure brought by the grand jury, Knoss and the girl, who is but 17 years of age, were married in the jury room in the presence of the jurors, by one of their number, Justice M. J. Ryan of Smith's Mill.

The girl and her father were opposed to the marriage but finally gave consent.

Troubles Cured by Cuticura.

"When my little Vivian was about six months old her head broke out in boils. She had about sixty in all and I used Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment which cured her entirely. Some time later a humor broke out behind her ears and spread up on to her head until it was nearly half covered. The humor looked like a scald, very red with a sticky, clear fluid coming from it. This occurred every spring. I always used Cuticura Soap and Ointment which never failed to heal it up. The last time it broke out it became so bad that I was discouraged. But I continued the use of Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Resolvent until she was well and has never been troubled in the last two years. Mrs. M. A. ### DEBATE OVER FIFTEENTH DISTRICT JUDGESHIP.

Committee Appointed to Begin Investigation of the State Labor Bureau.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—Sharp party lines seem to be drawn at the present legislative session. This was demonstrated in the senate today, the incident starting with the democrats stealing a march on the republican majority. Senator Cashman, democrat, innocently asked for a vote approving the list of appointments submitted by the governor. The request was granted without debate, and with little attention given it. Hardly was the approval given, however, before Senator C. J. Swanson awoke to the fact that in the list approved were several reappointments on the state livestock board. This board but a few days ago had flatly refused to co-operate with or in any way aid Swanson's special committee appointed to investigate the reliability of the tuberculine tests for cattle and horses. Senator Swanson on realizing that the offending democrats had been reinstated for another term, presented a resolution asking that the entire board be temporarily shorn of all its powers pending further investigation toward substantiating the special committee's belief that the tuberculine tests are not reliable, and result in the unnecessary slaughtering of many healthy cattle. The resolution received notice of debate by Senator Hardy, democrat, and necessarily lies over until next week. Senator Swanson also introduced a bill amending the livestock board law, and authorizing local boards of health to make health and sanitary examinations of cattle at their discretion.

The house this morning passed the senate resolution of Senator Sundberg of Kittson, condemning the McCumber congressional bill for national grain inspection, on the ground that it would injure the Minnesota inspection system, which has a world-wide reputation. The resolution, which will now be forwarded to Washington, calls on the Minnesota representatives in congress to oppose the measure of the North Dakotan. The resolution received 74 aye votes to but 18 opposed.

This afternoon the special house committee, E. E. Adams of Fergus Falls, chairman, began its sessions to investigate the alleged school book trust. The opening session indicates that the work of the committee may disclose a sensation. It was demonstrated that book agents are now busy at Winona, Minn., trying to dictate who shall be elected superintendent of schools there to succeed Mr. Frazier, who recently resigned to become assistant superintendent of public instruction. It was also intimated at the meeting that a resolution introduced in the state high school board calling for a reprimand to be administered to High School Inspector G. B. Aiton was instigated by the so-called book trust. Aiton had recommended certain algebras to a town, on request. The agent of one of these algebras had happened along the next day and sold the books. Aiton denied to the committee any knowledge of the agent being in the vicinity. It was intimated that the school book trust was much put out that it did not get a chance to sell the books, and hence saw to it that Aiton got a reprimand.

A number of important bills were introduced today, following which both houses adjourned till Monday. In the senate, Calhoun introduced a bill to entirely repeal the primary election law. Cooke introduced a somewhat similar measure, that repeals the same law except so far as St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth are concerned. Thorpe presented a bill to establish a separate state department of bank examiner, at $5,000 salary a year, the occupant to be a banker of five years' experience.

In the house, Sawyer declared war on "common law" marriages with a bill declaring that they shall not be recognized as legal from this date on. Dorsey had a bill demanding that merchants in reporting their taxation assessments be also compelled to report the amount of insurance they carry on the assessed property. McKenzie offered a bill for a new building at the Soldiers' Home at Minnehaha Falls, to cost $100,000.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 8.—The house had a warm debate in committee of the whole today on the bill to create an additional judge in the Fifteenth judicial district, which comprises a number of northern Minnesota counties. The committee finally voted to recommend the bill for passage. This was the test which doubtless means that this much contested bill will be passed by the house when reached in its regular order on the calendar.

The house also spent considerable time today arguing the Mork bill, which proposes to prohibit minors from playing games in bowling and pool alleys and rooms. Selb of St. Paul and Lennon of Minneapolis led in a fight not to prohibit boys from the enjoyment of bowling in alleys which are not run in connection with saloons. Mork, Nolan and others contended that the influence of bowling and pool halls is too injurious to minors to permit them to be their patrons. A motion to indefinitely postpone the bill, made by Lennon, was eventually withdrawn and on the request of Mr. Mork the bill was laid over for the day without being definitely acted upon.

This afternoon the special committee to investigate the alleged political corruption of the state labor bureau was named, and at once held its first meeting; John Lennon, chairman; R. J. Wells, Burdette Thayer, Alex McNeill and John O'Brien. The committee authorized its chairman to subpoena any witnesses he deemed necessary, and call for such books and exhibits as he desired. Messrs. Wells and Thayer were appointed attorneys to conduct the examination. W. H. Williams of Minneapolis, former labor commissioner and the man who made the sensational charges to the legislature, will be one of the first witnesses examined; probably next Wednesday afternoon.

Bills introduced in the house today included: By Sawyer, to create a state fund for retirement of teachers; by L. H. Johnson, to establish a state employment bureau for teachers; by Allen, to create a department of bank examiner, separate from the present public examiner.

In the senate today there was little of interest developed beyond the introduction of a number of new bills. These included the following: By Elwell, to permit cities of 50,000 or over to exercise the right of eminent domain to secure waterworks and light plants; by Canestorp, to change the date of the primary elections from September to the fourth Tuesday in June; by White, to license renovated butter dealers, fee of $200 a year for manufacturers, fee of $100 for wholesalers, fee of $10 for retailers; by S. A. Nelson, creating a banking board of the governor, auditor, secretary of state, treasurer and attorney general, who in turn are authorized to elect a state bank examiner; by Poehler, to prohibit all killing of beaver and muskrats in Minnesota; by C. A. Johnson, exempting all members of the legislature from having to attend court cases during legislative sessions.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 9.—The senate today passed the Senator Swanson resolution which temporarily suspends the powers of the sanitary live-stock incurring any further expenses for the board, and prohibits the board from incurring any further expenses for the time being. Senator Hardy wanted the resolution to go to the finance committee, but was turned down. Senator J. M. Hackney of Hamline made a strenuous and eloquent appeal for the board's side of the case.

"We should sustain the live-stock board in its efforts to stamp out tuberculosis," he said. "I believe that back of this there is an attempt to do away with the tuberculine test for cattle and horses, by certain unscrupulous dairymen." He moved that the resolution be referred to the live-stock committee, but was refused the request. On motion of Senator Swanson, the resolution then prevailed.

Among several bills passed by the senate today, were two of considerable importance. One by Stephens, permits the board of control to allow not to exceed 25 cents a day wages for prisoners at Stillwater. Another, by Sundberg, provides for a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the voters, for state hail insurance.

Bills introduced in the senate today included the following: By Peterson, establishing a scale of damages that may be collected by employes for injuries sustained while at work, grading up to a few dollars for minor hurts, to $2,000 for death. By Gunn, for the state to accept the gift of Cooper Island in Cass Lake from congress, to establish Star Island State Park thereon, and put it in charge of a caretaker at $900 a year, to be appointed by the governor, and to allow the caretaker a $2,000 house. By F. E. Smith, to appropriate $60,000 for a homeopathic college building at the state university.

In the house today, the Ferguson bill to create a third district judge in the 15th judicial district, passed by a vote of 67 to 31. A memorial to congress by Spooner of Morris also passed, asking for canalizing of the upper Minnesota and Red rivers.

Bills introduced in the house today included: By Christiansen, placing all street car systems under the state railroad commission. By Spooner, to prohibit charging in excess of 25 cents for any Minnesota telegram, and not to exceed 2 cents a word in addition for messages over ten words. By Rosenwald, to place oil inspection under the dairy and food commission, and establish both the flash and gravity tests.

THEY KNEW HOW TO WORK

BUT DON'T NEED TO WORK NOW SO HARD.

The experience of the Bisser Bros. in Western Canada is similar to that reported to every agent of the Canadian Government, whose advertisement appears elsewhere:

"Wheatwyn, Sask., Nov. 6th, 1908.

"To the Commissioner of Immigration, Winnipeg, Manitoba.—Dear Sir: I, in company with my brother and other relations, arrived in this country in the spring of 1893. At the time we got off the train at Wolseley, Sask., we had only a few dollars, not enough to start farming on our own account, so we were compelled to work out for a considerable time in order to make sufficient money to enable us to establish ourselves. When we thought we had enough money to start with, I and my brother took up one quarter-section (160 acres) land each in the Loon Creek district. In 1900 we moved on our homesteads with one team of horses and one walking plow. While I was engaged with the work in the field, my brother built a shack and barn of logs, which we have hauled during the time we were not able to work in the field. We were certainly working very hard, but I am glad to say that we made our fortune in this country. To-day we do not need to work so hard as we used to, as we have three men hired steady for whom we pay $30.00 to $40.00 a month, besides board and lodging during the summer time! I am also glad to tell you that to-day we are owners of a section and three-quarters of the best land, with first class buildings thereon, besides having all the necessary machinery. We always do our own threshing, for we have a 22 horse-power threshing outfit.

"Our success in farming in this country also enabled us to get rid of a number of horses of less value, and instead we bought 10 pure-bred mares, representing a value in the neighborhood of $5,000.

"Regarding raising grain, which is the main factor in our district, I am proud to say that we have always had good success. We have raised wheat as high as 35 bushels to the acre; and this year, although we suffered from lack of sufficient rain, our wheat went 27 bushels to the acre, and we had 900 acres in crop. We have broken this year about 100 acres new land, and by next year we will have about 1,110 acres in crop. For one carload of wheat which we have shipped a few weeks ago we got a price of 97 cents per bushel, and it graded as No. 2 Northern, although we have a quantity of wheat which will surely go as No. 1 Northern. During the six years we have been farming for ourselves we have never had one frost around here, so that we always had a good crop.

"I, for myself, feel compelled to say that our Great West is the land where a person who is willing to work and trun his hands to anything, can make a fortune, and a comfortable living. Our country is a thoroughly free country, and we have a good Government; and, as long as we have good crops, and a good Government, we are satisfied, and I think that is all we want.

"Yours very truly,

"LORENS BISSER,

"P. O. Wheatwyn, Sask."

Criminality of Waste.

If I wanted to train a child to be thrifty I should teach him to abhor waste. I do not mean waste of money; that cures itself, because very soon there is no money to waste—but waste of material, waste of something that is useful but that you cannot represent in money value to the waster. There is waste of water, waste of gas and things of that kind. If you would wish your children to be thrifty I would beg to impress upon them the criminality of waste.—Lord Rosebery, in an Edinburgh Address.

A Black Eye for Home.

It is a coming fashion to hire a hall to entertain your friends, to give dinner parties in a hotel, to be married in a church, to be taken to a hospital when you are sick and to an undertaker's as soon as you die, and left there until the funeral. The tendency is to conduct all public occasions away from home. The home is getting a black eye.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

NOT AFFECTED BY DEPRESSION

One Big Industry That Makes Its Business Grow and Expand During Year of Business Depression.

When a manufacturing establishment reaches out in a year of depression and increases and expands its business, while others in the same line diminish their outputs or stand still, it is because there must be some unusually good reason for it. In this instance a splendid reputation and a more-than-ordinary meritorious product were responsible for the showing made.

The Mayer Boot & Shoe Company, Milwaukee, the largest shoe establishment in the Northwest, has just closed its fiscal year, and reports an increase in sales over the corresponding period of last year. This exceptional showing speaks volumes for the genuine merit of Mayer shoes, and is directly attributed to their high standard, and because of the fact that Mayer shoes have become universally and popularly known as "shoes of quality."

The leading brands are "Honorbilt" fine shoes for men. "Leading Lady" fine shoes for women. "Yerma" Cushion shoes for both men and women (these are exceptionally fine shoes for people troubled with tender feet); the popular "Martha Washington" Comfort shoes, which have the largest sale of any shoes of this kind in the world, and the "Special Merit" School shoes (a strong and sturdy line of seamless school shoes that wear like iron).

Entered at the Post-office in Plummer, Minn. as Second Class Mail Matter.

The life that is devoted to self interests alone is a life wasted. Little kindnesses and courtesies to others make and bring happiness, and in our everyday life there is nothing more uncertain than life itself.

S. W. Bagley has sold the Thief River Press to E. L. Quist, formerly register of deeds for this county, and the new owner took possession last week. We are sorry to lose Bro. Bagley from the circle of Red Lake county publishers but extend the glad hand to Bro. Quist and assure him that he has our best wishes for success.

Representative L. H. Johnson, of Minneapolis, the man who tried to get a county school of agriculture established in this county last fall, is still riding the same hobby and as a result of his misrepresentations made before the legislature last week it is probable that he has about rode the hobby to its death. Better have the idea killed altogether than to have it live according to Johnson's ideas.

The legislature has before it a bill which provides for regulating the rates to be charged by fraternal insurance societies. It is aimed mainly at the Modern Woodmen, that grand Order which does such a wonderful amount of good for its members and their families at a cost much lower than other fraternal societies, and which which completely outclasses the old line insurance rates. The promoters of the bill would force the Woodmen to charge a higher rate for insurance without giving the members any chance to protest. Today the M. W. A. enjoys the distinction of being one of the best and most prompt paying of all insurance organizations and has a reserve of about $2,000,000. This does not indicate that its rates should be saised by legal process, but rather shows that the present rates are entirely sufficient. Why does not some fool legislator introduce a bill which shall compel us to use coffee of a certain price, or to prohibit any one from smoking a cigar that costs less than ten cents? The proper thing would be for the legislature to compel the other companies to lower their rates and eliminate a lot of the graft in the insurance business to-day.

To Save the Tablecloth.

Nothing is more provoking to the careful housewife than to have a perfectly clean tablecloth liberally bespattered with gravy the first time it is used. Get a large table napkin—one to match the tablecloth if possible—and a piece of white oilcloth cut an inch shorter and an inch narrower than the napkin. Place the oilcloth where the meat dish will stand and spread the napkin over it. The gravy cannot penetrate through the oilcloth. Thus there is a considerable saving in the washing bill.

How It Looked.

"I think you ought to turn the lights up a little when your beau comes." said the boy who is beginning to use big words to his older sister. "I wouldn't sit in the dim light if I were you. It looks too conspicuous."—New York Press.

WOMEN ARE WOMEN.

A Rather Roundabout Way to Prove the Proposition.

Men say women are angels; women say women are cats. Let us pause a moment and reason upon this thing.

If women are angels—however, that does not seem to be the proper starting point. Let us try again.

If angels are cats—but, no; that is hardly reasonable, for angels have wings, and cats do not fly. We must begin again.

If women are cats—but that isn't possible, for cats do not talk, and how could a dumb animal express an opinion in words of a woman? Whatever cats may think, they never say a word about a woman, while women—well, women are not cats.

Now let us return to the first proposition.

If women are angels, they wouldn't say women are cats. Angels don't talk that way.

Once upon a time a man married a woman. He said she was an angel; the women said she was a cat. Happy man, not to know the difference between an angel and a cat!

Men say women are angels, and by this token women say angels are cats. Therefore, angels being cats, cats must be angels, and, both being the same, women are women.

Which is precisely what they are.—W. J. Lampton in Lippincott's.

Helping Him.

"Mr. Chairman," began the man who is unaccustomed to public speaking "I—er—I—er—I—er"—

"Well," interrupted the chairman kindly, "to err is human."—Washington Herald.

A Wet Blanket.

Peckem—You are not married yet, are you? Youngbach—No, but I'm engaged, and that's as good as being married. Peckem—It's a whole lot better, if only you knew.—London Answers.

Wit should be used as a shield for defense rather than as a sword to wound others.—Fuller.

Marlin

For shooting the swift flying, heavily feathered ducks and geese the Marlin 12-gauge repeating shotgun has no superior. This gun is exceedingly strong in construction and yet is not heavy. It is bored to throw an excellent pattern with great penetration. The solid top keeps out the weather and the brush and twigs of the blind, and the side ejector prevents the empty shells from being a nuisance to the shooter. It's the best bad weather gun.

The Marlin 12-gauge is suited to all forms of bird and trap shooting, and for durability, strength and ease of action is unexcelled. Made for both black and smokeless powders and for heavy loads. Two separate extractors make sure work.

The Marlin Experience Book is full of real shooting stories. Free, with 130-page Catalogue, for 3 stamps. Write to-day.

Albert and Alfred Mostrom drove in from Hilda on Thursday to take in the auction sale yesterday. While in town Albert favored us with a pleasant call and contributed a dollar to pay his subscribtion for another year in advance.

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Anderson went to Grand Fork, N. D., last Saturday evening to attend the funeral of one of their little grand-children who died on Friday and was buried on Sunday. They returned home on Tuesday morning.

Rev. D. K. Laurie, Presbyterian field missionary, was here on Wednesday and held services in the schoolhouse in the evening. The meeting was largely attended and Mr. Laurie received numerous warm invitations to come and hold future services.

Ole Swanson was in from Garnes on Tuesday and made this office a pleasant visit. He reports that Mrs. Swanson, who has been very ill, is now somewhat improved in health. He also had his name entered on our subscription list and paid for a year in advance.

Oscar and Herman Lillo were in from their homes out in Deer park on Saturday last fixing up their bonds for the contract of constructing county ditch No. 34 in the north end of Equality township. They were accompanied by J. W. Lynch, J. A. Walker, Miss Ida M. Lillo and August Lillo.

At St. Hilaire on Tuesday evening occurred the death of Lena Brandrud of typhoid fever. Deceased was the oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Brandrud, of Wyandotte township and was 24 years of age. She was an exceptionally bright and popular young woman and her bereaved parents have the sincere sympathy of all in their bereavement. The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from the Wyan-church and was very largely attended.

On last Saturday evening C. H. Winship had the misfortune to sustain quite a painful injury by one of his horses stepping on his foot. The sharp calk on the horse shoe cut throuh the shoe and between his toes, completely severing the little toe from its next neighbor and unjointing it so it was simply hanging by the flesh. Dr. Clark fixed up the injured member and Mr. Winship is recovering so rapidly that he is now able to move around in pretty good shape.

A Bernard Shaw Joke.

After addressing an Edinburgh meeting for ninety minutes once Mr. Bernard Shaw remarked that the time was a quarter to 10, and he had intended to finish at 9 o'clock. He did not seem in the least fatigued: the audience were also quite fresh, and when the speaker was about to sit down loud cries of "Go on!" were raised on all sides.

"Do you really wish me to go on?" Mr. Shaw asked. He was answered by renewed cheering and more shouts of "Go on!"

Great was the disappointment, therefore, when he replied, "That is the exact point at which an experienced speaker sits down," which he accordingly did.

An Artist's Mustache.

The mustache was not viewed with favor in England in the middle of the last century. An anecdote is told of the late Thomas Cooper, the English artist, to illustrate. He was brought before a magistrate in 1846 on some minor charge and was described in the police report as being "fashionably dressed, with large mustaches." The Art Journal of the date, commenting on it, said that "no member of the Royal academy perpetrates the atrocity of mustaches, a most un-English affectation." Mr. Cooper became a member of the academy a few years later.

Echo From Equality.

Editor Pioneer:

Its cold, you bet, but we dont have any of the big blizzards that other places have.

As I understand, and have heard, the Clearwater creamery shall start up soon, but a good many will not haul to that creamery. I have heard that some shareholders intend to let Abraham Paquin (the Governor in town of Lambert) have their cream What is the matter? I dont think it's right not to help our own creamery, even if we lose a little in the start. We should all haul our cream to it and if it is running right it will be a success. I have found out that there is over 700 cows, and that ought to be enough for a creamery. There was one thing last year that I dont think was done right, and that was when they published the statements in the paper. Sometimes they did not state how much they got for the butter, also in butter fat and butter, and there is very few who understand how this is. The buttermaker should explain it so everybody can understand it. But it dont look right to give your cream to anyone who is trying to run down others. It looks to me like the butter trust was behind there.

There is not much news here but this will help fill up space in the page anyway. The farmers are busy hauling hay and wood or doing their chores and are getting along as best they can. In the evening we read the papers and we notice that the senate in Washington has saised the President's wages, also many others have had their wages increased. I think it might be better we turn over to the democratic party next election. They were against higher wages.

Yours truly,
Knut.

Octave Lafavre, of Garnes township has recently received a new dehorning outfit and is ready to dehorn cattle for any one needing his services at any time. Mr. Lafavre's address is Plummer, Minn.

Lines From Lillo.

Ole Nelson is busy chopping cordwood for Mr. Bourman.

There was a dance at Ed Eriksons place last Saturday evening and a big crowd was present. The music was furnished by Theodore Reindal and everybody had a good time.

A. Bourman has been hauling lumber for a big new barn which he expests to build during the coming summer.

Rev. Opsegaard held a meeting in the schoolhouse by Smidjans place last Sunday and there was quite a large attendance.

The little boy that has been ill at the Bourman home is now recovering quite nicely, but Mr. Bourman seems to remain about the same.

Miss Annie Bourman had a rather rough experience in a runaway last Tuesday. She had been visiting at a neighbor's and on the way home the team started to run. She was unable to stop them and at the turn in to the house the sled tipped over and she was thrown against the barb wire fence. She was entangled in the lines and was dragged some distance. She was cut some by the wire and one leg was injured, but she escaped better than she expected.

A Sponge That Works.

"Here is a clever notion—a fog bell," said an old New England fisherman.

On a bleak, gray afternoon they stood at the seashore—the old man and his city cousin from Boston. A great bell hung from a scaffold, and under a metal cover hung a great sponge.

"This here machinery is wound up regular," the fisherman explained, "and this here sponge is kept under cover so as the rain can't get at it. In dry weather, natch'rally, the sponge is dry and light; in foggy, though, it gets heavy with fog satch'rations, just heavy enough for to press down the lever that starts the machinery a-going. Then, ding-dong, ding-dong, sounds the bell in the fog, savin' many a fisherman from wreck on this rock bound coast."—Exchange.

A Persistent Hen.

Ever hear about our little red hen? Well, sir, she was on the set for keeps. Couldn't keep her off. Old doorknobs, soda bottles, lamp chimneys, match safes—anything was good enough for her. Finally I put her on three mud turtles, and I hope to die if she didn't hatch out alligators—yes, sir, three of 'em! One of 'em ate her up, and when we opened him there was the hen settin' on his back teeth, and they'd swelled up so they choked him to death.—Exchange.

WASHINGTON NOTES.

President-elect Taft announced that Senator Knox of Pennsylvania will be secretary of state in his cabinet, saying the action of the senate and house had removed the constitutional bar raised by the senator's vote to increase the salary of the office.

The senate wants the president to keep one-half of the United States' warships in the Pacific to guard the western coast of the country from an attack. The suggestion is made in an amendment to the naval bill, which also was changed to block Roosevelt's plan to put the marines on land.

The Burke bill requiring all ocean-going steamships carrying fifty or more passengers to be equipped with wireless telegraph apparatus, was passed by the house of representatives The bill prescribes a penalty of not to exceed $3,000 or imprisonment for not to exceed one year or both for violation of its provisions.

The constitutional bar against Senator Knox becoming secretary of state in Taft's cabinet, was removed when the house by a vote of 173 to 117 passed the bill providing for a reduction of the salary. The action was necessary because the senator had been one of those to vote for an increase of the salary.

President Roosevelt in a special message to congress urged the establishment of a federal bureau which will protect wayward and dependent children.

Senators La Follette, Cummins, Stone, Tillman and Hale, engaged in a lively dispute over the naval bill. Criticisms were aimed at the house provision in the measure which says no money shall be paid for powder to any trust or monopoly, "except in the event of an emergency."

Congressman Rainey says he is ready to "produce the goods" to substantiate his charges that the Panama canal purchase was one of the most stupendous grabs ever undertaken.

President-elect Taft left Cincinnati for Washington, where he will present the canal report to President Roosevelt. He will confer with Senator Knox and other leaders and probably will complete his cabinet list while in the capital.

During the present week congress will give all possible attention to appropriation bills, as it has become a pressing necessity that both houses should act promptly if the measures are to become laws in the few days that are left of the present session.

YOUTHFUL MIND AT WORK.

Deduction Mother Must Have Found Somewhat Hard to Combat.

Miss Marjorie, aged five years, is one of those bright children who make the lives of their parents and teachers a burden. Quite recently she paid her first visit to a kindergarten. Upon her return home she grew enthusiastic, begging her mother to allow her to attend the school regularly.

"It was so very nice!" she declared sweetly. "And the teacher, Miss Lee, is so very nice, too! She told me if I was a good little girl I would grow up into a pretty lady, but if I was naughty I would grow up an ugly one!"

"That is quite true, dear," her mother answered with a smile.

Silently Miss Marjorie regarded the fire of pine logs. Presently she burst out: "Then what a naughty, naughty little girl Miss Lee must have been." —The Bohemian.

Dr. Woods Hutchinson of New York unlocked the secret of general poverty in an address at the American Museum of Natural History in New York early this month, when he said: "What is killing the people of this city may be stated as overwork, underfeeding and overcrowding; and two of these may be included under the one word 'underpaid.' The message of the church and of medicine to-day to the community is not 'Give to the poor,' but 'Don't take so much away from them.'—The Public.

HEADING OFF THE CALLER.

Plan for Getting Rid of Life Insurance Agents Not Patented.

The bell rang three times, and the man at the desk hastily reached for a flannel bandage. This he put round his neck. Then he arranged a sling, in which he put one arm, disarranged his hair, drew down the corners of his mouth, got out of his chair, and painfully limped toward the door.

"Mr. Jones?" inquired the well-dressed caller, who opened it at that moment.

The man with the bandage half suppressed a groan.

"Yes, that's my name. What can I do for you?"

"You appear to be suffering," said the intelligent caller.

"Suffering!" returned the other. "Do you think I'm doing this for fun? But what is your business, sir?"

"Er—pardon me," stammered the caller, "I think I'll drop in some other time—eh?"

"It's some trouble," soliloquized the man with the bandage, as he removed the paraphernalia and returned to his desk. "But it is really the quickest way to get rid of these life insurance agents. That man will never trouble me again."—London Tit-Bits.

IN AGONY WITH ECZEMA.

Whole Body a Mass of Raw, Bleeding, Torturing Humor—Hoped Death Would End Fearful Suffering.

In Despair; Cured by Cuticura.

"Words cannot describe the terrible eczema I suffered with. It broke out on my head and kept spreading until it covered my whole body. I was almost a solid mass of sores from head to foot. I looked more like a piece of raw beef than a human being. The pain and agony endured seemed more than I could bear. Blood and pus oozed from the great sore on my scalp, from under my finger nails, and nearly all over my body. My ears were so crusted and swollen I was afraid they would break off. Every hair in my head fell out. I could not sit down, for my clothes would stick to the raw and bleeding flesh, making me cry out from the pain. My family doctor did all he could, but I got worse and worse. My condition was awful. I did not think I could live, and wanted death to come and end my frightful sufferings.

"In this condition my mother-in-law begged me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I said I would, but had no hope of recovery. But oh, what blessed relief I experienced after applying Cuticura Ointment. It cooled the bleeding and itching flesh and brought me the first real sleep I had had in weeks. It was as grateful as ice to a burning tongue. I would bathe with warm water and Cuticura Soap, then apply the Ointment freely. I also took Cuticura Resolvent for the blood. In a short time the sores stopped running, the flesh began to heal, and I knew I was to get well again. Then the hair on my head began to grow, and in a short time I was completely cured. I wish I could tell everybody who has eczema to use Cuticura. Mrs. Wm. Hunt, 135 Thomas St., Newark, N. J., Sept. 28, 1908."

MINNESOTA SOLONS

TRYING TO LAND GOVERNMENT TIMBER LABORATORY.

Bill Reported to Exempt Social Clubs From Paying Liquor License.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 11.—The Ray Farrington senate resolution passed the house today by a vote of 61 to 31, and thus becomes effective. It provides that a delegation of two from each house visit Washington with a view to persuading Washington to make a liberal appropriation for the improvement of the upper Minnesota river and the Red River of the North, and thus prevent their annual overflowing and devastation of much farm property. C. A. Johnson and Ray Farrington will make the trip for the senate, and probably C. A. Spooner and L. C. Johnson will be appointed by the speaker.

The house today passed a resolution calling for adjournment of the legislature April 6, about two weeks earlier than the constitutional limit, and that the last bills be introduced March 16. The resolution will be taken up in the senate early next week. It is doubtful if it passes, as the legislature has an immense amount of legislation pending.

In the senate today S. A. Nelson of Fillmore introduced Auditor S. G. Ierson's bill to create a new department of state lands, minerals and forestry. It provides for one man to have charge of the department, to be elected every four years, and to receive $5,000 a year, with an assistant to receive $3,000.

In the house today the memorial resolution was passed asking for a special session of congress as soon as possible to revise the tariff. Henry Rine introduced a bill which if passed will materially diminish the income of Frank A. Day, governor's secretary. It provides that every attorney shall be a notary public on filing a $2,000 bond with the county commissioners, and his certificate of admission to the bar with the clerk of the district court and payment of a fee of $1. At present Mr. Day gets $3 for each notarial commission issued.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 15.—The senate and house today both passed a resolution authorizing the regents of the state university to enter into an agreement with the federal government at Washington, accepting the proposition to establish a timber testing plant and laboratory at the Minnesota state university. The resolution to this effect in the senate was introduced by Senator J. T. Elwell of Minneapolis, and in the house G. H. Mattson of Roseau moved its adoption. There was no debate on the resolution, and no opposition.

The establishment of the timber testing plant will be a great advance in forestry work for Minnesota. The new department will not only test timber, but experiment with various wood preservatives, the use of different woods and other materials for the manufacture of paper pulp, and in wood distillation for the production of turpentine, wood alcohol etc. The government will install a corps of 14 men with an annual payroll of $28,000. These men may be used in general instruction work, and thus add greatly to the strength of the faculty in forestry subjects. The government will also equip a laboratory and office at an expenditure of $100,000, which shall be open to advanced students. The state is only asked to furnish floor space, light, heat, power and trackage.

The tri-county delegation (St. Louis, Hennepin and Ramsey) today reported a bill to the house to exempt social clubs from having to pay a liquor license where they sold liquors exclusively to members and not for profit. Messrs. Brady, White and Opsahl wanted the bill referred to the temperance committee. Messrs. J. H. Johnson and Kneeland favored advancing the measure to general orders, which action was ultimately taken. The bill provides that a permit be issued to clubs by the mayor or president of the village council, after an investigation by the mayor, the city, and county attorneys.

Oscar F. Christianson of St. Paul came to the front in the house with a number of "term extension" bills. They call for constitutional amendments to make four-year terms for all state officers, including lieutenant governor, governor and representatives. R. J. Wells introduced a bill to compel all corporations soliciting funds for political purposes to report all contributions to the secretary of state. Doyle introduced two telephone and telegraph company bills. One declares these corporations to be common carriers and places them under the railroad commission. The other prohibits telephone companies from making a toll charge for telephone service between adjoining cities, having special reference, doubtless, to St. Paul and Minneapolis. Rosenwald introduced a measure to limit legislative allowances for expenses of contested elections of legislators, to $300 each. Christianson presented a bill materially amending the state fire marshal law. It permits the marshal to use the entire amount raised by special tax each year under the fire marshal law, about $25,000; it also increases the office force to include the following: A chief deputy at $1,800, two assistants at $1,200 each, one clerk at $900. Frank White had a reapportionment bill for the Forty-fifth representative district, giving one extra representative, four in all, distributed as follows: One for Isanti county, one for Anoka county, one for Mille Lacs county, and one for Sherburne county and the Seventh ward of St. Cloud city.

In considering the house calendar today the bill of Messrs. Bendixen and Johnson was passed, declaring state ownership of ore bodies under the waters of meandered lakes and rivers—a bill recommended by the state auditor's report. There was no debate on the bill.

In the senate today, there was little of importance beyond the introduction of bills. These, however, included some measures which may become leading issues. One by Canfield abolishes the primary election system, except to apply it for the election of delegates to county conventions. Sullivan had a measure to establish a board of accountants, which in turn shall issue certificates on examination to "Certified Public Accountants." Stephens had a bill to permit each county to establish a county asylum for insane, under direction of the state board of control. Sageng would make the election of county superintendent of schools non-political by permitting such candidates to file only as "independents." General Wilson introduced a bill to compel stores which issue trading stamps, to themselves redeem the stamps instead of permitting the trading stamp company to do so. This bill, General Wilson says, has been petitioned for by Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis merchants. S. A. Nelson would not allow any teachers or pupils in public schools afflicted with tuberculosis. The same senator asks to have a legislative reference library established in the state law library. McColl comes to the front with the measure for nomination of United States senators by the primary system

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 16.—Today was probably the most uneventful in the legislature of any day since the session opened. But few new bills were introduced in either upper or lower house, and the sessions were "short and sweet."

In the house, Dr. J. A. Gates introduced a bill which is of special interest in view of the investigation pending against the operations of the alleged school book trust. The Gates bill creates a state school book commission, consisting of the president of the state university, superintendent of public instruction, state auditor, secretary of state, and state treasurer. This commission is authorized to every five years adopt a set of text books for use in the public schools, and to fix the prices thereon.

A. K. Ware of Northfield introduced a bill to increase the membership of the state board of control to five members, and providing that not more than three members shall belong to any one political party. Messrs. Lee and Rosenwald jointed in introducing a new anti-discrimination bill. It prohibits purchasers of general products and commodities from paying a different price in different parts of the state for the same product or commodity.

Elmer E. Adams introduced a bill which deprives county commissioners of the right to issue liquor licenses, leaving this power solely with councils of municipalities. If enacted, this would mean prohibition throughout the state for all territory lying outside of the limits of municipalities.

The Duluth delegation introduced a bill for a fourth district judge in the St. Louis county district, to hold terms of court the fourth Tuesday of January, April, July and October of each year at Virginia, with permission to hold adjourned terms at Hibbing.

In the senate, J. F. McGowan of Minneapolis introduced a bill which is a "follow up" measure on the employers' liability bill he introduced a few days ago. The bill today makes it compulsory for all employers of labor to carry employers' liability insurance. For such insurance, the employer is to pay half the premiums out of his own pocket, and to take the other half from the wages of his employees.

Senators Sullivan and Durment joined in introducing a bill for a constitutional amendment, which will permit the legislature to increase the membership of the associate judges of the state supreme bench, at its discretion, from four, as at present, to eight.

Tomorrow the legislative session will conclude at 10:30 a. m., after which the lawmakers will proceed to the state university on a tour of inspection.

MONEY MADE IN LIVE STOCK IN CENTRAL CANADA.

W. J. Henderson, visiting Seattle, writes the Canadian Government Agent at Spokane, Wash., and says:

"I have neighbors in Central Canada raising wheat, barley and oats for the past 20 years, and are now getting from the same land 20 to 30 bushels of wheat per acre, 40 to 60 bushels of oats.

"It was the first week of May when I got my tent pitched, but the farmers all around had finished putting in their crops, so I only got fifteen acres broke and seeded. They advised me as it was late not to put in much wheat, so I put in five acres of wheat and ten acres oats, one-half acre potatoes and vegetables. All kinds of vegetables grow well up there, sweet corn, tomatoes, onions, carrots, peas, beans, cabbage. My wheat yielded about 20 bushels per acre, for which I got 76 cents, others got 80 cents; oats threshed 35 bushels per acre, for which I got 35 cents per bushel. You see I was three weeks late in getting them in, still I was satisfied.

"From my observation, there is more money made in stock, such as cattle, horses and sheep, as prices are high for such, and it costs nothing to raise them, as horses live the year around out on the grass. In fact, farmers turn their work horses out for the winter, and they come in fresh and fat in the spring. Cattle live out seven or eight months. They mow the prairie grass and stack it for winter and give oat straw. My neighbors sold steers at $40 each, and any kind of a horse that can plow, from $150.00 up. I raised 30 chickens and 5 pigs, as pork, chickens, butter and eggs pay well and always a good market for anything a man raises, so I have every reason to be thankful, besides, at the end of three years I get my patent for homestead. I heard of no homestead selling for less than $2,000, so where under the sun could an old man or young man do better?"

Placing Him.

"Papa," inquired little May, after Sunday school, "was George Washington an Israelite?"

Before her father could answer this somewhat unexpected question May's six-year-old brother broke in.

"Why, May, I'm 'shamed of your ig'n'ance! George Washington is in the New Testament, not the Old."—Woman's Home Companion.

The Prince of Grumblers.

When Mr. Beeton asked if he did not find many unreasonable people among his summer boarders, Farmer Joy quickly assented.

"Lots an' lots are never satisfied anyway," he said. "No matter what's done for 'em, there'll always be something wrong somewheres.

"Now last summer," he went on, with a gleaming eye, "we had a man here that was so fond of grumblin' that one day he actually called for a toothpick after he'd had a glass of milk."—Youth's Companion.

Overdoing It.

A young Englishman, after he had been in Devil's valley for a couple of months, began to grow thin. Wyoming cooking did not appeal to him. Besides his squeamish appetite there was another thing that the natives held against him—his outlandish custom of taking a bath every morning. One day his landlady was discussing him with a friend.

"I tell ye what, Sal," said the visitor, "he's jest a-wastin' away a-grievin' for some gal back east thar."

"Nothin' o' the kind," said the landlady, contemptuously. "You mark my words, now—that young feller he's jest a washin' hisself away."—Everybody's Magazine.

GOOD CHANGE

Coffee to Postum.

The large army of persons who have found relief from many chronic ailments by changing from coffee to Postum as a daily beverage, is growing each day.

It is only a simple question of trying it for oneself in order to know the joy of returning health as realized by an Ills. young lady. She writes:

"I had been a coffee drinker nearly all my life and it affected my stomach—caused insomnia and I was seldom without a headache. I had heard about Postum and how beneficial it was, so concluded to quit coffee and try it.

"I was delighted with the change. I can now sleep well and seldom ever have headache. My stomach has gotten strong and I can eat without suffering afterwards. I think my whole system greatly benefited by Postum.

"My brother also suffered from stomach trouble while he drank coffee, but now, since using Postum he feels so much better he would not go back to coffee for anything."

Deer Park Doings.

Ole Skreland make a business trip to Grit last week.

Rev Mostue conducted religious services in our schoolhouse last Sunday.

Ye scribe and M. E. Hyland transacted business at Plummer last Wednesday.

There was a grand masquerade ball at Kratka last Saturday evening. Several from here attended and all report having had a good time.

Miss Sigri Lauvdahl, who has been visiting friends and relatives here for some time, left on Tuesday for Grit and other points.

M. E. Hyland transacted business at Gully on Friday and Saturday of last week.

Constable Ed Singer passed by here last Monday in route for Sunbeam and Thief River Falls with his prisoner, John Borek, the "dangerous man".

We understand that Sever Maaren. of Mayfield township, has been assigned Red Lake county as territory for the sale of the Dr. Koch Remedies, and is about to begin his duties as such agent. As we are personally well acquainted with Mr. Maaren we can highly recommend him as a reliable man to deal with in every respect and we hope that he will have abundant success in his new undertaking.

The little four months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hyland passed away last Saturday evening rather suddenly ofter an illness of about two days. This is indeed a sad blow to the parents as little Mabel was their first born and only child. The bereaved parents have the sincere sympathy of the entire community in their loss.

There will be a grand basket social at the Radney Hall on Saturday evening, the 20th inst, for the benefit of the Borek family. Mr. Borek was sent up for ninety days last week and the family is left entirely destitute and without means to procure food of any kind. They have lived for several weeks on a diet of potatoes and cracked corn. Mrs. Borek has been confined to her bed for some time and is at present unable to move without assistance. It is indeed a very sad case and one that ought to command the sympathy of the entire community, and for the benefit of this poor starving family we hope that those who read this notice will prepare themselves with a nice big basket and make it a point to be present at the social on the above date. Everybody is invited to attend and help as they can.

WOMEN ARE WOMEN.

A Rather Roundabout Way to Prove the Proposition.

Men say women are angels; women say women are cats. Let us pause a moment and reason upon this thing.

If women are angels—however, that does not seem to be the proper starting point. Let us try again.

If angels are cats—but, no; that is hardly reasonable, for angels have wings, and cats do not fly. We must begin again.

If women are cats—but that isn't possible, for cats do not talk, and how could a dumb animal express an opinion in words of a woman? Whatever cats may think, they never say a word about a woman, while women—well, women are not cats.

Now let us return to the first proposition.

If women are angels, they wouldn't say women are cats. Angels don't talk that way.

Once upon a time a man married a woman. He said she was an angel; the women said she was a cat. Happy man, not to know the difference between an angel and a cat!

Men say women are angels, and by this token women say angels are cats. Therefore, angels being cats, cats must be angels, and, both being the same, women are women.

Which is precisely what they are.—W. J. Lampton in Lippincott's.

Marlin

For shooting the swift flying, heavily feathered ducks and geese the Marlin 12-gauge repeating shotgun has no superior. This gun is exceedingly strong in construction and yet is not heavy. It is bored to throw an excellent pattern with great penetration. The solid top keeps out the weather and the brush and twigs of the blind, and the side ejector prevents the empty shells from being a nuisance to the shooter. It's the best bad weather gun.

The Marlin 12-gauge is suited to all forms of bird and trap shooting, and for durability, strength and ease of action is unexcelled. Made for both black and smokeless powders and for heavy loads. Two separate extractors make sure work.

The Marlin Experience Book is full of real shooting stories. Free, with 130-page Catalogue, for 3 stamps. Write to-day.

A Prophecy.

A certain college president in Indiana, a clergyman, when addressing the students in the chapel at the beginning of the college year observed that it was "a matter of congratulation to all the friends of the college that the year had opened with the largest freshman class in its history."

Then, without any pause, the good man turned to the lesson for the day, the Third Psalm, and began to read in a voice of thunder:

"Lord, how are they increased that trouble me!"—Detroit News-Tribune.

A Drawing Card.

MET SUDDEN DEATH

Gunstein Jorgenson Accidentally Killed Wednesday Evening.

On Wednesday evening Gunstein Jorgenson, a farmer whose home was in section 23, of Equality township, was killed by the tipping over of his sleigh loaded with flour and feed while on his way home from Plummer. The accident occurred about five miles east of town and the body was discovered by Carl Moen and Jo Lunden, of Garnes, within an hour or so after it happened.

Jorgenson and a man named Ole Birkeland were in town together and both had been drinking some during the afternoon. At about six o'clock they started for home after loading a ton of feed and some flour at the Hanson & Barzen elevator. What happened on the road can only be surmized as Birkeland seems to have been too much under the influence of liquor to remember very clearly how the accident happened.

He said they were driving very fast when the sleigh tipped over; that the team got away and that he tried to help Jorgenson out from under the feed which was piled on top of him. This he was unable to do and he started out to look for help. There is no one living near the place where the accident happened and Birkeland finally returned to Plummer arriving about 10 o'clock. In the meantime the team with the bobs attached, made their way to Garnes where they were seen and caught by Carl Moen, postmaster and storekeeper there. Mr. Moen and Lunden started on the back track with the team and found Jorgenson as stated. They found that his body was still very warm and they placed it on the sleigh and drove as rapidly as possible to Plummer where they arrived by 9 o'clock. They drove straight to Dr. Clark's office and he pronounced the man beyond all human aid.

The deceased has resided in this county for some ten or eleven years and come here from near Fisher in Polk county, where his father and other relatives still live. He was about 40 years of age and leaves a widow and family of eight children to mourn his loss. Gunstein Jorgenson was well liked by his neighbors and the sudden, awful manner of his death is a shock to the entire community in which he lives. The profound sympathy of all is with the widow and orphans in their sad bereavement.

There are now 44 pupils enrolled in both rooms, 23 being in the primary room.

The little folks of the primary room were busy last Friday making baskets for decoration

In the advanced room eighteen of the twenty-one enrolled had a perfect attendance record: daily average being nineteen.

On Thursday there was a perfect record in spelling and arithmetic in the primary room and on Wednesday the same in spelling in the advanced room.

The boys are very much interested in a book Miss Caldwell is reading, viz., "Cudjo's Cave", a tale of the troubles of a Quaker school master in Tennesse at the time of the cival war.

During the past week our visitors were Mrs. P. S. Medchill, Mrs. E. B. Lanager, Miss Alice Wichterman, Miss Demann, Miss Short, Mrs. A. A. Alrick and Miss Alrick. Let us hope that many more will follow the example thus set.

Lines From Lillo.

The Creamery will start up next week for the year 1909 and will be ready to take in cream on Tuesday, March 2nd. Patrons will please observe the date. For the present cream will be received twice each week.

Oscar Lillo and Martin Fore are busy putting up ice.

Buttermaker G. [illegible] vland is busy nowadays cleaning up everything in the creamery and getting up for a good start next Tuesdry.

Martin Fore has gone up into the vicinity of Little Oak where he is busy sawing logs for lumber and shingles and also cutting cordwood.

The new board of directors of the Clearwater creamery have been busy getting things in first-class shape for this year's run and all arrangements are now completed and everything is about as it ought to be. They have about $375.00 in cash on hand, which the shareholders have paid in, and expect to have more before long. They have supplies enough to last pretty near the whole year. There is 1,100 butter tubs on hand and 21 barrals of salt. Altogether, the creamery is in better shape than ever before for a successful year's business, and the board expect that from now on it will be run all the year round without stopping. The people around here do not feel afraid that the Governor at Lambert will get patrons away from this creamery, as the sensible people can readily see that it is all to their advantage to patronize this creamery which is owned by the people and run for the good of the people, instead of being operated for private profit.

SPARING HER NERVES.

A Careful, Considerate Visitor and Her Timid Friend.

The mistakes which were plentifully sprinkled along Mrs. Comer's career were never regretted by any one more than by Mrs. Comer herself. "I used the very best judgment I had," she said, referring to one unfortunate occurrence, "but, as usual, everything went wrong.

"You see, I went to Greenville in the morning with Mrs. Hobart, intending to go on to Nashua, but I changed my mind when the weather turned cool and spent the day with Anna Woods, going home at dusk. I'd forgotten my little bag with my key in it, so I went right over to Mrs. Hobart's.

"She'd gone down the road to Mrs. Cole's, but I found her key behind the left hand blind and went right in.

"The house was dark, but I said to myself, 'I won't light a lamp for fear of scaring her, a timid woman, living all alone, as she does.' So I sat in the dark till I heard her coming up the walk.

"When she found the door was unlocked she gave a kind of a gasp, so I stepped forward and then, long as I had a cold so my voice didn't sound natural and I was afraid 'twould scare her, she being so timid, I put out my hand and laid it on her arm.

"And, if you'll believe me," finished Mrs. Comer plaintively, "she fell right over in a faint and cut her forehead on the edge of the rocking chair, and I though I'd never bring her to!

"There's no use trying to be careful with a woman like her."—Youth's Companion.

CIRCUS CHILDREN.

The Making of Acrobats Begins at an Early Age.

It is nothing unusual for the larger circuses to carry thirty and forty children, ranging all the way from mere babies to boys and girls of fifteen and sixteen years of age. The majority are traveling with their parents, both the father and mother doing daily duty in the ring, and while often they are trained to follow in the steps of their elders they are seldom allowed to perform in public.

It is a common belief among circus men that the performer whose training is not started until after the age of six will seldom make a distinctive record. Following the afternoon show I often saw groups of boys, some of whom could not have been over four and five years old, practicing rudimentary somersaults and hand springs, while their parents looked on with a gratified smile. These were the families of the circus aristocracy, who treasure the records of their ancestors with the pride of a son in his father's sword and who see no more inspiring calling for their own children than that of the great white canvas.

Not that their education is neglected in other respects. Several of the families often hire an instructor—perhaps one of the performers who has the time and ability for such work—to coach their children in the standard studies. One circus has a travelling school for the youngsters. If they are to be acrobats, they are to be educated acrobats.—Bohemian Magazine.

Worst of All.

Mr. Lane, Mr. Hobart and Mr. Meek had been off fishing the day before. They had gone unexpectedly from the postoffice, where they met, and neither Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Hobart nor Mrs. Meek had been informed of their whereabouts until nightfall. "And it did beat all what poor luck we'd had!" said Mr. Lane when the three friends met the next day.

"I tried to explain to Sadie that we kep' staying in the hopes of fetching home something that would show why we'd stayed, but she said we'd acted like a parcel o' yearlings and it would be one while before she'd have a hot apple pie for my dinner again and dumplings. She ran me uphill and down, I tell ye!"

"Maria spoke of my clothes," said Mr. Hobart forlornly. "She pointed out the way the dampness had cockled that coat I had on. She said 'twouldn't ever be the same again and if I knew of anybody that was going to spend summer days heating great irons and pressing out clothes for a man like me she didn't!"

"Marthy never said a word," said Mr. Meek as the other two men turned to him, but as they remarked with one accord, "That's the kind of wife to have!" Mr. Meek looked much depressed.

"The only trouble is," he added, "she hasn't spoken yet, and I don't know when she will."

Knew the Trouble.

"You are wasting your time, old man," said Fred to George. "You are courting the wrong girl."

"No; she's the right girl. I'm afraid the trouble is I'm the wrong man."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

The decision of the United States Steel Corporation to maintain an open market will have no effect on the price of steel rails, it is said, in Pittsburg.

Robert Burman broke the world's record for 100 miles on a circular track in an automobile at New Orleans. Burman made the distance after a most remarkable drive, in 1:42:39 2-5, 11 minutes faster than the record, made by Clemens in Indianapolis in 1905.

The United States Steel Corporation, through former Judge Gary, chairman of its board of directors issued a statement declaring that the country's large steel and iron manufacturers have decided to declare an "open market" to protect the industry. The action, it is announced, is necessary because small dealers have been cutting prices.

NEW BORN BABY IN A SUITCASE

CRY OF CHILD ATTRACTS THE NOTICE OF BARTENDER.

Minneapolis Physician Held Following Astounding Discovery — Dr. Van Damme and R. M. Bly Held.

Minneapolis, Feb. 25.—Rescued from a suit case in which it had been lugged about for four hours by a physician, who is now under arrest charged with performing a criminal operation, a new-born boy baby was rushed to the Minneapolis city hospital yesterday afternoon, where it is said that it probably will recover from the harsh treatment which marked its entrance into the world.

Shortly after 2 p. m. yesterday, W. C. Van Damme, a physician, who has just finished serving a four-year term in the penitentiary for criminal practice, left a suit case with Carl Thorsen, a bartender at a saloon at 111 Washington avenue south. In a moment Thorsen was startled by hearing a cry from the suit case. Opening the case, he found the naked and uncared for body of a new-born boy in which the spark of life still flickered.

Patrolman Belair, who had pursued and arrested Dr. Van Damme at the first call, took the case in charge. He called for hot towels and wrapped up the infant. Then, leaving his prisoner in charge of the saloon men, he rushed the child to the city hospital.

Van Damme was taken to police headquarters. Up to midnight last night he had been in no condition to make a statement.

Police investigation has shown that the child was born at 10 a. m. to a woman at the St. Lawrence hotel, 221 Nicollet avenue, who had registered as Mrs. Charles Johnson. This much the prisoner admitted.

From the St. Lawrence hotel Dr. Van Damme was traced to the American house, next door to the saloon. There he deposited his suit case in the baggage room and went to bed. About 2 o'clock p. m. he arose and asked Jack Crowe, the hotel clerk, to get his suit case and come out and have a drink with him.

Bartender Thorsen's discovery and the doctor's arrest followed shortly afterwards.

The mother of the child, who was found at the St. Lawrence hotel, gave her name as Mary Johnson. She was taken to the city hospital, where it is thought she will recover from the effects of the ordeal through which she has passed, though she is still in a precarious condition.

Ethel Anderson, a friend of Mary Johnson, who has been with her since she came to Minneapolis from a farm near Madison, Wis., told the police that they had engaged Dr. Van Damme shortly after reaching Minneapolis. She said he had introduced them to a young man named Bly, who obtained rooms for them at the St. Lawrence Feb. 12. She also said that Dr. Van Damme performed an operation on Miss Johnson Feb. 12.

R. M. Bly has been arrested on the charge of aiding a criminal operation.

Dr. Van Damme was convicted four years ago in connection with the Daisy-Harden case. She was brought to Minneapolis from St. Paul and the criminal operation performed. Dr. Hadsel of St. Paul, one of the physicians involved, went to Stillwater with Dr. Van Damme.

TO CELEBRATE INDEPENDENCE.

Norwegian Americans Prepare for Anniversary.

Minneapolis, Feb. 25.—The American citizens of Norwegian descent, and Norwegians who are residents of the Northwest, are beginning early to plan a monster American jubilee, to commemorate the centennial anniversary of the birth of Norwegian independence, May 17, 1814, to be held at some city in the United States, possibly Minneapolis.

A meeting was held at the Odin club yesterday afternoon, by representative men interested in the event, from several cities, and the first outline of a plan agreed upon for an organization which shall carry the plan to fruition. B. Amundsen of Des Moines, publisher of the Des Moines Posten, one of the important Norwegian publications of the West; Professor Stub of Hamline university; Dr. Knut Hoegh of Minneapolis, Senator Thorp of Willmar, T. Gulbrandsen of Minneapolis, Professor Pettersen of Augsburg seminary, Minneapolis, A. C. Floan of St. Paul, S. E. Olson, president of the Odin club, and E. H. Hobe, Norwegian consul at St. Paul, were the chief movers in the organization.

It is possible that Minneapolis may be selected as the city. Plans are only tentative as yet, as the organization is not fully completed.

WELL PLEASED WITH WESTERN CANADA.

GOOD CROPS, SPLENDID CLIMATE AND WELL ENFORCED LAWS.

Mr. George E. Hunter is a Maidstone, Saskatchewan (Central Canada), farmer, who writes to a Canadian Government Agent as follows:

"It was the first week in November, 1907, when we arrived here. There was very little snow or cold weather until after the holidays, then the snow and cold increased, but to no great extent. I think the coldest I heard of was 30 degrees below zero, but that degree of cold would not be felt here any more than 10 degrees below zero would be back home in Michigan, owing to the beautiful dry atmosphere of this country. There came a good thaw every month that settled the snow, the fields soon became bare, and on the 12th of April I commenced ploughing. The snow was then all gone and summer at hand. This last season was something more than an average year around here, with fine crops gathered from a large acreage. In parts the crops were less than average, but generally speaking they were above it. The price of wheat was quite good. Some fine yields sold at $1.10 per bushel, while some were marketed at much less, but hardly any went below about 60 cents a bushel.

"Oats started on the market at 35 cents a bushel, barley about 50 cents, and flax from 90 cents to $1.00 a bushel.

"As this was my first year in this country, it was a hard year for my horses, owing to their being eastern horses, and not used to the western climate, but they will soon get climatized.

"The soil on my farm is a black loam, about one foot in thickness, below that we find about six feet of clay, and below that again gravel and sand, with an abundance of excellent water. This was the condition of the ground as I found it when I dug a well. I can say that the water is as sweet and as free from alkali and impurities as I ever saw.

"My opinion is that the man who comes here with a little means can do no better than invest $500 or $1,000 in cattle, after locating a homestead adjoining or near some hilly part of the country where it will not be taken up as soon. There is plenty of grass and hay to be found in the hilly country and small lakes and sloughs will afford sufficient water for any amount of cattle. The bluffs with a few hay or straw sheds will make sufficient shelter for them. There is no need to worry about the market for cattle, as there is already a great call for stock of all kinds to satisfy the continued demands of the large packing house at Edmonton, established by Swift and Company.

"The dairy business should by no means be forgotten. It is one of the paying enterprises of this great west. The price of butter seldom goes below 25 cents and reaches as high as 40 cents a pound. Also the new creameries that are fast being erected along the lines of railroad are calling on the farmers for their cream.

"These creameries are greatly welcomed in all communities, because selling cream is better than making butter, even at an average price of 25 cents a pound. For a new country the railroad transportation facilities are good; not yet, of course, what they are in older countries, but the new lines are swiftly gaining as the country gets more settled and supplies them with produce to ship. It is hard to say too much in favor of this country. All one needs is a little money with grit and ambition. I have seen homesteads that were filed on a little over three years ago that the owners have refused $3,000 for.

"There is much more that can be said in favor of Western Canada, but I think my letter has been long enough."

No Heed Paid to Begging Letters.

As nearly as can be ascertained, the wealthy persons of New York city receive 35,000 begging letters a day from strangers, and the writers stand a better chance of finding money than in getting from them, for even the most liberal of philanthropists do not dispense their charity excepting according to careful plans and after investigation.

The Penny Saved.

The Penny Saved was put in the bank, the old broken teapot having gone out of style. Here it presently overheard two voices talking.

"I want to borrow $50,000,000 to finance a candle trust!" said one voice.

"Glad to accommodate you!" said the other.

And the next the Penny Saved knew, it was going out into the channels of trade.

When the man to whom it belonged fell into sore need (he was a candlemaker and the trust crushed him out) and came to the bank for his money, he was courteously informed that the institution had passed into the hands of a receiver and recommended to call again in a year or two and get his share of the assets, should there prove to be any.—Puck.

Tenderness.

It was in the hotel of a western mining town that the New England guest, registering in the office, heard a succession of youd yells.

"What in the world is that—a murder going on upstairs?" he demanded.

"No," said the clerk, as he slammed the book and lounged toward the stairs. "It is the spring bed up in No. 5. That tenderfoot up there don't get the hang of it, and every few days he gets one o' the spiral springs screwed into him like a shirt stud. I guess I'll have to go up, if there ain't anything more I can do for you for a few minutes."—Youth's Companion.

Distinction Without Difference.

While holding a term of court at Augusta once, Judge Walton sentenced a man to seven years in prison for a grave crime. The respondent's counsel asked for a mitigation of the sentence on the ground that the prisoner's health was very poor. "Your honor," said he, "I am satisfied that my client cannot live out half that term, and I beg of you to change the sentence." "Well, under those circumstances," said the judge, "I will change the sentence. I will make it for life instead of seven years."

Got the Letters Mixed.

A young American, who is particular about his washing, the other day wrote a note to his laundress and one to his sweetheart, and, by a strange fatality, put the wrong address on each envelope and sent them off. The washwoman was delighted at an invitation to take a ride the next day, but when the young lady read, "If you tumble up my shirt bosom any more as you did the last time, I will go somewhere else," she cried all the evening and declared she would never speak to him again.

Thoughtful Child.

They are considerate youngsters in England, as most people know. A little boy whose grandmother had just died wrote the following letter, which he duly posted: "Dear Angels: We have sent you grandma. Please give her a harp to play, as she is short-winded and can't blow a trumpet."—London Tit-Bits.

PRIZE FOOD

Palatable, Economical, Nourishing.

A Nebr. woman has outlined the prize food in a few words, and that from personal experience. She writes:

"After our long experience with Grape-Nuts, I cannot say enough in its favor. We have used this food almost continually for seven years.

"We sometimes tried other advertised breakfast foods but we invariably returned to Grape-Nuts as the most palatable, economical and nourishing of all.

"When I quit tea and coffee and began to use Postum and Grape-Nuts I was a nervous wreck. I was so irritable I could not sleep nights, had no interest in life.

"After using Grape-Nuts a short time I began to improve and all these ailments have disappeared and now I am a well woman. My two children have been almost raised on Grape-Nuts, which they eat three times a day.

"They are pictures of health and have never had the least symptom of stomach trouble, even through the most severe siege of whooping cough they could retain Grape-Nuts when all else failed.

"Grape-Nuts food has saved doctor bills, and has been, therefore, a most economical food for us."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

MINNESOTA NEWS

Hangs Himself in Barn.

Gibbon, Minn.—Fred J. Glassbrenner, a prominent farmer living about two miles southeast of this place, was found by his hired man, Nels Trueson, hanging by a rope from the rafters of his barn. There was still a quiver of life in the body but death came before medical aid could be procured.

The deceased was very prominent and well known throughout this section of the country and his act is a surprise to his relatives and friends here. No particular motive for Glassbrenner's suicide is known, but it is thought that his many acres of land were heavily incumbered and that he could not face a financial collapse.

Two letters bidding his family goodbye and containing requests to be fulfilled after his death were found upon examination of the place where the deed was committed. He was sixty years old and is survived by a widow and nine children.

Fergus Falls.—Otto Fresonke of Dent pleaded guilty to a charge of grand larceny here before Judge Baxter and was sentenced to the St. Cloud reformatory. Fresonke broke into a saloon and was caught inside.

Mother and Sons Dead.

Crookston.—Pierre Audette, a farmer residing near Huot, is prostrated as a result of the loss of two sons and his wife in less than a week. On Friday Rock Audette, aged 19, died of typhoid fever. Saturday last another son, Artell, aged 22, died of the same disease. The two were buried on Monday, and while the funeral was taking place, Mrs. Audette passed away of typhoid, and was buried yesterday. It is feared the stricken man will not survive the shock.

May be Wolves' Victim.

Duluth.—The unknown man who was killed by wolves recently in the wild and unsettled country between Stony river and Ely, and whose picked bones were found by woodsmen may have been Carl Frykdah, aged eighteen years, living here. He left Duluth on Feb. 9 to work for the lumber company in the section where the bones were found and as he did not keep his promises to write to his mother, she is fearful he was the victim of wild beasts.

Conoly is A Bad Man.

Stillwater.—Facts coming to the hands of Chief Barnes by wire and letter indicate that John Conoly, in the county jail here on a charge of attempting to pass a forged check, is wanted in several Eastern and Southern cities. He is suspected of murdering Joseph Beins in New York, and an alleged photograph of him as a prisoner sent from New York, corresponds to the man under arrest here.

Duluth Girl Victim of Assault.

Duluth.—Miss Edna Stabrodt, twenty-three years old, daughter of Charles Stabrodt, residing on the Hermantown road, was assaulted by an unidentified man. Alphonse Laurin, a laborer who worked for a neighbor of the Stabrodts, is under suspicion. Mr. Stabrodt tried to shoot the girl's assailant when his attention was attracted by his daughter's cries, but the gun missed fire.

Will Have Wireless Station.

St. Cloud.—The United Wireless Telegraph company of New York announces that an expert will be sent to this city soon to make the final arrangements for the location of a station here. The system will be in operation this summer. The company has 157 stations in the United States.

Stillwater Loses Pioneer.

Stillwater, Minn.—The funeral of Hiram Dockendorff, an aged pioneer, who died at Hot Springs, Ark., where he was taken with the hope that his life might be prolonged, was held in the hall of the Masonic lodge. The Masons were in charge throughout. The dead man is survived by three sons.

NEWS NOTES.

Crookston.—J. M. Ball has left for Mexico, where he will make his future home.

Minneapolis.—The Four Huntings, a team at one time well known in the circus world, and later as vaudeville headliners, will be seen at the Bijou Opera House, Minneapolis, the week of February 28th, in "The Fool House," a musical comedy vehicle that is rich in laughable comedy. The piece has snap, ginger and rapid fire comedy that is certain to provoke laughter and fun.

Little Falls.—Hugh Kennedy of Randall was brought before a justice on a charge of arson. The state introduced evidence which showed that Kennedy had said on the evening before that the building would go up in smoke during the night. Witnesses said that the fire was in a box of rags near a chimney, but that there was no fire in the stove. The defendant was bound over.

The Marine bank of Bath, Maine., claims that a forgery for $370 was perpetrated there and through Howard Wheeler, an attorney of St. Paul, a suit has been instituted in the local district court against Conoly to recover that amount of money and the roll of bills taken from him by Chief Barnes has been garnisheed.

Litchfield.—Mrs. Elnora Zeigler, an aged woman living east of this city, committed suicide by hanging herself at the home of her son, Charles Zeigler, during a period of temporary aberration.

Early Morning Poems.

"Why, Hiram," began Mrs. Dusenbery, glancing up from her favorite newspaper at her husband on the opposite side of the table, "did you ever hear of such a thing? Here is a piece about a man who writes four magazine poems every morning before breakfast. Must be quite a strain on him to do all that writing on an empty stomach. Don't you think so, Hiram?"

"Well, I dunno about that," responded Hiram dryly. "I reckon a man wouldn't have such a terrible strain on him writin' the sort of magazine pomes we run across now'days with his stomach an' head both empty!"

A Republican Reliance.

Three-year-old Norris is fond of the Twenty-third Psalm, sometimes repeating it instead of his regular evening prayer. Last autumn the name of the successful presidential candidate was often heard at the dinner table, and Norris unconsciously fell into the habit of rendering one passage of the Psalm in this reassuring fashion: "Thy rod and thy Taft they comfort me."—Lippincott's.

Facts For Sick Women

We know of no other medicine which has been so successful in relieving the suffering of women, or secured so many genuine testimonials, as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In almost every community you will find women who have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Almost every woman you meet has either been benefited by it, or knows some one who has.

In the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., are files containing over one million one hundred thousand letters from women seeking health, in which many openly state over their own signatures that they have regained their health by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has saved many women from surgical operations.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is made exclusively from roots and herbs, and is perfectly harmless.

The reason why it is so successful is because it contains ingredients which act directly upon the female organism, restoring it to healthy and normal activity.

Thousands of unsolicited and genuine testimonials such as the following prove the efficiency of this simple remedy.

Minneapolis, Minn.:—"I was a great sufferer from female troubles which caused a weakness and broken down condition of the system. I read so much of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other suffering women, I felt sure it would help me, and I must say it did help me wonderfully. Within three months I was a perfectly well woman.

"I want this letter made public to show the benefits to be derived from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. John G. Moldan, 2115 Second St. North, Minneapolis, Minn.

Women who are suffering from those distressing ills peculiar to their sex should not lose sight of these facts or doubt the ability of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to restore their health.

THE VALUE OF PERSONAL KNOWLEDGE

Personal knowledge is the winning factor in the culminating contests of this competitive age and when of ample character it places its fortunate possessor in the front ranks of

The Well Informed of the World.

A vast fund of personal knowledge is really essential to the achievement of the highest excellence in any field of human effort.

A Knowledge of Forms, Knowledge of Functions and Knowledge of Products are all of the utmost value and in questions of life and health when a true and wholesome remedy is desired it should be remembered that Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., is an ethical product which has met with the approval of the most eminent physicians and gives universal satisfaction, because it is a remedy of Known Quality, Known Excellence and Known Component Parts and has won the valuable patronage of millions of the Well Informed of the world, who know of their own personal knowledge and from actual use that it is the first and best of family laxatives, for which no extravagant or unreasonable claims are made.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent family laxative. As its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well Informed of the world to be the best we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of—Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects, always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, whether you call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna.

When you think it over carefully it seems that it would take a lot [illegible] business, brought to a [illegible] through the [illegible] pay for one human life.

The Normal School fight is being waged warmly in the legislature. It is now a case of Cass Lake [illegible] others and the result is very [illegible] to be that no action will be taken [illegible] this session of the legislature.

[illegible] Times to G. [illegible] England of [illegible] and the new proprietor took possession last week. Bro. Lanman has published the Times for about 20 years and thinks it time to retire. Here's success to his successor.

An attempt is being made to have the mortgage registry tax repealed. It ought to be. It was simply an additional burden on the poor farmer who had to borrow money on his property instead of being a tax on the capitalist as it was intended to be in the first place. Out of the borrowed money the mortgager was made to pay for an abstract and all other expenses, which, of course included the registry tax of 50 cents on each $100.

There seems to be a good prospect of the state legislature passing the proposed law changing the method of procedure in the removal of county seats. This law, if enacted, will take such matters out of the hands of the county board altogether. If a petition, signed by the necessary number of legal voters, is filed with the county auditor it is to be certified by the auditor to the secretary of the state who will cause such proposition to be placed on the ballots to be voted upon at the next general election held in [illegible]. Which looks like a fair [illegible] depending it fairly and [illegible] up to the people.

His Vocabulary.

He was an only child. They were very particular about his manner of speech, constantly correcting him so that he would use beautiful English. He, however, was allowed now and then to associate with other children. He played with a neighbor boy a long while one day, and when he came home there was an ecstatic smile on his face.

"I like that boy, mother," he said. "I like him very much. He swears beautifully. He knows every word."—New York Press.

The Pictured Cowboy.

I recall one picture by a celebrated artist of the east who does western things. It depicts a "Cowboy at Rest." He is lying on his stomach in the sun, his chin in his hands. His horse stands nearby, with the reins thrown over the horn of the saddle. Now, a cowboy in the daytime, well filled with beans and canned tomatoes, would not lie thus, and, above all, he would not leave his horse standing thus. He would pull the reins down over the horse's head and let them hang, elsewise his cow-horse would depart. I recall yet another picture of a faithful cowpuncher who with his trusty rifle defends himself from behind his dead horse, which he uses as a fortress. The dead horse is about four feet and a half through sidewise—excellent for a fortress, but a trifle wide for a thin flanked cow-horse. It would be useless to point out any detail like this to any earnest artist of today. Worse than useless would it be to suggest that a cowpuncher is the laziest created thing, for in art he must do perpetual stunts of "action."—Collier's Weekly.

An Easy Grade.

Patronage, political, religious and social, has seen its best days in England, and it is becoming more and more difficult, St. James' Budget opines, to find material for such a story as follows:

At the end of a political campaign many years ago a young man who had worked valiantly for the successful candidate claimed a reward. The prize promised was a sergeantcy in the artillery. But the candidate found that he was unable to carry out his promise, inasmuch as it required six years' service to qualify a man for the rank. He became thoughtful, but finally saw light.

"Does it require six years to qualify a man for a lieutenancy?" he asked one who knew.

"Certainly not," was the reply.

"Well, make young Blank a lieutenant, then," said the candidate, with a sigh of relief.

Blank was thus made a lieutenant for no other reason than that he was not fit to be a sergeant.

Upon the complaint of Ole Rude, who conducts a jewelry and confectionery store on North Main avenue, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Charles Carpenter, a seventeen year old boy, for breaking into his store and stealing money to the amount of $12 and some goods.

Carpenter was arrested the next day and admitted his guilt before Judge Bishop. He claimed that his reason for doing the act was that he was drunk and that he had purchased his whiskey of Alfred Rasmusson, who conducts the saloon formerly owned by Geo. Williams. The authorities at once caused the arrest of Mr. Rasmusson and the trial was to have been held on Tuesday with young Carpenter as witness for the state. City Attorney Halvorson, however, on Monday evening moved to have the case dismissed, but it is rumored that another complaint will be issued later on.—Thief River Falls News.

A Rural Enoch Arden.

"In our little town in a western state," said Brown, "there was a half witted sort of fellow named Bill Wilkes. One day Bill took to the railroad tracks and never reappeared for about six years. In the meantime his wife, Bettie, took in washing and supported the family. One day Bill came back. He went around to the kitchen door, softly opened it, stuck in his head and said, 'Boo, Bettie.' Bettie turned around from her washtub. 'Te, he,' said Bill; 'I scared ye, didn't I, Bettie?' Whenever I see a stage husband return to his family I think of Bill's greeting after six years' absence, 'Boo, Bettie; I scared ye, didn't I?'"—New York Times.

Apfelsine.

Messina furnished early in the nineteenth century a new word for the German language. It was from there that oranges were first shipped to Germany, and the fruit was known for a long time after its advent as "apfel aus Messina"—apple from Messina. After many years "apfel aus Messina" degenerated into "apfel Messina," and finally it became "apfelsine," the name by which oranges are still known among German speaking people.

Quite Sufficient.

Mrs. Jones (inspecting a milliner's window)—I don't see what it is that keeps those women's heads turning around all the time. Mr. Jones—Why, my dear, just a bonnet itself is sufficient to turn any woman's head.—Lippincott's Magazine.

Disraeli's Jokes.

Disraeli dearly loved a joke at the expense of others. An author who had sent his latest effort in fiction to him received the following complimentary acknowledgment:

"I thank you for the book you sent me and will lose no time in reading it."

"I wonder what makes my eyes so weak," a fierce Radical once said to Disraeli.

"It is because they are in a weak place," was the reply.

An incident in the life of the late Lord Rosslyn shows how acute was the sense of humor in Disraeli. "What can we do with Rossylin?" he asked of a colleague.

"Make him master of the buckhounds, as his father was," suggested the latter.

"No," replied the premier; "he swears far too much for that. We will make him high commissioner to the Church of Scotland." And such he was made —Chambers' Journal.

A Maker of Bulls.

Some excellent bulls are credited to William Arolin, who was a London police judge in the thirties of the last century. He once remarked to counsel, "If you can show precisely at what moment the offense was committed and prove that the prisoner was not there when he did it, he could not possibly have done it." And he sagely added, "We cannot divest ourselves of common sense in a court of justice." Of a similar character was an axiom he once delivered himself of, which has been maliciously fathered on many other occupants of the bench, "If ever there was a case of clearer evidence than this case, this case is that case."

CAUGHT THE BISHOP.

One Surprise That Was the Forerunner of Another.

That was a good old comedy bishop who one fine day entered a large jeweler's establishment in Regent street, London, to make an extensive purchase of valuable presents. He selected them with great care as regards their artistic value, but quite regardless of cost. The proprietor and his assistants buzzed round his lordship. The selected valuables were packed in separate parcels at his suggestion, neatly tied and sealed, and he had just taken a seat in the private office of the proprietor and was feeling in his pocket for his check book when two men, who had been peering in at the glass door leading to the street, walked up the shop and stood behind the bishop. They were plainly dressed, sharp looking men and thus bluntly addressed the jeweler:

"What has this man been ordering?"

The bishop looked up, saw the men, turned pale, clutched the sides of the chair, dropped his glasses and looked as if he would bolt. Before he could stir, however, the handcuffs were on his wrists.

"Bishop, indeed!" said one of the men. "He was a colonel yesterday. Here, 'bishop,' come along to Vine street. 'Bishop,' indeed! Ha, ha! Well, that's a good 'un!" And, turning to the astonished jeweler, he continued: "Just copped him in time, sir; lucky for you. Oh, by the way, you might get one of your assistants to bring round these parcels he has selected. We must enter them at the police station. We have a cab at the door. We have been tracking the bishop all the morning."

Without a word the "bishop" followed the detectives into a cab, and all three got in as the assistant came out with the valuables.

"Here," said one of the detectives through the window, "place these in here—they will be safer—and you get on the top with the driver."

It was not far to Vine street; but, as usual, the traffic was congested in Oxford circus, and the cab had to halt occasionally. It was, however, soon at the police station. The assistant jumped off the driver's seat and opened the door.

The cab was empty!—Strand Magazine.

PRESENTIMENTS.

Incidents In Which Coming Events Cast Their Shadows Before.

Coming events cast their shadows before them. The writer is led to believe this because several incidents in the lives of his parents corroborate the theory that presentiments of good and evil do come to persons unawares. I will mention two of them.

In the summer of 187— my father late at night was returning to his farm from the little town of Malton. He had stayed unusually late. When he reached the farm all was quiet. Removing the harness from his horse, he proceeded to the carriage house and hung it in its place.

He came out and closed the door. As he did so he heard the harness fall. It was very dark. He went back into the house and found the harness still hanging in its place. The same occurrence took place again. He went back again and found it in its place.

When the third time he heard the sound of falling harness he did not go back.

Several weeks later his barn burned, and it happened that the same harness was in the barn loft, a valuable set. He attempted to save it. The staircase burned behind him, and he was compelled to jump for his life from a window. His previous experience came to him vividly. He saved the harness, but at the risk of his life.

Another vivid incident I recall was my mother sitting by the fire with a sick baby. The nurse was present, too, and both were wide awake. Her father appeared to her and advised her as to the baby's treatment and other family matters. He vanished as quickly as he had come. The next day she heard of his death.—London Tit-Bits.

Milk on a Stick.

In winter time milk goes to the buyer in a chunk instead of a quart, says a Glasgow paper. The people in Siberia buy their milk frozen, and for convenience it is allowed to freeze about a stick, which comes as a handle to carry it by. The milkman leaves one chunk or two chunks, as the case may be, at the houses of his customers. The children in Irkutsk, instead of crying for a drink of milk, cry for a bite of milk. The people in winter time do not say, "Be careful not to spill the milk," but "Be careful not to break the milk." Broken milk is better than spilled milk, though, because there is an opportunity to save the pieces. A quart of frozen milk on a stick is a very formidable weapon in the hand of an angry man or boy, as it is possible to knock a person down with it. Irkutsk people hang their milk on hooks instead of putting it in pans, though, of course, when warm spring weather comes on they have to use the pans or pails as the milk begins to melt and drop down the hooks.

HOUSE PASSES THE ANTI-CIGARETTE BILL.

Bills for New Normal Schools Provoke Warm Debate in Lower Body.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 26.—Forty-two new bills put in an appearance in the house today. This was because the order of the introduction of bills had not been reached for several days. Most of the bills were of little general importance.

A state home for the aged is provided in a bill by C. J. Wright, the home to be located by the state board of control. Where relatives have money to pay for those committed, it is provided that $15 a month may be collected from them for each party committed. Otherwise, the expense is to be assessed against the respective counties.

A. K. Ware presented a bill proposing abrogation of the fellow servant rule, and placing the burden of proof as to contributory negligence on the defendant in damage suits.

L. H. Johnson had a bill requiring stricter inspection of hotels and lodging houses, especially relative to fire protection and fire escapes.

A resolution by Representative Haugland was unanimously adopted, inviting James J. Hill to adress the house on or before March 4.

The house committee on public accounts was to have held a meeting this evening to wind up the board of control investigation, but could not get a quorum. It is understood the chairman of the committee has an opinion from the attorney general, holding that the public examiner has exceeded his authority in criticising the board of control in matters of judgment; that the examiner's department is but one of expert bookkeeping and accounting, and has no legal authority to interfere in how a state department shall be run according to his own ideas.

Geo. P. Wilson of Minneapolis introduced a bill in the senate today, which materially extends the district court juvenile probation system. It provides that the court at its discretion may suspend sentence on any convicted party if that sentence is not over five years, and place such convicted party under supervision of a probation officer.

Senator J. M. Hackney introduced a new draft of his bill for a correspondence course in agriculture at the state agricultural college. The material change is an increase in the appropriation from $50,000 to $75,000, the increase to be used in prizes to be offered students to stimulate them to better work.

Both senate and house today adjourned till Monday.

St. Paul, March 1.—The house suspended all rules this morning, and passed the general road and bridge bill, introduced by the road and bridge committee. The bill originally carried an appropriation for general state aid to the various counties of $400,000, but in its amended form as passed, carried but $300,000. It seems certain the measure will meet with no opposition in the senate.

Representative Washburn, of Minneapolis, introduced a resolution memorializing congress to pass a pending act for the establishment of a children's bureau. Representative White succeeded in getting a resolution passed inviting Professor E. P. Sandsten of the Wisconsin University to address the house the evening of March 9, relative to the feasibility of introducing tobacco growing in Minnesota. The resolution cites that tobacco is now profitably grown at Clear Lake, Minn.

A number of new bills put in an appearance. One by McGrath provides that railroads shall stand for decrease in property valuations caused by abandonment of tracks. One by Dalzel calls for an appropriation of $7,500 for a Fort Ridgley park. Saugstad introduced a bill providing that any citizen or organization may hire an attorney to bring prosecutions for violations of the liquor laws, and that no such case may be dismissed by the county attorney unless such action is argued before the court. A bill by McKenzie calls on the railroads to have operators at their depots at least half an hour before train time. The drainage committee offered a measure which authorizes the state drainage commission to make a topographical survey of the state for drainage purposes; that the survey of each county must be filed with the county auditor, and all county drainage be carried out according to such survey and under direction of the state commission. Wells introduced the predicted bill to combine the forestry boards and department of the state with the game and fish commission in a state forest and game board of six members to be appointed by the governor. The salary of the executive agent is raised to $3,600, superintendent of fisheries to $3,000; and the office of chief forester is created at $3,000 a year.

An important bill to further regulate banking and guarantee deposits, was introduced in the senate today by Senator A. L. Hanson. It divides the banks of the state into two classes, Class A being banks in towns of less than 50,000 inhabitants; Class B being banks in towns of over 50,000. In banks of Class A deposits shall not be allowed to exceed ten times the paid-in capital and surplus; in Class B, deposits shall not exceed eight times the capital and surplus. For violation of this provision, each offending bank shall be subject to a fine of $100 a day after the date of receiving notice from the public examiner. Beginning May 1, 1909, a state tax levy of one-tenth of one per cent shall be levied on the amount of the average deposits of each bank in Class A; and one-fifth of one per cent for Class B. This money is payable to the state treasurer July 1. These assessments shall be continued till the state guarantee fund for depositors equals one per cent of the past year's average of state bank deposits. This fund shall remain subject to the orders of the public examiner.

Another bill by A. L. Hanson, reapportions the 61st legislative district, making it into two. Under this bill, the 61st district would hereafter consist of Norman, Clearwater and Mahnomen counties, with one senator and two representatives.

St. Paul, Minn., March 2.—The house celebrated its first evening meeting of the present session by making a record on the speedy passage of a radical anti-cigarette bill. On roll call the bill received 92 votes in its favor, to one against—the vote of Alvin Rowe of St. Paul. L. H. Johnson then moved the reconsideration of the bill and asked that the motion be voted down; and it was. This prevents the house from going back on its passage of the bill.

A flood of new bills were introduced. They included the following: by Holmberg, to appropriate $150,000 for a new state fair agricultural building; by Christianson, to make the state treasurer custodian of state fair funds; by Ware, to permit all women over 18 years of age to vote in 1910 as to whether women shall be granted the right of suffrage; by Peters, limiting state fair passes to reporters, firemen, policemen, veterans, mail carriers, fair officials, employes and privilege holders; by Noble, providing judges of the supreme court and all county officers be nominated by non-partisan preliminaries; by Nolan, to apply the 3 per cent gross earnings tax on a share of the interstate earnings of telephone companies. The Grant bill was passed which requires all counties effected by judicial ditch petitions, to receive notice of the hearing; also the bill to permit traveling men to vote for the state and national ticket in any part of the state they happen to be.

The house spent the entire morning today in fighting over the pending bills for a new normal school. These bills calls, respectively, for a school to be established at Warren, Bemidji, Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Cass Lake, and one bill calling for a school to be located by the normal board in northwestern Minnesota. After much discussion, P. M. McGary, author of the Cass Lake bill, got the house to adopt his minority report by a vote of 60 to 57—a "close shave." Representative Opsahl then asked that the Hinds bill be given a fair show, and that it be printed and advanced with the Cass Lake bill to general orders. The house then turned around and granted his request by a vote of 62 to 54.

Senator Vail today introduced a bill in the senate which provides that no railroad shall charge for the transportation of non-bessemer ore, more than 60 per cent of the present tariff now charged for the transportation of other iron ore within the state. The bill was referred to the committee on railroads.

Senator Stephens of Crookston introduced the biennial appropriation bill for the Crookston agricultural school and experimental station. It provides for a number of improvements, as well as maintenance; for the agricultural school for 1909-10, for expenses, $15,000; a water system, $2,000; for building, library, offices, etc., $40,000; for 1910-11, expenses, $15,000; girls' dormitory, $25,000. For the northwestern experimental station, 1910-11, expenses, $8,000; root cellar, $1,000; to establish and maintain a denatured alcohol plant, $6,000; for 1910-11, expenses, $8,000; a swine barn, $1,500; a slaughter house, $1,000.

Senator Farrington comes to the front for the state fair, with a bill to appropriate $250,000 for a new state fair grand stand. Farrington and C. A. Johnson join in a bill to appropriate $25,000 to dam and dyke Big Stone lake, the Minnesota and Whetstone rivers, to prevent future floods.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Sues His Father-in-Law.

Sleepy Eye.—Roman Kruger, night policeman, whose marriage to Miss Grace Cunningham at St. Paul last fall was followed by his arrest and imprisonment at the instance of his bride's father, Willis Cunningham, on the charge of perjury in giving the young lady's age to the clerk of court of Ramsey county, has brought an action against the latter to recover $10,000 damages for alleged malicious prosecution and false imprisonment. The bringing of the suit has caused almost as great a sensation as the wedding and subsequent prosecution. Cunningham is a wealthy resident of this place.

Laborer Meets Frightful Death.

St. Paul.—Lawrence Brennan met a frightful death under the trucks of a Great Northern freight train near the Como yards. One of his limbs had to be cut off in order to disentangle his body from the wheels and during the terrible ordeal he bravely maintained consciousness. His arms, legs and ribs were crushed and two hours later he died at St. Joseph's hospital.

Brennan was at work between two empty merchandise cars in the yards a train was run onto the side and crashed into the two where Brennan was working.

Held for Murder in 1905.

Duluth.—William Bailey, an employe of the Cloquet Electric Company of Cloquet, was arrested by Chief of Police McSweeney of that town for Sheriff Armstrong of Morrison county. Bailey is suspected of the murder of Miss Annie Kintop of Little Falls. The murder took place four years ago. Bailey has been at work in Cloquet for more than a year and was well thought of. Much surprise was felt there at the serious charge so suddenly brought against him. Bailey was in bed when arrested. He denies that he killed the Kintop girl.

Beating Shows He Is Boss.

Little Falls.—John Reitzka, a farmer living near Royalton of this county, was brought into that village on the complaint of his neighbors, who asserted that Reitzka had been beating his wife. When brought before the justice, Reitzka said that he was God and that his wife is the devil. He says that as his wife is possessed with the demon from the lower world, it is his sacred duty as God to pound the devil out of her. He also said that it incidentally served to show that he was boss of the house. The defendant was fined $22 and allowed to return to his home.

Two Children Perish in Smoke.

Duluth.—The home of a C. Nelson in Hebron township, twenty-five miles from Aitkin, was burned and two of the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson were suffocated. Mr. Nelson was away from home at work and, the day being pleasant, Mrs. Nelson was drawing wood from a pile a short distance from the house. When she entered the house was on fire and the rooms were filled with smoke. She reached the baby, but it was dead, as was also the other child.

Dog Scare at Kasota.

Kasota.—Kasota has a genuine mad dog scare. A dog bit several others a few days ago, and its head was sent to the bacteriologist of the St. Peter hospital, who innoculated two rabbits with serum from the spinal column of the dog, one of them dying in five or six days, and the other a little later. All dogs in the village have been muzzled, and several valuable ones shot, having exhibited signs of hydrophobia.

Minneapolis Murderer Hangs Self.

Minneapolis.—Henry M. Sussman, serving a life sentence for murder for shooting his wife in the Glenwood hotel, Minneapolis, committed suicide in his cell at Stillwater. He was found hanging by a cord made of the covering of his pillow.

Sussman was received at the prison Dec. 19, 1906. His parents live in Fargo, N. D., and he has brothers in St. Paul.

NEWS NOTES.

Minneapolis.—In "Bunco in Arizona," Lillian Mortimer's comedy drama, which will be seen at the Bijou, Minneapolis, the week of March 7th, the theatre-going public will have an excellent opportunity of witnessing a production that keeps faithfully to the traditions of the far southwest.

Hibbing.—Ole Larson of Minneapolis and Ole Mangseth of Coleraine made a twin jump of 98 feet at Hibbing, and it is claimed that it is the American record for twin jumping. Ole Larson broke the record for the Hibbing hill for longest standing jump, making 126 feet.

Duluth.—M. L. Britton, wanted by the United States government on a charge of using the United States mails to defraud, has been arrested in Duluth by Postoffice Inspector Fraser of Wisconsin and has been taken to Kansas City, Mo., where he will be tried for the alleged fleecing of several wholesale jewelry firms.

New Ulm.—Mrs. Amelia Scherer died, aged 70 years. She is survived by seven children, one of whom is Captain Louis Scherer, U. S. A., stationed at Fort Snelling. She located here with her husband in 1859.

"THE MARRYING SQUIRE."

Justice George E. Law Has Broken All Records.

George E. Law, Justice of the Peace, 13½ Franklin St., Brazil, Ind., is known far and wide as the "Marrying Squire," from the fact that he has married more couples than any other official in Indiana. Judge Law wrote a letter in 1906, recommending Doan's Kidney Pills, which he said had made a bad back well, enabled him to sleep better nights and feel more fit for work. The treatment also cleared up the urine. On January 5, 1909, Judge Law confirmed his previous testimony. "I have recommended this remedy to many people since I first used it," said he.

Too Risky.

"Do you approve of the plan of teaching pupils to box?"

"Not unconditionally," replied the country pedagogue, remembering his husky 19-year-olds. "Might be all right, though, if you'd authorize the teachers to carry guns."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

HAD AWFUL WEEPING ECZEMA.

Face and Neck Were Raw—Terrible Itching, Inflammation and Soreness—All Treatments Failed.

Cuticura Proved a Great Success.

"Eczema began over the top of my ear. It cracked and then began to spread. I had three different doctors and tried several things, but they did me no good. At last one side of my face and my neck were raw. The water ran out of it so that I had to wear medicated cotton, and it was so inflamed and sore that I had to put a piece of cloth over my pillow to keep the water from it, and it would stain the cloth a sort of yellow. The eczema itched so that it seemed as though I could tear my face all to pieces. Then I began to use the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and it was not more than three months before it was all healed up. Miss Ann Pearsons, Northfield, Vt., Dec. 19, 1907."

Potter Drug & Chem. Corp., Sole Props., Boston.

Town Run by One Family.

A curious fact is reported from a small township situated in the south of France, called Saint Martin. The whole municipal council is composed of one family, and has now been reelected. The mayor is Louis Guigo, and the councillors are Joseph, Alexandre, Pierre, Louis, Vincent, Jean Andre and Gabriel, all with the surname, Guigo.

Added a Saving Clause.

A good old deacon in Connecticut was very pious and very fond of clams. When once upon a time he attended a Rhode Island clam-bake he overtaxed his capacity and was sorely distressed. But his faith in prayer was unabated. Leaving the party and going down on his knees behind a tree, he was heard to supplicate: "Forgive me, O Lord, this great sin of gluttony. Restore my health, and I will never eat any more clams." Then after a judicious pause: "Very few, if any. Amen."

Ventriloquist's Good Joke.

A small negro boy was going along the street carrying a turtle by the tail, when a ventriloquist standing near seemed to make it say: "Where is you-all goin' with me?" The little negro heard the question, and looked around with astonishment, but not being entirely satisfied as to where the voice came from, walked on. Again the ventriloquist said: "I say, where is you-all takin' me?" This time the boy was satisfied that the turtle had been gifted with a miraculous power of speech, and instantly dropped it on the sidewalk in consternation, exclaiming: "I isn't a-takin' you-all nowhar. I has done dropped you!"

NEW IDEA

Helped Wis. Couple.

It doesn't pay to stick too closely to old notions of things. New ideas often lead to better health, success and happiness.

A Wis. couple examined an idea new to them and stepped up several rounds on the health ladder. The husband writes:

"Several years ago we suffered from coffee drinking, were sleepless, nervous, sallow, weak and irritable. My wife and I both loved coffee and thought it was a bracer." (delusion.)

"Finally, after years of suffering, we read of Postum and the harmfulness of coffee, and believing that to grow we should give some attention to new ideas, we decided to test Postum.

"When we made it right we liked it and were relieved of ills caused by coffee. Our friends noticed the change—fresher skin, steadier nerves, better temper, etc.

"These changes were not sudden, but relief increased as we continued to drink and enjoy Postum, and we lost the desire for coffee.

"Many of our friends did not like Postum at first, because they did not make it right. But when they boiled Postum according to directions on pkg., until it was dark and rich, they liked it better than coffee and were benefited by the change." "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkgs.

WESTERN CANADA'S SPLENDID CROP YIELD FOR 1908.

AMERICANS PROFITED LARGELY AND SEND BACK SATISFACTORY REPORTS.

The census branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Canada, has completed its returns of the showing of Western Canada's grain yield for 1908, and the reports make very interesting reading. In the three provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, which comprise what may be known as Central Canada, there was a total wheat yield of about 107,000,000 bushels, worth to the farmer about $85,000,000; in addition to this the oat, barley and flax crops were worth another $35,000,000. Letters have been received from many of the settlers from the United States. From these, that of Rev. Oscar L. King has been selected. He lives in the vicinity of Edmonton, Alberta, and what he says will be of interest to those who contemplate moving to Central Canada. Every line of the letter is interesting. Those who wish for the particulars as to how to secure homesteads and preemptions should write any Canadian Government agent. Mr. King says:

"Mr. M. V. McInnes, Detroit, Michigan: I am well satisfied with Alberta. This country offers excellent opportunities for anyone to make a good home for himself and family if he is willing to put up with a few hard knocks for the first two or three years. But it is worth a few hard knocks to get a 160-acre farm of rich, productive land with no mortgage on it. This province is well fitted for grains, stock raising and dairying. We have found the climate generally healthful; more healthful than Michigan, and although the thermometer sometimes drops to 40 degrees below zero in winter, yet we do not seem to feel that temperature any more than we did 5 or 10 degrees below zero in Michigan. We like the winters.

"The Government takes great interest in the education of the people and quickly aids the settlers in establishing schools where they are called for. The schools, though graded differently than those in the States, are efficient and advancing. Our great drawback has been the limited and inadequate railway facilities, but new roads are being rapidly built and many more are projected through various parts of the province. The new policy of the Alberta government to construct a great many branch lines throughout the province will greatly help all parts of the country. If those new settlers who have to go back a considerable distance from existing railroads and towns to find free homesteads will but locate along the line of a projected railroad they will in two or three years be near both town and railroad. When I first came to this country three and a half years ago the homestead I took was 75 miles from a railroad town; now there is a railroad 25 miles north, another 25 miles south, and a third is being built through my neighborhood.

"I think the prairie country or country that is partly prairie offers much better opportunities than the hilly portions."

Next Tuesday will be election day in all the townships and villages. If you are an american citizen you have a right to vote and you are neglecting a duty if you dont.

Up to date it looks like an even bet that the proposed location of a new normal school in northern Minnesota will not be accomplished at this session of the legislature.

The Thief River Falls News reverses the usual order of the local news item and proceeds in all sobriety to inform its readers when one of the prominent citizens of that city comes home from St. Paul to renew the acquaintance of his family.

President Taft's inauguration on Thursday was marred by a genuine blizzard which enveloped Washington in abont eight inches of the softest, slushiest kind of snow. The national capital ought to be removed to Minnesota where we always have sunshine and balmy air on occosions of this kind

"President Taft" it is now, and Roosevelt will hie him to darkest Africa in search of a variety of excitement and big game. Now that the strenuous Roosevelt is out of office we hear and read all kind of things condemnatory of his policies and politics. Speaking of this the Saturday Evening Post says: "Those who take a kick at a dead lion should always bear in mind a highly important fact—namely, that the indulgence of that pleasure would have been quite impossible except for the demise of the lion. No one who cares for his reputation will deny that Roosevelt could have had the presidency for another term if he had wanted it. Only his own refusal prevented his renomination by acclamation and his re-election by a great majority. There would have been no lion kicking if the lion had not voluntarily furnished the corpse."

"I never stopped to think". Ever have anybody explain their mistake to you in those words when something had gone wrong. Soothing and satisfactory, isn't it, when something valuable has been destroyed? Encouraging to a man's business when a good customer may be driven away because some fool employe hasn,t "stopped to think". The misstress of the house should feel entirely satisfied when the hired girl throws out a high-priced piece of cut glass or burns up the roast and then tells the misstress that she "never stopped to think". If there is one phrase in the language more than another that is calculated to incite a man to profanity, or a woman to tears, it is the idiotic "I never stopped to think". Try and learn to "stop and think,'. If you dont you are not likely to be worth much to anybody, not even yourself.

Liberty cannot be established without morality nor morality without faith.—Greeley.

Feats That Never Happened.

A grotesque and foolish view of the west leads many who are not acquainted with that part of the country to perpetrate amusing blunders regarding the possibilities of the typical western weapons, the rifle and the six shooter. To shoot an animal's eye out at a hundred paces is a common feat in wild west literature. Sometimes it is done with a six shooter—in type, not anywhere else. Of course, no man can see the eye of an animal that far. I have had a good rifleman tell me he could cut off a robin's head at a hundred steps. The truth is that he could not see the head clearly that far. You read that the desperado Slade could with a six shooter at fifty or sixty steps hit a man in any button of his coat that he chose, but you may be sure that neither Slade nor any one else could do anything of the kind. Even trick and fancy shooting at its best could ever cover feats ascribed as matters of course to the average frontiersman by those devotees of frenzied fiction who never saw the frontier.—Outing Magazine.

Eluding the Officers.

Here is an amusing description of one of Balzac's periods of impecuniosity. Mery, the poet, a great friend of Balzac, was an inveterate gambler and rarely left the card table before daybreak. His way lay past the Cafe de Paris, and for four consecutive mornings he had met Balzac strolling leisurely up and down dressed in a pantalon a pieds (trousers not terminating below the ankle, but with feet in them like stockings) and frock coat with velvet facings. The second morning Mery felt surprised at the coincidence; the third he was puzzled; the fourth he could hold out no longer and asked Balzac the reason of these nocturnal perambulations roundabout the same spot.

Balzac put his hand in his pocket and produced an almanac showing that the sun did not rise before 3:50. "I am being tracked by the officers of the tribunal de commerce and obliged to hide myself during the day, but at this hour I am free and can take a walk, for as long as the sun is not up they cannot arrest me."

Marlin

For shooting the swift flying, heavily feathered ducks and geese the Marlin 12-gauge repeating shotgun has no superior. This gun is exceedingly strong in construction and yet is not heavy. It is bored to throw an excellent pattern with great penetration. The solid top keeps out the weather and the brush and twigs of the blind, and the side ejector prevents the empty shells from being a nuisance to the shooter. It's the best bad weather gun.

The Marlin 12-gauge is suited to all forms of bird and trap shooting, and for durability, strength and ease of action is unexcelled. Made for both black and smokeless powders and for heavy loads. Two separate extractors make sure work.

For Amusement Pavilian.

John A. Rothsten, the newly elected president of the village council, has started a movement for establishing an amusement pavilion for public use during the summer months. His plan is to erect a suitable building on the high ground south of his home which Will have a good floor and roof and enclose the entire sides with mosquito netting. This pavilion may be used for picnic purposes, card parties, dances or any other form of amusement. It will be shady, rain proof and mosquito proof and consequently should prove immensely popular. By way of a starter arrangements are being pushed to give a basket party next Saturday evening for the purpose of getting the necessary funds started. At the basket party an association will be formed and officers chosen to handle the project properly and push it to a successful finish.

HOLY GROANING.

The Sin of Worldly Pleasure in the Seventeenth Century.

Buckle gives a graphic picture of the attitude of the kirk of Scotland to worldly pleasures during the seventeenth century. Cheerfulness, especially when it rose to laughter, was to be guarded against. Smiling might occasionally be allowed; still, being a carnal pastime, it was a sin to smile on Sunday. No husband should kiss his wife and no mother her child on the Sabbath day. Jesting was incompatible with a holy and serious life. The ministers were given much to weeping, groaning and lamentations. One, the Rev. Alexander Dunlop, was noted for his "holy groan." To engage in the frivolous art of writing poems was condemned. Men should not disport themselves with mirth; dancing was a "serious sin;" joyousness even at a christening was a scandal. One should speak and walk with gravity and solemnity; he should not enjoy his dinner; only the ungodly relished food. The great object of life was to be in a state of affliction. Whatever pleased the senses was to suspected. Whatever was natural was wrong. The churchmen grew sour in countenance, harsh in voice. Joy and love disappeared or were forced to hide in obscure corners.

MAN MONEY.

The Old Teutonic Law on Killing or Injuring Others.

The system of atoning for death or bodily injuries inflicted on others by paying damages is as old as the earliest Teutonic laws, praised by Tacitus. The trespasser was always required to make peace with the aggrieved family of the victim by "Wer-Geld."

"Wer" is the ancient German for man. "Geld," now, as in the days of Wotan, means money.

Damages were assessed in accordance with the rank and wealth of the injured party, and the money was paid over in the presence of the whole community. Its acceptance forestalling feuds. Indeed, the recognition of Wer-Geld ("money for the man" killed) by law precluded further bloodshed or other forms of revenge.

If the slayer was not rich enough to pay the required sum, he turned over to the injured parties his sons as slaves. If his sons were not sufficient guarantee for the payment of the debt, the slayer himself had to turn bondsman, both the letter and the spirit of the law requiring that the full amount of damage inflicted be recovered by the aggrieved parties.—New York World.

Fulfilling His Agreement.

Having become tired of living in rented houses, Mr. Gwimple had bought a home of his own. Not having enough money to pay for it outright, he had made a cash payment of $1,000 and given a trust deed on the property for the remainder. One night, not long after he had taken possession of his new home, Mrs. Gwimple roused him from a deep sleep.

"Gerald," she said, "somebody is trying to get into the house!"

Mr. Gwimple crawled out of bed and started downstairs.

"What are you going to do?" she asked him.

"I'm going to let him in," he answered, half awake.

"To let him in! Who?"

"The man that holds the trust deed on this property," he mumbled "The document I signed binds me to admit him to the premises at any hour of the day."—Youth's Companion.

Too Much For His Mind.

"My first impulses," wailed the sad eyed individual, "are invariably good. In fact, I think that I may venture without fear of undue exaggeration to say that they are very good. But I never act on them. I always act on second thoughts This trait in my character has ruined my career, because my second thoughts are always bad. In fact, I think I may say without fear of misrepresentation that they're punk."

"Well," suggested he who was listening, "why don't you wait until third thoughts and act on them?"

Mournfully, despondently, the sad eyed individual shook his head.

"My dear sir," he groaned, "I never had three successive thoughts about anything in my life."—Exchange.

At His Own Risk.

Caller (on crutches and with a bandage over one eye)—I have come, sir, to make application for the amount due on my accident insurance policy I fell down a long flight of stairs the other evening and sustained damages that will disable me for a month to come

BABY HORRIBLY BURNED

By Boiling Grease—Skin All Came Off One Side of Face and Head—Thought Her Disfigured for Life.

Used Cuticura: No Scar Left.

"My baby was sitting beside the fender and we were preparing the breakfast when the frying-pan full of boiling grease was upset and it went all over one side of her face and head. Some one wiped the scald with a towel, pulling the entire skin off. We took her to a doctor. He tended her a week and gave me some stuff to put on. But it all festered and I thought the baby was disfigured for life. I used about three boxes of Cuticura Ointment and it was wonderful how it healed. In about five weeks it was better and there wasn't a mark to tell where the scald had been. Her skin is just like velvet. Mrs. Hare, 1, Henry St., South Shields, Durham, England, March 22, 1908."

Bridget, who had administered the culinary affairs of the Morse household for many years, was sometimes torn between her devotion to her mistress and loyalty to the small son of the house.

"Bridget," said Mrs. Morse, in a tone of wonder, after an inspection of the storeroom, "where have those splendid red apples gone that the man brought yesterday—those four big ones?"

"Well, now, ma'am," said poor Bridget, "I couldn't rightly say; but I'm thinkin' if you was to find where my loaf o' hot gingerbread is, likely thim four red apples would be lyin' right on top of it, an' I'm hopin' his little stummick can stand the sthrain."—Youth's Companion.

A teacher in one of the schools of Berlin has given to the papers of that city a composition written by one of the pupils in his school on the subject, "The Kaiser," in the course of which the young author says: "Prince Wilhelm was born on the kaiser's birthday. From the dome of the castle 101 salute shots were fired. The old grandfather and old Wrangel hopped into a cab and went to the schloss, and old Wrangel said: 'The boy is all right,' and the father made a bow from the balcony, and it was awful cold. And when the boy was baptized his father held his watch in front of the litle fellow's nose, and he grabbed it and never let go again, because he is a Hohenzollern."

"Well—er—do you think Clara will make up when she comes down?"

Little Bessie leaned over nearer and whispered:

"She ought to, Mr. Bilkins. She is upstairs making up now."

CONGENIAL WORK
And Strength to Perform it.

A person in good health is likely to have a genial disposition, ambition, and enjoy work.

On the other hand, if the digestive organs have been upset by wrong food, work becomes drudgery.

"Until recently," writes a Washington girl, "I was a railroad stenographer, which means full work every day.

"Like many other girls alone in a large city, I lived at a boarding house. For breakfast it was mush, greasy meat, soggy cakes, black coffee, etc.

"After a few months of this diet I used to feel sleepy and heavy in the mornings. My work seemed a terrible effort, and I thought the work was to blame—too arduous.

"At home I had heard my father speak of a young fellow who went long distances in the cold on Grape-Nuts and cream and nothing more for breakfast.

"I concluded if it would tide him over a morning's heavy work, it might help me, so on my way home one night I bought a package and next morning I had Grape-Nuts and milk for breakfast.

"I stuck to Grape-Nuts, and in less than two weeks I noticed improvement. I can't just tell how well I felt, but I remember I used to walk the 12 blocks to business and knew how good it was simply to live.

"As to my work—well, did you ever feel the delight of having congenial work and the strength to perform it? That's how I felt. I truly believe there's life and vigor in every grain of Grape-Nuts."

OIL TRUST IS VICTOR

Chicago Judge Orders Verdict of "Not Guilty."

GOVERNMENT WILL APPEAL

Word to That Effect Comes from Washington—Stay of Execution for Companies Fined $100,000 by State of Missouri.

Chicago, Mar. 11.—Judge Anderson yesterday, following the completion of a long argument by Assistant United States District Attorney Wilkerson, ordered the jury to find the Standard Oil Company not guilty. Simultaneously the jury was called back into court. This meant that all but two of the pending indictments against the Standard company are void, and will be abandoned by the government. These two not affected are cases involving shipments of 1,915 carloads of oil from Whiting, Ind., to Evansville, Ind., by way of Dolton Junction, Ill., over the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad.

Six Cases Affected.

The six cases that are affected involve the indictments for shipments over the Chicago & Alton railroad and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway, and the indictments, too, that have to do with the storage charges alleged to have been allowed illegally to the Standard Oil Company by the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern railroad.

The attitude taken by Judge Anderson is in direct opposition to that taken by his personal friend, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, who upon the first trial of the case imposed the $29,240,000 fine upon the oil company.

It was Judge Landis who directed the case to be taken before Judge Anderson when Judge Bethea declined to hear it after the supreme court of the United States decided to allow the reversal of Judge Landis' decision by the United States circuit court of appeals to stand undisturbed.

Beginning of the Prosecution.

The big Standard Oil prosecution had its beginning August 27, 1906. On that date ten indictments were returned by a federal grand jury, charging the Standard Oil Company of Indiana with accepting concessions from railways in shipments of oil from Whiting, Ind. Demurrers to two of these, involving shipments over the Chicago & Eastern Illinois railroad and connecting roads to Grand Junction, Tenn., were sustained and the indictments were quashed shortly after they had been returned. The eight remaining bills were demurred to, but the demurrers were overruled.

Two of the eight indictments involve shipments over the Chicago & Alton railroad from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill., and St. Louis, one containing 1,903 counts and the other 134 counts.

It was the 1,903-count indictment on which the oil company prosecution is now based. With 146 counts allowed to stand, the case went to trial first before Judge Landis March 4, 1907. The trial consumed six weeks and resulted in a verdict of guilty April 13, 1907.

Appeal to Be Taken.

Washington, Mar. 11.—The understanding here is that an appeal will lie from Judge Anderson's court to the circuit court of appeals. Also an appeal would lie from the circuit court of appeals to the supreme court of the United States in the event that the decision in the former tribunal should be against the company.

Infact, that is a best reason for stating that the whole issue will come before the supreme court of the United States very soon through an unexpected and novel move by the department of justice.

The decision of Judge Anderson was read with the closest interest by the officials of the department of justice.

Get Stay of Execution.

Jefferson City, Mo., March 11.—An appeal bond of $100,000 will be the basis upon which a writ of error for an appeal to the supreme court of the United States will be granted to the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Republic Oil Company of Ohio, according to action taken by the supreme court of Missouri yesterday.

The attitude of the state toward the appeal was indicated by Atty.-Gen. Major, who said that as soon as he receives proper notice that the case has reached the supreme court in Washington he will enter a motion for the dismissal of the writ of error on the ground that no federal question is involved. The appeal acts as a stay of execution on the judgment announced by the court, by which the ouster decrees against the companies were affirmed. Both the Indiana and Republic companies will have the right to continue business in the state pending a decision by the federal tribunal.

HOUSE TO SPEND $50,000 MORE ON SESSION.

Chorus Girls Not to be Allowed to Wear Patriotic Tights Any More.

St. Paul, Minn., March 6.—The house received and immediately passed a bill for $50,000 additional money for legislative expense today. The bill was presented by W. H. Putnam, chairman of the house appropriations committee. W. A. Nolan explained the measure. "Gentlemen, unless this bill passes, some of us are liable to go hungry," he said with a smile, "and therefore I move the rules be suspended and the bill placed on its final passage." There wasn't a dissenting vote. The original legislative expense bill appropriated $150,000. With this bill, the expense of the entire session totals $200,000, practically the same as former sessions.

That petite and shapely chorus girls must not appear in Minnesota theaters in red, white and blue tights is the provision of a bill introduced in the house today by Mr. Sawyer, first as a joke, and later taken in serious vein.

The house today recommended for passage in committee of the whole, Representative Grant of Duluth presiding, the L. C. Spooner bill for acceptance by the state of the Indian school property at Morris from the federal government. The report of the special committee sent to look at the property was to the effect that the farm and buildings together were fully worth $100,000. The only condition with the gift is that the state maintain the institution as an agricultural school, and admit Indians free of tuition. Mr. Spooner explained, however, that there are no Indians within 200 miles and therefore very few would ever attend, and it is for this reason the federal government is ready to surrender the property. Dr. Gates of Red Wing led the opposition to the bill, ably aided by Messrs. Adams and Washburn. Messrs. Mattson of Roseau, McGrath, and others, stood with Spooner, claiming it ridiculous to think of the state refusing to accept such a free gift. Gates charged the proposition a plan on the part of Spooner for his own advancement. Spooner promptly replied that he was glad to shoulder the responsibility of securing the grant, and even of taking a trip to Washington to have a price which was in the federal bill for the gift, struck out. The "farmers' delegation" was with him, and voted strongly to recommend the bill of the "gentleman from Stevens" for passage.

The finance committee of the senate, and appropriations committee of the house, held public hearings all day on pending bills relative to pending appropriation bills, preparatory to preparing the preliminary draft of the general appropriation act.

The difference between the general total of the appropriation bills, and the amount the committees having the subject in hand would like to have understood as available, is nearly as great as the difference between night and day. The bills pending carry an aggregate of $4,178,000, while the figure the committee would like to reduce it to is $1,275,000, which aggregate, it should be understood, is in addition to general standing appropriations for general purposes.

The bills already introduced carry appropriations in their respective classes as follows: For high schools, $500,000; roads and bridges, $100,000; state fair grand stand, $350,000; paintings and decorations for the new capitol, $67,000; state board of health, $51,000; Hackney bill for a correspondence school of agriculture and instructors to go throughout the state, $75,000; repairs at old capitol $50,000; girls training school, $175,000; hospital and home for crippled children in St. Paul, $55 000; state university, $1,500,000; normals, $255,000; miscellaneous, $1,000,000.

St. Paul, Minn., March 8.—The special committee of the house, named to consider the employers' liability bills, today delivered its report to the house in the form of the introduction of a new employers' liability measure. The bill does not abolish the existing law, permitting an employe to sue for damages in event of an injury, but allows a choice to be made between the old and the new law, the proposed bill waiving the question of contributory negligence and putting into effect a considerably lower scale of indemnities than the former bills. The indemnities are as follows: For death, $2,000 to $3,000; both hands or feet, $2,650 to $4,000; one hand and one foot, or both hands, or both feet, $2,000 to $3,000; one hand or one foot, $660 to $1,000; one finger, $75; thumb, $100; one toe, $25; big toe, $50; both eyes, $2,000 to $3,000; one eye, one-third of amount allowed for loss of both; deafness, $1,000 to $1,500; total disability, $2,000 to $3,000; temporary disability, 50 per cent of wages.

Messrs. Spooner and Sawyer joined today in the introduction of a bill to provide that at least twenty employes of the state reformatory be engaged in the operating of crushed stone machinery, the stone to be held at the institution for distribution as ordered by the state highway commission for road building. The bill appropriates $12,000 for the purchase of the necessary stone crushing machinery.

Representative Hinds introduced a bill to place wall-eyed pike among the fish that cannot be sold or shipped in this state.

A protest against the bill to permit six-round boxing contests was received from the St. Paul Y. M. C. A. today, signed by Arthur B. Driscoll, president of the St. Paul organization. The bill is at present on the calendar in the house.

The house spent most of today's session in committee of the whole. Among the bills considered and ordered advanced to the calendar were the St. Louis county delegation bill to permit $400,000 additional bonds to be issued for completion of the courthouse in Duluth; St. Louis county delegation bill to create the office of county public examiner; by Mattson, to permit rural school boards to hire truant officers; by Nolan, to require a character certificate of those granted liquor licenses; by Rosenwald, to require fees and measurements to be recorded by surveyors general of logs and timber.

Gov. J. A. Johnson has signed the bill asserting state ownership in mineral properties beneath the waters of meandered lake beds.

There was no session of the senate today. The finance committees of both houses are continuing their hearings today on the various items of the pending appropriation bills, preparatory to drafting the omnibus appropriation bill.

---

St. Paul, Minn., March 9.—Senator C. J. Gunderson of Alexandria today jumped into the arena as a candidate for United States judge, district of Minnesota, to succeed Judge Milton D. Purdy, who was appointed originally by President Roosevelt, and has recently been re-appointed by President Taft. Mr. Gunderson's entry comes through a resolution adopted unanimously and by a rising vote of the state senate today. Senator Seward of Lyon county introduced the resolution. The resolution recites that:

"We have absolute knowledge and implicit confidence in the integrity, learning and ability of Hon. C. J. Gunderson of Alexandria; and we hereby respectfully pray that he be appointed as judge of the United States district court for the district of Minnesota.

"Resolved further, that this resolution be engrossed and signed by the president and secretary of the senate, and copies forwarded to the Hon. Knute Nelson and the Hon. Moses E. Clapp, United States senators at Washington, D. C."

The resolution was seconded by Julius Coller of Scott county, and adopted without an opposing vote. This means a contest over the confirmation of Judge Purdy's appointment by the United States senate.

E. S. Durment of St. Paul introduced a re-draft of his employer's liability bill in the senate today. It now permits contributory negligence to be entered as a defense. It also materially reduces the scale of damages allowed for various injuries, the death allowance being $3,500. Elwell of Minneapolis introduced a bill increasing the rate of the general tax levy for the university from .23 mills to one-half a mill, which will increase the standing tax allowance $100,000.

S. A. Nelson introduced a bill to declare a state office vacant when the holder thereof is incapacitated to discharge the duties of such office for a period of six months by reason of sickness or other cause. It is understood this is especially aimed at L. A. Rosing, whose long illness has kept him away from the state board of control most of the past year.

Senator Gunn offered a bill to permit towns and townships to levy a three mill tax for libraries, museums, art galleries and reading rooms. Geo. P. Wilson introduced a bill to deny legal recognition in future to common law marriages. S. A. Nelson had a bill to require a political candidate in filing his statement of expenses to also include a statement of all money and aid received, the amount and the contributors.

The bill for abolishment of capital punishment in Minnesota was killed in the house today by the close vote of 35 for indefinite postponement to 31 in favor of the measure.

The principal address for the bill was made by Representative MacKenzie, former prosecuting attorney of Sibley county.

T. J. Greene introduced an "old timer" today, to appropriate $22,000 for W. H. Temple, to pay for certain state bonds which Temple holds. These were issued by the state in 1859, and only redeemed in part. The payment asked has been rejected by several legislatures.

The Last Word.

A good deal of fuss is going on in the "culchawed" crowd about a claim that Paul Revere never made his famous midnight ride. "H'm," murmurs C. E. Ingalls, "doesn't the poem say 'Scarcely a man is now alive who remembers that famous day and year?"—Kansas City Journal.

RATHER PAY THAN SERVE.

Citizen Soldier's Unique Idea of the Duties of a Sentry.

Australians still tell stories of the C. L. V.'s, although the war is a far memory. One, a member of the Stock Exchange, was left one wet and miserable night to guard a wagonload of goods.

He shivered in the unsheltered place for some hours pondering many things, and then a bright thought struck him just as the colonel came around on his tour of inspection.

"Colonel," he asked, "how much is this wagon worth?"

"I don't know," was the answer. "Much or little, we can't afford to lose it."

"Well, but colonel," persisted the amateur soldier, "you might give me a rough idea of the value."

"About £200," said the Colonel testily.

"Very well," was the answer. "I will come down to the camp and give you a check for the amount. Then I'll turn in. I wouldn't catch my death of cold for twice that much."

What the colonel said is not recorded.—Melbourne Times.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Another Fake Story.

The Red Lake Falls Cazette last week published an item stating that "there is a persistent rumor to the effect that Charles W. Latta will shortly be deposed as postmaster at Plummer and will be succeeded by Ole J. Johnson."

There is nothing in this rumor—or any part of it. Like the little boy that was taken sick from eating gumdrops we have "inside information" and we know. It is true that various efforts have been made during the past two years to have the aforesaid postmaster "deposed", and even the Gazette at one time took a hand in the efforts made to injure him. These efforts have all been futile, however, and Latta is still pestmaster at Plummer. He has no intention of resigning either. Mr. Johnson's prospects for getting the office are really not in shape to make very good collateral, and the publishing of the story in the Gazette does not help his chances very much. The Gazette is pretty generally considered to be unreliable in its statements and there seem to be little doubt of it.

He Was Slow.

He uttered a joyous cry.

"And I am really and truly the first man you ever kissed?"

"Yes, Clarence," the beautiful girl rejoined, her red lip curling slightly. "The others all took the initiative."—Kansas City Independent.

School Gleanings.

George Bergh was absent last week because of sickness.

The new sashcurtains have improved the appearance of both rooms.

Manda Medchill has a perfect record in spelling for the past month.

Mrs. Gullingsrud, Mrs. Finrow and Mrs. Himly visited school Friday afternoon.

Gudrun Rice has been absent for a week because of her illness, but has returned to her school duties this week.

New library books, to the amount of $20 have been received and added to the school library which now consists of 123 volumes.

Five months of school have now passed and yet quite a number have held their places on the perfect list in attendance and punctuality.

The attendance for the past two weeks has not been as good as formerly. Let us hope though, that it will again increase with the begining of a new school month.

In the primary room Roy Finrow, Alfred Olson, Florance Balke, Lillian Balke and Clara Olson have perfect records in both spelling and arithmetic for the past month.

The school board believe in the use of dictionary and reference book so we now have one large and six Academic dictionaries and two sets of Teachers & Pupils Encylopedias at the disposal of the pupils.

The primary room has lost several of its pupils during the past week, namely, Jennie and Annie Halin and Florence and Lillian Balke. The best wishes of their fellow school mates follow their friends to their new home while at the same time they will all be greatly missed.

Balloon Talk of 1806.

Robertson, the celebrated aeronaut who ascended from Petersburg last year, is endeavoring to obtain the necessary assistance at that place for the construction of an air balloon on a very large scale. He proposes that it shall be 722 feet in diameter, which he calculates will carry up thirty-seven tons and which he supposes, therefore, will easily support fifty people and all necessary accommodation for them. It is to have attached to it a vessel furnished with masts, sails and every other article required for navigating the sea in case of accidents and provided with a cabin for the aeronauts, properly fitted up, gallery for cooking, proper stores for stowing provisions and several other conveniences. To render the ascent more safe, it is to take up another smaller balloon within it and a parachute, which will render the descent perfectly gentle if the outer balloon bursts. From its construction it will be calculated to remain in the air several weeks.—From Hudson (N. Y.) Balance and Columbian Repository of July 15, 1806.

An Awful Rebuke.

Once upon a time a certain community planned to give a dinner to a judge there. When the judge came to scan the list of those invited he raised vigorous protest against one name, that of a man who had been the most brilliant lawyer in town, but who was now the town drunkard. They finally overcame his opposition, but the town drunkard had heard of it. He was the last speaker called upon. He arose and said: "Mr. Toastmaster—Fifteen years ago I had a practice in this town that amounted to $12,000 a year. I had a wife and family whom I supported in comfort. I had my own horse and carriage. At that time the guest of the evening was on his way west in an emigrant wagon. He landed in this town and started in to make his living. Since then, Mr. Toastmaster," he cried, with a pathetic break in his voice—"since that time I have been going steadily down, down, down, and our guest has been going up, up, up, until now we are just about on a level."

THE PARAGUAYANS.

A Lazy, Happy-go-lucky People in a Bankrupt Republic.

The infusion of Spanish blood and customs into the Guarani has produced a people with the faults and good qualities of both in about equal parts. Dark of complexion, with strongly marked Indian features, essentially gentle when untroubled or not unduly excited, careless of the morrow poor and honest, hospitable and generous, indolent and uncultured, strongly Catholic in theory, but generally lax in religious performances as to dogmas—this is a rough sketch of the native people of Paraguay. Asuncion, the capital, and even the smaller places—Villa Rica, San Pedro, Villa del Pilar, Villa Concepcion have their aristocratic families, of which the daughters and sons are sent to Europe to be educated and which maintain an exclusiveness that must be almost isolation. But in general the people mingle readily.

In the early morning in the streets of Asuncion the women gather in their long white dresses and barefooted to sell their wares. The younger women, judged by our standard, are beautiful and from carrying baskets and water jars on their heads have attained an erect and graceful carriage which our young women could well imitate. Besides, when they laugh they show two rows of pearls, and their speech in soft Guarani patois is worth going far to hear.

When you see Asuncion you see Paraguay, for it is the most advanced city in the republic. Its streets are poorly paved, it has mule cars which run at long intervals and low speed, and the hotel accommodations are not exceptional, but there is a kind of lazy, happy-go-lucky gayety about the city that represents the national feeling. Paraguay is hard up—yes, almost stone broke. The currency is paper and the value so small that for a hundred dollars one receives a basketful of ragged stuff, printed in Germany, to represent some nebulous indebtedness of the republic. Gold does not stay long in Paraguay, nor does it often enter the [illegible]—Van Norden Magazine.

Unreasonable.

"My husband is so very unreasonable."

"Most husbands are. What did yours do?"

"He fixed a fishhook in one of his pockets because he pretended to suppose that I robbed him at night, and then he blamed me because he forgot it was there."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

YOUR BRAIN.

Keep It Plastic by Not Overeating as You Grow Old.

Up to a certain age the brain remains plastic enough so that if an injury occurs to the thought brain the person can begin over again and create new knowledge centers in the other hemisphere.

This has happened in many cases where young people have lost certain powers of faculties by cerebral lesions and have afterward recovered these faculties by developing new centers in the other brain. It rarely happens after the age of forty-five, and the reason is because most persons after passing that age soon clog their brains with calcareous matter by overeating and destroy the plasticity of their brains by filling them with food waste.

If all people past the age of forty-five would live on twelve ounces or less of solid food per day we should soon find that one may receive new ideas as readily at seventy-five as at fifteen. You cannot do it, however, if your brain is a hardened mass of waste matter. If you overeat you will be "sot" in your ways and a has-been at fifty. Keep your phonograph records soft and receptive.—Nautilus.

A STAGE VILLAIN.

His Reputation Clung to Him Outside the Theater.

An actor in a small company was unable one night to get accommodation at the only hotel in an English town, it is said, because its proprietor, a remarkably slow going person for such a place, recognized him as the villain in the melodrama who had stolen a cash box, set fire to a house, killed a detective, damaged a race horse and betrayed the hero's sister.

But something like this really did happen to George Scott, manager of the Alhambra in London. In his younger days Mr. Scott was a stage villain of the deepest dye, and one of his favorite parts was that of the wicked Levison in "East Lynne."

After playing the character a few nights in Blackpool he had occasion for wishing to change his [illegible] and, knocking at the door of a house in the next street, was greeted by the good lady who opened it with a [illegible] and the subsequent exclamation:

"What! It's Levison, the dirty villin. Ye can't 'ave rooms in my 'ouse! Get out or I'll call the perlice!" —London M. A. P.

Steel Pen Helps Forgers.

The crime of forgery has been facilitated and increased by the modern introduction of metallic pens, gold and steel, says a writer in the Indianapolis News. The old fashioned quill pen was smooth and pleasant to write with, though it sometimes balked and sputtered, but it did not lend itself to skillful imitations as easily as the metallic pen does. The crime of forgery doubtless has been promoted by the almost universal education of modern times. In an age when everybody writes and when many are skillful penmen forgeries are much more frequent than they were centuries ago, when the person who could handle a pen was an exception. Many modern criminals make a living by committing forgeries, victimizing hotels, banks, capitalists and business men generally.

Domestic Economy.

"Hey, mon," exclaimed the braw, bonnie north countryman, "thrift is a wunnerful thing!"

"Yes," replied his English traveling companion. "You're right there. Now, I gave my wife a ten pound note to manage on last time I was away, and —would you believe it?—instead of exceeding it she saved nearly a sovereign out of it to buy herself a hat!"

"That's nowt," replied the Scotsman. "My wife gives the kids ha'pennies apiece to go to bed supperless; when they're asleep she takes the ha'pennies off on 'em ageeau, and then she makes 'em do wi'out ony breakfasts for losin' 'em! Hey, mon, that's thrift!"—London Scraps.

The Mendicant.

There are those who ascribe the word "mendicant" to the silly appellation put forth as a conundrum, meaning a poor wretch beyond the power of mending. But something very close to the term was in use as long ago as when Chaucer wrote his "Canterbury Tales." In the "Sompnoure's Tale" this occurs:

> Therefore we "mendiants," we sely freres.
> Ben wedded to poverte and continence.
> To charitee, humblesse and abstinence,
> etc.

The "sompnoure" of Chaucer was, of course, a summoner, or apparitor, and a person of low estate, and here we have, it is believed, the origin of the word, which came into common employment later.

TAFT MESSAGE SETS A RECORD

PRESIDENT SENDS TARIFF VIEWS TO CONGRESS.

IS SHORTEST DOCUMENT

Adheres to Revision Pledge with Treatise of Less Than 400 Words—Conditions Changed, He Says.

Washington. — When President Taft's personal messenger arrived at the capitol Tuesday, supposedly with the executive message on the tariff question, groans went up from both houses of congress. The congressmen, seeing no evidence of a message, drew the quick conclusion that the president hadn't written it yet and that it was to be postponed for another day.

They knew the message was to be short, but they were thunderstruck when the messenger pulled it out of his vest pocket and laid it before the clerks. It was less than 400 words in length, thus setting a new record for short messages. The messenger had memorized it on the way over from the White House, but owing to the amendment to the old house rules, he was not allowed to recite it, so the clerk read it there.

"Get busy," wa sthe theme of the abbreviated document, the president simply telling congress that conditions in the past 12 years had so changed that a revision of the present tariff duties was an absolute necessity. He further called attention to the fact that in the republican convention at Chicago last June, the party had promised to revise the tariff if elected and this must be done.

As President Roosevelt's messages were usually long and as the former occupant of the White House had engaged in a small war with congress, there was a general expression of satisfaction.

Following is the message:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives: I have convened the congress in this extra session in order to enable it to give immediate consideration to the revision of the Dingley tariff act. Conditions affecting production, manufacture and business generally have so changed in the last 12 years as to require a readjustment and revision of the import duties imposed by that act. More than this, the present tariff act, with the other sources of government revenue, does not furnish income enough to pay the authorized expenditures. By July 1st, next, the excess of expenses over receipts for the current fiscal year will equal $100,000,000.

"The successful party in the late election is pledged to a revision of the tariff. The country, and the business community, especially, expect it. The prospect of a change in the rates of import duties always causes a suspension or halt in business because of the uncertainty as to the changes to be made and their effect. It is therefore of the highest importance that the new bill should be agreed upon and passed with as much speed as possible consistent with its due and thorough consideration. For these reasons I have deemed the present to be an extraordinary occasion within the meaning of the constitution, justifying and requiring the calling of an extra session.

"In my inaugural address, I stated in a summary way the principles upon which, in my judgment, the revision of the tariff should proceed, and indicated at least one new source of revenue that might be properly resorted to in order to avoid a future deficit. It is not necessary for me to repeat what I then said.

"I venture to suggest that the vital business interests of the country require that the attention of the congress in this session be chiefly devoted to the consideration of the new tariff bill, and that the less time given to other subjects of legislation in this session, the better for the country.

(Signed) "WILLIAM H. TAFT.

BOY OUT OF WORK A SUICIDE.

Leaves a Pathetic Note for Little Girl, His Only Friend.

Indianapolis, Ind., Mar. 16.—Guthrie Powers, 19 years old, killed himself in his room by drinking carbolic acid late yesterday. He could not find work. He and the little daughter of the housekeeper were fast friends, and Guthrie left for the child the following note:

"My Dear Little Verna: I am sorry I cannot look into your dear, sweet face again. Honey, good-by. There is no place on earth for me. You are my dearest and only friend. What is life without friends or home?"

The youth left his home six weeks ago, after a quarrel with his stepfather.

Could Feel It Constantly Gaining Ground as Time Passed.

Mrs. Frank Roseboom, 512 W. Washington St., Moscow, Idaho, says: "Kidney trouble was hereditary, and my parents spent hundreds of dollars trying to cure me. I was nervous, my eyesight had failed noticeably, my circulation was bad, sleep fitful, heart action irregular, and my back so weak and painful I could hardly stand it. There was also an irregularity of the kidney secretions and a cold always made the whole trouble worse. I could tell many other symptoms, too, but shall only add that Doan's Kidney Pills made me free of all of them."

GOOD STORY TO POINT MORAL.

Told by Rabbi Krauskopf, Who Believes in Divorce.

"Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, our eloquent preacher," said a Philadelphian, "sees good rather than evil in the frequency of American divorce. He sees in it a sign that American wives will not endure the treatment that European wives put up with. He sees in it a promise that the married men of the future will live better.

"Discussing the divorce question the other day, he told me that they who perceived only evil in it reminded him, in their illogical and confused viewpoint, of a little boy with whom he once took a stroll.

"As they strolled, they passed the young girls of a neighboring boarding school out on their daily walk. The girls moved in military formation, two by two. In front were the youngest, in skirts to their knees. Next came the older ones, in the order of their ages, their skirts lengthening with their years. And in the rear came the oldest of all, the young ladies, whose skirts hid even their boots.

"The little boy looked at the girls. Then he frowned and said:

"'Why is it that their legs grow shorter as they grow bigger?'"

CUTICURA CURED HIM.

Eczema Came on Legs and Ankles—Could Not Wear Shoes Because

Of Bad Scaling and Itching.

"I have been successfully cured of dry eczema. I was inspecting the removal of noxious weeds from the edge of a river and was constantly in the dust from the weeds. At night I cleansed my limbs but felt a prickly sensation. I paid no attention to it for two years but I noticed a scum on my legs like fish scales. I did not attend to it until it came to be too itchy and sore and began getting two running sores. My ankles were all sore and scabby and I could not wear shoes. I had to use carpet and felt slippers for weeks. I got a cake of the Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment. In less than ten days I could put on my boots and in less than three weeks I was free from the confounded itching. Capt. George P. Bliss, Chief of Police, Morris, Manitoba, Mar. 20, 1907, and Sept. 24, 1908."

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Mankato Murder Defendant Free.

Mankato.—The trial of Ambrose Rieff on the charge of murder in the first degree in connection with the death of an infant child alleged to have been born to Mrs. Emma Timmerman March 20 last came to a sudden end this afternoon when the court directed a verdict for the defendant. The state rested Saturday and the defense moved to dismiss the case on the ground that there was no evidence that a crime had been committed by any one. This motion was today overruled by the court. The defense put in no testimony but rested and then moved for a directed verdict on the ground that the evidence was not sufficient to justify the submission of the case to the jury. Judge Pfau, in granting the motion, said that, while there had been evidence produced tending to prove the birth and death of a child and that Rieff was its father, there seemed to be absolutely no evidence tending to show that it had come to its death by violence, unless it was evidence tending to show that Rieff had tried to conceal the fact of the birth and death from the public, but this could be explained by his own fear of arrest on other and less serious charges.

Pennington Is New Soo Head.

Minneapolis—At a meeting of the directors of the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Saut Ste. Marie railway company, Edmund Pennington, vice president and general manager of the company, was elected president to fill the vacancy made by the late Thomas Lowry. The office of vice president and general manager remains vacant for the present. Horace Lowry, superintendent of the Minneapolis division of the Twin City Rapid Transit company, was elected a director of the company to succeed his father.

An additional stock issue of 24 per cent or $6,048,000 was authorized to meet the financial needs of the company. This makes the total capitalization about $30,000,000. The lease of the railroad and property of the Wisconsin Central railroad to the Soo line for a period of 99 years was ratified by the directors at the meeting.

Rochester Has New Mayor.

Rochester.—In one of the most interesting municipal elections ever held in this city Mayor Julius J. Reiter was defeated for re-election by the Republican candidate, J. C. Thompson, by a majority of ninety-nine votes. W. H. Hendricks was also defeated for re-election as city treasurer by Thomas Hall. In the Third ward the present alderman, C. M. Johnson, and the Democratic candidate, William Lenz, each polled 163 votes, and these two men will cast lots to determine the winner. The mayoralty contest furnished the greatest speculation, the candidates being neighbors, added to which is the fact that Reiter was the candidate of the temperance element two years ago, while this year Thompson was the representative of that element.

New Y. M. C. A. at Sauk Center.

There is a Bible study class of twenty-five members.

Sues to Recover Estate.

Waseca.—Andrew Foslien of New Richland has instituted action in the district court in behalf of his ward, Anna (Olsen) Swensen, to recover one-half of the estate of the late S. Swensen. It is alleged by the plaintiff that Anna Swensen was adopted when a little girl by Mr. and Mrs. Swensen, and that upon the death of Mr. Swensen she was placed under the care of Mr. Foslien. The Swensen estate was sold to T. H. Walthers of this city and he will thus be called on to prove clear title to the property.

WHAT WIFE SAYS "GOES."

But It Sometimes Is Bad for the Painting.

When a property-owner knows nothing about paint it is bad for the property-owner, and bad for the painter. It would not be so if the property-owner would always hire a skilled painter, and then really leave everything to him. But the house-owner so often fools himself on one or the other of these things.

The skilled painter in every community has some of the most incompetent competitors that ever vexed a conscientious workman or contractor, and the incompetents get jobs generally by working cheap. In the next place, when the skilled painter is hired, they do not leave everything to him, as so many property-owners boast they do.

They interfere most ignorantly and most fatally. They insist sometimes on using paint materials without investigating whether they are good or not. Or perhaps they insist on the painter's hurrying the work.

"I'm not going to have that painter's mess around my house a month," the wife says, and what wife says goes—at the cost of a lot of wasted painting money.

If the painter stays away a few days to allow the paint to thoroughly dry the owner says: "That painter's neglecting this work—guess he's side-tracking me for Jones' work. I won't stand it."

What chance does a painter have to do good work for a man who is continually nagging at him and otherwise handicapping him (without meaning it, of course)? A poor job is the inevitable result of such interference.

Poor painting costs the houseowner money—don't forget that. It might pay you to get the practical paint book, painting specifications and instrument for detecting paint adulterants, which National Lead Co. are offering under the title of House Owner's Painting Outfit No. 49. Address National Lead Co., 1902 Trinity Bldg., New York City. This company do not make paint (they leave that to the painter to do) but they make pure white lead ("Dutch Boy Painter" trademark kind), and they can tell you how to save money by securing durable painting.

Wanted Longer Sermons.

It was a proud boast one clergyman made to two or three others who were having a quiet chat in his study the other night—namely, that he had actually on one occasion been asked to make his service, both prayers and sermon, a bit longer.

His brethren regarded him with superstitious awe, and one asked, feebly: "Where on earth was that?"

"Well, boys," was the frank confession, "it was with a goal where I acted as chaplain for a short time. The poor beggars dreaded to leave the church for their cells."

What He Lacked.

It is related of a South American general, who was extremely well pleased with himself, that once, when about to sally forth to a grand dance, he surveyed himself contentedly in the mirror, and then soliloquized thus:

"Ah! Thou hast all—bravery, wealth, position, good looks. Ah, what dost thou lack?"

Whereupon his orderly, who, unknown to the general, was close at hand, remarked:

"Sense, general, sense!"

What Ailed Tommie.

Tommie was eating walnuts. His mother cautioned him about eating many, fearing they would make him sick. Presently he came in, his hand on his stomach and a very distressed look in his face.

"Those nuts have made you sick, I see. I just knew they would," said the mother.

"They haven't, either," whined Tommie. "I am not sick; it's just my pants are too tight."—Delineator.

Proving His Caution.

Elder W. H. Underwood, chaplain of the state senate, was walking down a street at his home at Clay Center recently with a friend. Another friend, with whom Underwood joked a good deal, met them and said: "Elder, I thought you were careful of the company you keep."

"I am," replied the chaplain, walking right on. "I'm not going to stop."—Kansas City Journal.

DIDN'T REALIZE

How Injurious Coffee Really Was.

Many persons go on drinking coffee year after year without realizing that it is the cause of many obscure but persistent ailments.

The drug—caffeine—in coffee and tea, is very like uric acid and is often the cause of rheumatic attacks which, when coffee is used habitually, become chronic.

A Washington lady said, recently: "I am sixty-five and have had a good deal of experience with coffee. I consider it very injurious and the cause of many diseases. I am sure it causes decay of teeth in children.

"When I drank coffee I had sick spells and still did not realize that coffee could be so harmful, till about a year ago I had rheumatism in my arms and fingers, got so nervous I could not sleep, and was all run down.

"At last, after finding that medicines did me no good, I decided to quit coffee entirely and try Postum. After using it six months I fully recovered my health beyond all expectations, can sleep sound and my rheumatism is all gone." "There's a Reason."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek Mich. Read the famous little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs.

WHAT A FORMER OREGON FARMER THINKS OF WESTERN CANADA.

Albert Nelson left Benton Co., Oregon, in Sept., 1904, for the great Canadian prairies. To quote from his letter: "I was greatly surprised to find such an immense stretch of rich virgin prairie still almost unoccupied in the very heart of North America. The splendid crops of oats, wheat, barley, potatoes and hay I beheld in the settlements made me very eager for a piece of this rich soil, and I soon located in the Goose Lake country. We have here a great stretch of the rich, deep clay loam of the Saskatchewan—a soil heavy and hard to break, but particularly well adapted for the retention of moisture and production of the bright No. 1 hard wheat, and great crops of oats, barley, flax and potatoes. I had 60 bushels of oats, weighing 441 lb. to the bushel, per acre. Some of my neighbors had still greater yields. Wheat yielded from 20 to 30 bushels per acre. We have all done well here, and I could name many Americans who came here with means to go ahead, who have done big already. For homesteads one has to go further west, but the best prairie can be bought here for from $12.00 to $16.00 per acre. The climate is dry and healthy. This is the regular Saskatchewan fall weather—frosty nights, and bright, sunny days—ideal for threshing and hauling out of wheat. The trails are dusty, as thousands of wheat teams are moving towards the elevators.

"The sight of it makes one stop and wonder what it will be in a few years when the immense prairies get under cultivation. Heavy snowfall is the exception here. Snow generally falls in December and goes off in March. It sometimes gets very cold, but the Saskatchewan farmer does not fear the cold. Winter is his season of rest. The first or second crop he builds a comfortable house for himself, and warm stables for his horses. He need not, like some be poking about in the mud all winter attending a few beasts for a livelihood."

HIS MAD CAME LATER.

Paris Banker Falls Victim to a Practical Joker Friend.

Our friend, the mysterious practical joker, who amuses all Paris with his pranks, has ended the year with a hoax that does honor to his fertile brain.

If ever you have been to the Jardin d'Acclimatation—the Paris zoo—you will have seen there dozens of little boys and girls being promenaded through the gardens on the back of a camel or an elephant—as many of them as the animal can conveniently carry.

A few days ago the mammas watching their offspring indulge in that harmless sport were not a little surprised to see a middle-aged gentleman, faultlessly dressed, all by himself, astride on a dromedary. One of the ladies then uttered a little scream when she recognized in the rider M. X——, a well-known banker in this city.

Was he mad? Not a bit of it. He was only the victim of the anonymous practical joker who had sent him a letter on official paper, informing him that he had been appointed general manager of the government bank to be opened in Morocco.

"But," added the document, "as the communications in that country are very primitive, we advise you to practice camel riding."

The poor man believed this story, and he is now compelled to travel underground to escape his friends.—Queen.

320 ACRES INSTEAD OF 160 ACRES

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

As further inducement to settlement of the wheat-raising lands of Western Canada, the Canadian Government has increased the area that may be taken by a homesteader to 320 acres—160 free and 160 to be purchased at $3.00 per acre. These lands are in the grain-raising area, where mixed farming is also carried on with unqualified success. A railway will shortly be built to Hudson Bay, bringing the world's markets a thousand miles nearer these wheat-fields, where schools and churches are convenient, climate excellent, railways close to all settlements, and local markets good.

The bill locating a sixth Normal school at Cass Lake was passed by the senate on Thursday without a vote to spare. Some of the senators failed to vote on the measure. Wonder why?

The lower house of the legislature has passed a bill placing a tonnage tax on iron ore. Outside of St. Louis county this measure will meet with general approval. The senate may kill the measure or [illegible] there's no telling at this distance.

The senate committee has d[illegible] a new reapportionment [illegible] which, if enacted into law, [illegible] down the number of senators [illegible]teen and increase the number of repre[illegible]sentatives by two. The bill [illegible]vides for making a senatorial district of Becker, Mahnomen, Clearwater and Red Lake counties and will give each of these counties a representative with only one senator for all four.

During the past couple of weeks the general public has been pestered to death by circulars sent out from St. Paul in an effort to enlist public aid in killing off the establishment of the Armour packing plant at New Brighton We are not inclined to believe that the packing plant would be by any means such a nuisance as the St. Paul people claim. If St. Paul has a quarrel with Minneapolis, let them settle it between themselves.

Crookston is enjoying a reform wave with vengeance. Some time ago the administration clapped the lid on the saloons. Later on a very stringent pool room ordinance was passed and is being rigidly enforced. These interests have now served notice on the administration that all other places must be regulated in accordance with the state laws and the chances are that there will either be some modification in the present condition or that all will be forced to live up to the letter of the law. Its fine to make the other fellow walk a line but the u[illegible] not remain when the other [illegible] on you.

The Word "Wallop."

The origin of the familiar vernacular verb "to wallop" is not generally known. It comes from the family name of the earls of Portsmouth. Sir John Wallop, K. G. was admiral commander in the reign of King Henry VIII of the fleet which avenged French raids by burning French ships and twenty-one French villages. This was called, in the current parlance of the times, "walloping" them, and the phrase passed into the language and still survives.

A Convenient Topic.

"I wonder what persuaded Mr. Bliggins to believe in reincarnation?"

"The fact," replied Miss Cayenne, "that so few people know anything about it. It enables him to have the conversation almost entirely to himself."—Washington Star.

EXPLOSIVES.

Best Way to Destroy Gunpowder and Nitroglycerin.

The best way to destroy ordinary black gunpowder is to throw it into a stream under conditions that prevent any harm coming to human beings or animals through the dissolving of the saltpeter. If no suitable stream is available, the gunpowder may be stirred with water in tubs, or the dry gunpowder may be poured out on the ground in a long thin line and ignited with a fuse at one end.

To destroy dynamite cartridges the paper wrappings should be carefully removed, the bare cartridges laid in a row with their ends in contact and the first cartridge ignited with a fuse without a cap. Even with these precautions a simultaneous explosion of the entire mass may occur, so that it is wise to retire to a safe distance. The row of cartridges should be laid parallel with the wind and ignited at the leeward end, so that the flame will be driven away from the mass.

Frozen dynamite should be handled with special care, as its combustion is peculiarly liable to assume an explosive character. A small quantity of dynamite may be destroyed by throwing it in very small bits into an open fire, or the cartridges may be exploded one by one in the open air with fuses and caps.

Dynamite should never be thrown into water, as the nitroglycerin which it contains remains undissolved and capable of doing mischief. Other explosives which contain nitroglycerin should be treated in the same way as dynamite.

Ammonium nitrate explosives may be thrown, in small fragments into an open fire or if they do not contain nitroglycerin may be destroyed by means of water. Explosive caps should be exploded singly with pieces of fuse.—Scientific American.

Surveyors At Work?

Settlers living between the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers east of this city are very much excited these days. For the past several day railroad surveyors have been at work running lines in this section. The surveyors are not giving out any information, but the settlers are doing all kinds of speculating. At first it was thought sure that the surveyors were laying out the new Thief River Falls-Duluth line, but of late there is a rumor in circulation that the Great Northern is going to build a line from Thief River Falls to connect with the Fosston extension of the Duluth line. Only one thing seems to be certain and that is that the surveyors are at work in this territory. This report is brought to the city by numerous settlers.—Thief River Falls News.

We have pretty reliable information to the effect that the "surveying crews" mentioned in the above are a number of local parties who were engaged in outlining routes for several new ditches which are to be put in between the rivers. In fact some of the petitions for these ditches have been drawn during the past few days. A thorough system of drainage will do more for that particular territory than a railroad would at present and it is not at all likely that any new railroad will be surveyed therugh that country until the land is made productive enough to give the railroad some business. The drainage projects now coming up are sure enough the best measures to increase the value of the lands.

Died at Faribault.

Albert Pufahl yesterday received a tellegram bearing the sad news of the death of his brother Theodore at the old home near Faribault. Last April Albert was called down to attend this same brother whose life was despaired of at that time, the cause being grief over the death of his young wife to whom he had been married for a year. He never fully recovered from his attack of that time and of late has been failing in health. His death was not expected however or Albert would have been notified. Albert came in from Equality last evening and went down to attend the funeral which will be held on Monday.

Torval Iversen, who has been spending the winter with his brother on the reservation, left yesterday for Sharon, N. D., where he will take up his old line of work as carpenter and building contractor.

District Court.

The spring term of district court for Red Lake county convened at Red Lake Falls on Monday. There was only one matter for the consideration of the grand jury and that was sidetracked by the defendant entering a plea of guilty to larceny. The case against Dr. Gronerud, who was charged with having performed a criminal operation on a girl at Thief River Falls, was put over and the doctor released from jail. Owing to the absence of the girl the case may never come up for trial.

There are 32 civil cases on the calendar, but several of these will undoubtedly be continued over the term

The petit jury got busy on Tuesday and one of the first cases to be tried was that of Miss Schusser against the Soo railroad company. This was an action for damages alleged to have been sustained by the plaintiff at Thief River Falls last fall. The company had made an offer of judgement for $1,000 in settlement of the case, which was refused The jury found a verdict for the defendant in that amount. The amount sued for was $10,000.

The case of McAndress vs McAndress, involves an interesting point of law and the question will have to be decided as to wehther or not a father is responsible for the care of a minor child when the child has been left a legacy by a deceased relative.

Telephone Manners.

Do telephones lead to politeness or otherwise? When they first came into use the answer to this question would have been emphatically in the negative, but now that they are almost universally prevalent an era of good manners and "thank you's" seems to be in full swing. In some communities it is not even possible to quarrel over the telephone, although the two women who took part in the following conversation came near it:

"Hello! Is this Mrs. Weston?"

"Yes."

"This is your next door neighbor, Mrs. Lawrence. I thought you might be interested to know that at the present moment your son Thomas is sitting on one of the sheets which are bleaching on my lawn and is building a large pile of mud on it."

"Oh, thank you, Mrs. Lawrence!" exclaimed the mother. "And may I return the favor by informing you that your setter Rab has just rooted up my two new rosebushes and that he seems to be chewing the buds!"

"Oh, indeed! Thank you! Goodby!"

"Not at all. Thank you! Goodby!"

Not a Bark.

"Then you don't have any dogwatch on this craft?" inquired the anxious passenger, according to a writer in Life.

"No. This is a catboat."

AN ENGLISH HOLIDAY

How East Side London Plays on Boxing Day.

ROUGH SPORT IS THE RULE.

All Cockneyland Flocks to Historic Hampstead Heath, Where Hilarity, Fast and Furious, Rules From Early Morning Till After Midnight.

Boxing day is a great institution in England. The day after Christmas is Boxing day, so called because in the old days it marked the occasion of the actual giving of Christmas boxes. Now it is a national holiday. Besides being the last in the year, it has to satisfy Londoners, at all events, until Easter Monday. It's a great day in Cockneyland, and the east end crowds to Hampstead heath, the picturesque open space in the northwest of London.

All roads lead to the heath. Soon after daybreak the procession begins. Fully loaded traps and donkey barrows are the principal items in the vehicular traffic, but the majority are on foot, singing and shouting for the holiday.

"'Ere yer are, Sir 'Enry," shouts a woman, pushing a tin squirt filled with water into your face. "'Ere yer are, Sir 'Enery; all the fun of the fair. Two a penny. 'Ave a couple, will yer, m'lud?"

The London street merchants have the habit of giving prospective customers a title, presumably on the theory that a Londoner likes to have people believe that he is some well known [illegible].

Should you be persuaded into buying "a couple" the chances are a moment later you will be face to face with 'Arriet. She wears a large hat trimmed with large feathers of brilliant hue, has a hair fringe down over her forehead and a bright colored dress. Probably several will be in a line, each with an arm around the other's [illegible] and a mouth organ in the other hand. There is battle in their eyes, and before you are aware of it a stream of water will be running down your face. ~~The best thing to do is to~~ [illegible] if you should give battle you are sure to retire, defeated, with your collar like a wet rag and a most uncomfortable feeling of dampness down your back.

Once on the heath the coconut pitches will first claim your notice.

"'Ere yer are, kernel; seven shies a tanner. Every one yer knocks off yer 'ave. They're all milky. [illegible] and kids 'arf way."

Then this scene will meet your eye. Outside a large tent stands a [illegible] platform. On it are half a dozen men stripped to the waist with sashes tied across their chests. One of them, evidently the proprietor, twirls a big rattle, which gives forth a most deafening noise. At last it stops, and he begins:

"Loidies and gents, I wants ter interduce to yer notice some of the best boxers in the world. 'Im at the end is Felix Scott of Liverpool. 'E'll fight any man in the crahd, and if he don't put 'im aht in three rahnds 'e'll give 'im a quid. Nah, then, who'll 'ave a go on with the champion?"

Some one accepts the inviting offer and a rush is made to pay the admission fee and get into the tent.

A company of traveling actors is assembled on the platform outside the next tent, all made up in their war paint. The piece to be performed is "Othello." The price of admission is a penny. A reserved seat, an empty box, will cost you another penny. And the house soon fills.

Outside you will find every form of outdoor amusement in full swing—"Aunt Sallies," swings, roundabouts, skipping and donkeys. The latter are greatly patronized. Young men and maidens, old men and women, all have "a pannorth of donkey ride." A fat woman clings to one poor beast's neck, shouting:

"Oo'er, I'm sure I'm falling. Don't make 'im go so fast. He, look at me 'at. Lemme get off. I'm sure yer 'itting 'im."

When the dust has cleared away she is seen lying in the road panting:

"I know'd yer done it on purpose!"

At last the journey home is begun, everybody happy and tired, yet not too tired to link arms, the men wearing the girls' feathered hats and pearl buttoned coats and the girls wearing caps and hats and wondrous masculine jackets. All are singing different songs, but every now and then they break forth in unison with popular songs of the moment. In the saloons they drink beer out of one pewter and swear undying love and friendship till the voice of the proprietor, it now being 12:30 in the morning and closing time, is heard calling, "Time, gents, please," and a final start is made.

This may answer the question why the average Cockney worker always wants a second day off to get over Boxing day.—New York Times.

Lady Wortley Montagu used to say that her only objection to being a man was that she would have to marry a woman.

MINNESOTA SOLONS

HOUSE PASSES THE 40 PER CENT ASSESSMENT BILL.

Leavitt Exonerated, House Voting to Have No Investigation of His Office.

St. Paul, Minn., March 22.—Thru a resolution passed at the session of the house today, by the committee on mines and minerals, the house committee on appropriations is unanimously requested to grant an allowance of $25,000 for the erection of a state iron lands headquarters building at Hibbing.

Mr. Grant of Duluth introduced a measure to appropriate $13,475.94 "for the relief of Fred L. Ryan," surveyor general of logs for the Duluth district. It seems that on order of the state, Mr. Ryan had a large quantity of logs of the Rainy Lake River Run Boom company scaled, in Beltrami county, on which scaling the company refuses to pay the fees. Mr. Ryan desires to have the state pay the fees to him, and then turn around and sue the company, on the ground that the state can make a stronger case than he can individually. Mr. Grant also introduced a bill today for the benefit of northern Minnesota school districts which are too poor to collect proper and needed school taxes. The bill provides that in such school districts, where the population is less than 3,000, the state auditor, on petition, may be allowed to grant not to exceed $3,500 state aid to each district.

Mr. Campbell of Minneapolis introduced a bill which follows out the recommendations of the governor's special message on the subject of employers' liability. It provides for a state investigating commission of three, to serve two years without pay and to be appointed by the governor—one representative of labor, one of the employers, and the third to be an attorney. They are to report to the next legislature. Probation officers in counties of over 30,000 population, to be appointed by the district judge, are provided in a bill introduced by Mr. Holton. A bill by Mr. Rines requires that timber and logs be listed for taxation in the town where it is located May 1 of each year. Mr. Carlson would help county exhibits and fairs, by permitting the state to pay one-half the premiums offered. Messrs. Opsahl and Sulerud have a reapportionment bill; the 61st legislative district to be composed of Norman, Clearwater and Mahnomen counties, with one senator and a representative for each county; and the 64th district to be made up of Beltrami and Red Lake counties, with one senator and a representative for each county. Mr. Bicknell also has a re-apportionment proposition, providing that the 57th district shall be composed of Grant, Stephens and Traverse counties, with one senator, and a representative for each district.

St. Paul, Minn., March 23.—The bill for a constitutional amendment aiming at state-wide prohibition went down and out in the house today. The temperance committee brought in a recommendation that the bill be indefinitely postponed. E. E. Lobeck of Alexandria, prohibitionist, made a lengthy speech pleading that the recommendation be turned down and the bill advanced to general orders. He contended that state prohibition aims to "protect the weak against the strong, the first, last, and greatest duty of the state." On roll call, 61 votes were for the committee report to kill the bill, and but 38 in favor of advancing the measure to general orders.

The bill prohibiting "treating" met with a like fate. It was recommended by the temperance committee for indefinite postponement, and I. J. Lee of Glenwood plead with the house to decline to adopt the report, and to advance the measure to general orders. The house is in favor, apparently, of the prevailing custom of "setting them up," and adopted the committee's recommendation by a vote of 59 to 40.

Messrs. W. A. Nolan, J. A. Dalzel, F. T. White, D. A. Stuart, Carl Wallace, W. H. Wescott, R. J. Wells, A. J. Gates, and Henry Rines, joined today in the introduction of a lengthy resolution which was passed, and which calls for the appointment of a committee of five to investigate the details of the new state prison bill, which includes very expensive residences for the warden and his assistants, and green houses alone costing a fortune. The bill appropriates $2,225,000. John Zelch gave notice of debate. Some of the items objected to are as follows: for a chapel, $90,000; green houses, $26,000; warden's residence, $30,000; residence for assistants, $20,000.

A lengthy resolution, presented by L. C. Spooner, was adopted. It recites that congress has taken action relative to improving the Minnesota river and other Minnesota waterways, and that C. J. Mershon has recommended extensive canal improvements in Minnesota, such as the connection of the Lake of the Woods and Lake Traverse; that therefore the legislature make a thorough investigation of the subject. The resolution, however, does not provide for any investigating committee.

C. J. Carlson of Plainview introduced a bill in the house today, providing that mining companies which do business in Minnesota, and sell their stocks and bonds, must be incorporated.

After lengthy debate, the house this afternoon in committee of the whole voted to recommend for passage the Thayer bill making a state tax of one cent per $100 on all sales or agreements to sell, at any exchange, board of trade, or similar place. Burdette Thayer of Spring Valley spoke at length on the bill, arguing for its passage. W. D. Washburn, Jr., of Minneapolis declared it to be "an unusual and unjust form of taxation." The Thayer bill for a 10 cent tax on every $100 face value of mortgages was recommended to pass by a vote of 54 to 36.

Important bills of general application passed by the senate this afternoon include the following: by Clague, for a constitutional amendment to permit the state to pay one-half instead of one-third the cost of improving county roads and bridges. By Stephens, granting an additional $750 of state aid to such high schools as have a course in commercial training. The senate judiciary committee bill, regulating trading stamp business, and providing that firms issuing them must agree to redeem them. By Thorpe establishing uniform bills of lading forms as suggested by the interstate commerce commission.

Several new bills put in an appearance. Senator Seward had a bill to give the 17th legislative district an additional representative—that is, one representative each for Lincoln, Lyon, and Yellow Medicine counties. Senator Works had a bill which requires that city councils must call special elections to consider proposed new city charters within six months after charter commissions complete their charter drafts. The senate also reconsidered the semi-monthly pay-day bill, relating to public service corporations, which it killed a few days ago. The measure was replaced on general orders.

St. Paul, Minn., March 24.—But one of the three tax commission bills considered as a special order in the house this afternoon survived the ordeal, the bill providing that all property shall be listed at its full valuation and then assessed uniformly at 40 per cent for taxation purposes. There were many attempts to amend it, but all failed.

The tax commission bill for a $200 personal property exemption was then discussed, but on roll call only secured 56 ayes to 38 nays, 60 being necessary for passage. Next came the commission bill for county assessors, but on roll call the measure only drew 51 yeas to 55 nays.

The board of control, especially S. W. Leavitt, its chairman, was exonerated from all criticism by the house today, when it voted, 80 to 21, to adopt the report of the majority of the public accounts committee, which made an exhaustive investigation of the board and its relation to the public examiner.

L. C. Spooner introduced a bill in the house today providing for creation of a commission consisting of the governor, auditor, and attorney general, to make a two years' investigation of drainage and waterways and water power improvements in the Minnesota river valley, and tributary stream valleys, and of canal connections between the important lakes of northern Minnesota, leading into the Mississippi.

On motion of C. A. Johnson of St. Peter, the senate today advanced the legislative salary bill from general orders to the calendar, where it will doubtless pass. This bill permits legislators to draw $1,000 salary legislative year, instead of $500 each year of their two year terms. Bills passed in the senate this afternoon included the following: By Rines, for reservation of state water powers and mineral rights; by Wilson, making marriage a civil contract and refusing future legal recognition of common law marriages; by Vail, to exempt bequests for benevolent or charitable purposes from the state inheritance tax.

The senate tax committee today took up the Bjorge iron ore tonnage tax bill for preliminary consideration. H. D. Bjorge stated he would like an hour and a half or two hours to speak for the bill. It was decided that the tax committee will give the bill its first hearing in the senate chamber one week from tonight, at which time Mr. Bjorge will be allowed the entire evening if he desires it. Senator George R. Laybourn of Duluth reminded the committee that representatives of the Duluth commercial club, iron range town residents, and others, desired to be heard, and secured assurance that they will be given full opportunity to express themselves at a later date.

Spreading the Gospel.

A missionary deaconess in Liberia has edited in native dialect a book containing the Ten Commandments, the Apostles' Creed, the doxology and a number of the best known hymns. The book is not only the first book published in the dialect, but the first successful attempt to make it a written language.

BACKACHE IS KIDNEYACHE.

Usually There Are Other Troubles to Prove It.

Pain in the back is pain in the kidneys, in most cases, and it points to the need of a special remedy to relieve and cure the congestion or inflammation of the kidneys that is interfering with their work and causing that pain that makes you say: "Oh, my back."

Thompson Watkins, professional nurse, 420 N. 23d St., Parsons, Kans., says: "For some time I was annoyed with sharp twinges across the small of my back and irregular passages of the kidney secretions. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills I am free from these troubles."

PROSAIC ENDING OF DREAM.

Nevertheless, Editor Believes It Portends Some Good Luck.

The dream of an unknown Kansas editor:

She was dressed in green, and a serpent of old gold and with red eyes encircled her arm. Her hair was very black and loose. Her eyes, black and deep, seemed to search me through as she held my hand in hers and looked up from the palm she had been reading.

"Your death will come suddenly," she said.

"Will it be a railroad collision or a hotel fire?" we inquired.

"I cannot say," she said, "but it will be so sudden as to be painless."

Just then we awoke, because somebody was punching us in the ribs and saying: "Get on your side of the bed and let me have my share of the quilts."

But we have been thinking about it since, and we believe somebody is going to pay his subscription in advance. —Kansas City Journal.

Disease Cured by Cuticura.

"My six year old daughter had the dreadful disease called hives for two months. She became affected by playing with children who had it. By scratching she caused large sores which were irritating. Her body was a complete sore but it was worse on her arms and back. We employed a physician who left medicine but it did not help her and I tried several remedies but without avail. Seeing the Cuticura Remedies advertised, I thought I would try them. I gave her a hot bath daily with Cuticura Soap and anointed her body with Cuticura Ointment. The first treatment relieved the itching and in a short time the disease disappeared. Mrs. George L. Fridhoff, Warren, Mich., June 30 and July 13, 1908."

She Earned It.

Mabel liked candy. However, she was not allowed nearly as much as she would like. One day her father told her that she could have three pieces if she would kiss a visitor who was coming to dinner. As soon as the front door was opened she rushed up and implanted the kiss with much gusto, and then turned to her father.

"Now, papa, give me the candy for kissing her."

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Minnesota Miners Are Hurt.

Coleraine—Three accidents of a serious nature occurred at the Canisteo mine here. Steve Bruzitch, a young Austrian, employed as pitman at Shovel No. 1,382, was caught by a half frozen mass that fell from the bank above the shovel and his entire body was crushed save his head. It was necessary to chain the mass and hoist it up with the shovel before Burzitch could be removed. He is also suffering from internal injuries, but will probably recover. Dominic Allo, an Italian trammer in No. 2 shaft, had his leg broken above the ankle by a dump cart dumping unexpectedly while he was riding on it. James Murphy, a cranesman, was the victim of the third accident. He and the shovel crew were at the bottom of the pit repairing a broken chain when a falling chunk caught his leg against a crane rod, amputating it at the knee.

Tax Judgments Invalid.

St. Cloud—In the case of J. A. Stanton of Sauk Rapids against A. D. Davidson et al., which is an action to quiet title of plaintiff to 240 acres of land in Morrison county, judgment will be entered in favor of Mr. Stanton, quieting his title and for costs, the court having held that the tax judgment of which the defendant Davidson claimed the title to the land was void on its face. The grounds upon which this tax judgment was held void, if sustained by the supreme court, will probably result in the invalidation of every tax title made under the so-called forfeited sale of 1909.

Family's Escape Is Marvel.

Rochester—The worst fire in this city in years totally destroyed the beautiful home of Frank Chute with all its contents, and the escape of the family from the burning building was miraculous. The fire originated in the cellar, and it was not known until a neighbor saw the flames about midnight. Mrs. Chute awoke, hearing something fall, and found her room completely filled with smoke. She called her husband and they hastily secured their children and made their escape. All their clothing, furniture and many valuable keepsakes were consumed by the fire. The loss will be about $6,000.

Will Join Paris Dwarf Colony.

Waseca, Minn.—Don Ward, a midget 20 years of age, whose early home was in this city, stopped off here to visit relatives while on his way from Missoula, Mont., to Paris. Mr. Ward has traveled extensively through the northwest and is now engaged to join a company of midgets gathered from all parts of the world, who will form a colony near Paris and co-operate in show work.

Kintop Murder Suspect Freed.

St. Cloud—Joseph Kennedy, charged with the murder of Annie Kintop, at Randall on April 10, 1905, was discharged by Justice Gaudet. He was discharged on the evidence of George Jackson and John Wilson, two Park Rapids lumbermen. They testified that the defendant was working for them in the northern Minnesota woods at the time the murder was committed. This testimony completely upset the state's case and Kennedy was immediately discharged.

Train Mangles Farmer.

Waseca—Dave T. Johnson, a farmer 35 years old, living five miles north of town, was killed by a Minneapolis & St. Louis train on a crossing a mile north of town. The body was not found until this morning and was brought to this city. His head was smashed, arms and neck broken, and one hand cut off. He was not married.

NEWS NOTES.

Minneapolis.—One of the best of the season's melodramatic productions is Hal Reid's latest and best play, "The Kentuckian," which will be at the Bijou the week of March 28. Mr. Reid himself appears in the leading role, that of Dave Morton, a mountaineer.

Wadena—The jury in the case of the state against Emil Waldo disagreed after being out for several hours. Judge Taylor discharged the jury. It is probable that the case will be re-tried at the next term of court. Waldo was tried on the charge of abusing a 16-year-old girl.

Minneapolis—A wolf fight near the Massolt Bottling works set that part of the town into excitement that brought merchants and customers from stores and gathered a big crowd. A huge timber wolf had wandered into that locality, probably coming down the Northern Pacific track or the river, and was first discovered by a boy who saw the brute hiding under a boxcar. He is thought to have followed the scent of some cattle which were being shipped.

Little Falls—Alfred A. Frederickson, the Darling merchant arrested in connection with the Annie Kintop murder case, and who was brought here from Minneapolis for hearing will come before the court next Saturday, a week's postponement having been granted on motion of the state's attorney.

Minneapolis—Andrew Baver, 37 years old, an employe of the Northern Pacific Express company, was run down and instantly killed by a Northern Pacific passenger train in the Union station.

PREVENTING PAINT TROUBLES.

It's easy enough to recognize the symptoms of poor paint, after it has been on awhile—after its inherent tendency to crack and peel and scale and blister, etc., has developed into trouble. You know these paint "diseases" usually indicate adulteration or substitution in the paint materials. And you know the only remedy is repainting.

A little knowledge of paint and painting requirements, and how to made sure of the purity and quality of materials, would prevent all trouble, and save the big extra expense of re-painting; just as a proper knowledge of simple health-laws, and observance of them, prevents sickness.

A complete painting guide, including a book of color schemes, specifications for all kinds of painting work, and an instrument for detecting adulteration in paint materials, with directions for using it, can be had free by writing National Lead Co., 1902 Trinity Bldg., New York, and asking for Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49.

A very simple guide in the purchase of white lead (the only sure and safe paint material) is the famous "Dutch Boy Painter" trademark; that trademark is an absolute guarantee of purity and quality.

DOUBTED TALES OF SCIENTIST.

Scotsman's Summing Up of Character of Man of Learning.

Sir Archibald Geikie, the distinguished geologist, who will probably succeed Lord Rayleigh as president of the Royal society, tells a good story in his capital book of "Scottish Reminiscences."

"I was quite sure you had been in our neighborhood," a friend said to Sir Archibald. "I met the old farmer of G——, who had a strange tale to tell me.

"'Dod, Mr. Caithcart,' he began, 'I ran across the queerest body the other day. As I was coming by the head of the cleugh I thocht I heard a wheen tinkers quarrelin', but when I lookit down there was ae wee stoot man. Whiles he was chappin the rocks wi' a hammer, whiles he was writin' in a book, whiles fetchin' with the thorns and misca'in them for a' that was bad. When he cam up frae the burn, him and me had a large confab. Dod! he tell't me a' about the stanes, and hoo they showed that Scotland was ance like Greenland, smoored in ice. A very entertainin' body, Mr. Caithcart, but—an awful', awful' leear."—Tit-Bits.

Some Resemblance.

A little girl in a California public school complained to her teacher that a Mexican boy had struck her. The teacher took Joe, the only Mexican boy in the school, sharply to task for the offense, but the boy denied it. "Mary," said the teacher, "Joe says he didn't strike you."

"Oh, no," said Mary, "'twan't Joe; twuz that tother boy over there," and she pointed to the blackest of negro boys in the school.

"But, Mary, that boy isn't a Mexican," said the teacher.

"Well, anyhow," said Mary, "he's very much tanned."

She Had Tested the Oyster.

Dora, the pet of the household, was very fond of oysters, and after eating her lunch of oysters and crackers she thought of her dear mother busy at her sewing machine. She selected a nice large oyster, put it in a plate and carried it to her mother, who, pleased with her little daughter's thoughtfulness, ate the oyster and said:

"It is most as good as my little girlie."

"Yes," answered Dora. "I know it is good 'cause I licked it all the way from the kitchen."—The Delineator.

Fiery Courtesy.

In a Canadian town a few days ago a dry goods firm was burned out in the morning. In the afternoon a competing firm inserted the following advertisement in a local paper:

"We desire to extend our sympathy to our respected competitors in their loss by fire and to express the hope that their affairs may soon be so adjusted as to enable them to continue business without undue loss of time."

LESS MEAT

Advice of Family Physician.

Formerly people thought meat necessary for strength and muscular vigor.

The man who worked hard was supposed to require meat two or three times a day. Science has found out differently.

It is now a common thing for a family physician to order less meat, as in the following letter from a N. Y. man.

"I had suffered for years with dyspepsia and nervousness. My physician advised me to eat less meat and greasy foods generally. I tried several things to take the place of my usual breakfast of chops, fried potatoes, etc., but got no relief until I tried Grape-Nuts food.

"After using Grape-Nuts for the cereal part of my meals for two years, I am now a well man. Grape-Nuts benefited my health far more than the $500.00 worth of medicine I had taken before.

"My wife and children are healthier than they had been for years, and we are a very happy family, largely due to Grape-Nuts.

"We have been so much benefited by Grape-Nuts that it would be ungrateful not to acknowledge it."

Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product, has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the appoval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed, because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always note, when purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States, in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, at Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

TURN ABOUT FAIR PLAY.

But Somehow Mrs. Newlywed Couldn't See the Point.

A young friend of mine, a jolly, convivial sort of a chap, got married recently, and at the end of the first week, upon receiving his salary of $20, he went home, gave his wife $18, and kept two for himself.

Of course, she thought that was lovely, but to her astonishment at the end of the second week he handed her only two dollars, keeping $20 for himself.

"Now, see here, John," she said, indignantly, "how do you suppose I am going to manage on two dollars a week?"

"I don't know, I am sure, my dear," he answered, sweetly. "I had a terrible time of it last week, myself."

Gee, but wasn't he the mean old thing!—Seattle Argus.

Entered at the Post-office in Plummer, Minn. as Second Class Mail Matter.

Through the effects of their local papers at Cass Lake and Bemidji the people living in the vicinity of those towns ought to know pretty soon that they are living in beastly unsanitary localities.

The state legislature is having the time of its life in scrapping over the normal school bill. On Thursday motion was made in the house to indefinitely postpone the bill locating the school at Cass Lake. This motion was lost by a vote of 59 to 56. That was a close call, and it shows that it will take a mighty hard fight to either carry the bill or defeat it when it comes up for final consideration.

Congressman Steenerson went on record last week as an opponent of Speaker Cannon and in favor of a revision of the rules of the house. This was precisely what his constituents would have him do and was the action which he himself considered the right thing to do. And he did it because he believed it was right. Any man, in public or private life, who will conscientiously do anything because he believes it is right is one who can be relied upon, and Mr. Steenerson action in this instance is merely a proof of his absolute integrity. And now rumor has it that because of his antagonism to "Uncle Jo" he will be deprived of some of his best committee assignments as punishment. The press of his district is practically unanimous in endorsing Mr. Steenerson's action. The Roseau Times gives a concise expression of public opinion as follows: "Congressman Steenerson, in not voting for the re-election of Speaker Cannon, voiced his own convictions in the matter and that of his constituents. If he is punished for his manly stand for a revision of rules, by Speaker Connon, and his opposition to the reelection of the speaker, his action will be sustained, even tho his district suffers in congressional favors thereby. Congressman Steenerson is not an insurgent in the common sense of the term, but if "insurgent" means a man who dares to do right, then Steenerson is an insurgent, for he is built a fighter for any cause he advocates and the word "policy" is not known in his vocabulary, either for private gain or public preferment. Halvor will do all right. His metal has been tried many times and his record is good."

Marlin

For shooting the swift flying, heavily feathered ducks and geese the Marlin 12-gauge repeating shotgun has no superior.

This gun is exceedingly strong in construction and yet is not heavy. It is bored to throw an excellent pattern with great penetration. The solid top keeps out the weather and the brush and twigs of the blind, and the side ejector prevents the empty shells from being a nuisance to the shooter. It's the best bad weather gun.

The Marlin 12-gauge is suited to all forms of bird and trap shooting, and for durability, strength and ease of action is unexcelled. Made for both black and smokeless powders and for heavy loads. Two separate extractors make sure work.

The Marlin Experience Book is full of real shooting stories. Free, with 130-page Catalogue, for 3 stamps. Write to-day.

CASS LAKE WINS.

Normal School Fight Ended Yesterday. Not a Vote to Spare.

A special telegram to the PIONEER from St. Paul at 4;40 P. M. yesterday says "Cass Lake Bill Passed. Sixty votes."

The above telegram announces the closing of the bitter fight in the legislature over the location of the sixth Normal School. Two weeks ago the senate passed the Cass Lake bill without a vote to spare and now tne house has passed it by an equally close margin. It was up as a special order yesterday and sixty votes were necessary to carry the bill. Now it is up to the governor to sign the measure to make it law.

Bemidji, Thief River Falls and Warren were rivals of Cass Lake to secure the location of this school.

Dugdale Store Burned.

At an early hour last Saturday morning Herman Camp's general store and the town hall at Dugdale were totally destroyed by fire. There had been a dance in the hall on Friday evening and the fire started in that building after the dancers had all gone home. The two buildings stood close together and the town being without fire protection nothing could be dome to save the property. The loss is estimated at about $15,000, of which about $10,000 is on stock. Mr. Camp was protected to some extent by insurance amounting to $7,000 and there was $700 insurance on the town hall. The loss has been satisfactorily adjusted and Mr. Camp will rebuild and engage in business again at once.

The Illusion of Night.

I sometimes fancy that every great city must have been built by night. At least it is only at night that every part of a great city is great. All architecture is great architecture after sunset. Perhaps architecture is really a nocturnal art, like the art of fireworks. At least I think many people of those nobler trades that work by night (journalists, policemen, burglars, coffee stall keepers and such mistaken enthusiasts as refuse to go home till morning) must often have stood admiring some black bulk of building with a crown of battlements or a crest of spires and then burst into tears at daybreak to discover that it was only a haberdasher's shop with huge gold letters across the face of it.—G. A. Chesterton In London News.

Wanted to See Them.

When Helen, aged four, for the first time accompanied her mother to church she was given some money for the collection box. It was carefully explained to her that this money was "for the poor."

Helen sat patiently through perhaps a third of the service, when she startled her mother by rattling the coins between her cupped hands and inquiring in a loud voice: "Mamma, when are the poor coming around? My 8 cents is getting all hot and sticky!"—Lippincott's Magazine.

Good name in man or woman is the immediate jewel of their souls.—Shakespeare.

Boundary Lines Fixed.

At a me[illegible] board held las[illegible] [illegible] lines on the tw[illegible] [illegible]issioner districts representing the reservation were fixed by the county board in such a manner as to give those districts a legal standing, but otherwise no changes were made in the districts. As before the eleven towns are divided between the districts represented by Commissioners Shaw and Aubol.

Throughout this section of the county this procedure will give very little satisfaction. Under the law the districts should be made as nearly even as possible according to the population. This arrangsment makes two commissioners represent about two-thirds of the people of the county while the other three control the county board.

Gleamings from Grit.

Farmers are busy cleaning seed and getting ready for the spring work.

Ed Vastrand bought a valuable horse from Ole Krestue Tuesday.

Gunleig Holom came down from his farm near Kraka, with a load of seed for his farm here.

Miss. Marget Sorenson closed a very successful term of school in District No. 210, on Thursday.

There was a debate last Sunday in the school house east of here and there were a lot of able speakers. The theme was, "Resolved that Canada is a better country to live in than United States." The affirmative won. All the good speakers being on that side.

There was a temperance society started at Mikkel Larson's last Sunday with 50 members. Ed Gunstelnson was elected President, Ed Havik Secretary, and Ole Lee treasurer. This was a good start and we hope a year from now the society can count a hundred members.

Registered Jersey Bull.

The Pure-bred, Registered Jersey Bull Brown Bessie's Minutegun, H. R. No. 82789, will stand for service this season at my place on the Northwest quarter of Section 4, Equality township. His dam is Diploma's Golden Brown Bessie, 183350; his sire is Merry Maiden's Premier, 70450, who is a son of Merry Maiden's 3rd son, 69516, the prize bull at the St. Louis Exposition. Roth his sire and dam are direct descendants of Merry Maiden, 64949, and and Diploma's Brown Bessie, 164889, the Prize Cow at the Columbian Exposition and the St. Louis Exposition. Butter test pedigree will be shown on applicatton.

These desirous of improving their herds will do well to see this fine bull. Fee, $2.00 at time of service.

How About a Good Back View?

"Auntie Liz had a hard time having her picture taken today," said her nephew, who had just opened a photographic studio and had very courteously asked his aunt to come and pose for a new picture.

"Why, what was the trouble?" asked his brother.

"Well, you see, when I told her to look pleasant she didn't look natural, and when I told her to look natural she didn't look pleasant." — Ladies' Home Journal.

TOO CLEAN.

African Natives Who Were Lavish In Their Use of Soap.

Miss Mary Kingsley, who made many journeys in the wilds of Africa, used to relate how once, finding it necessary to cleanse a much soiled and stained blouse, she carried it, with a cake of soap, to a neighboring spring, where an interested group of native women watched her wash it. They were much impressed by the way in which the spots disappeared, and it emerged as good as new.

The next morning when it came time to break camp Miss Kingsley missed her soap—a precious commodity in the wilderness. Suspicion soon pointed to a certain woman, who, on being accused, confessed boldly that she had taken it and cast it into the spring that its extraordinary powers of renewing old garments might be permanently imparted to the waters. She was deeply mortified to learn that her effort had been in vain.

The Rev. Peter McQueen of Charlestown, Mass., tells a kindred story. His soap, however, was not lost, although misused. He still had it with him.

"I told our native servants to be sure to lay in a supply of clean water when we crossed the Taru desert, a scorched belt of sand stretching some seventy-six miles," he relates. "Tidings had reached us that an English explorer who had attempted to cross that desert shortly before us had perished from thirst, so we wanted to be careful.

"You can imagine my surprise when, upon taking my first draft of water, I discovered that it tasted strongly of soap. All the casks were similarly tainted, and we rounded up the natives and held a hasty court martial.

"It was a tough predicament, but I couldn't refrain from smiling within when the leader of them meekly confessed that as the master had instructed him to lay in a supply of clean water he had seen to it that bars of soap were added for soap, he said, was used to clean things."

They did not perish of thirst, but after sixteen days of drinking soapsuds, which agreed with neither palate nor stomach, no native of that particular gang was again likely to try to purify water with soap.—Youth's Companion.

ON THE DEAD RUSH.

An Experience In Getting Acquainted In New York.

Getting acquainted in New York is thus described by a man from Atlanta. He brought a letter of introduction to the person he was to meet at the latter's office in Nassau street.

This is the Atlantan's report to his house:

"Called at 2 p. m. Boy on the gate asked my name and business. Gave him the letter of introduction. Boy returned and told me to sit down.

"Sat down twenty-five minutes. Saw a man come out of his office and break through the gate as if he was chased by hornets.

"'Who's the man from Atlanta who wants to see me?' asked the hurried individual.

"'I am the man,' I replied, trying to act as if I was also hurried.

"'Come along with me,' said the man as he grabbed me by the arm. He dragged me through the main door into the hallway. He caught sight of a descending elevator and shrieked to the man in the car to stop.

"The door of the car slid ajar, and the man who had me by the arm said, 'Come along; let's get acquainted as we go down.'

"By that time the car had reached the landing on the main floor. As the door of the car was pushed back the man who had my letter in his hand said:

"'I haven't had time to read this letter, but we know each other. Come in day after tomorrow. I've got to make a train. I'll know you when we meet again. Goodby.'

"Before I could say goodby he had turned the corner and was out of sight. That's business in New York."—Success Magazine.

The Mistake He Made.

He sauntered into the central police station and approached the desk sergeant. There was a careworn look on his face. He stood there a moment as if in reverie. Finally as tears coursed down his cheeks he timidly said:

"I want to give myself up."

"What have you done that you should seek a felon's cell?" the sergeant asked.

"I have long been a fugitive from justice. The welfare of society demands that I should be punished."

"But what is it? What heinous offense have you committed?"

"I am a bigamist—yea, a polygamist—and I don't dare think what worse. No longer must I keep it from the world. Lock me up. I am ready to do penance."

"But will you not explain?"

"Yes, if you insist. I thought I married only the daughter, but I have found, to my sorrow, that the whole family was included."—Kansas City Independent.

MINNESOTA SOLONS

BIG FLOOD OF BILLS ON LAST INTRODUCTION DAY.

Proposed Legislation Covers All Subjects From the Midnight Lid to Sunday Theatre Closing.

St. Paul, March 27.—The house today suspended all rules, and without an opposing vote passed the bill of Frank Nimocks of Minneapolis, making imprisonment for life the punishment for abducting children under 16 years of age from their guardians or parents. Under the existing law, the punishment for this crime in Minnesota has been imprisonment not to exceed 20 years.

The house was in the humor for quick disposition of bills today, and passed several other measures under suspension of rules. Dr. J. H. Dorsey of Glencoe wanted the bill for appropriation of $55,000 for a St. Paul state hospital for crippled children advanced to the calendar. Frank White suggested that as one and all doubtless approved of the measure, that it at once be passed, and such action was accordingly taken. The W. A. Nolan bill, to authorize the state railroad commission to enforce the provisions of the reciprocal demurrage law, was picked up and passed without opposition. Rules were also suspended on request of Jos. Austin of Chisholm, and a bill passed which he had just introduced, to permit of the reincorporation of the village of Gilbert.

The effort of Fred L. Ryan, surveyor general of logs and lumber at Duluth, to get the legislature to appropriate $13,000 for him for fees and expenses in scaling certain logs in Beltrami county, was given a fatal setback in the house today when the report of the committee on claims was adopted for indefinite postponement of the bill covering the subject. A duplicate of this bill is still pending in the senate. Mr. Ryan claimed that as the state had ordered him to scale this certain timber in Beltrami county, it should pay the fees, and then enforce collection from the parties who now decline to pay for the work.

The senate today puts its seal of approval on the resolution recently passed by the house, asking that congress place both lumber and coal on the free list, with no import duty.

The house adjourned at noon till Monday at 2 p. m.

St. Paul, March 29.—Bills for Sunday closing of theater, for new employers' liability schemes, for making the railroad commissioners appointive, for a midnight lid for large city saloons, for constitutional reservation of state mineral properties, to permit members of the present senate to enter the next gubernatorial race—these are a few of the titles in brief of the batch of bills which occupied the entire time of the senate this morning for their introduction. This is the last day, under the constitutional limitation, for the introduction of new bills without special consent of the governor, and the senators made the most of it.

L. O. Thorpe of Willmar was the man to introduce the measure to let down the bars and permit the senators to gambol in the gubernatorial field. The bill is innocent in its verbage, simply providing that the salary of the governor (beginning with the next administration) shall be $5,000. This reduced the salary from $7,000, and fixes it as it was previous to two years ago, when the increase was granted.

B. N. Anderson of Albert Lea fathered the anti-Sunday theater bill. The penalty is a fine of $25 to $100, or imprisonment not to exceed 90 days.

E. E. Smith of Minneapolis introduced several bills relating to casualties for wage-earners and their compensation. T. E. Cashman of Owatonna introduced a bill that aims to make the state railroad commissioners appointive instead of elective. A bill by the senate temperance committee aims to give the large cities, at their discretion, a midnight "lid" for saloons.

The public accounts committee introduced a bill which prohibits any part of the salary of a state official or employe from being paid out of a department contingent fund.

Frank T. White of Elk River had a measure to permit women to hold positions as deputies in any state office. M. J. Sullivan and E. F. Sahler joined in introducing a new bill for a new state board which provides for appointment of a board of three men by the governor to have supervision of all machinery for the manufacture and keeping of carbonic acid gas products. K. E. Conley would cut down the expenses of the house by fixing $225 as the maximum salary that may be paid any employe of the house for a 90 day session.

William Dower has a reapportionment measure for the 51st legislative district, giving one representative each for Wadena, Hubbard, and Todd counties. Two general reapportionment bills for the entire state put in an appearance. The predicted bill by L. H. Johnson of Minneapolis increases the senate from 63 to 65 members, and the house from 119 to 127 members. Herman Nelson and S. B. Duea have a bill to reapportion the state so that senate and house retain the same number of members as at present.

The house passed several bills today. These included the following: By Anderson, providing for the manufacture of farm machinery at the state prison; by Opsahl, authorizing the state forestry board to make contracts providing for the payment of certain taxes on additional lands for Itasca state park.

F. H. Peterson had a bill to prohibit the granting of liquor license to women, and another by the same author holds that the holder of a license and his sureties shall be jointly liable for damages resulting from any individual becoming intoxicated. A. D. Stephens tried to slip in a new normal school for Crookston, with a bill that provides that the normal board may lease quarters at Crookston, not exceeding $25 per month per room, for a normal school to accommodate not to exceed 50 students. The senate committee on taxes introduced a bill for a county assessor system throughout the state.

In committee of the whole this afternoon, the senate after considerable discussion, recommended for passage the J. M. Hackney bill to establish a correspondence school and corps of field instructors in agriculture, with headquarters at the state agricultural college. The appropriation, on motion of Ole Sageng, was cut from $75,000 to $50,000.

Other bills recommended for passage included the Cooke bill prohibiting hobbling of horses at races, and the Poehler bill, compelling railroads to have operators at depots in towns of 500 people or over, a half hour before the scheduled departure of each train.

A bill for regulation of officers of the state fair was introduced by Messrs. Johnson, J. T., Kling, Christensen, Rineland, and Phillips. It fixes the salary of the state fair president at $1,000; vice presidents at $500, treasurer at $600, and secretary at $3,600, and members of the board of managers at $500 a year. D. Robertson offered a bill requiring 32 weeks of training in the theory of teaching as an essential for teachers' certificates. F. T. White desires that in 1914 candidates for the senate in even numbered districts be elected for four years, and in odd numbered districts for six years, and thereafter for four-year terms, thus having half the senate hold over at each election. The same author has a bill making reapportionment compulsory after each federal session and optional with the legislature after each state census.

St. Paul, Minn., March 30.—Gov. J. A. Johnson sent a communication to the senate today, announcing three appointments. One was of Charles E. Vasaly, editor of The Herald at Little Falls, as member of the state board of control to succeed S. W. Leavitt of Litchfield, who has served for eight years past. The second appointment was that of J. G. Armson, mayor of Stillwater, as member of the state tax commission to succeed Franklin McVey, who resigned to become president of the North Dakota state university. The third appointment was that of Martin Hughes of Hibbing, as the additional judge for the Duluth district.

The senate today passed the "Brady salary bill." This is the house measure which permits the legislators to draw their $1,000 salary all in one year instead of $500 per year. The bill drew 37 yea votes, to 19 opposed.

The bi-monthly pay-day bill was killed.

The senate passed the Elwell bill for an experimental forest for the state university in Carlton county. It provides for acceptance of a gift of 2,200 acres from Frederick Weyerhauser, and appropriates $5,000, from which amount 480 additional acres are to be purchased.

The Mork house bill also passed the senate, prohibiting persons under 18 years of age from frequenting pool and billiard halls, and bowling alleys.

The Thorpe banking bill passed the senate by a vote of 47 yeas to 4 nays. This is the measure which aims to establish a separate state banking department from the office of the public examiner, the superintendent of banks to be appointed by the governor.

The house this afternoon passed the Wallace bill prohibiting slot machines and all similar gambling devices; also the Stone bill, to permit cities of over 50,000 inhabitants to levy a one-mill tax for park purposes.

A concurrent resolution, by O. F. Christianson, was introduced in the house today and passed, calling upon the state drainage commission to make a thorough investigation relative to state waterpowers and supplies, navigation and drainage, and to file a report with recommendations, with the governor, before Jan. 1, 1911.

FT. LEAVENWORTH PRISON BURNED

800 CONVICTS MARCHED OUT AT POINT OF GUNS.

Death Threatened Any Loiter—Men Put In Stockade for Night—Entire Building Was Destroyed.

Leavenworth, Kan., April 1.—The military prison at Fort Leavenworth was destroyed by fire late last night. The prisoners were removed from the cell houses under a heavy guard of United States troops and confined in a stockade.

None of the prisoners escaped, so far as a hasty resume of the situation after midnight showed, but this may not be definitely known till daybreak.

Owing to the low water pressure the fire department of the fort was almost useless. The fire was fought by the soldiers, who were ordered out of their quarters, and those who were on leave in the city were at once called back to the post.

Two soldiers were injured while fighting the flames, but none of the prisoners was hurt.

Much excitement attended the removal of the prisoners; many of them are desperate characters. It was feared that they would make an organized break for safety.

The fire broke out about 10 o'clock in the tailor shop and soon it was seen that the main building was doomed. A great outcry at once broke out in the prison, the convicts fearing they would be burned to death. They battered on the doors of their cells as the light of the fire streamed in thru the windows. Many screamed in terror as the authorities refused to remove them.

Soon companies of soldiers, including cavalrymen, had gotten under arms.

A strong cordon of troops was thrown about the prison and every effort taken to avoid escape. The bolts of the cell house were shot back. If everything had not been done in perfect order lives doubtless would have been lost. As it was, strict military discipline prevailed.

Soldiers with leveled weapons greeted the convicts as they were marched out. They had been previously warned that the slightest belligerent move would mean death.

"Shoot them down in their tracks," commanded the officers. "If they don't keep in line the first man that tries to escape, dies."

The Fort Leavenworth fire department was hurried to the aid of the prison department, but the lack of water made their efforts almost useless. All they could do was to play feeble streams of water on the front of the building from which the convicts and soldiers were issuing and prevent the leaping flames from harming them.

The blaze was spectacular. Hundreds of people rushed out to see the unusual sight. The fort is four miles from the city, and first reports were that the prison was destroyed and that many convicts had been burned to death. The people rushed out in great excitement.

At daybreak they likely will be taken to the government prison half a mile away.

The city police rushed out in patrol wagons and relieved the soldiers from the work of caring for the crowd so they might devote their whole attention to the saving of those locked behind prison bars.

An hour after midnight the fire was burning fiercely, but was under control.

The blacksmith shop, tailor shops, machine shops and other buildings went first. All this while the whole prison has been surrounded by troops.

There are 800 prisoners in the lot. It took the whole Thirteenth infantry under command of Col. R. H. R. Longborough to remove them safely.

The colonel rushed to the prison when the fire became dangerous and took in the situation at a glance. He instantly issued orders, placing the regiment under arms. A company of soldiers was placed on each side of the sally porte to be ready to take charge of the convicts as they were hurried out.

The sick were removed first, placed in ambulances and taken to the Fort Leavenworth hospital under guard of cavalry. The records were removed from the administration building. Then the general order was given for taking out all in the building.

Soon after the last convict and attendant had left the building and the cordon of soldiers had withdrawn to a safe distance, the walls of the prison fell with a crash. The fire started in some rubbish left in a careless manner in the paint and carpenter shop.

Doctor Norris of Goldfield, Nev., called his eight-year-old son into the library after breakfast the other morning, and regarded him with a sad frown.

"I'm never late, father," Harry responded promptly.

"Careful, son," said the doctor. "Try to remember. Haven't you been late at school in the last few days?"

"No, sir."

"Then why has your teacher written me this letter, saying you were late three times last week?"

"Oh, I'll tell you, father," said Harry, reassuringly. "I don't know what kind of a clock they have at our school, but I'm always on time. Of course, they start school sometimes before I get there, but that isn't my fault—is it?"—Harper's Weekly.

Eczema on Hand, Arms, Legs and Face—It Was Something Terrible.

Complete Cure by Cuticura.

"About fifteen or eighteen years ago eczema developed on top of my hand. It burned and itched so much that I was compelled to show it to a doctor. He pronounced it ringworm. After trying his different remedies the disease increased and went up my arms and to my legs and finally on my face. The burning was something terrible. I went to another doctor who had the reputation of being the best in town. He told me it was eczema. His medicine checked the advance of the disease, but no further. I finally concluded to try the Cuticura Remedies and found relief in the first trial. I continued until I was completely cured from the disease, and I have not been troubled since. C. Burkhart, 236 W. Market St., Chambersburg, Pa., Sept. 19, 1908."

THE EXTREME OF ECONOMY.

Illustrated by Thrifty Philadelphia Pair and Their Eye-Glasses.

A worthy tradesman of this city was discussing optics with a customer the other day, apropos of the latter's appearance with his first eye-glasses.

"I've been wearing this pair of spectacles for nearly twenty years now," remarked the tradesman, "and my wife a pair just like them for the same time, and now we couldn't either of us see without them, and we never had anything the matter with our eyes in the first place."

"What did you begin to wear them for, then?" inquired the customer.

"Why, you see," explained the other, in a matter-of-fact manner, "when my brother-in-law died he left the two pair of spectacles, and we couldn't sell them for anything like what they were worth."—Harper's Weekly.

Needed Her at Once.

When Bonaparte Bluebell announced his engagement to Lily Doe everybody in the blacksmith shop congratulated him on winning such a hard working and forehanded mate. But Erastus Coke remarked:

"'Peared lak you wouldn't never speak up, Bonaparte. It's going on six months since you begun to fiddle roun' Lily."

"Dat's so," Bonaparte frankly admitted, "but I didn't lose mah job till las' night."—Youth's Companion.

New Well for Rochester.

Rochester—At a meeting of the Olmsted County Health League held here, Burt W. Eaton, president of the Rochester company, advocated municipal ownership of the plant. Rochester has been especially fortunate in her water supply. Never has a case of sickness been traced to contaminated water supply. The old wells are to be built higher and a new one is to be dug. The Health League will begin an active and aggressive campaign to not only maintain the present standard of healthfulness, but to guard against any possibility of unsanitary conditions.

Indictments Against Four.

Grand Rapids—The grand jury for the March term of the district court for Itasca county held a busy session. Indictments were returned as follows: Norman McMasters, grand larceny in the second degree; George Zigich, assault in the first degree; Mike Radovac and Elie Viacar, assault in the first degree, for stabbing John Javenis near Marble on Jan. 22. Javenis nearly died from the effects of the wound. The grand jury is considering election matters.

Sues for Girl's Freedom.

Red Wing—By means of habeas corpus proceedings, Eva A. Slayton, of St. Paul, is trying to secure the release of her daughter Genevieve from the custody of the board of control and Superintendent F. A. Whittier of the training school. Mrs. Slayton contends that the commitment proceedings were illegal and that no notice had been served on her as guardian of Genevieve Slayton.

Duluth Incendiary Sentenced.

Duluth—Kalman Light, the West Duluth storekeeper who was convicted of setting fire to his store on Central avenue, was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary by Judge Cant in the district court. Light was charged with saturating some paper boxes with kerosene and setting fire to them. The fact that a family was living in rooms above the store made the offense more serious.

False Arrest Costs $400.

Duluth—Chief of Police Peter Wring and D. B. McEachen of Hibbing have been mulcted for $400 by a jury in the district court in a damage suit brought by William Williams for false arrest. Williams was employed by the Itasca Mercantile company, of which McEachen is manager, and was arrested on a charge of theft, but was discharged.

Railway Mail Clerks Organize.

He will be surrounded by a large company of capable people, including a chorus which is noted for its ability to sing and dance.

Lake City—At the citizens' caucus Timothy J. Foley was nominated for mayor, and F. H. Doughty for municipal judge. The present mayor, Roy D. Underwood, is running for alderman of the First ward. A new home rule charter has been adopted. The election will be held on April 6.

Fort Snelling—Private Carl G. Larson, Second casual company, Thirteenth infantry, Fort Sheridan, Ill., was sentenced by court-martial at Fort Snelling to two years in the United States military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for desertion.

RACK FOR CURING PEA VINES.

Gives Good Circulation of Air and Prevents Molding.

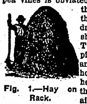

Fig. 1.—Hay on Rack.

The frequent difficulty of curing pea vines is obviated very simply by the rack shown in the accompanying drawings. Fig. 2 shows the detail. The V-shaped pieces support one another and the horizontal pieces hold the vines off the ground so that air may circulate freely beneath and through the center of the pile. Fig. 1 shows that the pile completely covers the rack. These racks may be made of any convenient size, but the one shown herewith is about six feet high when in position.

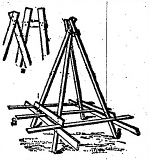

Fig. 2.—Pea Vine Rack.

The hay may be piled a foot or more above the top of the rack, says the Orange Judd Farmer. Any light material may be used for this purpose and when the racks are not in use they may be stored under cover for another season.

UNDER DRAINAGE.

Wet, Cold Soil Is Thus Made Good Productive Land.

The low price of new land in some localities makes it perhaps impracticable to spend time and money putting in a drainage system. The time and money could perhaps be more profitably invested in buying and clearing more land. As a country becomes more thickly settled, railroads, telephones, good roads and many other improvements are made, and the farmer naturally gets a better market for his produce. Such conditions increase the price of property, and it is then that a farmer should consider how he can get larger returns from his acres. This is possible only where crop rotation is practiced. A good system of field fences and crop lines follow natural features, such as sloughs, pot holes, marshes, or low lands, thus leaving the fields in irregular shape and size.

Wet lands are always cold, thus delaying the planting season for weeks sometimes, says a writer in the Wisconsin Agriculturalist. And many a time, even after the crops have been planted, the excessive moisture prevents the field crops from extending their roots a couple of feet below the surface to increase the feeding area of the roots, and in case of a drought afterward, the root system is so dwarfed and stunted that it is incapable of supplying the plant with the necessary nourishment and moisture, often resulting in failure, to say nothing of the time spent and how hard the team was worked to get the land in planting shape. A greater variety of crops can also be grown on a well drained soil which can be worked early in spring and planted with the assurance of maturing a good crop. As I have spent more or less time the last couple of years putting in drains, I will in a letter later on write of some of the mistakes made by many around here when they put their drains in, so that others may profit by their experience.

ALL ABOUT THE FARM.

How to get a long well. Dig it deep.

I find that cowpeas are one of the most profitable crops to raise.—E. S. Everitt, Benton County, Arkansas.

If crops are injured by stagnant water in a wet season in places, there you should lay tile drains.

Engine plowing saves time, labor and money. Time is saved because more acres can be plowed in a day than by any other method.

Co-operative marketing is a good thing if it is carried on with a view to cutting out as much of the middlemen's profits as is possible, but when it comes to controlling the great markets of the world it is sheer folly.

How about the fuel supply for the kitchen stove during the coming summer? Do not fail to provide the good lady of the house with an abundance of dry firewood. Now is the time to attend to this.

Incubator Vs. Hen.

"The best time in the world to set a hen," says Josh Billings, "is when she is broody." We might add that she is liable to change her mind if you attempt to set her at any other time. Get an incubator and you won't need to wait for the hen to get a desire to incubate. An incubator is always ready, and you can have a lot of chicks all hatched out on any day you choose, if you figure right.

A LITTLE KNOWLEDGE

Of Painting Requirements Will Save Much Expense.

When one sees the surface of a house or other building scaling, or peeling, or spotted or blistered, or showing other symptoms of paint "disease," it is evident that a poor painter has been on the job, and that poor paint was used—or possibly that a good painter had been dominated by a property-owner who knew nothing about paint.

It is an easy matter to be informed on paint and painting. A complete painting guide, including a book of color schemes, either for exterior or interior—specifications for all kinds of painting,—and an instrument for detecting adulteration in paint material, with directions for using it, may be had free by writing National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Bldg., New York City, and asking for Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49.

Then, every houseowner should make it a point to get only well-known reliable brands in buying his materials. Pure white lead is especially important, or the paint will not prove satisfactory. The famous "Dutch Boy Painter" trademark of National Lead Company, the largest makers of pure white lead, is an absolute guarantee of the purity and quality of the white lead sold under it. That trademark is a safeguard against paint trouble.

The bill providing for changing county seats has not yet been voted on by the legislature but is still in the hands of the senate judiciary committee, where it was sent on motion of Senator Hanson of this district for the purpose of being properly framed to stand any legal complications which may arise after it has become a law. Which looks as though there was some grounds for thinking that it will become law.

A new bill has been introduced into the legislature which is intended to compel county boards to re-district their counties into commissioners districts according to population. The old law was not rigid enough and allowed the county board enough latitude so that they could play tricks on the people at will. As witness the action of our own county board this week. By all means let this measure be enacted into law and give people a square deal.

A correspondent sends us word that a debate was held in his neighborhood a few days ago in which the subject was "Resolved that Canada is a better country to live in than the United States." He adds that the affirmative side won. Which goes to show two things, viz: That Canada is much better advertised than Red Lake county, and that the people in the vicinity where the debate was held are somewhat lukewarm as citizens of the United States.

Tired of Him.

At a trial in Scotland a lady got into the witness box to be examined, when the following conversation took place between her and the opposing counsel:

Counsel—How old are you?

Miss Jane—Oh, weel, sir, I am an unmarried woman and dinna think it right to answer that question.

The Judge—Oh, yes; answer the gentleman. How old are you?

Miss Jane—Weel-a-weel, I am fifty.

Counsel—Are you not more?

Miss Jane—Weel, I am sixty.

The inquisitive lawyer still further asked if she had any hopes of getting married, to which Miss Jane replied:

"Weel, sir, I winna tell a lee. I hinna lost hope yet," scornfully adding, "But I widna marry you, for I am sick and tired o' your palaver already."

Psychology of Broken Jaws.

It might be a bit of a strange fact, but you would be astonished to see the broken jaws which are presented at free institutions on holidays—election day, New Year's day and the Fourth of July. A great number of fractured jaws are the result of quarrels among the very lowest classes. It surprises me that the number of broken jaws is not on the increase on account of the heated newspaper discussions that we are constantly having on various topics of the day. It has been said that were it not for the mouth nine-tenths of the gossip and the mischief of the world would be prevented. And very often were it not for the mouth there would be no broken jaws.—D. B. Breundlich in New York Medical Journal.

Shooting Stars.

When a shooting star breaks into flame in our atmosphere the residuum of the combustion remains in the air and can be found in what is known as atmospheric dust. The virgin snow of the polar regions was often seen to be spotted with traces of dust which contained particles of iron. Like particles are found on church towers and elsewhere. Among the minute bodies that dance in the sun's rays there are certainly particles of shooting stars.

GOVERNOR VETOES.

Cass Lake Normal School Bill Killed by Gov. Johnson.

The Cass Lake Normal School Bill was vetoed by Governor Johnson on Tuesday afternoon. This action was taken by the Governor for the reason that the state Normal School board did not approve of the measure and also because the bill was passed through the legislature by means of trading votes and not on its merits. In both the senate and the house this bill was passed without a vote to spare which shows that it will be absolutely impossible to pass it over the governor's veto and that consequently the location of a sixth normal school is a dead issue so far as the present legislature is concerned.

More New Creameries.

There is a lively interest being taken in the dairy industry throughout this section of the country this spring and numerous new creameries are being established throughout the country. In this vicinity at least three new craameries are about ready to begin operation. One of these is at Reiner, in northeastern Red Lake county, one at Hill River, in Polk county, and the third is at Maple Bay, in Polk county.

The establishment of the new creameries is doing more to develop the country at large than any other influence. A creamery brings a few thousand extra dollars into the pockets of its patrons every month and without very much extra effort on the part of farmer. Another way in which the creameries are doing a lot of good is that the farmers, being compelled to use the road more frequently, are doing more and better work towards the building of good roads. These things are doing wonders in the way of development of the country. Let the good work go on.

Basket Party and Dance.

On next Saturday evening, the 17th inst, there will be a big basket party and ball at Carlson's hall The proceeds will go to paying for the school encyclopedia and the purchase of a new organ for the school. All the ladies in this vicinity are going to put forth their best efforts in preparing the baskets and the purchasers will be sure to get good value for their money. The dancing will commence as early as possible and the music will be furnished by the Red Lake orchestra. The baskets will be sold when lunch time comes and everybody is invited to come and be prepared to buy a basket.

Sally's Iron.

In describing some of her associates of the stage, Ellen Terry, in McClure's Magazine, tells of her dresser, Sarah Holland. She had an extraordinarily open mind, writes Miss Terry, and was ready to grasp each new play as it came along as a separate and entirely different field of operations.

She was extremely methodical and only got flurried once in a blue moon. When we went to America and made the acquaintance of that dreadful thing, a "one night stand," she was as precise and particular about having everything nice and in order for me as if we were going to stay in the town a month. Down went my neat square of white drugget. All the lights in my dressing room were arranged as I wished. Everything was unpacked and ironed.

One day when I came into some American theater to dress I found Sally nearly in tears.

"What's the matter with you, Sally?" I asked.

"I 'aven't 'ad a morsel to 'eat all day, dear, and I can't 'eat my iron."

"Eat your iron, Sally! What do you mean?"

"'Ow am I to iron all this, dear?" wailed my faithful Sally, picking up my Nance Oldfield apron and a few other trifles. "It won't get 'ot!"

Until then I really thought that Sally was being sardonic about an iron as a substitute for victuals.

Sunshine and Long Life.

Some towns on the Italian side of the Swiss Alps are noted for the great number of sunny days. Carabietta and Pentilino, near Lugano, head the list with 327 and 331 sunny days respectively in one year. Possibly because of this liberal amount of sunshine the percentage of old people is exceptionally high in the canton of Tessin, forty-four per thousand being over seventy years old and ten per thousand over eighty.—New York Post

THE CONCIERGE.

Tyrant Rule of the Autocrat of the Parisian Flat House.

The "concierge" is considered to be the bane of the Parisian flat dweller's existence. His functions are supposed to be the following:

The first and most important is to collect the rent on quarter day; after that he must see that the tenants do not surreptitiously remove. The latter precaution seems to be somewhat unnecessary, as rents in Paris are always paid in advance.

He should also bring up your letters at least twice a day, but as the concierge is generally a stout, middle aged woman who has a decided objection to climbing stairs the latter regulation remains somewhat of a dead letter.

In Paris the front door of most houses is generally closed at 10 o'clock. After that time admittance can only be obtained by ringing a bell. The concierge is obliged to open the door, and she does this, as soon as she is awake, by pulling a rope which hangs by her bedside.

If she is a sound sleeper and you are accustomed to come home late at night the best thing to do is to look for another flat, as the concierge will put you down as a "bad tenant" and make things as unpleasant for you as possible.

If you never stop out late at night, receive very few friends and fee her heavily at Christmas, the concierge will consider you as a "good tenant" until you give notice to leave, when her interest in you suddenly vanishes.

As there is nothing more to be expected from you and the incoming tenant is obliged to give a substantial tip called a "denier a Dieu," she is anxious to "speed the parting guest" as much as possible.

The concierge does sometimes make a final effort to extract something more from you by attempting to make [illegible] pay a franc for every nail knocked in the walls of your flat, but this has [illegible] decided to be illegal and may be safely resisted.

But the Parisian concierge is really unpopular because she represents [illegible] landlord.—London Mail.

A DELAYED LETTER.

And What Happened When the Money Was Finally Recovered.

The vagaries of the postal service are sometimes beyond the understanding of the layman. In March of [illegible] year a man in New York received [illegible] letter from a friend in England written when on the point of sailing [illegible] Philadelphia, urgently requesting [illegible] to return a loan of $10. The man who wrote the letter needed funds [illegible] would the debtor kindly send [illegible] money to him, care of the steam[illegible] line at Philadelphia? The man [illegible] York saw that his friend would [illegible] Philadelphia within a day or [illegible] he promptly clapped a ten dollar [illegible] an envelope and addressed and [illegible] it. A week later he was apprised [illegible] mail that the money had not arrived. Both men made a diligent search for the missing letter. But it could not be found. So the debtor gave his friend a check and forgot about his $10, [illegible]ting down its loss to the dishonesty [illegible] some intermediary who had handled the envelope.

Imagine his surprise when one [illegible] eight months later he received [illegible]ter from the dead letter office [illegible]ington. It was covered [illegible] marks and much battered [illegible] traveled many thousands [illegible] back to England, around the [illegible] Kingdom and to America again [illegible] the money was safe inside.

Chuckling, he met his friend a few minutes later and showed him the ten dollar bill.

"How's that for luck?" he queried.

"Great," replied his friend. [illegible] man, you couldn't lend me that [illegible] day or two, could you? It's like picking money up in the street for you, and I could make use of it just now."

Sadly the bill was handed over.

"What's the use of such wonderful occurrences?" ruminated the "lucky" man.—New York Post.

The Best Laid Plan.

Husband (who [illegible] the theater with his wife [illegible])—I took time by the forelock [illegible] Here I am an hour beforehand [illegible] my evening clothes all on [illegible] everything ready. Now I'll go downstairs and have a quiet smoke while you get ready.

Wife—Oh, darling! Can you ever forgive me?

"What's the matter now?"

"Why, the cook tells me the furnace fire went out this afternoon as the furnace man failed to come. The baby has a cold, you know. Would you mind going down to the cellar and making it over? You've just got time, love."—New York Herald.

Successful Ugly Women.

Successful women were not always of irreproachable beauty or modeling. Thus the Princess d'Evoli of Louis XV.'s time was one eyed; the slit of Montespan's mouth reached her ears; Mme. de Maintenon was thin, meager, yellowish; La Vallière lame, Gabrielle d'Estrees one armed, Anne Boleyn six fingered.—Hindustan Review.

CHILD'S LIFE SAVED BUT ANOTHER LOST

WALTER DAVIS KILLED BY AUTO GOING FOR DOCTOR.

Machine Contains Anxious Parents of Boy Lying Sick—Witnesses Exonerate Chauffeur of All Blame.

Minneapolis, April 8.—In an effort to save the life of one child, who was ill and needed the immediate attention of a physician, the life of another was sacrificed last evening, when Walter Davis, the 9-year-old son of E. M. Davis, was struck by an automobile at Fifth street and Sixth avenue north and instantly killed.

The machine was driven by Harry Greenburg, an employe of Freeman & Jennings, proprietors of the West Hotel livery, and with him were Mr. and Mrs. C. A. White of North Dakota, who are staying at the home of a friend at Forty-first street and Thirty-ninth avenue south.

The party was on its way to Dr. C. M. Kistler's office, Lyndale and Sixth avenue north, to summon the physician to the bedside of their sick child when the accident occurred. According to witnesses, the machine was moving at a moderate rate of speed and the speedometer later showed only a rate of eight miles an hour. It is said that the child was standing on the curb near Fifth street and suddenly jumped into the street in order to cross the avenue immediately in front of the automobile. Before the car could be stopped the boy was struck down and run over.

Sergeant Ginsberg of the North Side police station happened to be on a passing car and took the chauffeur to police headquarters, where he is being held pending a further investigation.

After Coroner G. A. Seashore had viewed the body of the child it was turned over to the parents and was later removed to the undertaking rooms of Rainville Bros.

Several witnesses have been examined by the coroner and the police. They all agree that the machine was not going at a high rate of speed, and that owing to the action of the boy the accident was practically unavoidable. An inquest will be held today.

Harry Greenburg has been a chauffeur for many years. He was in the employ of Harvey Haynes for five years, and according to the latter's statement to Chief of Police Corriston, he has always been known as a careful driver, this being the first time he is ever known to have had an accident.

Mr. and Mrs. White were also taken to police headquarters, but as soon as released hurried on their way to get the doctor. They secured him in time to return to their son and give him relief in his illness. It was said last night that the White boy is out of danger and will soon recover.

$25,000 BLAZE AT MILACA, MINN.

Was Most Destructive Fire in History of Minnesota Town.

Milaca, Minn., April 8.—One of the most destructive fires in the history of this place occurred last Tuesday at midnight. Two saloons, the city jail and one restaurant building burned to the ground in the course of an hour.

For a while a whole block was threatened, but by valiant efforts on the part of the firemen the fire was kept from reaching the residence district close by. The loss is at present estimated at $25,000, but may reach twice that amount. It is partly covered by insurance.

Pause in Haskell Case.

Tulsa, Okla., April 8.—Arguments were concluded yesterday in the motion to quash the indictments against Governor Haskell and five co-defendants on land fraud charges growing out of the acquirement of town lots in Muskogee. The motion was taken under advisement by United States District Judge Marshall of Utah, who is trying the case. The court's ruling is not expected for several days. Pending the decision the attorneys will remain here.

NEWS OF MINNESOTA.

Tin Carried in Body Ten Years.

Fairmont, Minn.—Chris Thompson's body has been yielding up all sorts of things, including other peoples' bones. The last operation was on one of his legs, and several pieces of tin were taken out from where they had been imbedded in the flesh more than ten years. It was near Lakefield, where two men were blasting a stone out of a well, that he was injured, as a result of a premature explosion of four pounds of dynamite. The two workmen were killed, one of them being blown literally to bits. The mangled body of the other man was hurled against Thompson, who was a rod or two away. The fact that this man was directly between him and the explosion saved his life, but his flesh was pierced by human bones, tin, metal, sand and gravel. At different times since the accident articles have been removed from his flesh. One of the largest was a piece of the handle of a jacknife, around which was wrapped a piece of overall cloth. It is supposed that the metal taken out was from the knife in the pocket of the man who was handling the dynamite when it exploded.

Last Murder Suspect Dismissed.

Little Falls.—The hearing in the case of the State vs. Albert Frederickson of Darling in which the defendant was charged with the murder of Annie Kintop at Darling, April 10 1905, was concluded and the defendant discharged. The hearing was the longest ever heard in this city and consumed four days. The state based its case on the fact that the young woman was last seen alive in the defendant's store and was not seen to leave the store alive. The defendant was represented by Attorneys E. S. Cary of Minneapolis and N. N. Bergheim of this city.

At the conclusion of the Frederickson hearing, Hugh Kennedy of Randall, Minn., was brought up for hearing on the same charge. Kennedy has been held in the local jail for several weeks, but when brought up for hearing was dismissed on motion of the state. His dismissal freed the last of the five men held for the murder of Annie Kintop.

Bridge Accident Victim Dead.

Knud Platson, who was run over and fatally injured by a Northern Pacific train at Twenty-fourth avenue north and the railroad bridge, died at the City hospital. Platson was overtaken by a freight train when half way across the bridge. He made an attempt to get out of the way, but was struck by the engine and knocked down, several cars passing over his left arm, which had to be amputated. He also received a deep wound in the head, which was the cause of his death.

New Post-Office in 1910.

Minneapolis.—If the word lies with Supervising Architect James Knox Taylor, there will be no work done on the Minneapolis post-office until the spring of 1910. Mr. Taylor stated that it would probably be impossible to complete the plans for the Minneapolis office before next fall, and that work on clearing the site and starting construction would not be likely to begin before a year from this spring. The building would be completed, he said, in a year or a year and a half.

Baby Smothered by Bed Clothes.

Holen was at once called, but nothing could be done for the child. A death certificate was returned to the health office with the notation that death was due to suffocation by accident.

Dies as Result of 50-Foot Fall.

Minneapolis.—Earl H. Rice, a foreman for the Minneapolis General Electric company, fell from a 50-foot steel tower a short distance west of Scandia, Wis., and was killed. His helper, who fell the same distance, will probably recover. The two men were placing a lightning arrester and received a heavy current from the wire.

THE CRACKING OF PAINT.

Property Owners Can Save Money by Learning the Cause.

Do you know what is wrong when paint peels, or cracks, or otherwise necessitates premature re-painting?

Well, sometimes it hasn't been properly applied—the surface being damp or there being too much turpentine or too much drier.

But, nine times out of ten, the trouble is caused by adulterated white lead.

To avoid all such trouble, every houseowner should know in a general way, when a surface is in proper condition to receive paint, what kind of primer and finishing coats different surfaces require, and how to avoid adulteration in materials.

A complete painting guide, including a book of color schemes, specifications for all kinds of painting work, and an instrument for detecting adulterations in painting materials, with directions for using it, can be had free by writing National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Bldg., New York, and asking for Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49.

This company, the largest makers of pure white lead, invite tests, by means of the blowpipe (included in outfit), or in any other way, of the purity of the white lead sold under their famous "Dutch Boy Painter" trademark. That trademark on a keg of white lead is in itself an absolute guarantee of purity and quality.

"Yes, pa—er—er—you see I heard ma say that you were smokin' yourself to death and er—I'm tryin' to save your life!"

The Strenuous Blanche.

One of Blanche Bates' most intimate friends is telling a rather funny story about this clever actress.

"She came into my house one evening very much excited, and I said to her: 'Blanche, for heaven's sake, what is the matter? You seem to be all gone to pieces.'

"'Matter enough,' she answered, as her voice shook with anger. 'I have been accosted by a man in the streets.'

"'What did you do?' I asked.

"'I hauled off and hit him in the face,' she answered, 'and I said to him: "You dirty dog, would you speak to a defenseless woman?"'

"'And where was he when you said this?' I again inquired.

"'Rolling in the gutter where he fell when I hit him,' she said, in a surprised tone at my question."—Toledo.

The Secret of Success.

The motto of success was given in this tale, told at a banquet:

A Swede among the miners in the west was noted for always striking pay dirt. His fellows thought that there must be some secret to the unusual success of the Swede and questioned him as to how he always succeeded in finding the spot where the gold cropped out.

"Vell, Ay don't know ef Ay can tell anytang 'bout dat," answered Ole. "Ay only know dat Ay yust keep on diggin'."—Milwaukee Free Press.

A Modern Miracle.

"I caused the dumb to speak today."

"How was that?"

"I was stopped in the street by a beggar with an 'I Am Deaf and Dumb' placard on his breast, and when I expressed the opinion that he was an impostor he immediately recovered his speech and in vigorous Anglo-Saxon requested me to go to—er—the place that the new theology tells us doesn't exist, and mind my own business and he'd mind his!"

SISTER'S TRICK

But It All Came Out Right.

How a sister played a trick that brought rosy health to a coffee fiend is an interesting tale:

"I was a coffee fiend—a trembling, nervous, physical wreck, yet clinging to the poison that stole away my strength. I mocked at Postum and would have none of it.

"One day my sister substituted a cup of Postum piping hot for my morning cup of coffee but did not tell me what it was. I noticed the richness of it and remarked that the coffee tasted fine but my sister did not tell me I was drinking Postum for fear I might not take any more.

"She kept the secret and kept giving me Postum instead of coffee until I grew stronger, more tireless, got better color in my sallow cheeks and a clearness to my eyes, then she told me of the health-giving, nerve-strengthening life-saver she had given me in place of my morning coffee From that time I became a disciple of Postum and no words can do justice in telling the good this cereal drink did me. I will not try to tell it, for only after having used it can one be convinced of its merits."

Ten days' trial shows Postum's power to rebuild what coffee has destroyed. "There's a Reason."

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

When a search was made for the box, it was found empty and the kid admitted that he had eaten the contents of the entire box spread on the crackers. It cured him of a bad cold and I don't know what else."

No more conclusive evidence could be offered that every ingredient of Cuticura Ointment is absolutely pure, sweet and harmless. ## HOUSE REFUSES TO RAISE GEN. ANDREWS' SALARY.

James J, Hill's Pet Scheme for Agricultural Schools Gets Hearty Endorsement.

St. Paul, April 2.—The so-called packing-house bill, was indefinitely postponed in the house today.

The state university people, who so rejoiced over the passage of the university tax levy bill by the house yesterday, today received a shock in the adoption of a motion by John McGrath recalling the measure and later reconsidering the vote by which it passed.

The T. J. Brady bill, limiting the number of persons who may be jammed into street cars, passed the house this morning, but with an amendment making the number 35 who may stand, in addition to those occupying seats.

The house passed the Campbell bill late this afternoon, for the establishment of a separate woman's department in the state bureau of labor.

The bill by Elmer Adams, to detach Morrison county from the seventh judicial district and attach it to the fifteenth judicial district, went down to defeat by a vote of 53 to 28.

The house today passed the Elmer E. Adams amendment to the habitual criminal act. It provides that possession of burglar's tools and explosives shall be prima facie evidence of guilt, and punishable as a felony.

The house also passed the public health committee's bill, providing that the state board of health shall have authority to establish rules and regulations for the sanitation of factories and places of employment, and for the benefit and health of wage-earners.

The report of the judiciary committee was accepted recommending for indefinite postponement the Wilson senate bill providing that future common law marriages shall not be recognized as legal in Minnesota.

Rules were suspended for the passage of the bill providing that agents must be at railroad depots a half hour before each train in towns of 500 population or over.

The senate today passed the house bill, providing that all property shall be listed at its full value, and assessed forty per cent for taxation purposes. Senator Moonan secured the adoption of an amendment providing that the readjustment of valuations be placed in the hands of the assessors instead of the state tax commission.

St. Paul, April 3.—The house today passed the Sawyer bill providing for an optional one-tenth of a mill tax in cities of over 50,000 inhabitants as state aid for school teachers' pensions.

Chairman J. A. Dalzell of the house committee on taxes, today introduced a substitute bill from his committee for the taxation of grain in elevators. The bill was recommended for passage, and the report of the committee adopted. It provides that each elevator owner shall report to the assessor the amount of grain stored or handled in their houses for the year preceding March 1. In lieu of all other taxes, these elevators are then required to pay a tax of one-fourth of one mill on each bushel of wheat and flax reported, and one-eighth of one mill on all other grain handled.

Two important bills were indefinitely postponed by the house, the bill requiring public statements of all campaign monies received by citizens' committees and other organizations for political work, as well as expenditure statements and the bill to create a new state office, that of commissioner of weights and measure.

There is one more junket to be pulled off before this session comes to an end. A resolution was today adopted by the house providing that the game and fish committee of the house shall spend April 9 and 10 visiting the various state fish hatcheries and that the expenses of the trip be paid out of the legislative expense fund.

The special committee, headed by Elmer E. Adams of Fergus Falls, which investigated the alleged school book trust, reported today. It held in substance that there is no trust, but that fierce competition has brought on many evil practices. School boards are advised to exercise closer supervision over the purchase of books. Teachers should be prohibited from working for the book companies during vacations. The Minneapolis representative of the American Book company is charged with organizing a political machine and to a large degree controlling school elections.

St. Paul, April 5.—Gen. C. C. Andrews' hopes of getting his salary increased from $1,500 to $2,000 went up in smoke this afternoon when the house got to the Stone bill which has this aim in view. Wm. Wohlhuter moved for indefinite postponement, the motion finally prevailing.

The house also killed the Burdette Thayer bill aimed at prohibiting unfair discrimination in sale of lumber, building materials and articles in general use. F. B. Wright asserted the bill would protect the so-called lumber trust, as it would prohibit competitors coming into the field and cutting prices. The bill was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 43 to 42.

The house passed a number of bills, but most of them of minor importance. The bills of general interest included the following: By Grant, permitting cities to register title to land; by Gates, to permit counties to establish county tuberculosis sanitoria; by Hinds, providing that mineral rights and other land reservations be reported by the register of deeds to the assessor, and listed for separate assessment; by the house tax committee, providing for appeal from county boards of equalization to the state tax commission; by Nimocks and L. H. Johnson, to permit cities to appropriate $300 each for Memorial Day observance; by Austin, providing procedure for cities of less than 10,000 inhabitants for the laying of water systems; by Nolan, empowering the governor to remove mayors and presidents of village councils in event of wrong doing.

The J. M. Hackney bill passed the senate this afternoon by a vote of 34 to 19. This is the bill which James J. Hill indorsed, and which provides for a correspondence school course in agriculture to be established at the state agricultural college, and for sending instructors in practical and scientific agriculture out to the farmers in various parts of the state. The appropriation of $50,000 was cut to $30,000 by an amendment offered by Frank Clague, and to which Senator Hackney consented in order to advance his bill.

Other bills passed by the senate included: By the St. Louis county delegation, to permit the register of deeds to make official records of various original documents in his office; by Gartside, to permit cities to appropriate money for public band concerts; by Fosseen, to prohibit the purchasing of grain from minors, aiming to do away with the stealing of grain by boys from railroad cars.

Senator A. D. Stephens of Crookston is said to be drafting a new reapportionment bill which is very radical. It aims to reduce the senate membership from 63 to 15, the house from 119 to 30; that they remain in continuous session, and receive salaries of $3,000 a year.

The joint appropriations and finance committees of the two houses are wrestling with the general appropriation bill. They find that the appropriations run in total to $18,000,000 for the coming two years. On a one mill tax basis, the appropriations run $6,000,000 above the amount available, on a 1.7 mill basis, $4,500,000 above the amount available. It is now up to the committee to slash appropriations right and left to do away with the excess.

St. Paul, April 6.—By a vote of 39 to 16, the senate today passed the Spooner anti-cigarette bill, prohibiting the manufacture, sale, or even the giving away of cigarettes in the state of Minnesota. The bill as passed by the house took immediate effect, but an amendment was attached in the senate, making it effective August 1 next, in order that tobacco dealers having cigarette stocks on hand may have an opportunity to get rid of them.

The house today passed the employers' liability commission bill, and killed the Stuart bill providing a liability law for immediate effect so far as railroads and mining interests are concerned.

The bill which passed provides for a commission of three, one lawyer, one representative of labor, one representing employers; all to be named by the governor.

The bill was amended to cut the expense appropriation from $10,000 to $5,000, and passed by a vote of 96 to 11.

This afternoon was spent by the house in considering minor matters. The Peters state fair anti-pass bill only secured 47 votes in its favor to 29 opposed; 60 being necessary to carry it, and was accordingly declared lost.

The senate this afternoon passed the Pugh bill, providing that the refunding of $10,000 in bonds issued by the old town of Duluth in early days be submitted to a vote of its present residents. It also passed the Congdon bill, providing that legislation relating to cities of the Duluth class shall not affect Duluth unless they specifically mention cities with home rule charters.

The senate in committee of the whole recommended the Cooke bill for passage, providing for a text book commission to establish a uniform system of school books throughout the state. They also favorably acted upon a bill by the same author prohibiting the hobbling of horses at races.

President Taft's White Steamer

PRESIDENT TAFT AND HIS FAMILY IN THEIR WHITE STEAMER

When the announcement was made several months ago that Mr. Taft would use an automobile during his term as President, much rivalry developed among the leading manufacturers for the honor of selling him a car and the public watched with interest to see what Mr. Taft's choice would be. The knowing ones predicted that the White Steamer would be selected and they pointed out that President Roosevelt had used White Steamers for two years at his summer home at Oyster Bay and had recommended this make to Mr. Taft as the most desirable.

This prediction proved correct, although Mr. Taft did not rely solely on Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation, but, with his usual thoroughness, determined to have an investigation made of all the principal makes. Accordingly, he asked several officers of the War Department to look into the matter for him, and they tested many makes of cars, visited a number of factories so that they might see what materials were used, and, finally, they investigated the records of the different types of cars in public contests and in private service.

When their labors were completed, the officials reported unanimously to Mr. Taft in favor of the White, and, accordingly, a car of this make was immediately ordered from the manufacturers, The White Company of Cleveland.

The new car was delivered to Mr. Taft in Washington a few days before his inauguration and since that time it has been in almost constant use. There has not been a day when the President or some member of his family have not been seen riding around the National Capital in the new car. It is hinted that Mr. Taft likes fast traveling and that when he rides out into the open country, he does not always insist that the speed of the car be kept within the legal limits.

W. J. Urquhart, manager of the western branch of the White Company, 239 Michigan Ave., Chicago, Ill., said recently to a correspondent of this paper: "We are receiving many inquiries each day asking for full details regarding the construction of Mr. Taft's car and in reply we are sending copies of our catalog. Mr. Taft's car is exactly like any other Model 'M' 40 horse-power White Steamer, except that his car has the United States coat-of-arms painted on either door. In other words, when we make a car for the President of the United States there is no way in which we can make it any better than the car which you, or anybody else, can purchase from us.

"Some of those writing to me about Mr. Taft's car say that, although they are very desirous of having a car like Mr. Taft's, they are afraid that such a car is somewhat larger and more expensive than they desire. In reply to such letters, I point out that our Model 'O' 20 horse-power car is exactly like our 40 horse-power model, except as regards the size of the different parts. The principle of construction is exactly the same and the smaller car possesses all the desirable qualities of our larger model. In other words, one can secure an exact duplicate of Mr. Taft's car for $4,000, or a car of the same qualities, but of smaller dimensions, for only $2,000. Judging by the demand for White cars, a good proportion of those desiring to purchase automobiles are quite content to trust President Taft's judgment as to the best and most desirable make."

160 ACRE FARMS IN WESTERN CANADA FREE

The government of Canada now gives to every actual settler 160 acres of wheat-growing land free and an additional 160 acres at $3.00 an acre. The 300,000 contented American settlers making their homes in Western Canada is the best evidence of the superiority of that country. They are becoming rich, growing from 25 to 50 bushels wheat to the acre; 60 to 110 bushels oats and 45 to 60 bushels barley, besides having splendid herds of cattle raised on the prairie grass. Dairying is an important industry.

The crop of 1908 still keeps Western Canada in the lead. The world will soon look to it as its food-producer.

An Eccentric Russian Doctor.

The famous Russian, the late Dr. Zaharin, was noted for his eccentric methods. When summoned to attend Czar Alexander III. in his last illness, Dr. Zaharin required the same preparation for his visit to the palace as to any of his patients' houses. That is to say, all dogs had to be kept out of the way, all clocks stopped and every door thrown wide open. He left his furs in the hall, his overcoat in the next room, his galoches in the third, and, continuing, arrived at the bedside in ordinary indoor costume. He sat down after walking every few yards and every eight steps in going upstairs. From the patient's relatives and every one else in the house he required absolute silence until he spoke to them, when his questions had to be answered by "Yes" or "No" and nothing more.

Origin of the Word "Mustard."

Our English word "mustard" is traceable to the French "moutarde," the origin of which is curiously given. In 1382 Philip the Bold, duke of Burgundy, granted to the town of Dijon the privilege of bearing his armorial ensigns, with the motto "Moult me tarde" ("I wish ardently"), in return for a handsome contingent of a thousand men furnished to him at his expense. Pleased with the royal condescension, the authorities ordered the device to be affixed over the principal gates of the city. Time or accident at length obliterated the middle word, and the two remaining, moult tarde, were printed on the labels which the merchants of Dijon pasted on pots in which they sent this commodity all over the world.

For shooting the swift flying, heavily feathered ducks and geese the Marlin 12-gauge repeating shotgun has no superior. This gun is exceedingly strong in construction and yet is not heavy. It is bored to throw an excellent pattern with great penetration. The solid top keeps out the weather and the brush and twigs of the blind, and the side ejector prevents the empty shells from being a nuisance to the shooter. It's the best bad weather gun.

The Marlin 12-gauge is suited to all forms of bird and trap shooting, and for durability, strength and ease of action is unexcelled. Made for both black and smokeless powders and for heavy loads. Two separate extractors make sure work.

Those Railroad Rumors.

We notice iteems frequently in the Duluth and twin city papers regarding the proposed new line from Thief River Falls to Duluth. And, of course, the Thief River Falls papers are determined to have the new line built at once. But none of them know where it is to run. All are agreed that two surveys have been made and that both of those follow nearly the same route east from Thief River Falls to the boundary of the diminished Red Lake reservation. There they diverge and one is supposed to cross at the narrows of the Red Lake and run east into the iron range country, following what has been called the back bone of the state, meaning the high land on the north side of which all the streams run northward and on the south side of which the natural fall of the water is to the south. This line would tap an immense territory which is full of timber and iron ore and would enter Duluth from the north.

The other survey is supposed to run close to the south shore of Red Lake, through north Clearwater and south Beltrami counties, then cross the Duluth line of the Great Northern between the Winnibigoshish and Leech Lake reservations some distance east of Cass Lake, then run southeast throught Aitkin county and connect with the new Brooten-Duluth line at a point about fifty miles from Duluth.

These are the rumors that are being exploited by the newspapers. Our readers can get an idea of these rumored routes pretty closely by looking at any good, up to date map of the state. But new railroads seldom go where the public think they will. Their location is generally governed by the prospects of their paying dividends from the country through which they run and the connections they establish.

Died of Consumption.

Carl Giere, aged 31 years, died at Minneapolis on Tuesday after a somewhat protracted illness of consumption. He was a son of Iver Nelson, of Wyandotte township, and his father and several brothers and sisters survive him as well as a wife and a couple of little children. He has been ailing for a long time and spent most of the winter with his people here in hopes of recovering his health. Some weeks ago he was taken to a Minneapolis hospital for treatment and a letter received by his father last Saturday stated that he was feeling greatly improved. The funeral was held at Wheaton yesterday and the remains interred there. The bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of all who know them.

A. M. Mandt was in from Deer Park last Saturday with a big load of butter from the Clearwater creamery and returned next day with a load of piping for the new well at the creamery.

Dr. Clark was called out to Mayfield township on Sunday last to attend to Mrs Tom Hofstad who on that day presented her husband with a fine baby girl. Mother and child are getting along nicely.

Miss Anna Rust came in from Rhoda yesterday and left on the evening train for her home at Thief River Falls, she has just completed a very pleasant term of teaching school in District No. 34.

Henry and John Torske were in from Garnes on Monday to do some shopping. While in town Henry found time to make this office a visit and has our thanks for a dollar for another year's subscription to the PIONEER in advance.

Dalton's Experiment.

The English chemist Dalton was a schoolteacher. He worked without a laboratory and with crude apparatus, mostly made by himself from simple materials. Here is an example described in his own words:

"Took an ale glass of a conical figure, two and a half inches in diameter and three inches deep; filled it with water that had been standing in the room and consequently of the temperature of the air nearly; put the bulb of the thermometer to the bottom of the glass, the scale being out of the water. Then, having marked the temperature, I put the redhot tip of the poker half an inch deep in the water, holding it there steadily for half a minute, and as soon as it was withdrawn I dipped the bulb of a sensible thermometer into the water, when it rose in a few seconds to 180 degrees."

He then determined the temperature of the water at the bottom after five minutes, after twenty minutes and after an hour and found that it rose gradually from 47 to 52 degrees. This simple experiment proved that water has the power to conduct heat, which had been denied by no less an authority than Rumford.—Youth's Companion.

Killed By Soo Train.

A farmer living near Callaway was killed by the local passenger train running from St. Paul to Thief River Falls daily on Friday of last week. Inquiry was made at all the stations along the line and finally the body was found near Callaway. It proved to be that of Knut Tazson, a well to-do farmer residing in that locality. It is said that Mr. Tazson had been drinking heavily for some time and it is belived that he had fallen asleep on the tract and was run over while asleep.

A Narrow Escape.

An old circus man tells this incident as one of the narrow escapes he had in the show business. He had trained lions, zebras, leopards, rhino—you know—and all sorts of beasts of prey, but this, he says, was his narrowest escape. It was when he was running a dime museum in Milwaukee.

One day a mild mannered Russian came out of the railway station with a valise in his hand. He was a heavily bearded man and with shaggy hands and arms like George Esau. He hunted up a cabman and inquired modestly, "Where is the dime museum?"

The cabman told him and then asked, "Want to ride up?"

"Yes," the bearded stranger told him quietly, almost bashfully. "I'm to be employed up there. I'm the wild man."

"The narrow escape," says the ex-circus man, "lay in the fact that no newspaper man heard the man's remark and that the cabman was an Englishman, with no sense of humor, who never thought to repeat it."—Exchange.

They Knew the Pole.

Some years ago when Dr. Nansen visited Leeds on his return from the polar regions he was welcomed by a large crowd of spectators, who cheered vociferously. Two of the most ardent admirers of Nansen were a couple of old men, who kept shouting and waving their sticks. When the celebrated explorer had passed, immediately following in the wake of the carriage came a wagon dragged by three horses, bearing a long iron pole, which belonged to the electric tramways company.

Directly the old men saw it the following conversation took place:

"Well, I'll be blowed! Sitha, Bill, he's brout the pole back wi' him!" said one.

"Aye," said the other admirer of Nansen, "and we t' only two 'at's noticed it. The're all running after t' carriage. Sitha, the're that ignorant they can't tell t' pole when they see it!"

GIFTED LUNATICS.

One Faculty Strongly Developed In Many Insane Persons.

One of the most peculiar features of insanity is that occasionally one faculty, either sight, hearing, smell, taste or touch, is extraordinarily acute. Certain insane persons, insensible to every other impression, have a pronounced taste for music and can repeat with accuracy an air which they may have heard but once. Others have a recollection of form and color and display an aptitude for drawing, while more frequently one may meet with an inmate of an asylum who has a special memory for figures, dates, proper names and words generally.

There is a case on record, for instance, of an imbecile who at twenty-seven had such an extraordinary memory that he could solve the most difficult problems in arithmetic and algebra and repeat word for word long poems after once hearing them. In another case a boy of fourteen, with a defective brain, who had the greatest difficulty in learning to read, could, if allowed two or three minutes to run over a page printed in a foreign language or treating of questions of which he was ignorant, repeat the words from memory as correctly as if the book had been lying before him.

Very curious was the case of another man, a devout churchgoer, who could remember the day when every person had been buried in the parish for thirty-five years and could repeat, with unvarying accuracy, the name and age of the deceased and mourners at the funeral. And yet he was a complete fool, and outside of the line of burials he had not one idea and could not give an intelligent reply to a single question or even be trusted to feed himself.

At Earlswood asylum, England, they have records of imbeciles who could not only repeat accurately a page or more of any book which had been read years before, even though it was a book they did not understand in the least, but also of an insane person who could repeat backward what he had just read.

Another curious case is that of an imbecile who, in the first place, never failed to go to church and who on reaching home could repeat the sermon word by word, saying "Here the minister coughed; here he stopped to blow his nose," and so on.

In another case an imbecile knew the Bible so perfectly that if you asked him where such and such a verse was to be found he could tell without hesitation and repeat the chapter.

All these instances are well authenticated, and others equally amazing and true could be added. And just as there is one sense which is sometimes wonderfully acute in persons of weak intellect, so in the case of blind people the sense of smell or hearing is often very keen.

One of the most remarkable cases on record was that of Julia Brace, a female deaf and blind mute who could distinguish brothers and sisters by smell and who recognized anybody she had met before by the same means.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

A Rhymed Task Master.

In the studio of an artist on Madison avenue there is a sign that would seem suited for almost any place where there is work to do. Of course it is exceptionally well adapted to the needs of dreaming artists It reads:

Whene'er a task is put to you
Don't idly sit and view it
Nor be content and wish it done—
Begin at once and do it.

In this studio it was of course artistically printed and framed. With this view of the motto every one was hard at work, and the man who sat nearest said it never gave him a moment's rest. He could not look at an unfinished job without seeing or hearing the jingle of the rhyme.—New York Press.

Why He Didn't Rise.

It was married men's night at the revival meeting. "Let all you husbands who have troubles on your minds stand up!" shouted the emotional preacher at the height of his sermon.

Instantly every man in the church rose to his feet except one.

"Aha!" exclaimed the preacher, peering out at this lone sitter, who occupied a chair near the door and apart from the others. "You are the one in a million."

"It ain't that," piped back this one helplessly as the rest of the congregation turned to gaze suspiciously at him. "I can't get up. I'm paralyzed!"

A Righteous Judge.

One Sunday morning a minister's wife saw her son chasing the hens with a stick. She went to the door to investigate and heard him say, "I'll teach you to lay eggs in a minister's family on Sunday morning!"—Delineator.

BJORGE TONNAGE TAX BILL REPORTED BACK MONDAY.

Senator Sageng Introduces Resolution for Popular Hearing on Bill Tuesday Evening.

St. Paul, Minn., April 8.—By a vote of 34 to 25, the Senate today sustained a resolution introduced by Senator Ole Sageng of Otter Tail county, requiring the Senate committee on taxes to report the Bjorge tonnage tax bill back to the Senate next Monday.

The House bill to legalize Sunday baseball, which has been shyly resting with the Senate committee on municipal corporations for some time past, came into the Senate today with a recommendation that the bill pass, and was advanced to general orders, the committee report being adopted without comment or opposition.

A resolution was presented by Ole Sageng in the Senate this afternoon, extending an invitation to all interested in the iron tonnage tax bill to be present at the hearing next Tuesday evening, and also requesting all members of the Senate to be present. It was adopted without comment.

On request of the Governor, a bill was introduced in the Senate by George H. Sullivan of Stillwater, to permit of a special election in that city to select a successor to J. G. Armson, resigned to accept appointment by the Governor as a member of the tax commission. It was passed under suspension of the rules without objection.

Senator W. A. Hinton of Martin county also introduced a bill with request of the Governor to permit the state board of health to establish rules for sanitation and public safety in hotels and lodging houses. The bill was referred to the committee on public health.

The House this afternoon indefinitely postponed a fun-maker, in the shape of the bill prohibiting "any female person to wear red, white and blue tights, or other unseemly apparel displaying the national colors at any public performance." There was no ado over the measure's demise.

The Rosenwald bill, making burglary with explosives punishable by imprisonment for 25 to 40 years, was amended to make the penalty ten years or over, and then passed.

Other bills passed by the House included: by special drainage committee, to authorize the state drainage commission to construct outlet for the waters of Mustinka State ditch in Traverse county; by St. Louis county delegation, to raise the salary of the assistant county attorney from $900 to $1,200 because of additional work in connection with the new iron range court; by Farrington, prohibiting killing of game upon Minnesota parks or forest reserves.

Both Senate and House adjourned today till Monday, tomorrow being Good Friday, a legal holiday.

The senate this afternoon considered the L. C. Spooner Indian school bill as a special order, finally passing it by a vote of 37 ayes to 14 nays. This is the bill to permit the state of Minnesota to accept as a gift from the federal government, the Indian school property at Morris, Minn., to be used as a state agricultural school. The property consists of some 450 acres, and several substantial stone school buildings, the only provision in the gift being that the state must agree to accept Indian students who apply.

St. Paul, Minn., April 12.—The Bjorge house bill for a tonnage tax on iron was reported in to the senate today and was then re-committed to the tax committee for the scheduled hearing on the measure Tuesday evening.

The bill legalizing Sunday baseball, in which Representatives Gartside, Grant and Wolhuter join as sponsors, was recommended for passage on motion of George H. French of Winona.

F. H. Peterson of Moorhead, introduced a new phase of the packing house plant fight in the senate today, by a resolution calling upon the attorney-general to investigate as to whether the packing plant proposed for the midway district will be a menace to the state university; and if he finds it is, to bring injunction proceedings to prevent its culmination or continuance. The resolution received notice of debate by A. L. Hanson, and hence went over for the day.

Ole Sageng of Otter Tail made an endeavor to resuscitate his bill to give local option to towns of the fourth class throughout the state. He reminded the senate that the bill has been sleeping for nearly three months in the hands of the senate committee on temperance; and it was time the measure awoke. W. W. Dunn of St. Paul, told the senate that this same bill (the Ware measure) was a few days ago killed in the house, and that it would be but a waste of time for the senate to consider it. He also called attention to the fact that the chairman of the temperance committee was absent and suggested the matter therefore be laid over. The suggestion was accordingly adopted out of what is left of the proverbial "senatorial courtesy."

The A. K. Ware bill to prohibit brewing companies from owning retail saloons or controlling them, was killed in the house today on report of the judiciary committee which held the measure to be unconstitutional.

Two bills were recalled from the governor for amendment. One is the firemen's pension bill, applying to all cities outside of the first class, which have fire departments. The governor stated he would veto the bill in its present form making a special pension tax mandatory; but will sign the bill if it is amended to make the tax optional with each town. The recall is for the purpose of making this change.

On motion of F. B. Wright, the house recalled from the governor the bill to legalize sale of coal by a Litchfield school director to the local schools. The bill was too general in its terms to suit the governor, and is to be amended (if possible) so that it will apply only to the Litchfield case.

The Carlson bill for the regulation of the sale of mining stocks was killed in the house today.

The house passed the public health committee bill, giving the state board of health the power to establish rules and regulations for the proper sanitation and safety of hotels and lodging houses—a bill which takes the place of the L. H. Johnson measure which met death some time ago because of its drastic provisions.

St. Paul, April 13.—The house today re-passed the anti-cigarette bill which the senate passed several days ago. The bill had been amended by the senate so as to take effect Aug. 1 instead of on enactment.

The house suspended its rules and passed the bill to permit of a special election at Stillwater for election of a new mayor, to succeed J. G. Armson, who resigns to become a member of the state tax commission. This same bill has already passed the senate.

Burdette Thayer of Spring Valley succeeded in getting his anti-discrimination bill passed by the house, 62 ayes, 44 nays. This is the bill which the house a while ago killed, then reconsidered.

The house adopted the recommendation of its judiciary committee recommending for passage the Sullivan senate bill permitting an increase from five to eight in the justices of the state supreme court; also the bill requiring a state license for real estate dealers and brokers.

The packing plant resolution of F. H. Peterson of Moorhead was indefinitely postponed by the senate today.

On motion of John Moonan of Waseca the senate passed a joint memorial resolution, reciting that, whereas, Mrs. E. A. Everett of Minnesota and a number of other American citizens were killed March 19 last in a railroad collision in Mexico, that the United States authorities at Washington be requested to make a thorough investigation of the charges that the wreck was due to intoxication and carelessness of Mexican officials, and see that the guilty be properly punished.

J. T. Elwell of Minneapolis introduced a joint resolution instructing the state tax commission to see that property is assessed the coming two years on the same basis as during the past two years. The resolution has especially in view establishing a basis for the half mill special tax for university support, that the legislature may know what this special levy will raise, having a basis of assessed valuation to figure on. On suggestion of F. E. Putnam of Blue Earth, the resolution was given a place on general orders alongside the university levy bill.

The senate passed the A. D. Stephens bill appropriating $12,500 to pay the state attorneys up to date in the pending state rate cases against the railroads.

The senate this afternoon passed the W. E. Hinton bill to compel passenger elevators to be equipped with a device that shall hold the car at each floor while the landing door is open; and at almost the same hour the house passed the F. E. Nimocks bill, which is practically identical with the Hinton senate bill.

The bill for a legislative reference department, for which Messrs. Washburn, Mattson and Burnquist stood sponsors, was indefinitely postponed by a vote of 39 to 28. The Rosenwald bill for reorganization of the State Agricultural society also went by the indefinite postponement route to the tune of 52 to 50.

Bills passed the house included the measure to pension citizen soldiers of the Indian massacres in Minnesota during 1862, and the Clague senate bill for a constitutional amendment to permit the state to extend road and bridge aid to a maximum of one-half, instead of but one-third, at the expense of the improvement proposed by the county.

W. L. DARLING'S ESTIMATE ADDS MILLIONS TO OLD FIGURES.

New Testimony Due Is to Complicate Litigation Over Rates—Came as a Great Surprise to the Defense.

Minneapolis, April 15.—The railroads of the West have established one more knotty and confusing problem for the interstate commerce commission to fight against in its litigation with common carriers arising over attempts to regulate freight rates, and for the justice of the supreme court to untangle.

In the suit being tried before Frederick N. Dickson, master in chancery, in the United States circuit court in St. Paul, between the lines and the interstate commerce commission, the railroads yesterday called as a witness William L. Darling, chief engineer for the Northern Pacific. His evidence added millions to the figures already introduced as being a fair estimate of what it would cost to reproduce the Northern Pacific as it is being operated today. This item was the cost, at present freight rates, of the transportation of constructive material and all supplies and men necessary in the building of the railroad. This, in the case of rails, alone, for the 8,100 miles of Northern Pacific right of way, would amount to millions. In the physical valuation evidences offered in the Minnesota and Spokane rate hearings this cost of transportation was not introduced.

It came as a surprise to the defense yesterday. When Mr. Darling was sworn in the afternoon, W. A. Wimbish, for the commission, told the master that his original objection to the introduction of any testimony at this trial by the railroads that was not offered by them at the hearing of the east-bound lumber rate cases before the commission, applied to all witnesses called at this hearing. It is understood that the testimony from now on will be given under protest.

Mr. Darling testified that, according to his estimates, based on the experience of expert engineers and the records of the company, it would cost $682,193,601.68 to reproduce the Northern Pacific railroad. This, he said, is exclusive of the valuation of $114,000,000 which Mr. Cooper placed on the real property and terminals of the company in his evidence Tuesday. To his total Mr. Darling has added interest at the rate of 6 per cent on the capital that he says would be in use during the construction of the road covering a period which he estimates at 12 years to complete it. This item amounts to about $164,000,000 and is 2 per cent higher than his figures for the same item in his testimony at the Minnesota and Spokane rate hearings.

HARDSHIPS OF ARMY LIFE.

The experience of David W. Martin, a retired merchant of Bolivar, Mo., is just like thousands of others. Mr. Martin says: "I think I have had kidney disease ever since the war. During an engagement my horse fell on me, straining my back and injuring the kidneys. I have been told I had a floating kidney. I had intense pain in the back, headaches and dizzy spells, and the action of the bladder very irregular. About three years ago I tried Doan's Kidney Pills and inside of a comparatively short time was entirely rid of kidney trouble."

WISE TO NIAGARA.

Teacher—Johnny, can you tell me the most remarkable thing about Niagara Falls?

Johnny—Yessum; the price they soak you for everything without going to jail.

Artificial Wants.

Many a one, for the sake of finery on the back, has gone with a hungry belly and half-starved their families. "Silk and satin, scarlet and velvets," as Poor Richard says, "put out the kitchen fire." These are not the necessaries of life; they can scarcely be called the conveniences; and yet only because they look pretty, how many want to have them! The artificial wants of mankind thus become more numerous than the natural; and as Poor Dick says: "For one poor person, there are a hundred indigent."—Benjamin Franklin.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

AFTER SUFFERING TEN YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MARLTON, N.J.—"I feel that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has given me new life. I suffered for ten years with serious female troubles, inflammation, ulceration, indigestion, nervousness, and could not sleep. Doctors gave me up, as they said my troubles were chronic. I was in despair, and did not care whether I lived or died, when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; so I began to take it, and am well again and relieved of all my suffering."—Mrs. GEORGE JORDY, Box 40, Marlton, N.J.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials are on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., from women who have been cured from almost every form of female complaints, inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration. Every suffering woman owes it to herself to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

NO NEED TO TAKE CHANCES

There Is a Sure Way of Knowing Good Paint Material.

There is really no need whatever for any property owner to take chances in the selection of his paint materials. It doesn't cost a cent to learn how to be on the safe side. Certainly every property owner has enough at stake to find this out.

A complete painting guide, known as Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49, can be had free by writing National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Building, New York. This company is the largest maker of pure white lead in the world. Its Dutch Boy Painter trademark is famous as a guarantee of purity and quality. The outfit includes a book of color schemes, for either interior or exterior painting, a book of specifications, and a simple little instrument, with directions for testing the purity of paint materials.

WHY, OF COURSE.

"Oh, Willie! You're going to fall!"

"Naw, I ain't! I'm tryin' a new fancy style of skatin'—dat's all."

TOTAL LOSS OF HAIR

Seemed Imminent—Scalp Was Very Scaly and Hair Came Out by Handfuls—Scalp Now Clear and

New Hair Grown by Cuticura.

"About two years ago I was troubled with my head being scaly. Shortly after that I had an attack of typhoid fever and I was out of the hospital possibly two months when I first noticed the loss of hair, my scalp being still scaly. I started to use dandruff cures to no effect whatever. I had actually lost hope of saving any hair at all. I could brush it off my coat by the handful. I was afraid to comb it. But after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and nearly a box of Cuticura Ointment, the change was surprising. My scalp is now clear and healthy as could be and my hair thicker than ever, whereas I had my mind made up to be bald. W. F. Steese, 5812 Broad St., Pittsburg, Penn., May 1 and 21, 1908."

Caught on the Rebound.

The old man was lecturing his more or less wayward son on the evils of getting up late in the morning.

"Remember," he said, "that it was the early bird that caught the worm."

"But how about the worm, dad?" queried the youth, who thought he had his sire up in the air. "Where did his reward for getting up early come in?"

"I am informed," replied the old man, gravely, "that the worm was on his way home—hadn't been in bed at all."

And there being nothing more to say, the young man said nothing.

Couldn't Convince the Judge.

"I have heard of the soul kiss and kisses of other kinds, but I never heard of a man biting his wife as an evidence of his affection for her," remarked Justice O'Neill of Baltimore, Md., when George Phoebus, aged 27, of East Baltimore street, endeavored to explain the biting of his wife, for which offense she had him arrested. Mrs. Phoebus said her husband deliberately bit her on the cheek, and, though the pain was excruciating, he said that it was a "love bite." The justice fined him five dollars and gave him ten days in jail.

Assuming the Responsibility.

Mrs. Malone's patience was much tried by a servant who had a habit of standing around with her mouth open. One day, as the maid waited upon the table, her mouth was open, as usual, and her mistress, giving her a severe look, said:

"Mary, your mouth is open."

"Yessum," replied Mary, "I opened it."—Success Magazine.

SICK DOCTOR

Proper Food Put Him Right.

The food experience of a physician in his own case when worn and weak from sickness and when needing nourishment the worst way is valuable:

"An attack of grip, so severe it came near making an end of me, left my stomach in such condition I could not retain any ordinary food. I knew of course that I must have food nourishment or I could never recover.

"I began to take four tablespoonfuls of Grape-Nuts and cream three times a day and for 2 weeks this was almost my only food; it tasted so delicious that I enjoyed it immensely and my stomach handled it perfectly from the first mouthful. It was so nourishing I was quickly built back to normal health and strength.

"Grape-Nuts is of great value as food to sustain life during serious attacks in which the stomach is so deranged it cannot digest and assimilate other foods.

"I am convinced that were Grape-Nuts more widely used by physicians, it would save many lives that are otherwise lost from lack of nourishment."

Absolutely the most perfect food in the world. Trial of Grape-Nuts 10 days proves. "There's a Reason."

A FAIR FEE

BY BERNICE C. CAUGHEY

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

The fiat had gone forth. James Allen must ride possessively around a thousand ewes before there should be added unto him the fairest maid in all the Pecos valley, Mercreda Torres. So ruled old Pedro, Mercreda's father, and Allen knew the Medes' and Persians' laws were weak, wind-shaken reeds beside the solid rock of Pedro's grim determination.

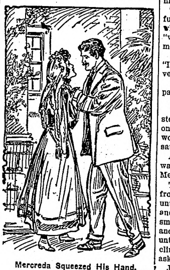
Poor Jim! He did not even own the mustang on which to do the riding. As for the ewes— Jim rushed from Pedro's presence in a sudden passion, and the tiny village of adobe houses set in the middle of New Mexico dropped into dim perspective as Jim's long, angry strides bore him towards the range which rimmed the valley.

The full blaze of noon held the barren land in thrall. A dry wind whispered through the withered grass and shook the ghostly sagebrush. Above the valley a treeless plain stretched out to meet a turquoise sky. The white wool of a dozen flocks relieved the dullness of the landscape.

When the young man had walked his passion off, he faced the situation bravely and made his pains.

Old Pedro had a double purpose in the promulgation of this edict. Jim was a lawyer. He had gone to school in Denver, had raked and scraped and pinched to get his education, and had planned to remain there to practice, but when the time came to leave the valley his widowed mother had fallen ill with a tedious malady, and Jim, of course, stayed with her that she might be among her people. Jim's mother was a Mexican, as was Mercreda's father, though the other side of each house came from good New England stock, and Pedro, fearful of the Yankee blood in each, sought to bind Jim to the valley.

The young man opened up a modest office in the village and flung a shingle to the lazy breeze that crept down from the range. But fees were scarce as molars on a hen-farm. Might ruled in the valley. The Mexicans and greasers settled their differences with fists and knives, and Jim eked out his scanty income by working at the dipping-station just outside the village.



Mercreda Squeezed His Hand.

In a year's time Jim had gathered a hundred ewes into his tiny corral. Fits of alternate hope and despair had bridged the interval. When a ewe gave birth to twins, Mercreda straightway predicted that an epidemic had set in, and rosy-fingered Hope plied the calculating pencil on a double basis. But when a gay ranchero rode into town, or a blithe young cowboy from the foothills swung through the village streets, despair held Jim in its paralyzing clutch.

But a great day dawned for Jim and for Mercreda. It found the former, clad in buckskin pants and jumper, busy at the dipping-station. The flocks of Tony Gomez filled the corrals and were struggling through the annual dipping process to prevent disease. Jim, the erudite, held the post of honor on a raised platform above the steaming vat. From the yards below a narrow chute led towards him, up which a steady stream of sheep was forced by the wily collies. Jim dropped the frightened creatures one by one into the hot sulphur dip with the nonchalance of a housewife shelling peas, and shouted orders to the Mexicans armed with throat hooks who guided the floundering sheep through the long, narrow vat towards the dripping pens.

From his elevation Jim saw a vast flock of lambs draw near outside the dipping-station, surrounded by snapping collies and dark-skinned herders. A dusty horseman plunged into view, a burly westerner, whose name was known to every sheepman on the range, and asked for the owner of the station. The owner was absent from the valley and there was no one to represent him. Jim called old Gomez, who came forth with glowering face and angry mien. The stranger demanded immediate possession. He made the startling statement that he had contracted for the station for the entire week, and drew forth a written document to substantiate his claim. He explained his haste, and insisted that the Mexican should give way to his flocks. He was under contract with a score of ranchmen in Colorado. A special train was to meet him at the nearest station, and the law required that the lambs should be dipped before crossing the state line.

With mellifluent flow. of Spanish vowels, in striking contrast to his volcanic manner, old Gomez called upon the residents of heaven to witness his intention, and the fires of hell to eternally consume him if he budged an inch for a luridly modified Yankee. The stockman coaxed, threatened, and finally turned his pony's head towards the village for legal assistance.

Jim hurried home to change his clothes, and was quietly seated in his office when the stranger sputtered in. Jim explained the futility of the usual legal process when the ugly Mexicans were aroused and suggested a compromise, to which the stockman gladly consented. All day Jim camped on Gomez's trail. His native instinct, illumined by his Yankee wit, won the day. With smooth words and $20 the corrals were cleared. The delighted stockman slapped Jim on the back and told him to come to the hotel that evening for his fee.

Jim hurried home to consult with his mother, and stopped on the way to tell Mercreda. "I ought to have $50," he insisted, "for it was worth that to him."

Mercreda squeezed his hand, and his mother gazed proudly upon the man who could earn $50 in a single day.

Arrayed in his bravest apparel, Jim sallied forth, walking on air, but before he reached the little 'dobe hotel he gradually neared the earth again. He was obliged to stop and recall Mercreda's proud look and his mother's wonderment to keep his courage at the proper pitch. "What if the stockman should offer me $5?" Jim asked himself. A cold chill pierced his spine at the thought.

The stockman met him with a cheerful greeting. "Well, sir," he began, when they were comfortably seated, "what do I owe you? Let's get the matter settled."

Jim hesitated and cleared his throat. "It saved you considerable, sir," he ventured.

"I know it did, and I am willing to pay for it," was the reply.

But Jim was loath to cast the die.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said the stockman; "I'll just spread out here on my knee what I think the job is worth, and you can tell me if it is satisfactory."

All hope of $50 vanished, and Jim was mustering up his courage to face Mercreda.

The stockman drew a huge wallet from an inside pocket and carefully untied it. Jim watched him moodily, and saw him draw out a bill and smooth it carefully upon his knee; another one was added and another, until five one-hundred-dollar bills lay clinging together. "How's that?" asked the stockman laconically.

Jim could not reply at once. By a sudden metamorphosis the timid sheep-dipper was transformed into the successful young attorney. His head was held erect, a bright spot burned in either cheek, a blaze of triumph shone in his eyes. His palms pressed hard against his rigid knees in a desperate effort to appear calm and unconcerned. Presently his power of speech returned. "Better make it another fifty," he said, and there was a ring in his voice as if New Mexico were his.

"I'll do it just for luck," replied the stockman.

Next morning when Jim went out to feed his flock he found it had been augmented by 900 ewes, each bearing on its left ear old Pedro's brand. A trim mustang was tethered near the gate. A scrap of paper clung to the bridle, on which was scrawled in Pedro's writing, "I mek prezent to my son Jeem."

Jim swung himself into the saddle. Twice round the little flock he raced and disappeared down the road in a cloud of dust. The mustang seemed to know its rider's mind, for when they reached the hedge in front of Pedro's cottage he leaped it like a rabbit. A moment more and Jim stood on the tiny porch with his arms about Mercreda.

Polygot Waiter Was American.

At a restaurant in the Wall street district in New York where the waiters all speak French and many of them German there is a popular waiter who is known to various regular customers as Franz, Frank and Francois. He speaks German and French with equal fluency, and on that account was the subject of a bet which he had to decide yesterday. One man who had known the waiter for years said that Franz was a German, and another was just as certain that he was French, and a third said that both men were wrong and that the linguist waiter undoubtedly came from Alsatia, or from that part of Switzerland where every child speaks three languages, each with a foreign accent. They were all surprised to hear that Frank, as he prefers to be called, was born in the Eighth ward, and has never been further from New York than Washington.

Some of the stolen goods were afterwards found in the yard with a note from a self-styled yeggman saying that he didn't like the quality of the stolen goods.

FOUND IN RIVER.

Body of Unknown Man Found Floating at Crookston.

Yesterday morning Chief of Police Eck, of Crookston, called up the PIONEER and stated that the body of an unknown man had been found in the Red Lake River at that place and asking for information regarding any one who might have disappeared from Red Lake county last fall or subsequently. The body is that of a man about five feet ten inches tall and apparently in in the neighborhood of fifty years of age. He had evidently been in the river all winter and was badly disfigured. He was dressed in overalls and a watch and some money were found in his clothes. He also had a memorandum book in one pocket but no name or address of any kind was in the book.

Chief Eck thought that perhaps the body might be that of David Pearson, who formerly lived west of Plummer, and who disappeared last fall and was advertised for in the PIONEER. Pearson was a younger man than this one appears to be and was over six feet tall, so there is little likelihood that it is his body. Pearson was last heard of at Ardock, N. D., and did not return to Minnesota so far as can be learned. The body, having been in the river for a long time, may have travelled a long distance under the ice during the winter. Chief Eck is inclined to believe that it may have come down the stream from any place west of Terrebonne, on the Clearwater, or any point on the Red Lake river.

C. D. Hall has taken the Agency for the Medge Nursery Co. of Albert Lea, Minnesota. Look them up.

Horses and Oxen—I have for sale some good work horses and some well broke oxen. Ole Swenson, Section 1 Garnes township.

E-Y-E-S -Dr. Spofford will be at the Grand View Hotel, Red Lake Falls, June 7th, 1909. and at St. Hilaire June 8th. Glasses that fit.

Carl Peterson and Henry Henderson, who left here a couple of weeks ago for the twin cities in search of employment, have secured positions in the repair shops of the Chicago Great Western railway at St. Paul.

R. O. Gorden came in from eastern Mayfield township on Thursday afternoon and went to Red Lake Falls yesterday to attend the meeting of the county board. He intended to secure some help from the county for road work in his vicinity.

Hans J Pederson, formerly a resident of this place but who has recently been in the saloon business at Fosston, will return here about Wednesday next and will build a new residence and blacksmith shop on his property just south of livery barn.

On last Monday a prairie fire raged through northern Mayfield township and did considerable damage to isolated haystacks, etc. The dwelling and barn on the Helmer Nikstad land were completely destroyed but so far as can be learned no other buildings were lost.

D. P. O'Neill was down yesterday from Thief River Falls and purchased a fine work horse from John Westerlund paying therefore $200 cash. Mr. O'Neill believes in having the best kind of stock on his farm and in this instance he is well pleased with his purchase.

On Tuesday Mrs. Christ Olson received the sad news of the death of a sister, Mrs. Mary Ostby, in Roseau county. Mrs. Ostby was about 42 year's of age and has been ailing for a long time from consumption. Mrs. Olson recently spent a week visiting with deceased and did not expect to hear of her death at this time.

John Mahla was in on Wednesday from his home west of town and reports the death of his father, John Hanson Mahla, at Stony Brook, Sask., on the 3rd inst at the ripe old age of 91 years and 6 months. Deceased was formerly a resident of Wyandotte township and went to Canada about three years ago with another son named Martin Hanson.

William Hannay, youngest son of J. K. Hannay, formerly of St. Hilaire, died at Mount Vernon, Wash., on April 14th as the result of injuries received in trying to stop his team which was startled by a passing milk wagon. Young Hannay was thrown to the ground and the wagon passed over his body causing internal injuries from which his death resulted.

Ditch is Ordered.

The long drawn out Mayfield-Kratka ditch question is settled at last and yesterday the county board ordered that the ditch be established. The talk of a strenuous fight being again made against this ditch seems to have been somewhat of an illusion for when the board met yesterday this opposition amounted to one lone lawyer who merely wanted to have some minor changes made. Anyway, the opposition did not oppose this time and the board ordered the ditch constructed without a single dissenting vote.

This is the third time the board has met to consider this ditch matter and at the former hearings it was opposed with sufficient vigor to make the commissioners postpone action and have several changes made from the original petition. But now the ditch has been ordered established and it is pretty generally conceded that, when constucted, it will do more good than any other ditch in the county.

For Man and Beast.

Sever Maaren, the well-known Mayfield township man, was in Plummer on Wednesday drumming up some business for the celebrated Dr. Koch Remedies, Stock and Poultry Foods, Spices, etc., for which he is agent in Red Lake and Polk counties. Mr. Maaren has had a nice wagon fixed up for his business and intends to spend about all his time travelling over his territory. The goods he sells have an established reputation as being of the first grade and he is finding little difficulty in taking orders. Mr. Maaren invites the public to give his goods a trial and is confident that all who favor him with a trial order will become regular customers.

Robert Swanson, of Esplee, in Marshall county, dropped dead at the depot in St. Hilaire on Monday last. He had been visiting with a daughter at St. Hilaire and was waiting for a train to take him to Thief River Falls when he was stricken with heart disease. He formerly lived near St. Hilaire, was a veteran of the cival war and about seventy years of age.

Scorched Table Linen.

When the three men sat down the leader of the trio began a minute inspection of the tablecloth. Presently he put his finger on several little scorched spots.

"See this?" he said to the waiter.

"Yes, sir."

"Well," said the man, "just bear in mind, won't you, that these holes were here when we came in? And when we get through don't tack a dollar on to our bill to pay for burned table linen."

"That's all right," said the waiter. "I'll look out for that."

The order having been given, the cautious diner elucidated his remarks still further. "That is a trick those fellows have," he said. "Somebody burns the tablecloth with sparks from a cigar and gets away before the damage is discovered, and the next comer, if he happens to be a smoker, is blamed for his predecessor's sins and is charged with the cost of the linen. I have had to pay well for other people's carelessness, so nowadays I make it a point to examine tablecloths at the beginning of a meal."—New York Press.

A Royal Romance.

The second son of Prince Oscar II. fell in love with a Miss Ebba Munck while at Bournemouth. She was one of the ladies in waiting to the Swedish crown princess, and King Oscar wished his son to make an alliance with one of the royal houses of Europe. The difficulty seemed one to be met only by drastic steps on the part of the lovers, but Queen Sophia's heart was won, and she it was who obtained the king's consent. She was very ill and a dangerous operation was the only chance of saving her life. "If I undergo it and it is successful, will you allow Oscar and Ebba to be married?" she asked the king, and of course the king promised. A year later the queen was quite well again. The lovers were in her room when the king approached. At the door he stood and listened. Miss Munck was singing to the queen, and he waited until it was over. Then he advanced, held out one hand to his son and gave his other to Miss Munck, and so his pledge was fulfilled and the couple came into their happiness.

How Erastus Found Light.

Voting is something of a hazard at times if we do not happen to have the plain guidance of the old darky janitor in Princeton. Erastus, being asked how he had voted, replied: "In the mahnin', sah, I was inclined to de Republican cause, for they gave me $3, but in the afternoon de Democrats gave me $2. So, sah, I voted de Democrat ticket straight, because dey was de leas' corrup', sah—de leas' corrup', sah!"—Success Magazine.

The Real Reason.

"De po' child died 'fum eatin' too much watahmillion."

"Huh! Dar ain't no sich-uh thing as too much watahmillion."

"Well, den, dar wasn't enough boy." —Puck.

It Had Been Read.

"That old tightwad uncle of mine is dead."

"Has his will been read yet?"

"Did you hear what I called him?"—Cleveland Leader.

To be proud of learning is the greatest ignorance.—Taylor.

MEAT IN AFRICA.

When the Butcher Murders a Bull the People Get Beef.

Travelers in Africa find the standard of living somewhat different from what they are accustomed to at home. Mary Hall in her book, "A Woman's Trek From the Cape to Cairo," throws a strong light upon the condition of market and kitchen in British Central Africa:

When the native butcher proposes to kill an ox, notice to that effect is sent round to the white people on the previous day. Once they were apprised of the fact by the following startling announcement: "A bule will be murdered tomorrow morning at 6 a. m."

This cold blooded crime, so carefully premeditated, even to the exact hour, was, however, not committed, as the next morning a second notice was issued as follows: "The bule ran away this morning, so was not murdered." But this was an exceptional case.

I heard one story which is so characteristic of the native that I repeat it. The man who related it told me that the incident occurred when he was on a journey and was suffering from a bad attack of fever. One evening he fancied he would like some eggs and told his boy to get two and boil them lightly.

After a time they were brought to him as hard as bullets. He told the boy he must get some more and boil them less; but, alas, these were brought to him in the same condition, and the poor fellow wished he had never ordered them at all.

Being unwilling to give in, he made another attempt and told his boy, "Come to me when the water boils." The boy did so.

"Now," said his master, "put the eggs in, and when you have counted fifty take them out."

The native method of reckoning is to count up to ten and then begin again, arriving at the total by the number of the tens counted. The sick man heard the boy start fair and get as far as four tens, when a second boy interfered and questioned whether it were the third or fourth ten.

This started a discussion, and as they could not agree it was decided to begin all over again. Meanwhile the eggs were still boiling and getting harder and harder. This was about the last straw, and, ill as the man felt, he was compelled to get out of bed and put a summary end to the cooking operations.

SOME SURE THINGS.

Do Not Bet on Your Ability to Perform These Feats.

Bets to be avoided by those who are cocksure they can do all things are those relating to athletic feats. It would seem that a good runner could easily give a start of fifty yards in a hundred to a man who was doing the fifty yards by hopping on one leg. But few runners, if any, can afford to give that amount of start to any man who is at all strong on his legs. For the first five yards or so they go at practically the same pace, so that to run ninety-five yards while his opponent is hopping forty-five he has to go more than twice as fast, and it is a weak man indeed who cannot hop fifty yards in ten seconds.

An ordinary wooden match is easily broken in the fingers, but, although there are many who will bet they can do it, none succeed in accomplishing the task if the match is laid across the nail of the middle finger of either hand and pressed upon by the first and third fingers of that hand, despite its seeming so easy at first sight.

No one can crush an egg placed lengthwise between his clasped hands—that is, if the egg be sound and has the ordinary shell of a hen's egg.

It is safe to bet a man that he cannot get out of a chair without bending his body forward or putting his feet under it if he is sitting on it, not at the edge of it.

Another equally certain wager is that a man cannot stand at the side of a room with both of his feet touching the wainscoting lengthwise.

It is safe to bet any man, save one who is blind, that he cannot stand for five minutes without moving if he is blindfolded.

Roused His Suspicions.

A naval officer was speaking of the extortions of innkeepers in out of the way parts of the globe.

"In Montenegro once," he said, "I asked for my bill after having slept overnight at a certain inn, and as soon as the document was handed to me I took out my purse to settle it. I did not bother to verify the various items. What would have been the use?

"But my readiness to pay amazed the landlord. He thought a moment, and then he said uneasily:

"'Will you let me have another look at that bill, sir? I think I have omitted something.'"

JOHNSON VETOES THE TONNAGE TAX

MEASURE IS HASTY AND NOT UNDERSTOOD, HE ASSERTS.

Declares the Present System Brings Sufficient Revenue to State—Glad News Is Rushed to Ranges.

St. Paul, April 21.—Governor John A. Johnson yesterday vetoed the Bjorge tonnage tax bill on iron ore.

The veto is one of the most important and far-reaching acts of Governor Johnson's administrative career. In taking this action he has gone against the apparent feeling of the southern part of the state, has overruled his own tax commission, which recommended tonnage tax, and has turned the vote of many of his supporters and members of his own party faith in house and senate.

Immediately following the announcement of the veto a flood of messages were sent over the wires to the iron range district where the country has been in a state of nervous prostration ever since the passage of the bill by the senate.

The text of the vote message is as follows:

First—Notwithstanding the able and sincere manner and the labor bestowed upon it by its author, Mr. Bjorge, the bill remains, both in principle and administrative features, a more or less uncertain and ill-digested experiment, not fully understood even by friends and intensely feared by the sections of the state to which it specially applies, while in application, it threatens to violate the fundamental principle of taxation, that of equality, at the same time that it fails to meet the constitutional requirement of uniformity in taxing the same class of subjects.

Second—It is certain that the moral, industrial and practical effect of the bill, if made a law at this time, will be to strike a severe blow at the development and prosperity of all the great mineral bearing counties of northeastern and north central Minnesota, affecting alike the agricultural, manufacturing, commercial, educational, growth and success, as well as the settlement of all our northern lands, both public and private, and the investment of both home and foreign capital.

Third—The passage of the proposed tonnage tax measure, at this time when both its provisions and the principle on which it is based are so little understood and indeed so generally misunderstood, has plunged the whole subject of taxation under the new state constitutional amendment into a sea of political and sectional feeling and prejudice, which not only makes a just, efficient and scientific measure impossible of enactment at this time, but threatens personal hatred which may disrupt and endanger the future best development of our commonwealth, besides making the subject of just state taxation the mere football of partisan and sectional politics.

Fourth—Minnesota is achieving marked success in the assessment and taxation of iron ore lands under the present ad valorem system, so that there is no urgent and vital public need of a measure of this kind at this time and nothing to prevent the state from taking ample time under the provision of the new state constitutional amendment, and with the aid of the state tax commission to work out a system of taxation on a thoroughly scientific and dispassionate and equitable basis devoid of political and sectional feelings and one that will commend itself to the people of Minnesota at large, regardless of section or party, industry or class for its justice or equality of principle or administrative features.

As regards the success of the state in securing revenue from the iron ore properties under the present ad valorem system, permit me to cite to you the statistical exhibit of the state auditor in page 18 of his last biennial report. It there appears that the taxable values of iron ore properties in Minnesota have been raised from $6,000,000 in 1898 to $180,000,000 in 1908, or increased 30 fold in 10 years, and that the taxes levied to be paid into the state treasurer from this source increased from $189,000 in 1898 to $600,000 in 1908, increasing 33 fold in the brief period of 10 years.

If the revenue derived from iron mines is not sufficient the state, under the present system, has the full power and machinery to increase the assessment to a proper and just figure without plunging any section of the state into panic and arresting its development.

The state board of equalization and the state tax commission under the present tax laws have raised the value of iron ore lands from $42,000,000 in 1905 to $180,000,000 last year, thereby increasing the state tax levy for state purposes alone from $114,000 four years ago to approximately $600,000 a year at the present time, or adding nearly a half million of revenue annually to the state treasury and approximately quadrupling the iron ore valuation and taxes in the brief period of four years.

The present scientific and thorough manner of reaching iron ore valuation by the Minnesota tax commission is the subject of the admiration and congratulations of the leading tax authorities of the country.

Minnesota's success in the taxation of mines is recognized as the most marked achievement in the progress of state taxation in recent years. The progress we have made, we have full full power to continue to make under present laws and administration. Northern Minnesota is just emerging from the long depression incident to the great industrial strike followed by the presidential election and general depression of the iron and steel industry.

To plunge this great section again at this time into the uncertainty and depression that are certain to follow the enactment of this bill and the almost endless litigation to which it will give rise not only is not called for by any present public necessity, but appears suicidal to the state's progress and prosperity in this critical period of its northern development.

Northern Minnesota claims with some show of reason that had its counties a legislative representation based on a just population apportionment this bill would never have passed. Fifty-five counties of this state receive more money from the state treasury than they pay into it and it scarcely seems possible that these districts should attempt to impose upon another section of the state a system of taxation based upon an inequality. Such attitude obviously threatens the state with a condition of section hatred and prejudice which is ominous to the state's future peace, harmony and progress.

However patriotic and disinterested in purpose the author and the majority of the friends of this measure may be the fact remains that the people of the northern counties, in which our mineral resources are located, believe as one man that their section and industry are singled out for tax discrimination and confiscation.

Taxation is not for punishment. The sovereign power of taxation is not conferred by the people upon their representatives for the purpose of punishing any industry, class or section. The foundation theory of taxation is absolute equality and justice to the humblest and the mightiest alike.

In its practical operation this bill, as it would affect the great mining corporations, would not, I believe, work out the result designed by the author. Based upon metallic standards entirely, it would be of advantage to the mining companies now operating in the Vermillion and Mesaba ranges and would work a decided disadvantage to the people possessing low grade ores of the undeveloped properties now in the hands of thousands of setlers in Aitkin, Beecher, Beltrami, Cass, Hubbard, Itasca, Morrison, Crow Wing, Otter Tail, Cobb and Wadena counties.

Not only would there be a discrimination in favor of the older and richer section of our mineral area, but it would place an unfair and unjust burden upon their smaller and independent competitors in the new and less developed section and in many instances would doubtless result in the latter being compelled to surrender their properties at a sacrifice to that corporation which dominates the steel industry of the United States.

The purpose of taxation is to raise revenue for the expenses of government, and on this theory taxes should be levied on all classes and on all sections as nearly alike as may be.

There is no denial of the statement that this section now pays on valuations greater than other classes of real estate in other sections of the state, and while it may be possible, and doubtless is true that modifications may be necessary, this can be accomplished, as I have already stated, fully as well under the present ad valorem system, under the scientific investigation of the tax commission, as under the specific plan proposed in this bill, and the present plan has this very decided advantage to the state, that the revenues are definitely determined and expenditures can be made accordingly, while under the proposed plan there would obtain a flexibility dangerous in its uncertainty, as the revenues would be more or less as the companies mined, much or little.

I believe that the bill, providing as it does a double system of taxation on one class of property, is wrong in principle and for this and the reasons above recited I herewith return the same.

—JNO. A. JOHNSON.

Jeffries Will Fight Johnson.

New York, April 21.—James J. Jeffries made the following announcement last night:

"I will fight Jack Johnson. The present heavyweight situation is the only thing that could have brought me from retirement. I have all the money I will need and there is no monetary consideration that could tempt me into the ring if I was not sure I could easily defeat any challenger for the championship.

"All I will ask after that is for sufficient time to thoroughly condition myself, and should Mr. Johnson care to challenge me for the title I will do what I think I owe to the public, that is, to defend my title of undefeated champion of the world."

Fortune Hid in Trunk.

Minneapolis, April 21.—After making a last request that his body be buried at an expense not to exceed $60, Jacob Roth, an eccentric contractor, died Sunday at St. Joseph's hospital. After his funeral yesterday two nieces living at the Buckingham apartments visited Roth's former home, and in an old trunk discovered cash and securities aggregating $50,000.

"When my little boy was two and a half months old he broke out on both cheeks with eczema. It was the itchy, watery kind and we had to keep his little hands wrapped up all the time, and if he would happen to get them uncovered he would claw his face till the blood streamed down on his clothing. We called in a physician at once, but he gave an ointment which was so severe that my babe would scream when it was put on. We changed doctors and medicine until we had spent fifty dollars or more and baby was getting worse. I was so worn out watching and caring for him night and day that I almost felt sure the disease was incurable. But finally reading of the good results of the Cuticura Remedies, I determined to try them. I can truthfully say I was more than surprised, for I bought only a dollar and a half's worth of the Cuticura Remedies (Cuticura Soap, Ointment and Pills), and they did more good than all my doctors' medicines I had tried, and in fact entirely cured him. His face is perfectly clear of the least spot or scar of anything. Mrs. W. M. spot or scar. Mrs. W. M. Comerer, Burnt Cabins, Pa., Sept. 15, 1908."

Foolish Question.

A New York chap wants to be told why theater tickets in that city do not indicate the hour of the beginning of the performance. Should think he would know. The hour is not mentioned because nobody is ever on time at the beginning of the performance. What would be the good of wasting printer's ink?

Red Wing.—One of the most terrible crimes in the history of Goodhue county was committed when Freda Langen, age 28, and her 2-year-old baby were murdered by Ole O. Odden was enraged because the girl to whom he was engaged was about to leave the village and go to Minneapolis, where she was to be employed as a domestic, and where her sister, Mrs. Hanna Langden, 3330 Holmes avenue, resided.

City Not Liable in Damage Cases.

Mankato.—District Judge A. R. Pfau has filed two decisions of much importance to the city of Mankato. He has sustained the demurrer to the complaints in two $5,000 damage suits brought against the city by widows whose husbands died as victims of the typhoid-fever epidemic last year. The city was sued on the ground that it owned and operated the water works system, and that, through incompetent management, the water became polluted and caused an outbreak of typhoid.

Takes Poison and Dies.

Mankato.—Oscar Gilman, who lived near Lake Crystal, was found dying beside a straw stack on Herman Shipman's farm, near Minneopa. He had taken rough on rats, but did not die until some hours later. He refused medical assistance, saying he wanted to die as no one loved him. He had been simple-minded for years, since sustaining a sunstroke. He was single and about 40 years old.

Boy Thieves Go to Reformatory.

Faribault.—Judge Thomas S. Buckham sentenced William Lang, aged 15 years, and Irving Gallagher, aged 14 years, to the reformatory for breaking into the grocery store of Joseph I. Rell last Sunday night and taking what money was left in the cash register, besides some tobacco and other goods. Both pleaded guilty.

Battles with Insane Man.

Waseca.—Sheriff M. McDonough of this county had a strenuous encounter with an insane man here in the county jail. He was closing the door of the maniac's cell when the insane man suddenly attacked him. The scuffling attracted the attention of the other officials in the jail and the maniac was overpowered.

Nominated Seventh Time.

Red Wing.—At the Republican city convention A. P. Pierce, for the seventh time, was nominated to succeed himself as mayor of Red Wing. The other nominations were:

NEWS NOTES.

Minneapolis. — The Bijou Opera House will have as its attraction the week of April 25th, the dramatization of Harriet Beecher Stowe's famous story, "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Marshall.—A. D. Smith, county superintendent of schools of Murray county, has resigned to accept a position in the office of State Treasurer C. C. Dinehart. The county commissioners at a special session appointed Miss Florence Turner of Fulda to fill the unexpired term.

New Ulm.—Habeas corpus proceedings were instituted last week for the release of Mrs. Josephine Ray, alias Carmody, the fortune teller, who is in jail here awaiting trial on a charge of grand larceny. The hearing was held at Sleepy Eye and Judge Olson of the district court denied the motion.

Two Harbors.—The fifth annual convention of the Epworth league of the Duluth district of the Northern Minnesota conference convened at the Methodist Episcopal church this afternoon. About fifty delegates are present from various points on the range and from charges between Sandstone and Duluth.

Thief River Falls.—A singular and most distressing accident befell a farmer of Mahnomen county, whereby he met his death on the right of way of the Soo road. When the daily passenger train reached Thief River Falls it was discovered that portions of a man's body were attached to the cow catcher and on the front of the engine. It was evndent that the train had struck some person and had torn the body to shreds. Inquiry was made at all the stations down the line as far as Detroit and in a short time it was learned that portions of a man's body were found along the track near Calloway. Later, upon inquiry, the coroner discovered that the remains were those of Knut Tazson, a well-to-do farmer residing near the town where the accident occurred.

Hastings.—May Quealey, the 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Quealey, and a member of the junior class of the Hastings high school, died this morning of peritonitis. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning from the Church of the Guardian Angels.

Collegeville.—A class of twenty-one students was confirmed here by Bishop James Trobec of St. Cloud

CRIMINAL IN CHILD NATURE.

Writer in New Orleans Picayune Asserts We Are All Born with Tenderness Toward the Bad.

"All children," said a psychologist, "are born criminals. Instinctively they lie, steal, slander, torture—I don't know what. The saintliest man, a very Dr. Parkhurst of a man, were he to grow up as he began, would have a long career of bank robberies, assaults, debauches and murders, and he would die on the gallows.

"A child, as soon as it begins to toddle and lisp, steals. Till you have trained a child to know that thefts are followed by spankings, would you dare to leave it alone in a candy shop?

"It also lies. After a raid on the jam or cake, does a child admit its guilt? Of course not. It lies earnestly, doggedly.

"A child slanders and libels. Did you ever hear a beautiful, lisping child speak in praise of its playmate? No. On the contrary, it accuses the playmate continually of horrible crimes.

"A child will get drunk if you give it the opportunity. Lack of opportunity is all that prevents children from becoming confirmed inebriates.

"It is needless to go on. Look back on your childhood. Study your evil little child heart. You'll wonder then that no curio collector cherishes a piece of your rope."—New Orleans Picayune.

AILING WOMEN.

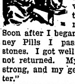
Keep the Kidneys Well and the Kidneys Will Keep You Well.



Sick, suffering, languid women are learning the true cause of bad backs and how to cure them. Mrs. W. G. Davis, of Groesbeck, Texas, says: "Backaches hurt me so I could hardly stand. Spells of dizziness and sick headaches were frequent and the action of the kidneys was irregular. Soon after I began taking Doan's Kidney Pills I passed several gravel stones. I got well and the trouble has not returned. My back is good and strong, and my general health is better."

Sold by all dealers. 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

THE WRETCHES.

Uncle—How is it, young man, that you failed again in your examination?

Nephew—Why, the wretches asked me the very same question I could not answer last year!

Not Our Discovery.

The Greek, Eratosthenes, 250 B. C., taught the doctrine of the rotundity of the earth, and the ideas of the sphere, its poles, axis, the equator, arctic and antarctic circles, equinoctial points and the solstices were quite generally entertained by the wise men of that time. There were plenty of men in Rome, therefore, who were prepared to talk about the earth as a sphere and to make globes illustrating their ideas.

Natural Solicitude.

Invalid Husband—Did the doctor say I was to take all that medicine?

Wife—Yes, dear.

Invalid Husband—Why, there's enough there to kill a donkey.

Wife (anxiously)—Then you'd better not take all of it, John!—Tit Bits.

"COFFEE DOESN'T HURT ME"

Tales That Are Told.

"I was one of the kind who wouldn't believe that coffee was hurting me," says a N. Y. woman. "You just couldn't convince me its use was connected with the heart and stomach trouble I suffered from most of the time.

"My trouble finally got so bad I had to live on milk and toast almost entirely for three or four years. Still I loved the coffee and wouldn't believe it could do such damage.

"What I needed was to quit coffee and take nourishment in such form as my stomach could digest.

"I had read much about Postum, but never thought it would fit my case until one day I decided to quit coffee and give it a trial and make sure about it. So I got a package and carefully followed the directions.

"Soon I began to get better and was able to eat carefully selected foods without the aid of pepsin or other digestants and it was not long before I was really a new woman physically.

"Now I am healthy and sound, can eat anything and everything that comes along and I know this wonderful change is all due to my having quit coffee and got the nourishment I needed through this delicious Postum.

"My wonder is why everyone don't give up the old coffee and the troubles that go with it and build themselves up as I have done, with Postum."

Easy to prove by 10 days' trial of Postum in place of coffee. The reward is big.

"There's a Reason."

SAVING PAINT MONEY

It Cannot Be Done by Using Cheap Material and Cheap Painters.

In arranging for painting, a good many property-owners try to save money by employing the painter who offers to do the job cheapest—or try to save money by insisting on a low-priced paint. But no property-owner would run such risks if he realized what must be taken into consideration in order to get a job that will wear and give thorough satisfaction.

No houseowner will go wrong on the painting question if he writes National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Building, New York, for their Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49, which is sent free. It is a complete guide to painting. It includes a book of color schemes for either exterior or interior painting, a book of specifications, and an instrument for detecting adulteration in paint materials.

Nearly every dealer has National Lead Company's pure white lead. (Dutch Boy Painter trademark.) If yours has not, notify National Lead Co., and arrangements will be made for you to get it.

What Charlie Had.

Several of the scholars had returned to Sunday school after being absent some weeks on account of illness. "I had the measles," said one little girl. "I had the mumps," said another. "So did I," said a third. The superintendent heard them, and, addressing a curly-headed boy said: "Well, Charlie, you were absent, too. What did you have?"

Charlie's face flushed. He thought a moment and then sang out in high treble: "I had a little brudder!"—Delineator.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"We hope," said the spokesman of the committee, "to enlist your support in favor of a clean stage."

"You have it," responded the theatrical manager, heartily. "Why, almost every one of my plays opens with a girl dusting everything in sight."

Time is the best test. For over fifty years Hamlins Wizard Oil has been the most popular remedy in the United States for the cure of Rheumatism, Neuralgia and all pain and inflammation.

WHAT JOY THEY BRING TO EVERY HOME

as with joyous hearts and smiling faces they romp and play—when in health—and how conducive to health the games in which they indulge, the outdoor life they enjoy, the cleanly, regular habits they should be taught to form and the wholesome diet of which they should partake. How tenderly their health should be preserved, not by constant medication, but by careful avoidance of every medicine of an injurious or objectionable nature, and if at any time a remedial agent is required, to assist nature, only those of known excellence should be used; remedies which are pure and wholesome and truly beneficial in effect, like the pleasant laxative remedy, Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna has come into general favor in many millions of well informed families, whose estimate of its quality and excellence is based upon personal knowledge and use.

Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna has also met with the approval of physicians generally, because they know it is wholesome, simple and gentle in its action. We inform all reputable physicians as to the medicinal principles of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, obtained by an original method, from certain plants known to them to act most beneficially, and presented in an agreeable syrup in which the wholesome Californian blue figs are used to promote the pleasant taste; therefore it is not a secret remedy, and hence we are free to refer to all well informed physicians, who do not approve of patent medicines and never favor indiscriminate self-medication.

Please to remember and teach your children also that the genuine Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna always has the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—plainly printed on the front of every package and that it is for sale in bottles of one size only. If any dealer offers any other than the regular Fifty cent size, or having printed thereon the name of any other company, do not accept it. If you fail to get the genuine you will not get its beneficial effects. Every family should always have a bottle on hand, as it is equally beneficial for the parents and the children, whenever a laxative remedy is required.

Coming as he does, into a new field where all are strangers, it is a very hard matter to secure items of a personal nature. Either send them to the office or hand them to the editor on the street and the favor will be reciprocated at the first opportunity.

A deal was consumated this week whereby H. H. Finrow disposes of his hotel business here to E. L. Wichterman. Mr. Finrow closed the place yesterday. As a host, Mr. Finrow has been a success and many of the residents of Plummer who have been boarders at the hotel, will find it hard to eat their meals without seeing either Mr. or Mrs. Finrow present.

Wreck on the Soo.

While switching in the yards here Wednesday afternoon, two cars, one of which was loaded with furniture and lumber belonging to Hans Peterson, ran through the derail at the south end of the elevator track and into the ditch. The engine wheels also left the track and the rails were twisted and torn from the ties. Both cars cut deep furrows in the grade and both were tipped up in such a way that it would need but a gentle push to turn them on their sides. A wrecking crew was sent down from Thief River Falls in charge of Roadmaster Sullivan and Master Mechanic Horton. After several hours of hard work, the engine was put back on the track; but the cars were left for the derrick crew to take care of on Thursday. No blame has as yet been attached for the accident and it is impossible to say just who was responsible.

The weather for the past few days has been so much like winter that one would almost be lead to believe that old Father Time has been working backward. Every day this week flurries of snow, combined with a cold atmosphere, have helped break the monotony of a slow spring's coming. Friday morning the ground was covered with several inches of snow and the fall continued throughout the day. Several farmers have reported having done some seeding, though the biggest percentage of the land is yet untouched. As soon, however, as the weather moderates, seeding will be on in earnest, as most farmers are waiting an opportunity to begin the work.

ABDUL'S REIGN ENDS; BROTHER ON THRONE

Old Sultan, Charged with Many Atrocious Crimes, Shorn of Power by Young Turks, Bows to Will of Allah.

Constantinople.—The reign of Abdul Hamid II. ended Tuesday with his deposition and the accession of his brother, Mehemmed Reschad Effendi, as Mehmed V., a variation of Mahomet, it being considered inappropriate to assume the precise name of the prophet.

Mehmed V. is the thirty-fifth sovereign of Turkey, in male descent, of the House of Osman, the founder of the empire, and the twenty-ninth sultan since the conquest of Constantinople.

The two houses of parliament, meeting as a national assembly, in the forenoon approved the decree of deposition, which was read by the Sheik-ul-Islam, chief of the ulemas and supreme judge on ecclesiastical questions.

Charges Against Abdul.

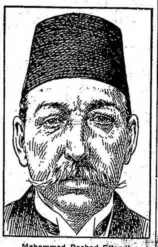
The document recites that Abdul Hamid's acts were contrary to the sacred law, and set forth a long list of crimes, the whole making a terrible indictment. The firing of 101 guns announced to the waiting people that a new sultan had been proclaimed.

The ceremonies connected with the transfer of the power were simple.



Mehemmed Rechad Effendi.

The newly-chosen ruler came from his palace in Galata through streets lined with troops and cheering thousands and took the oath at the war office. He then proceeded to the parliament and later went to the Dolmabagtsche palace as head of the empire, where for so many years he had practically been a prisoner.

People Pleased with Action.

Martial law was relaxed and the people gave themselves over to celebrating the victory of the Young Turks party and the end of Abdul Hamid's reign. Many buildings were illuminated, and thousands of rounds were fired by the soldiers for joy. General good humor prevailed everywhere.

The question of the new cabinet has not yet been settled, but it is thought that Ahmed Riza will be grand vizier.

New Sultan Informed.

The Sheik-ul-Islam, supported by all the principal personages of the higher church administration, issued the fetva as the decree of deposition is called. It informed Mehemmed Reschad Effendi that he was chosen sultan by the will of the church, the will of the parliament, the will of the army and the will of the people. It admonished him to serve God and keep the sacred law, as communicated by the prophet. This Reschad humbly promised to do.

The Sheik-ul-Islam, it is said, personally visited the sultan and read him the decree. He informed his majesty that the question having been put in canonical form before the sheik and his associates as to whether Abdul Hamid had not forfeited the right to rule over the faithful, they had decided "yes."

Abdul bowed his head, saying:

"It is the will of Allah."

At a secret sitting of the national assembly in the morning the decree was read. It declared that Abdul Hamid II. must abdicate or be dethroned. The assembly unhesitatingly shouted: "Dethrone him."

Expected It, Says Sultan.

A deputation, consisting of two senators and two deputies, thereupon visited the palace at Yildiz and communicated to the sultan the assembly's resolution. Abdul Hamid replied:

"I expected this. It is fate. My only wish is that the lives of myself and family may be safeguarded and that I may reside at the palace of Cheraghan, as I wish to die where I was born."

A similar deputation proceeded to the Dolmabagtsche palace in Galata and informed Mehemmed Reschad Effendi of the nation's wish. The newly proclaimed sultan replied that he bowed to the will of the people.

Later the assembly debated the momentous question of Abdul Hamid's future residence. The suggestion that he be allowed to travel abroad was strongly opposed on the ground that it might cause complications. It was finally decided that he must remain in Constantinople.

At 2:30 in the afternoon a salute of 21 guns announced the departure of Mehemmed Reschad to the Seraskerat to swear fidelity to the constitution.

Troops Line the Route.

The sultan-elect came by boat across the Bosphorus to Stamboul. Troops lined the entire route, comprising regulars and volunteers of all nationalities of the empire and enthusiastic crowds watched the procession and acclaimed the new ruler. Ahmed Riza, the former president of the chamber of deputies, and Gen. Schefket and his officers received Mehemmed Reschad at the portals of the war office. All kissed his hand.

When the assembly deputation arrived at the Yildiz, the fetva of the Sheik-ul-Islam was handed to Ali Djevad Bey, first secretary, for communication to Abdul Hamid, who in an inner apartment was guarded by 15 eunuchs. The deputation was then ushered into his presence and the spokesman said: "You no longer reign over us."

Abdul Hamid gave a deep sigh of relief upon being informed that no designs were entertained against his life.

Had Ruled Thirty-Three Years.

For 33 years Abdul Hamid II., thirty-fourth sultan of the Ottoman empire, has held the powers of Europe at bay and with consumate political skill he has maintained most of his empire intact from foreign encroachment.

Last July the sultan was compelled by the Young Turk party to grant a constitution to the empire, and several months later Turkey entered, for the second time in her history, upon an era of popular government. April 13 there broke out at Constantinople a military revolt against parliament and the cabinet. This movement has been generally ascribed to the machinations of the sultan.

Abdul Hamid was born September 22, 1842. In spite of his long reign, little is known of his personal character. His predecessors had been autocrats, but he is described as having brought on Turkey a degree of despotism such as the country had not experienced in many generations. He lived within the precincts of the imperial palace of Yildiz, shut off from his subjects by a triple line of walls, in mortal fear of his life.

Massacres Charged to Him.

The Armenian massacres of 1895 and 1896 were laid at the door of the sultan, but whether he directly fostered them or not is not known.

Mehemmed Reschad Effendi, younger brother of Abdul Hamid, was born November 3, 1844, and is, legally and according to the Mussulman law, the successor of Abdul Hamid.

Massacre Death List Increases.

Beirut.—Latest advices received here show little improvement in conditions throughout the disturbed regions of Asiatic Turkey. Every day adds to the sufferings of the refugees and to the death list. A dispatch from Adana says the fires have been extinguished, but there is great fear of further incendiarism. The American mission buildings, the Catholic Sisters' school and one Gregorian church have been saved. The Jesuit and Armenian Catholic and Protestant churches and schools have been burned. Twenty thousand persons are destitute and there are few supplies of any kind. Doctors have been sent to the town from Beirut and Tarsus. Hadjin is still besieged. All of the American missionaries in that town were safe Monday night. No direct word has been received from them.

America Satisfied with Change.

Washington.—Prompt recognition will be given to the new government of Turkey by the administration when official news of the order of things in the Ottoman empire reaches Washington.

WESTERN CANADA'S HAPPY PROSPECTS.

In no year since the development of Western Canada began has spring brought a brighter outlook than it brings this year. In no preceding spring has there been greater assurance of advancing development and prosperity. The movement of immigration has already assumed large proportions, and is as desirable in character as it is satisfactory in volume; from across the Atlantic sturdy, industrious and thrifty newcomers are arriving in large numbers, homeseekers from Ontario and the other older Provinces are coming in a steady stream, and from across the international boundary a movement is already in full flow, which, it is confidently predicted, will beat the records of all previous years; special settlers' trains are crossing the line, loaded with effects, actual material wealth being thus brought into the country at the rate of millions of dollars' worth monthly.

The movement is so unprecedentedly large that extra Dominion Immigration officials have had to be provided at both North Portal and at Emerson, and it is estimated that the total number of new settlers from the United States this year will be 70,000, at least, and may run well up toward 100,000. Last year's total of new settlers from the South was 53,723; thus the area that will be placed in wheat and other grains this year will greatly exceed that of last year. Settlers are making extraordinary efforts to get on their lands and begin seeding operations. The price of wheat now, away above the dollar mark, is incentive enough, and when one has in view the splendid results that the past few years have shown, it is not to be wondered at that the present will be the banner year for Immigration to Canada. Ask your nearest Canadian Government Agent for rates of transportation, and he will also send you illustrated pamphlets.

A DOUBLE EVENT.

Mrs. Highfly—And has she really got two servants?

Mrs. Flutter—Yes—one coming and one going.

"HIS WIFE"

BY TRYNTJE DUBOIS

(Copyright, by J. B. Lippincott Co.)

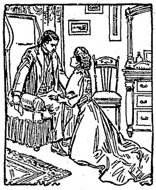
Mrs. Harlon held the pistol in her hand and examined its mechanism with an absent-minded frown. The loads lay in a glass of water on the table beside her; presently she picked them up in her fingers, dried them on her handkerchief, replaced them in the empty chambers of the revolver, and, crossing the room, laid it on the chimney-piece.

Then she sank her hands deep in the wide pockets of her empire dressing-gown, compressed her lips for an instant, sighed heavily, and rang the bell. To the responding servant she said briefly:

"I want to speak to your master;" and then she turned towards the window and waited while the man went through the many corridors that lay between the private suite of his master and mistress and the billiard room, where all the men of the party were making a jolly end to a rainy day.

A telegram had just come for Hughes, summoning him to town by the midnight express. Chamberlaine, who had arrived late and had to share his friend's apartment, was so overjoyed at the prospect of a whole bed to himself that he offered to drive him across country to the train. He regretted the offer directly he had made it, but Hughes had exhibited so much pleasure in his acceptance that it seemed impossible to withdraw. While they were discussing the matter the man came in with Mrs. Harlon's message. There wasn't a fellow present who would not have been less surprised if their hostess had sent for himself—Mrs. Harlon being "that kind of woman." Harlon flushed with a mixture of importance and pleasure and quitted the room at once. After he was gone all the men but Hughes laughed; Hughes didn't laugh because he was scribbling an order to send to the stables.

Then Chamberlaine became sober all of a sudden. "I don't believe I'll go, after all," he said, "it's raining harder than ever."



"Tell Me All."

Hughes walked across to the bell-rope.

"Don't go back on a friend, Billy," he said as he rang, "I need you tonight."

Harlon, as he hurried along the halls, wondered what his wife wanted. He wasn't the sort of husband whose presence is frequently demanded.

Then he opened the door of the boudoir and saw her sitting there alone by the fire.

"You—you sent for me."

She turned and looked towards the voice, then rose up and stood there, resting her hand on the chairback. Her gown of velvet hung in great, golden folds around her, and the firelight outlined the splendor of her hair and throat and form. She was a strikingly beautiful woman—the sort of woman who wisely chooses to marry a man both moral and dense. She stood there now, measuring him and measuring herself, and then, at last, she spoke—

"I sent for you because I wanted to know how much courage and how much greatness of character you possess."

Harlon, being masculine, naturally was as completely sure of the possession of every desirable attribute as he was unaware that his ears stood out and his legs were bowed.

"Anything you want, Ada," he said, "you know you can have."

As he spoke he could hear that his words did not sound quite up to the occasion, although it must be admitted that as a general rule none could be better suited to alleviate any female woes, be their cause great or small.

Mrs Harlon leveled her big, glorious eyes upon him and smiled.

"Thank you," she said. "I have made up my mind that the only thing to do is to confess the whole to you."

Harlon looked frightened.

"My—my dear," he stammered—and then his legs trembled so that he had to sit down.

Mrs. Harlon came towards him and knelt at his feet, leaning her crossed wrists upon his knees;

"It's Mr. Chamberlaine!" she announced without any further preparation, and then she buried her face in her hands and began to sob violently.

Harlon recoiled. He was a good man, but he did read the papers enough to understand his apparent situation.

"Ada," he said, and stopped just short of "my dear," and shook violently with a nervous chill.

"I haven't done anything wrong," said the weeping wife, continuing to hide her face.

"I never did think much of Chamberlaine," said Harlon, trying to recover his equanimity and failing utterly.

"You must be very brave," she whispered.

"I'll defend you with my life," he answered, and took out his handkerchief to wipe his forehead—"tell me all."

"I knew him before I was married," she went on. "I used to write to him. He has all my letters, and none of them are dated." She began to cry very hard indeed. "Do you know what he said to-day?—that he would bring them all to me to-night—if—if"—

"The villain!" said Harlon, with energy.

"He has been threatening me for a year, and I have been almost crazy—"

She paused and lifted her beautiful tear-stained face up to his.

"Ah, my husband, are you magnanimous enough to forgive me, to stay here and meet him, and then force him to surrender the letters?"

Harlon gasped. The memory of Chamberlaine rose up before him like that of some evil genius.

"Oh Ada," he said, "can't I write him a note?"

Mrs. Harlon started to her feet and crossed the room to the mantel.

"He will be here in ten minutes," she cried, hastily. "See! Here is a pistol. He will be unarmed and totally unsuspicious. You must take him by surprise, and then overcome him. I know you can do it." She lifted the pistol and showed it to him with a smile.

"My hero!" she murmured, and left the room.

The door had not closed behind her when Harlon precipitated himself upon the pistol, seized it gingerly, carried it to the window, and threw the loads out on the damp grass below.

"There might have been an awful accident," he said, with pale lips. Then he put the pistol back on the mantel, turned out the light, and sat down to spend the worst minutes he had ever known. He remembered Chamberlaine's attempt to get out of driving Hughes to the train. Forgotten his project, eh!—the villain!

The husband tried to grit his teeth, but they persisted in chattering instead; then he heard a stealthy tread in the hall, and the cold beads of perspiration started out all over him. He pressed the button with his shaking hand and the room was suddenly illumined.

In the midst of the glare Chamberlaine stood bewildered. He had on a mackintosh and carried an umbrella. The expression on his face so nearly approached fright that Harlon felt suddenly courageous and advanced boldly.

"I know all," he said ,impressively—"all."

Chamberlaine was close to the door. He said: "There's some mistake," and turned to go.

Then all the pent-up fury which the inoffensive husband of a flirtatious wife may accumulate during eight or ten years of married life suddenly boiled up in the veins of Harlon and led him to spring upon his guest. But the latter was slippery to catch on account of the mackintosh, and as he jumped backward he handled his umbrella so neatly and dexterously that his host paused in his onslaught and backed towards the mantel. The next minute the revolver-barrels gleamed on the scene.

Chamberlaine's whole attitude altered at once.

"You're mad!" he said, coolly, and with incredible speed and dexterity he rushed upon the other man, knocked the weapon out of his hand, threw him to the ground, and pinned him there, helpless.

"Now kindly explain?" he said, as he looked quietly down on his panting ghost. "Are you out of your mind?—or what is it?"

"You villain!" gurgled Harlon, "you come into my house by invitation and then try to barter my wife's honor against her girlhood's folly."

"Go on," said Chamberlaine, "I want to know exactly what I am supposed to be committing to-night."

"I want those letters. She has told me the whole story."

"Whose letters?"

"Her letters."

"She never wrote me a letter in her life."

"What!"

"I say she never wrote me a letter in her life."

"What did you threaten her with, then?"

"I never threatened her. What should I threaten your wife for?"

"What did you come here for, then?"

"Hughes told me to wait here for him. I was to have driven him to the train."

As he spoke Chamberlaine loosed his grip and rose to his feet. Harlan rose too.

"Where is Hughes now?" he asked.

"I suppose he's gone. He had to make the fast express. He wouldn't have waited for me when I didn't come—he isn't that kind, you know."

The two men looked at each other, and the look grew into a stare, and the stare bred a sort of understanding.

"Hughes sent you here," said Harlon, very slowly, "and my wife sent me."

"I occupy the room with Hughes," said Chamberlaine.

"And I—"

Harlon stopped.

Across the stillness of the wet night sounded the whistle of the fast express.

WHAT COLORS SHALL I USE?

This Question Is Important in Painting a House or Other Building.

A proper color scheme is extremely important in painting a house. It makes all the difference between a really attractive home and one at which you wouldn't take a second glance. And it makes a big difference in the price the property will bring on the market.

As to the exterior, a good deal depends upon the size and architecture of the house, and upon its surroundings. For a good interior effect you must consider the size of the rooms, the light, etc.

You can avoid disappointment by studying the books of color schemes for both exterior and interior painting, which can be had free by writing National Lead Company, 1902 Trinity Building, New York, and asking for Houseowner's Painting Outfit No. 49. The outfit also includes specifications, and a simple instrument for testing the purity of paint materials. Pure White Lead which will stand the test in this outfit will stand the weather test. National Lead Company's famous Dutch Boy Painter trademark on the keg is a guarantee of that kind of white lead.

COUNTRY IN MOVEMENT.

Meeting of National Association for Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis Will Be Largely Attended.

The fifth annual meeting of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis will be held in Washington, D. C., at the New Willard hotel, on May 13, 14 and 15. Owing to the present interest in the campaign against tuberculosis, the meeting will be of unusual interest and importance. The membership of the national association now numbers nearly 2,000, and is distributed in almost every state in the United States. The national association has also a considerable membership in Canada, Cuba, Porto Rico, Philippine islands, and in several of the European countries. Ex-President Roosevelt and Dr. William Osler are honorary vice-presidents of the national association. Dr. Vincent Y. Bowditch of Boston is the president; Mr. Homer Folks of New York city, and Dr. Charles L. Minor of Asheville, N. C., are the vice-presidents; Gen. George M. Sternberg of Washington, D. C., is treasurer; Dr. Henry Barton Jacobs of Baltimore, is secretary, and Dr. Livingston Farrand of New York is the executive secretary of the association.

ANOTHER BORING QUESTION.

"I say, pa, is a man from Poland called a Pole?"

"Yes, my son."

"Then, pa, why isn't a man from Holland called a Hole?"

A Natural Mistake.

A teacher in a Pennsylvania primary school instructed her pupils one "composition day" that they might each write her a letter making excuse for not inviting her to an imaginary birthday party.

The following effort of one little girl was decided to be the best:

"My Dear Miss Alice: It becomes my duty to apologize for not inviting you to my birthday party last week. I had fully intended to do so, but—as I always do in everything—I postponed it till the last minute. When I at last started and reached your gate, I saw the doctor's carriage standing there, and thinking some one was ill, I did not think it best to go in. What was my mortification and consternation to learn the next day that the doctor was courting your sister!"—Illustrated Sunday Magazine.

FOOD FACTS

What an M. D. Learned.

A prominent Georgia physician went through a food experience which he makes public:

"It was my own experience that first led me to advocate Grape-Nuts food and I also know, from having prescribed it to convalescents and other weak patients, that the food is a wonderful builder and restorer of nerve and brain tissue, as well as muscle. It improves the digestion and sick patients always gain just as I did in strength and weight very rapidly.

"I was in such a low state that I had to give up my work entirely, and went to the mountains of this state, but two months there did not improve me; in fact I was not quite as well as when I left home.

"My food did not sustain me and it became plain that I must change. Then I began to use Grape-Nuts food and in two weeks I could walk a mile without fatigue, and in five weeks returned to my home and practice, taking up hard work again. Since that time I have felt as well and strong as I ever did in my life.

"As a physician who seeks to help all sufferers, I consider it a duty to make these facts public."

Trial 10 days on Grape-Nuts, when the regular food does not seem to sustain the body, will work miracles.

"There's a Reason."

MADE NEAT BIBLICAL RETORT

Writer Who Expected to Score Off of Editor Met with a Really Witty Counter.

Few editors have the humor and good nature which characterize Robert H. Davis, chief of the Munsey staff and author of the play, "The Family." A writer who had submitted a story to him received a courteous rejection, stating that the tale, although charming, was not suited to the Munsey publications. In the course of a few months the story won a prize in a contest, and, highly elated, the writer dispatched the information:

"Dear Mr. Davis:

"Psalms 118:22. See ——'s announcements in the current issue."

The Scriptural reference was: "The stone which the builders refused is become the head of the corner."

The next mail brought Mr. Davis' answer:

"Dear ——:

"Psalms 118:23."

The chagrined writer found that the fatal juxtaposition reads: "This is the Lord's doings; it is marvelous in our eyes."

CURED ITCHING HUMOR.

Big, Painful Swellings Broke and Did Not Heal—Suffered 3 Years.

Tortures Yield to Cuticura.

"Little black swellings were scattered over my face and neck and they would leave little black scars that would itch so I couldn't keep from scratching them. Larger swellings would appear and my clothes would stick to the sores. I went to a doctor, but the trouble only got worse. By this time it was all over my arms and the upper part of my body in swellings as large as a dollar. It was so painful that I could not bear to lie on my back. The second doctor stopped the swellings, but when they broke the places would not heal. I bought a set of the Cuticura Remedies and in less than a week some of the places were nearly well. I continued until I had used three sets, and now I am sound and well. The disease lasted three years. O. L. Wilson, Puryear, Tenn., Feb. 8, 1908."

One of Fashion's Follies.

A lady came on an odd-looking bag the other day in one of the fashionable London shops. It was in expensive leather, and seemed too large for an ordinary hand-bag; also it had a curious opening cut at one side towards the top. "Ladies use it for carrying their little dogs," the salesman explained.

OFF WITH THE OLD; ON WITH THE NEW.

With this issue, the Plummer Pioneer has passed into the hands of new owners and I am called upon to say farewell, as its publisher, to its many subscribers and loyal supporters. For over four and a half years the Pioneer has been published by me and during that time I have been accorded a splendid support by the general public, outside the village of Plummer, in the territory served by the Pioneer. The new publishers will be known as the Plummer Pioneer Publishing Co., with Homer F. Mussey as managing editor. From my personal knowledge of the members of the company and and Mr. Mussey, for a number of years, I have no hesitancy in assuring my friends that the Pioneer will continue to be as friendly to the interests of the general public as it always has been, and I bespeak for the new management the continued good will of all who have given me their good will and support.

In saying farewell as publisher of this paper, I wish to express my sincere thanks to my friends—all who staid by me in time of adversity as well as prosperity—and assure them that in the future as in the past, I shall personally remain their servant to the best of my ability when opportunity offers, and shall be pleased to render them any assistance in my power at any time. As for my enemies—I have a few here in town—I am willing to leave to them the harvest their own acts bring.

My other business here will be given my undivided attention and thru the advertising colums of the Pioneer I hope to keep the public posted on the business I may engage in, and shall fully appreciate the business patronage I may receive.

CHAS. W. LATTA.

---

We assume the editorship and management of this paper with due appreciation of the responsibility that devolves upon us in so doing. We have watched with interest the development of Plummer and have, at times, been grieved to find that there was trouble and dissension between some of the business interests of this otherwise pleasant and peaceful burg. We look back and see that when everything was concord and harmony in Plummer, the little village went forward with leaps and bounds, but since discord has ruled, not only has there been stagnation, but we notice even decay in certain places. Now we wish to ask, in the name of common interest, that every man in the village bury the hatchet and put their shoulder to the wheel for the upbuilding of a better, larger and more prosperous Plummer. And if the business interests will thus work for the common good, we assure you that we shall not be found wanting in a loyal support of the public wiel. Thus we take our pen and proceed. Will you rally to our support?

FANATICAL WAVE UNCHECKED

Situation in Asiatic Turkey Distinctly Threatening.

Constantinople, April 22.—The situation in Asiatic Turkey, according to the latest intelligence received here, is distinctly threatening. The wave of fanaticism which originated at Adana some ten days ago and found its expression in the killing of Christians apparently is spreading generally through the Eastern provinces. Upward of 10,000 Armenians were massacred in Syrian towns and villages, principally in the vilayet of Adana, during outbursts of fanatical zeal that took place at the time of the spring festival in honor of Mohammed and upon the receipt of news of the overturn of the "heretical" government at Constantinople. One embassy places the estimates of killed as high as 15,000.

The government has sent urgent commands to the vali of Adana that the mobs must be put down and the leaders harshly dealt with. The attacks on the Armenians appear to have been instigated solely by the reactionaries.

RENEW CARNAGE AT ADANA

Moslem Hordes Again Attack the Turkish City.

Beirut, April 27.—Delayed dispatches just received here say that the carnage at Adana was renewed Sunday night and many were killed.

The first massacre at Adana, where an American missionary was killed, resulted in the slaughter of 10,000 persons.

Advices indicate that the Moslem hordes have again attacked the city.

CASTRO AGAIN IN PARIS

Blames United States for His Recent Troubles.

Paris, April 24.—Cipriano Castro has arrived here from St. Nazaire. He walked out of the station supported by two attendants and it was evident that he made his way with difficulty. He was greeted upon arriving by a dozen prominent Venezuelan residents of Paris.

The return of Senor Castro was in striking contrast to his two previous appearances in Paris. Instead of having a magnificent automobile waiting at the station for him, he entered an ordinary street taxicab, taking into it with him his two attendants and four friends, and went to a modest hotel in the Place Concorde where he hired a single room. To the journalists who succeeded in seeing him, the former president continued his abuse and denunciation of the United States.

CIPRIANO CASTRO.

"I am the victim of the United States, which has imposed measures against me upon Europe, whose interests I defended in America," Senor Castro said. "The day will come when the powers will realize their mistake. They failed to understand the significance of the seizure of Panama. They will repent, but I will not. I defended in America and at The Hague the right of the weak against the strong, which now is being violated in my person. Unfortunately my strength is betraying me in this fight."

MANY STARVING TO DEATH

Situation Alarmingly Serious at Tabriz, Persia.

Tabriz, Persia, April 24.—The situation here is serious. All the bakeries are closed and there have been many deaths from starvation. The women of Tabriz are demonstrating on the streets against the continuance of the situation. Satar Khan has reiterated his firm resolution never to surrender, and he declares untrue the reports that he welcomed Russian interference.

St. Petersburg, April 24.—The Russian expedition under the command of General Snarsky that is going to restore order at Tabriz, Persia, has left Julfa, on the frontier. The composition of the force is not announced.

Roof of Cathedral Falls.

Madrid, April 26.—The roof of the cathedral at Torbea, in Luge province, collapsed while mass was being celebrated inside the building. Nine persons were killed and thirty were wounded.

Got The Suit, Anyway.

Following instructions received by telephone from Hazel Tuesday noon, Policeman Rice arrested an Italian laborer on the southbound freight here, on a charge of stealing a suit of clothes from P. H. Iverson, of that place. The dago was arrested as he alighted from the train, and the suit was found in an empy box car. Mr. Dago (his name is unwriteable) was placed in the village cooler, but was later released on advice from Hazel, and was given strict orders to beat it. He did. But he come back towards night fall, remaining long enough to become acqainted with the fact that his room was more to be appreciated than his company.

Later developments tend to show that this "son of the land of water" was not the real culprit, a son of the section foreman at Hazel, who left the same day for parts unknown, being suspected of purloining the rainment aforesaid. At any rate, the village police has achieved a reputation, the suit has been recovered, and the dagoh as gone to a warmer—and yet, not so hot—climate.

Indians Get Money.

A government payment has just been made at Red Lake Agency to some 80 Ind'ans on account of the sale of eleven townships near Thief River Falls, formerly included in the reservation, and which is an annuity of $26.50 pending the completion of the sale of the lands and final settlement. It was fairly quiet except that business was brisk for several days at the stores at the Agency, at Redby and at Ponemah.

Saturday a council was held to take action to secure the immediate payment and distribution of the money for the 2,800,000 feet of logs cut last winter east of Redby by E [illegible] Moore & Co., of Bemidji, for the Thief River Lumber company. The payment will amount to about $20 per capita, and will be welcomed both by the Indians and the storekeepers of the Red Lake district.

Many Want The Schools.

The state high school board this week listened to the claims of representatives from nearly forty districts which each want one of the ten agricultural schools provided for by the legislature. Nearly every section of the state was represented.

Under the terms of the Putnam law, $50,000 was set aside as aid for two years for ten schools that would add an agricultural course. Last week, McIntosh, Canby, Wells and Glencoe were decided upon for locations, and these, with the four decided upon this week, are all that will be accomodated this year, the board having decided to reserve aid for one graded school and one consolidated rural school.

Owing to the low water above here, no logs can be brought down and the S-P-K mill cannot operate. There are several thousand feet of logs farther up stream but the lack of water prevents their being brought down.

J. A. Walker came in from Lillo on Thursday. He intended to go to his old home in Canada to be at the bed side of a sick brother, but may not make the trip, as he learned of a change for the better in his brother's condition.

John Kotschevar, or as he is better known, "Sunnybrook John," came in Friday from his farm near Red Lake Falls and spent the day with old acqaintances. He has almost entirely recovered from the accident he sustained here last winter.

Several complaints have been made during the past ten days, of a couple of head of stock, whose owners find it so much easier to let the cattle feed on other people's hay. We do not know the owners, but would advise them to "loog a leetle ouidt."

Octave LaFave was in town Tuesday on business. Mr. LaFave announces that during the latter part of this month, he will hold an auction sale at his farm. This sale will be one of the largest ever held here and as he has a fine lot of stock and farm machinery, it will no doubt be a big success.

E. L. Wichterman took possession of the Hotel Scotland on Saturday and this popular hostelry is again open to the public. Mr. Wichterman has been successful in securing Erick Iverson to manage the hotel, and with Miss Ida Engh in charge of the dining room, the service will no doubt keep up to the usual high standard.

Cream..And A Peach.

Ice cream, the first of the season, was on sale at Rice's Restaurant last Wednesday, and the place enjoyed a brisk business as a result. Many a youthful swain journey thither with his affinity on his arm and, seated in the cool room, let the chrystallized essence of milk filter through his palate and trickle down his "food-pipe," with a feeling of supreme happiness and joy in striking evidence on his countenance.

Ye editor was there with the rest of them and, though his head felt several times as though it had been packed in cold storage during the winter, he enjoyed a seance with a lady friend. You may have your winters with their jolly moonlight sleighrides, happy skating parties and delightful coal bills; but give us the summer evenings with their quarts of good ice cream, a good big table spoon, a charming lady friend to gurgle her joy and make eyes at us while she chills her tempting, rosy lips with the frozen dessert, and we will willingly call it square, and die with a grin of satisfaction a yard long on our facial physiognomy.

Laws Are Stringent.

The game and fish laws are greatly changed this year and some privileges that have been extended to sportsmen during the past few years, have been taken away. The game in northern Minnesota is none too plentiful and the new laws aim to protect what is left, so far as possible. As a general thing, the new laws make a hit with local sportsmen. Everyone is anxious that the game be protected, and the ones that have a chance to get into the woods but once a year are particularly anxious that means be taken by the legislature, whereby the annual wholesale slaughter of game will be stopped.

The new laws provide that hunting rabbits with ferrits is unlawful; they change the date for the opening from Sept. 1 to Sept. 7, and prohibit hunting from motor boats, launches or sail boats. The laws also say that the selling of wall-eyed pike shall be unlawful and call for the permanent protection of beaver. The laws prohibit fishing within fifty feet of any fishway

The anglers of this village are in their glory now, the fish biting fine in the river here. Several good catches have been reported, pickerel being the most numerous.

Several farmers of this vicinity are erecting new buildings on their farms this spring. The wise ones purchase their roofing, the Compo-Rubber kind, from Chas. W. Latta.

The merchants report a very good run of business during the past week. The farmers realize the importance of securing a supply of provisions before the spring work crowds and are making their purchases now.

Chas. W. Latta drove to Red Lake Falls Tuesday, and proceeded from there to Crookston, via Jim Hill, on business. He returned Wednesday and was accompanied by two of the children, Kenneth and Merrill, who will remain here for a few weeks.

There is further excitement in the southern part of Clearwater county over the recent strikes of iron ore. ## A Good Idea.

On Sunday, April 18th, eleven High Landing farmers and their families, met and organized a club which will hereafter meet every three weeks at one of the members' homes to spend the day discussing all subjects relating to their best interests. The farmers in the rural neighborhoods of this vicinity would do well to follow the example set by our High Landing friend. There is nothing that builds up a community as much as for its people to band together and work for the best interests of their home and neighbors.

TALK ON PEACE AND PROGRESS

Opponents of War Express Their Views.

COMES THROUGH SELECTION

Dr. David Starr Jordan States His Idea of Race Progress—Holds That War Means Always the Reversal of Selection—Bishop Burt Looks With Favor on Fraternal Organizations as Peace Factors.

Chicago, May 4.—"Ja, der Krieg verschlingt immer die besten,"—"ever the war devours the best."

These words, written by the German poet, Schiller, a century ago formed the theme of an address at the opening of the second national peace congress here by David Starr Jordan, president of Leland Stanford, Jr., university.

"It is through selection that all race progress comes," said Dr. Jordan. "War means always the reversal of selection.

"The survival of the fittest in the struggle for existence is the primal moving cause of race progress and of race changes. In the red stress of human history, this natural process of selection is sometimes reversed. A reversal of selection is the beginning of degradation. It is degradition itself.

"The only way in which any race as a whole has improved has been through its preservation of its best and the loss of its worst example. The condition which favors this is democracy, equality before the law, the condition which equalizes opportunities."

In the great growth of fraturnal organizations in the United States, Bishop B. Burt of Chicago expressed the belief that the peace movement has its greatest present factor.

"Perhaps," Mr. Burtt said, "the greatest guarantee against another civil war in this country lies in the fact that over one-third of our men belong to fraternal orders and are taught to regard their fellow men as brothers.

Professor Paul Reinsch of the University of Wisconsin declared that universal co-operation which is necessary for universal peace is an ideal for the future.

Two sessions of the congress were held afternoon and evening, but the evening session was itself held in two parts, one at Orchestra hall and the other in the Fine Arts building. Other addresses of the evening were as follows:

"Racial Progress Towards Universal Peace," H. T. Keating, Nashville, Tenn.; "Victims of War and Industry," Professor Graham Taylor, Chicago; "Organized Labor and Peace," Samuel Gompers; "International Socialism as a Peace Force," Carl D. Thompson, Milwaukee.

GAME WARDEN TESTIFIES

Tells About Meeting at Chief Game Warden Stone's House.

Madison, Wis., May 4.—Deputy Game Warden H. A. Bowman was on the stand before the senatorial investigation committee and went over testimony which had been covered at a previous hearing as to the meeting at Chief Game Warden Stone's house.

Mr. Bowman said the wardens at their meeting at Mr. Stone's house talked about the investigation and the expenditure of money.

He could not remember what part Assemblyman Thomas took in the conversation at the meeting.

Witness emphatically denied any knowledge of a deal whereby three deputy wardens were to assume having received $500 of the $1,250 which Bowman received from the Stephenson fund.

A rigid examination failed to develop anything of importance.

CONSPIRACY IS ALLEGED

Memphis Man Obtains Injunction Against Oil Company.

Lake Charles, La., May 4.—Peter P. Van Vleet of Memphis, Tenn., obtained an injunction in the district court here restraining officers of the Evangeline Oil company from disposing of property rights and credits of the company. The petition also asks the appointment of a receiver. The petitioner alleges a conspiracy to dissipate assets and destroy property of the Evangeline Oil company; declares that these companies are dominated by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and asserts that "the object of the conspiracy is to enable it (the Standard Oil company) to dominate the oil and mineral products of the state of Louisiana."

Earl Gray to Set a Precedent.

Ottawa, May 4.—Earl Grey, governor of Canada, will not retire this year. The governor general is appointed to Canada for six years, but there is no precedent for a man remaining beyond five, and this has become the unwritten law. Earl Grey has decided to make a precedent and will not go home when his five years' period expires next autumn.

CHARGES AGAINST JUDGES

Made in Resolution Presented to Congress.

Washington, May 4.—Bitterness growing out of the adverse decision on the constitutionality of the Missouri laws regulating the maximum freight rates and prescribing a 2-cent passenger rate for all railroads operating in the state found vent when Representative A. R. Murphy of Missouri presented a resolution bringing serious charges against Federal Judges Smith McPherson and John F. Phillips of the Western district of Missouri, who rendered the decision, and asking an investigation looking to their impeachment.

The resolution charges that during the litigation between the state and the railroad companies the two judges were the guests of railroad lawyers on a fishing trip, and that this association affected their judgment adversely to the state.

Other charges are made of failure to attend arbitrary rules in court and unjustified criticisms of jury and counsel during their occupancy of office.

WAGE SCALE IS SIGNED

Peace in Anthracite Region Assured for Three Years.

Philadelphia, April 29.—The agreement between the miners and operators insuring industrial peace in the anthracite coal region for another period of three years was signed here by the representatives of the employers and and the men.

The special committee representing the anthracite coal operators and mine workers met in the Reading Terminal building to sign the agreement renewing for another period of three years the wage arrangement that expired March 31. The operators had approved the agreement and the miners in convention ratified the action taken by their leaders. The agreement is identical with the one signed three years ago with the addition of five concessions which the men deem are important. Vice President McCullough of the miners' national organization headed the miners' committee in the absence of President Lewis, who was called West because of the death of his brother.

DEED OF AN INSANE WOMAN

Seriously Injures Agent and Kills Child and Herself.

Stafford Springs, Conn., May 3.—Driven insane apparently by the sight of a memorial card which she had ordered for her daughter Elsie, who died about a month ago, Mrs. Bernard Rister beat Charles E. Emory of Boston, who had called to deliver the cards, over the head with an axe, inflicting very serious wounds, shot and killed her two-year-old son and then took her own life by sending a bullet through her heart.

HELD TO BE VALID

Supreme Court Upholds Commodities Clause.

LOOPHOLE FOR THE RAILROADS

May Organize Separate Companies to Own Coal Mines.

Washington, May 3.—That the "commodities clause" of the interstate commerce act of 1906, known as the Hepburn railroad rate law, is constitutional was in effect declared by the supreme court of the United States. The decision was announced by Justice White. The court reversed and remanded the decision of the United States circuit court, but the only directions were to enforce and apply the statute as it is now construed.

Briefly summarized the decision of the supreme court holds the law to be constitutional, but it does not concede the contentions of the government as to its scope. An especial exception was as to the ownership of stock in a different corporation, which it was held did not constitute such ownership as would prohibit transportation under the terms of the law. It was also held that ownership of the commodity applied only to the time of transportation. If before transporting it the railroad company has in good faith parted with a commodity it may carry it. The principal point of the decision was in relation to railroads holding the stock of subordinate companies and on that important point the finding was favorable to the roads.

JUSTICE HARLAN.

Justice Harlan dissented on the stock feature, but otherwise the decision was unanimous.

No member of the interstate commerce commisssion in advance of the reading of the opinion of the court would express an opinion as to its effect. The concrete situation is that only two of the anthracite roads own, operate and market their own coal. It is regarded that under the decision of the court the law applies to these roads—the Lehigh Valley and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. The effect of the decision, it is believed, will be to induce those lines to organize separate coal companies and conduct their operations through them, because the mere holding of stock in such coal companies is held by the court to be not a violation of the law.

FIRES SIX SHOTS IN COURT

Detroit Physician Attempts to Kill Wife and Nephew.

Detroit, Mich., April 30.—Dr. G. K. Boyajian, an Armenian, shot and fatally wounded his nephew, Harotoon H. Gaspanian, while the latter was being arraigned in police court with his aunt, the physician's wife, on a statutory charge. Gaspanian's home is in Lynn, Mass.

Dr. Boyajian fired four shots at his nephew, inflicting three wounds. He then turned the revolver on his wife and fired the two remaining bullets at her. One missed her and the other only penetrated her hat. Joseph L. Kraemer, a newspaper artist who was sketching Mrs. Boyajian, saved the woman's life by pushing her into a vacant juryroom.

QUICK WORK WITH RIFLE

Roosevelt Saves Lives of Some of His Mounted Escort.

Nairobi, British East Africa, May 3.—Theodore Roosevelt bagged one more lion at Wami, near Kapiti. This gives him a total of three lions and one lioness in the expedition. Kermit Roosevelt succeeded in bringing down a cheetah. The hunting was exciting and both marksmen did excellent work.

The lion killed by Mr. Roosevelt was brought down at close range. His quick work with the rifle saved the lives of some of his mounted escort.

Woman Acquitted of Murder.

Neosho, Mo., May 1.—Miss "Johnny" Davidson, the young heiress on trial here charged with the murder of Roy Ramsour, her sister's suitor, was acquitted. The jury was out seventeen hours.

CONSPIRATORS ARE EXECUTED

Two Hundred and Fifty Turks Shot to Death.

Constantinople, April 30.—The Constitutionalists have lost no time in bringing conspirators in the recent rising to trial. The military court sitting in the war office, condemned about 250 prisoners to death. They were executed. Nadir Pasha, second eunuch of the palace, whose sentence was pronounced Wednesday, was hanged at dawn on the Galata bridge. His great body was viewed by thousands. The national assembly, which met under the presidency of Said Pasha, decided that the sultan Mehmed V., should take the oath of the constitution within a week. The assembly also ratified the deportation of Abdul Hamid to Saloniki.

HOLLANDERS ARE REJOICING

Queen Wilhelmina Gives Birth to a Daughter.

The Hague, April 30.—Queen Wilhelmina has given birth to a daughter. A salute of fifty guns announced the event to the waiting populace.

Great rejoicing extends over the kingdom and the people, who have been on the alert for an heir to the house of Orange-Nassau, are wild with enthusiasm.

The Hollanders would have preferred a prince, but the perpetuation of the line of Wilhelmina's family is reasonably assured and her subjects are happy.

The queen and the princess are reported to be doing well.

FATAL INCENDIARY FIRE

Eight Die in Blaze Following Black Hand Threat.

New York, April 30.—Eight persons, five of them children, were burned to death and fourteen others were injured, some of them fatally, in an incendiary fire in a five-story tenement house at 37 Spring street occupied by twenty Italian families. The blaze followed a demand by members of a so called Black Hand society for the payment of $1,000 blackmail. It spread through the building with startling rapidity, as the hallways were soaked with kerosene oil by the blackmailers.

In a panic which followed the alarm the tenants fought their way down the fire escapes or jumped from the windows, while babies were thrown from windows into the arms of policemen on the sidewalk.

Several of the injured, six of whom are children, are not expected to recover. Jacob Bruck, the proprietor of the grocery store on the main floor of the building, received on April 18 a letter reading:

"We demand $1,000 or death. Bring it in Mott street. Petrosino is dead, but the Black Hand lives."

On Monday last Bruck received another letter written in a similar strain. He turned both letters over to the police.

NORTHERN PACIFIC HOLDUP

Two Highwaymen Rob Mail Car Near Hauser Junction, Ida.

Hauser Junction, Ida., April 30.—Northern Pacific train No. 5 was held up three miles east of this place by two highwaymen.

The robbers cut the engine and one mail car from the train, shot twice at the fireman, ordering him from the engine, put a revolver to Engineer Whittelsey's head and compelled him to send the engine ahead.

Officials at Spokane and Rathdrum were notified and, while the mail car was being robbed between Trent and Yardly, posses were forming on either side of the bandits to overhaul them.

The booty was registered mail, but how much is not known.

THREE NEGROES LYNCHED

Were Accused of Killing Texas Deputy Sheriff.

Dallas, Tex., April 30.—Three negroes were taken from the jail at Marshall, Tex., and hanged by a mob.

They were accused of having killed Deputy Sheriff Huffman and wounding Deputy Sheriff Cargill Monday. They were captured Tuesday afternoon, just as they were leaving the state, and were taken to the jail at Marshall, where they were guarded by the militia until it was thought the feeling against them had abated. The mob was formed after the militia had been sent away.

STRAUS GOES TO TURKEY

Former Secretary of Commerce to Be Ambassador.

Washington, May 3.—Oscar S. Straus, former secretary of commerce and labor, has been selected for ambassador to Turkey and W. W. Rockhill for ambassador to Russia. Mr. Rockhill was formerly assistant secretary of state and later minister to China.

Thousands Without Food.

Washington, May 3.—To add to the horror of the situation caused by the prevalence of smallpox in the ravaged Armenian districts of Turkey, notably at Adana, thousands are without food and shelter, according to state department advices. Many of those who were killed in the massacre are unburied.

OVER WIDE AREA

Storm Causes Great Loss of Life and Property.

SOUTH SUFFERS SEVERELY

Scores of Her People Killed and Hundreds Injured.

Memphis, Tenn., May 1.—While some sections in the pathway of the storm are still to be heard from, and in all probability to add their quota to the list of casualties and of property loss, dispatches so far received from Arkansas, Western Tennessee and Northern Mississippi bring the total number of killed by the recent tornado to 100; the injured, some of whom are believed to be fatally hurt, to twice that number and, while an accurate estimate of the monetary loss is not yet possible, each dispatch describes the storm as the most destructive that has ever swept over this portion of the country.

The greatest number of dead and injured is reported from Horn Lake, Miss. Here eighteen bodies have already been found among the ruins of the farm dwellings. Of this number seven are those of white people. The injured number at least fifty. The property loss is roughly estimated at $100,000 in this vicinity. Caddo Gap, Ark., reports a like number of dead and many injured.

At Fayetteville, Tenn., the death list is placed at fifteen and the injured at a like number as that at Horn Lake. Other towns from which reports have been received here show the following number killed:

In Arkansas—Marianna, 4; Beel Branch, 2; Heber, 2; Wilburn, 1; Wheatley, 1; Marion, 5; Zebuton, 1.

In Tennessee—Somerville, 5; Bolivar, 1; Dechard, 4; Humboldt, 4; Medina, 3; Bella, 6; Quilto, 3; Lula, 4; Deliach, 2; Hanley, 2; Clarkesville, 1.

TERRIFIC IN MIDDLE WEST

Death and Destruction Follow in Wake of Storm.

Chicago, May 1.—Death and destruction followed in the wake of the terrific storm which swept over the Middle West, including Chicago in its path of devastation. Here many buildings were unroofed, homes blown over and scores of people driven into the storm, many narrowly escaping with their lives. Three men were killed at Grand Crossing, a suburb, in the collapse of a factory.

In the path of the storm before it reached the Great Lakes region great destruction of property is reported and at least eleven are known to have been killed.

At Golden, Mo., the business section of the town was destroyed and many homes were wrecked. Five persons lost their lives. At Summerville, Mo., the wind created havoc and two persons were killed a few miles north of the town. Many were injured.

The storm was furious in the southern part of Illinois and at Texas City, near Carmi, four persons were killed and many seriously wounded.

HER ENTIRE CREW PERISHES

Barge George Nester Sinks During a Storm on Lakes.

Marquette, Mich., May 1.—The fears that the furious gale on Lake Superior would be productive of disaster came to a tragic realization when the barge George Nester struck a reef off the Huron islands, northwest of here, and was lost with all hands. There were seven men on board.

In tow of the Schoolcraft the vessel was bound for Baraga to load and in the terrific storm was driven onto the rocks. The lighthouse tender Marigold was directly behind her. Small boats could not live in the heavy seas and the Marigold attempted to rescue the Nester's crew by means of lifelines. This attempt was unsuccessful. The Nester went to pieces fast and in a short time she was a total loss and all those on board had perished.

Several other vessels were wrecked during the storm, but their crews esaped death.

TIEUP IS NOW COMPLETE

Strike on Great Lakes in Full Operation.

Chicago, May 1.—The strike of labor unions on the Great Lakes against the Lake Carriers' association, or, more correctly, their formal refusal to ship on boats controlled by the association, has been put into full operation at all ports. It is estimated that probably 12,000 seamen of all classes are involved in the great struggle. Almost 3,000 are now said to be employed on boats controlled by the Carriers' association and these left the vessels if in port or as soon as they come in from sea.

Thousands are idle in Chicago, Cleveland, Buffalo and other centers, but as a matter of fact the situation differs little from that which has existed since the opening of navigation, when the marine engineers refused to sign contracts in which the open shop clause was inserted. The tieup is merely made complete.

JOIN RANKS OF STRIKERS

One Hundred More Men Quit at South Chicago.

Chicago, May 4.—One hundred more seamen joined the ranks of the lake strikers at South Chicago when the steamship Jenkins, owned by the Jenkins Steamship company, and the barge German, owned by the Pittsburg Steamship company, docked at that port. Squads of city and special police patrolled the docks, but the strikers offered no violence.

The detailed result of the secret referendum among the members of the Lake Seamen's union has become known. It was stated by Secretary Olander of the seamen's union that out of 15,000 votes cast only 25 were against a strike.

The strikers charged that one of their number, Joseph Weber, an oiler, had been shanghaied on the barge Norman B. Ream, which left South Chicago. His friends declared that he would be taken from the boat at Duluth by force if necessary.

DISORDERS ARE PREVALENT

Frequent Attacks Made on Nonunion Bakeries in New York.

New York, May 4.—Every shop of the Master Bakers' association on the East Side and fifty or more shops in Harlem are guarded by policemen to prevent disorders so prevalent throughout the strike district during the day. There appears to be no indication of an amicable settlement. More than twenty strikers were arrested and while no one was fatally hurt, so far as is known, onslaughts on bakeries operated by nonunion men were frequent.

What appears to be a victory for the unionists is the announcement that a big baking company, preparatory to entering into competition with the New York bread manufacturers, has signed the agreement with the International Union of Bakery and Confectionery Workers.

It's too bad this warm weather came to spoil our sleighing, isn't it?

With the Turkish troubles and the tariff fight details on their inside pages, and the Hunt-Singer vs. Lattimore-Swanson controversy filling the balance of their sheets, the Eleven Towns and the Sunbeam manage to provide very interesting reading for the boy who would like to read "wild west" stories, but 'who can't sneak a supply by "the old man".

Notice the ad columns in the Pioneer grow! This is a fact which deserves mention. It not only looks well for the business men of Plummer, but it betters the appearance of the paper. It is also an evidence of the fact that the spirit of co-operation is not dormant in the village. It will be our aim to please our friends and make no enemies, and so long as those to whom we look for our support see fit to favor us, we will not be found a minus quantity in returning the good, we receive.

The warm weather of the past week has proved a very big benefit and the feelings of prosperity are becoming more evident each day. Although the crops may not be as large as in some previous years, we have no doubt but that they will be sufficent to bring in profits to the farmers. It is noticeable that the warm sunshine has a big influence on all mankind, for nearly everyone has a bigger smile and much brighter countenance than when the snows fell and the cold winds whistled across the country.

A law was passed by the last legislature by which the terms of office of village and township assessors are extended to two years. Thus the assessors elected this spring will hold till 1911. This is certainly a move in the right direction. We need men of experience and the best way to get them is to make it worth their while to do it right.

The county commissioners have decided to bond the county for court house purposes to the amount of $35,000. This is certainly bad enough but when we consider that they are willing to allow 6 per cent interest on these bonds, we are forced to question whether or not they are right. Can it be possible that these men do not know that any bonds of Red Lake County, properly executed would readily sell on the market at 4 per cent? That this is a fact, no wide awake business man would think of denying. And yet the commissioners deem it expedient to sell 6 per cent bonds and use the proceeds in the erection of a court house. Are you, Mr. Taxpayer, willing to be bled in this way? Do you consider it fair to have a few of our representatives issue bonds on which we will have to pay an interest of 6 per cent, when if we did it ourselves, all we would think of paying would be 4 per cent? Do you consider that this extra 2 per cent on $35,000 for 20 years would mean $14,000. of which we poor farmers will have to bear the greatest part of the burden? If we are satisfied, let us hold our peace; but if we are not, let us roar and let us do it loud enough so we can be heard by all the commissioners in whatever part of the county they may reside!

We want to do business in Plummer. We want to do it right. We will always be looking for business of every kind in our line. Now if you are willing that we should do the printing business in Plummer just tell us so and we will try to reciprocate by giving you that much boosting for the town.

Packers Would Protect Hides.

Alarmed by the apparent indifference of the Minnesota senators, the shoe and leather trade of the Northwest has combined and opened a vigorous fight for free hides. The senate, according to their information, showed no desire to follow the house in placing hides on the free list. The manufacturers fear that with seventy-five per cent of the tanneries already controlled by the beef trust, the duty now proposed will give the entire tannery business of the country into the hands of the packers, leaving manufacturers, and users of shoes, harnesses, belting and leather goods at the mercy of a trust able to dictate its own prices on leather goods. For the farmer, the manufacturers say, the case is simple. He sells his critters for beef and makes the trust a present of the hides, to all practical intents, and they cite a car of stock sold recently on the St. Paul market on a day when the ruling price was low, on which the packers got in hides alone a total value higher by $2 than the farmer got as the selling price for the entire car of stock.

No More Cradles.

"A cradle?" said the salesman. "Oh, no! You don't want a cradle."

He smiled.

"First kid, ain't it?"

"Yes," admitted the young father, frowning.

"I knew you weren't experienced, or you wouldn't ask for a cradle," said the salesman. "You see, they've gone altogether out. We don't sell two a year."

"Why did they go out?"

"Because they're unhealthy, bad for the kid. They lower the temperature, hurt the heart and bring on nausea, colic, regular seasickness. It stands to reason that the violent rocking of a cradle can't be good for frail little baby any more than the violent rocking of a ship in a storm is good for the passengers. Moreover, they keep somebody busy rocking the baby to sleep. Now the baby goes to sleep of its own accord."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Won With Whips.

According to Herodotus, while the Scythians were away on a long campaign their slaves took the opportunity to rebel and seize all their masters' property. The latter on their return promptly attacked them, but were continually defeated until at last one of them hit on the brilliant idea of attacking the slaves with whips only. That, he said, would remind them of their origin and so cow them that they would never dare to stand. The Scythians followed his counsel, and it fell out as he had predicted. When the slaves beheld their masters riding down upon them flourishing the terrible knotted thongs they knew so well they threw down their arms and fled.

Very Different.

It is never embarrassing in a novel for a rich man to find a lot of poor kin. There is always a vacancy in a bank, where the rich man finds a good position for the oldest son, who soon becomes the bank's president. Another child shows a genius for painting, and the rich man sends him to Italy to study. In a month or two the child returns a great artist. But how different in real life! Ah, how vastly different!—Atchison Globe.

HOLLAND HOUSE.

One of England's Picturesque and Historic Mansions.

Few mansions in or near London are more picturesque in their surroundings or more interesting from their associations with the past than Holland House. The domain in which it stands is a perfect rus in urbe—a green oasis in a wilderness of bricks and mortar. When you pass from the noisy traffic of Kensington road and enter the great gates there is a transformation scene. In a few paces London has disappeared, and you find yourself all at once in the heart of the country. You might be in the forest of Arden, a hundred miles from Piccadilly—lawns shaded by noble cedar trees, woodland glades, a green lane with over arching boughs, and farther on terraced walks, the stone balustrades and the formal parterre of the Dutch garden. The house itself has a long, irregular frontage, a fantastic medley of turrets, gables, arcades and oriel windows. The series of sitting rooms on the first floor are warm, comfortable and homelike and filled with a priceless collection of family portraits and heirlooms. No wonder that Charles Fox was devoted to the place where he had passed a careless and happy boyhood and in his last illness drove over from Chiswick to view once more the familiar scenes, which he regarded with a special tenderness and affection. Naturally his memory is cherished here, and he is still to some extent the tutelary genius of the place. There is a statue of him at the end of the avenue in the park; there is a bust of him by Nollekens in the entrance hall; there is a characteristic note in his handwriting on the back of a miniature of Robespierre—un scelerat, un lache, et un fou (a rascal, a coward and a fool—and there is a picture of him by Sir Joshua as a youth with two charming damsels, one of whom made a romantic marriage with an actor, while the other refused the hand of a king and lived to become the mother of the heroic Napiers. Almost every room has its tradition. In fact, wherever you tread "a history is beneath your feet."—Blackwood's.

Train To Change Time.

Word has been received here to the effect that on June 1st, a change in the time of the local passenger will take place. Instead of going north at 10;40 as at present, the train will leave Plummer at 8:50. Nothing regarding a change in the morning time has been given out and it is doubtful if any change will be made. This train will also run through to the Cities, doing away with the delay and necessity of changing cars at Glenwood. The service may also be extended to cover Suday also, many of the towns along the line signifying a desire for such service. It would, no doubt, meet with the approval of the traveling public, and more so, as the outing season will be on about that time, and many residents of this section would find a pleasure in visiting the summer resorts at Detrit, Alexandria and Glenwood if the trip was possible on Sundays, without the necessity of the late hours caused by making the trip on the Flyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Korstad of Thief River Falls, came down Tuesday for a short visit at the Rothsten home. They were accompanied by the latter's brother, Peter Quande, who was enroute to his home at Sisseton, S. D.

Difficulty Is Settled.

For several years the towns of Norden and Numedal, in the northwest corner of the county, have been fighting over the question of which was to be considered responsible for the care of Rognild Ronning, an old lady, 55 years of age. Relatives of Miss Ronning have refused to do anything and the old lady has been shifted back and forth between the two towns for a long time, neither desiring to support her. This week, the matter was taken up by the county officials and on Tuesday; Sheriff Nelson took Miss Ronning to the home for the feeble-minded at Faribault.

Babe's Body Found.

The body of an infant boy was found near the Great Northern bridge in Crookston by the police. The body was in a perfect state of preservation and did not appear to have been in the water for more than two days Indications tended to show that the child was about a day old and a bad bruise on its forehead points to a foul murder. The police of that city are leaving no stone unturned in their efforts to locate the person or persons who committed the crime.

Notice To Settlers.

The following letter from the Land Office at Crookston was receive this week, and is self-explanatory:

By direction of the Commissioner of the General Land Office and the Secretary of the Interior we have been required to issue a notice to each of the homestead entrymen on the Eleven Red Lake towns who may be in default in making their paymants, giving them thirty days from that notice within which time they may show cause why their entries should not be canceled by reason of default in making payment as required by law.

The law under which these lands were open to entry and settlement, 1 5 of the purchase price should then be paid and the balance to be paid in equal annual installments thereafter, and provided that if any purchaser failed to make payment promptly when due or within sixty days thereafter all his rights to the land so entered or purchased by him should cease and the moneys paid be forfeited, and directed the Secretary of the Interior to declare such forfeiture by re-offering the lands for sale.

Later, by an act approved June 21, 1906, the time for making all such payments was extended one year, so that now the law may be read that within two years and sixty days from the time the purchase is made the first payment must be made and each payment thereafter within one year, and so on until the full amount be paid.

To go through the books and get out these notices will require about two weeks time and this advance notice is given through the press so the settlers may have a little more time within which to prepare.

There is no particular reason for an immediate rush or alarm. We are of the opinion that if we receive the delinquent payments by June 20th, or where it becomes necessary to make proof in order to enable the parties to get the money, if we receive the applications for proof by June 20th, showing that the person intends to make proof and payment in July, that will be early enough. In such cases we will report the facts as a sufficient showing or cause why the entry should not be cancelled. It would be better in such applications to make proof that some letter or statement should accompany it, and show why the payments were not made at an earlier date.

We would advise all persons who mean to make proofs to enable them to obtain the money, to make application to make proof at as early a date as practicable after May 20th, so that we may be enabled to scatter the proofs along during the month of July.

All delinquent claimants will be notified by registered mail from this office addressed to them at the post-office address given by them when they made payment of their last installment.

This notice in no way affects those persons outside of the eleven Red Lake towns, nor does it in any manner affect such persons who have entries therein in accordance with all the requirements of the law.

R. J. Montague, Register.

Necrologic.

JOHN JOHNSON

John Johnson, better known to his friends as "Governor Johnson," died at the City Hospital in St. Paul last Sunday morning of consumption. Deceased had been sick for over three years with the disease, but his death came in a way as a surprise. About two weeks ago he went to the Cities for a pleasure trip, his malady at the time making it impossible for him to work. Last week he was taken seriously ill, the disease being no doubt aggravated by fatigue brought about by the exertions of his pleasure seeking trip. He was taken to the St. Paul city hospital, but not in time to save his life. His father left Sunday evening for the Cities, returning on Tuesday with the remains.

"Johnnie" Johnson was the eldest son of Ole J. Johnson, for several years a member of the board of county commissioners, and was 26 years of age. He was a general favorite with all his acquaintances, his genial disposition tending to make him all the more agreeable. The funeral services were held Thursday afternoon from Lutheran Synod church in Wyandotte and were conducted by Rev. Palm of St. Hilaire. A large number of the friends of the young man, attended the rites and offered sincere consolations to the sorrowing relatives of the deceased.

CARL BOURMAN

Carl Bourman, one of the pioneer settlers in the vicinity of Lillo, died Wednesday morning from Bright's disease. He had been ailing for the past two years, but it was just within the past few days that his sickness took on a serious form. Besides his wife, Mr. Bourman left two sons and two daughters to morn his death.

Mr. Bourman was a native of Norway, and came to Lillo thirteen years ago taking a homestead when the land was opened for settlement in 1899. His thrifty nature aided much in providing a good home for himself and family, and his genial disposition drew around him a large circle of friends, who extend their heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.

Deer Park.

Seeding is well under way and if the good weather keeps on, the seeding will all be done by Saturday.

Knut Olson is assisting his father-in-law, Ole Nesland, to break up some heavy grub land.

Swan B. Swanson is busy building a yard around his house this week.

Mrs. S. B. Swanson has been on the sick list this week but is now on the way to recovery.

Ole Skreland, one of the lonesome bachelors here, made a flying trip to Grit last Sunday.

George Singer transacted business at Thief River Falls Monday and Tuesday.

The Ladies Aid Society met with Mrs. Theo. Hyland last Wednesday.

Cash Waldron, one of the up-to-date Hickory farmers, left for Frazer, Monday to take in the spring drive.

Thor Moen left for Fosston and other points some time ago for a visit with old friends.

Ole Krostue of Grit, the fellow who drives around with that "big horse," was making his rounds here last Wednesday.

Andrew Rolandson was up this way last Tuesday. He succeeded in getting some from G. Swenson. Most everybody is getting kind of low on hay now days.

Edward Singer, the Rhoda merchant and postmaster, passed by here last Sunday on his way to Sunbeam on business.

Inside of ten days we expect to see the Soo surveyors pass thru here as we understand that they are going to tap Deer Park on their way. But where? Any old place will do us. And what about the town? Let us call it Deer City, which will be somewhat in accordance with the name of the township itself.

People looking for lands or for a home would do well to come up this way and look the country over. At present there are several nice pieces of land here that can be bought very cheap, and there is also some vacant land in this town and in Hickory and this will all be taken up this summer. Homestead land is fast getting to be a thing of the past in Minnesota and an opportunity of this kind should not be overlooked, especially now that we have a railroad in sight.

Was Well Known Here.

John P. Bernik, well known to many residents of this village, shot and killed himself in the bathroom of the Deebach barber shop in St. Paul Wednesday. He was employed by the Bowlin Liquor Co., as a traveling salesman and made this territory in the interests of that house. He was a former sheriff of Stearns county and resided at St Cloud. About a month ago he was in Plummer, and then appeared to be in the best of humor and health and this fact makes the cause of his act all the more mysterious.

Dr. Tupper Back.

Dr. George Tupper, who left Thief River Falls in November, 1906 returned on Thursday, after having spent the intervening time in Europe and Asia. He has studied medicine in many of the foremost hospitals of the two continents and made a specialty of eye operations. The doctor states that we can not throw any boquets at ourselves by saying that we have, without exception, the best, and the most prosperous country on the face of God's green earth.

Since entering the jungles of Africa, Ex-president Roosevelt has succeeded in killing fifteen different varieties of big game. Forty-five skins have been prepared by the naturalists of the party for the Smithsonian institution at Washington.

Town lots will be placed on sale on May 25. The old plan of 'first come, first served' will be in use at the opening and it is expected that there will be a big rush to secure some of the fine pieces of land in the project. The land will be given out in tracts of forty and eighty acres, any one of which is above the average of government homestead lands.

The Logs Are Here.

The long looked for log drive of the S-P-K Lumber company arrived here this week and the mill will de started as soon as a crew can be secured and necessary repairs made, probably next week. Manager Parker came down from Bemidji Friday and has spent the past week here making all the arrangements contingent to starting the plant. Most of his time has been spent along the river, watching the logs and hurrying them along at every opportunity. The drivers got into town Wednesday and proceeded to increase the liquor sales of Plummer for the month of May as much as possible.

Jack Pahlen went up to Thief River Falls Saturday and spent the day visiting friends and buying peanuts and clothing.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyle Must Serve Long Terms in Prison.

COLLAPSE ON HEARING FATE

Male Kidnapper Later Issues a Statement on Case.

Mercer, Pa., May 10.—James H. Boyle and his wife, convicted of kidnapping "Billy" Whitla from his home in Sharon on March 18, have begun long terms in the Western penitentiary at Pittsburg. Boyle went to the institution under a life sentence, his only hope for release lying in a pardon. Mrs. Boyle is under sentence of imprisonment for twenty-five years. By good behavior she can cut this down to fifteen years, but even at that she will come out of the institution very nearly the "dreaded old woman" of her recent interview, in which she said death would be preferable to such a fate.

That death is preferable to imprisonment in Mrs. Boyle's opinion was indicated by a reported attempt to take her own life by swallowing morphine alleged to have been secured from a fellow prisoner. Her threats of a double suicide might have been carried out but for the failure of the morphine to act and the discovery by the sheriff of a razor secreted in the clothing of Boyle when he was searched after being sentenced.

The severity of the sentences, each of them was the maximum penalty allowed by law, not only proved a surprise to the community, which expected more leniency, but prostrated both the abductors. Both were so overcome that it was necessary to carry them from the courtroom and into their cells.

MRS. J. H. BOYLE.

In a statement issued after being sentenced Boyle accuses Harry Forker, brother-in-law of James P. Whitla, father of Willie Whitla, the kidnapped boy, of having framed the entire plot of kidnapping and he tells of a sensational murder which occurred in Youngstown, O., some years ago and the convicted kidnapper alleges in the statement that he has for years been blackmailing Forker as a result.

MESSAGE ON PORTO RICO

Special Communication Sent to Congress by President Taft.

Washington, May 11.—President Taft sent to congress a special message recommending legislation at the present extra session amending the Foraker act, under which Porto Rico is governed. The president directs the attention of congress to affairs on the island, laying particular stress on what he terms "a situation of unusual gravity," developed through the failure of the legislative assembly to pass the usual appropriation bills, leaving the island without support after June 30.

Porto Ricans have forgotten the generosity of the United States, the president says, in the desire of certain of the island's political leaders for power. He adds that the present situation indicates that the United States has gone too fast in the extension of political power to the Porto Ricans. He concludes that the absolute power of appropriation should be taken away from "those who have shown themselves too irresponsible to enjoy it."

ROOSEVELT'S LATEST PRIZE

Bulky Bull Rhinoceros Wrested From the Jungle.

Nairobi, B. E. A., May 10.—A bulky bull rhinoceros is the latest prize wrested from the jungle by Colonel Roosevelt. From the ex-president's camp near Machakos word was brought down that the luck of the Roosevelt party continues and that fifteen varieties of game, including the big rhinoceros, have been bagged on the last expedition.

The rhinoceros was charging Mr. Roosevelt when the hunter fired. The distance was fourteen paces and the animal fell dead.

The naturalists of the party are kept busy preparing the trophies which Mr. Roosevelt and his son Kermit are bringing in daily.

CASE OF CAPTAIN P. C. HAINS

Soon Will Be in the Hands of the Jury.

Flushing, N. Y., May 11.—One hour more of summing up by the prosecution and afterward the court's charge—then the case of Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., charged with the murder of William E. Annis, will pass into the hands of the jury. This, in brief, is the schedule that the trial is expected to follow today.

The final appeal by John F. McIntyre for the defense and part of the final plea of George A. Gregg for the prosecution have been made. When adjournment was taken, Justice Garretson announced that he would allow Mr. Gregg an hour more. The court then will immediately charge the jury. The prevailing opinion of those who have followed the trial closely is that there may be a weary wait before the verdict is reached.

Spectators in the courtroom found their sympathies strangely divided with the appearance of the defendant's gray-haired parents and the black-garbed widow of the man who was killed. Mrs. Hains, mother of the defendant, with her husband, General Peter C. Hains, and their son, Major John P. Hains, listened to Mr. McIntyre's plea for the life of the prisoner. Throughout, the mother wept quietly and General Hains frequently gave way himself as he endeavored to comfort her.

The former district attorney bitterly denounced the insanity plea of the defense, declaring that it was conceived and manufactured by the defendant's lawyers as a last resort.

Instead of being an "act of God," he branded the shooting as a "cowardly murder, committed with deliberation and premeditation."

EXPLOSION IN A POWDER MILL

Kills Four Men and Injures a Score of Others.

Columbus, Kan., May 11.—The mixing room of the Laflin-Rand powder mills at Turck Station near here blew up, killing four men.

Twenty workmen were injured, some seriously. The men killed were at work in the mixing room. Their bodies were blown into bits.

Immediately after the explosion the factory took fire and burned for two hours, doing great damage. One hundred employes of the plant finally extinguished the flames, all the while being in great danger from the large quantities of explosives stored in the building. The loss will reach $75,000 or more.

This is the fourth time the mixing room in this factory has blown up. The first explosion killed three, the second two, and the third five men.

NATIONAL ART CONVENTION

Improvement of Public Taste One of Objects of Meeting.

Washington, May 11.—With the purpose of forming a national federation of art societies, art institutions, municipal and village improvement societies and other organizations having for their aim the fostering and advancement of the taste of the American people for the beautiful a convention of delegates from such societies was begun today in this city under the auspices of the regents of the National Academy of Arts.

Finding place upon the programme of topics to be discussed by the convention are the following: Artistic control of city and village municipal development, art exhibitions and some practical method of moving good exhibitions from place to place, the education of the public by lecture courses on the fine arts, more effective control of government fine arts (the possibility of a bureau, with consulting board, to control the fine arts of the government), art education, free entry of foreign works of art.

Among the regents of the academy who are taking much interest in the convention are J. Pierpont Morgan, Elihu Root, Senator Newlands, Robert Bacon, Senator Lodge, James J. Hill and Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst.

FRANCO-AMERICAN WEDDING

New York Society Woman Becomes Bride of French Nobleman.

New York, May 11.—The wedding of Mrs. Robert T. P. Fiske, who has been prominent socially in this city, to Count Lionel de Montesquiou-Fezensac of Paris was celebrated today in the Roman Catholic church of St. Peter at New Brighton, Staten Island.

Count Lionel is a member of one of the most ancient houses of the old French aristocracy. He is a cousin of Count Robert de Montesquiou-Fezensac, who lectured in America several years ago. His bride is a sister of H. Wisner Miller and of George Clinton Miller. Her first husband died about five years ago and she has two young children.

Bad Fire at Des Moines.

Des Moines, Ia., May 11.—The McCune building is threatened with total destruction by fire. Gunpowder and fireworks exploded and firemen narrowly escaped. The State Central hotel also is on fire. The guests have been taken out safely. The loss will be $200,000.

CARRIES OUT ANCIENT TEST

Sultan of Turkey Plows Furrow in a Lawn.

FIT TO BEAR HIS BURDENS

New Ruler of the Ottoman Empire Shows Himself to Be Sound of Body. Coronation Day One Both of Fulfillment of Ancient Customs and of the Breaking of Them—Priest Tries to Present Petition to Mehmed V.

Constantinople, May 11.—Mehmed V. ended his "coronation day" by plowing a furrow in the lawn at Dolma Bagtsche palace, symbolically at least, by holding the plow handles for a fraction of a minute while two horses dragged it a few yards. In carrying out the ancient test, Mehmed V. showed himself to be sound of body and fit to bear the physical burdens of the empire.

It had been a day both of fulfillment of ancient customs and of the breaking of them. Christians for the first time were admitted to the small mosque attached to Ayoub mosque and allowed to see the ceremony of girding the sword of Osman upon the sultan. Among thirty persons present were Bucknam Pasha, an American, and Woods Pasha, an Englishman, both in Turkish service. They were impressed with the beauty and the solemnity of the ceremony, which, with the chants of the priests, lasted only twenty minutes.

As the sultan crossed the courtyard of the mosque to enter his carriage a white-turbaned Hadja, or teaching priest, caused a moment's excitement by running forward with a petition, which he tried to hand to the sultan, at the same time talking somewhat wildly about the Koranic law. Two soldiers hurried him out of the yard.

The day, notwithstanding rumors of reactionary plots, passed peacefully and without sign of disturbance. Lights are blazing in the minarets and mosques of Constantinople; the ships in the harbor are outlined in electric bulbs, and the city generally is celebrating enthusiastically the girding of the new sultan.

MOSLEMS SLAIN AT ADANA

Vali of That City Claims They Exceeded the Armenians.

Constantinople, May 11.—A telegram received here from the vali of Adana states that 1,924 Moslems were killed and 533 wounded, while only 1,465 Armenians were slain and 382 wounded. These figures, it is claimed, comprise the casualties throughout the entire vilayet.

This statement by the vali is considered here an obvious and monstrous misrepresentation, made with the object of throwing the responsibility on the Armenians to justify numerous arrests of Christians, which, it is reported, still continue.

W. W. Peet of the American mission board is supplying funds contributed in the United States and Great Britain to six centers—Adana, Tarsus, Alexandretta, Latakia, Baghohe and Kassab. The contributions amount to about $20,000.

TURPENTINE TRUST GUILTY

Convicted of Conspiring to Monopolize Interstate Trade.

Savannah, Ga., May 11.—"Guilty" was the verdict brought in by the jury in the case of the so-called "turpentine trust," though the names of the two indicted corporations are omitted and the verdict applies only to the five individual defendants, E. S. Nash, president of the American Naval Stores company; Spencer P. Shotter, chairman of its board of directors; George Meade Boardman of New York, its treasurer; J. F. C. Myers, vice president of the company, and Carl Moller of Jacksonville, Fla., manager of the company and also Jacksonville manager of the National Transportation and Terminal company. The sixth defendant, Charles J. Deloach, was found not guilty at the direction of the court.

Unless deferred at the request of the defense, sentence will be passed at once. A motion for a new trial will be made.

The verdict finds the five individual defendants guilty on the first and second counts of the indictments. The third count was ordered stricken in the early stages of the trial.

The first and second counts charge the defendants with conspiring to monopolize interstate trade. The maximum sentence is a fine of $5,000 and a term of one year in prison.

THROWS BOMB INTO MEETING

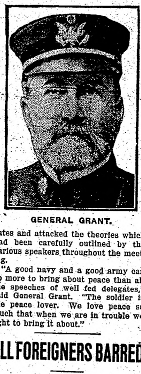
General Fred D. Grant Startles Peace Advocates.

Chicago, May 6.—General Frederick Dent Grant, commander of the department of the Lakes in the United States army, threw a bomb into the closing session of the second national peace congress in this city.

General Grant appeared unexpectedly at the Chicago Association of Commerce banquet, which wound up the three days' gathering of peace advocates and attacked the theories which had been carefully outlined by the various speakers throughout the meeting.



GENERAL GRANT.

"A good navy and a good army can do more to bring about peace than all the speeches of well fed delegates," said General Grant. "The soldier is the peace lover. We love peace so much that when we are in trouble we fight to bring it about."

ALL FOREIGNERS BARRED

Mehmed V. Installed as Sultan of Turkey.

Constantinople, May 11.—The ceremony of girding the sword of Osman upon Mehmed V., the new sultan of Turkey in succession to Abdul Hamid, took place in the Mosque Ayrub, the only sacred edifice in Constantinople which Christians are not allowed to enter.

The function was carried out according to the prearranged programme and at its conclusion his majesty drove through Stamboul at the head of an imposing procession.

This ceremony corresponds to that of coronation in Western countries. It lasted only a few minutes and the ancient rite of the spiritual power consigning the temporal power to the sultan was witnessed by no foreign eyes.

FOUND DEAD IN HOTEL ROOM

Secretary of Turkish Legation at Belgrade and Young Woman.

Vienna, May 10.—Ali Fahuy Bey, secretary of the Turkish legation at Belgrade, and Mlle. Ludovica Milnecka were found dead in a room of a hotel in Semlin, across the river from Belgrade. The couple were lovers and it is evident that the tragedy was prearranged. The secretary apparently shot the young woman and then committed suicide. A sum of money was laid out on a table in the room with the request that they be buried in the same grave.

LAKE VESSEL LOST

Steamer Adelle Shores Believed to Have Gone Down.

CARRIED CREW OF FOURTEEN

Wreckage Found Identified as Belonging to Ship.

Cleveland, May 8.—It is believed here that the fourteen members of the crew of the steamer Adelle Shores have perished and that the boat lies at the bottom of Lake Superior, off Whitefish point. The Shores, which is owned by the Manx Transit company of Cleveland, passed the Soo, upbound, over a week ago. Since then nothing has been heard from her by the owners except the information conveyed in the newspaper dispatches reporting the finding of wreckage identified as being a part of the Shores.

The Shores was in charge of Captain Selvert Holmes of Milwaukee. She was a wooden vessel of 734 tons and was built in 1894. Formerly she was owned by the Neff Transportation company of Milwaukee.

DUTIES MUST BE LOWERED

Senator Cummins of Iowa Makes Notable Tariff Speech.

Washington, May 6.—Predicting that a failure to pass a tariff bill providing lower duties on imports would provoke a political contest for another revision of the tariff Senator Cummins of Iowa delivered a notable speech in the senate.

"The bill now before us, which, it may be assumed, presents the views of the finance committee respecting the revision of the tariff," said Mr. Cummins," will not be accepted by those who have favored a revision of the tariff as either a fulfillment of the party pledge or as a settlement of the controversy. If this bill, or anything substantially like it, becomes a law I predict that a campaign for lower duties will begin the moment the extraordinary session of congress adjourns and will continue with increasing zeal until the judgment entered in the court of the public conscience is also entered in the journals of congress."

There was no question, he said, that the Republican party had promised a revision under a demand for lower duties.

REGARDED AS ENDORSEMENT

Aldrich Pleased With Vote on Pig Lead Duty.

Washington, May 11.—The ability of the Republican majority of the senate to uphold the recommendation of the committee on finance on the lead schedule, which contains the Dingley rates in the tariff bill in the place of the lower duties fixed by the house of representatives, was fully demonstrated when by a vote of 35 to 44 the senate declined to reduce by one-quarter of a cent a pound the duty on pig lead as recommended by the committee on finance. In this vote eleven Republicans voted with the Democrats and two Democrats with the Republicans. By a viva voce vote the senate adopted the rate of 2⅛ cents a pounds on pig lead as recommended by the committee.

At the conclusion of the session Chairman Aldrich stated that he regarded the vote as an endorsement of the action of the committee and he expressed confidence that all the schedules of the committee would be upheld.

ST. YVES AGAIN THE WINNER

French Runner Captures Latest Marathon Race.

New York, May 8.—Repeating his victory of a month ago when he defeated the best runners of the world on the Marathon distance, Henri St. Yves, the French waiter, this afternoon again proved conclusively that he is without a peer in the running of the famous Greek classic. After the fifth mile he set the pace until the end and he never was headed.

John Svanberg, the Swedish champion, was second, with Crook, the New England runner, third: Fred Simpson, the Canadian Indian, fourth; Fred Appleby of England, fifth; Dorando Pietri, the Italian sixth, and Edouard Cibot of France, seventh.

Steamer Mauretania Beats All Previous Eastward Records.

Queenstown, May 10.—The Cunard line steamer Mauretania arrived off Daunts Rocks at 10:48 a. m., having beaten her own previous and all other eastward records by twenty-four minutes. She would have done still better had she not been delayed by fog off Fastnet.

The liner's time from the Ambrose lightship to Daunts Rock was 4 days, 18 hours and 11 minutes.

PAYS HER FINE OF $250

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Avoids Being Sent to Jail.

New York, May 7.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw did not go to Ludlow street jail. Instead representatives of Daniel O'Reilly, her counsel, paid over to George B. Hayes, the receiver appointed to take charge of Mrs. Thaw's affairs, the amount of $250, the fine imposed upon her by Justice McAvoy for contempt on failure to appear in supplementary proceedings. According to the court's order this sum is to be applied to the extinction of the judgment for $253 secured by Elsie Hartwig, a milliner, upon which the proceedings for supplementary proceedings were taken. There still remains to be paid a sum of nearly $100, made up of costs in various courts and the receiver's fees, before Mrs. Thaw can have her affairs taken out of the hands of the receiver.

IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE

Fiber and Manila Association Permanently Enjoined.

New York, May 10.—A permanent injunction restraining from operation the Fiber and Manila association, under which name it was charged that twenty-five paper manufacturing concerns had formed a combine in restraint of trade, was ordered by Justice Hough in a decree handed down in the United States circuit court in this city. The companies composing this association were fined $2,000 each in June, 1908, for membership in the combination which is now ordered to be enjoined.

It was charged that the combine was organized in September, 1906, and that John H. Parks was manager of it. Following the organization it was alleged that the production of paper was reduced and the price advanced.

Judge Hough's decision granting the injunction declared that the Fiber and Manila association is an unlawful combination in restraint of trade and commerce and an attempt to monopolize contrary to the provision of the Sherman anti-trust act. The hearing of the cases took place on April 16 of this year.

BALCONY RAILING GIVES WAY

Sixty Persons Injured in an Accident at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., May 7.—None of the sixty persons injured in the accident during an athletic meet in the new national guard armory has died, but the condition of Captain Maurice W. Thompson, assistant adjutant general of the state of Washington, and of his wife is critical. John Murray, a bricklayer, and Cyril Thornton, who suffered internal injuries, are reported from the hospital to be fatally hurt.

The accident was caused by the spectators in the balcony crowding against a flimsy iron piping that served as a guard. This gave way for a distance of fifty yards and scores of people were hurled upon the heads of the audience on the lower floor.

AGAINST FEDERAL JUDGES

Charges of Impeachment to Be Filed by Congressman Murphy.

Washington, May 6.—At the conclusion of a lengthy statement in the house regarding his resolution of inquiry into the official conduct of Federal Judges McPherson and Philips of the Western district of Missouri Representative Murphy of that state announced that he would present formal charges of impeachment.

Mr. Murphy brought the matter up as a question of personal privilege and recited at length the charges contained in his resolution. He called on Mr. Rucker, his colleague, to substantiate what he was saying.

Mr. Rucker did so and declared that Judge Philips should have been impeached twenty years ago.

President Taft threatens to send a special message to Congress regarding the tariff question. O Lord! will it ever end?

The law supplement season is over and the country editor can again settle down to his old time size of an exchange table. We got sixteen supplements. How many did you get?

C. R. C. Baker, local editor of the Red Lake Falls Gazette for the past eight months, has purchased a half interest in the plant from Mr. King. Here is hoping you a heap of luck, Brother Baker.

Vol. 1, No. 1, of the Callaway Post a new paper at Callaway edited by Frank E. Smith, arrived on our exchange table this week. The Post bears the earmarks of success, if we can judge by its creditable first appearance.

Roosevelt has killed at least three lions since he reached Africa. It is too bad that his luck did not start a little earlier. We might then have been rid of Aldrich and Patten and a few of the other lions and bears that make it their business to prey on their fellow beings.

This village has been the Mecca for several parties of land-seekers this past week. Most of them have come prepared to buy and few go away disappointed. There is plenty of land, vacant land at that, which needs but the magic touch of a thrifty farm hand to turn it into Minnesota's richest agricultural possibilities. There are a few pieces which are too wet at present but with the new ditches to be excavated this summer, they can be drained and made fit for farming purposes.

We note with much regret that the dissension on the county seat proposition has continued to such an extent that now the matter has reached a stage where one of the contesting factors is applying to the higher authorities for a divorce and a legal separation from its former pal. Just what will come from this is hard to anticipate but one thing is certain, a divorce (much as that is to be despised) is much better than a continuous family trouble and discord; so while indeed it may be far from the desired condition yet if we are to continue to have strife, discord and expensive litigation in the future as we have had in the past four years we would certainly all be better off if, not being able to agree, we then would agree to disagree and dissolve the bonds of matrimony.

The farmers of this vicinity, and their live stock, are to be congratulated on the future which has been opened by this rain. The grass is growing at a remarkable rate and the hay famine of the past month brings no fear to the man with the cattle and horses to feed. Very few springs have seen so little hay on the market as the present one. Not only has hay been scarce, but oats and ground feed are equally hard to find. Now, with the grass growing as at present, the stock will need little or no grain. And not alone for this reason should the farmers rejoice. The prospects for a good crop were never better, and though the ground has not all been seeded, it will take but a few days to finish and the rain has fallen in good time to sprout the seed already in. The farmers are wearing a broader smile every day, and within the next thirty days we may look for a prosperous time and a prosperous feeling for all.

Congress is still scrapping about the rates of tariff to be placed on certain articles and then too what to put on the free list. Congress is composed of a number of bright looking men that are right onto their jobs Just think of it a bright young fellow infered the other day that Minnesota does not raise enough wheat so that she should be interested in the wheat tariff schedule. The proposition was passed up to that youthful member from Minnesota generally known in our state as Knut and he informed the would be solon that we still do raise wheat in large quantities but that we are willing to compete with the Canadian producers on every point, as they are obliged to do as much work as we are to raise the same amount and certainly everything else considered we can raise the grain a little cheaper than our Canadian farmer friends and hence we need no protection. It seems now that if there is any change in the tariff schedule as the republican party promised there would be, it will be on an upward scale rather than a lowering scale and if that is the final conclusion of Taft's special tariff congress there will be a large percentage of Democrats by the time next election rolls around.

WOULD DIVIDE OUR COUNTY

Petition to Divide County Signed by 899 Legal Voters. Farmers Anxious.

Last Monday morning witnessed a new phase of our county seat troubles. For more than four years there has been before the commissioners of Red Lake County a petition asking for a vote on the proposition of moving the county seat to Thief River Falls. During all this time the commissioners have, by some excuse or other, avoided any action on this petition, thus frustrating the desires of a large majority of the voters and taxpayers of the county.

Three weeks ago the court house burned to the ground and now the commissioners are anxious to build a new one and are offering to sell 6 per cent bonds in order to raise the necessary money. This, in brief, is the status up to the present time.

Last Monday morning a few of the north-end pushers started out with a petition to divide the county. So successful were their efforts that by Tuesday evening there were on this petition the names of 899 legal voters of Red Lake County. It had been supposed that there would be some opposition or at the best a passive feeling among the farmers. This was, however, not the case for of 171 farmers that were consulted, 168 were willing and anxious to sign the petition.

All that was really necessary to make this petition legal was 700 names; and yet without any special effort there were 899 names secured in two days. From this one might infer that the movement is certainly a popular one and when the time for the vote comes there will be no question whatever as to the result of the election on this point. The people of the north end of the county feel that they have stood for a tyrannical three-man rule long enough and they have decided to throw off this patriarchal form of government and have a little taste of self-government for a change.

The petition for division of the county was taken to St. Paul by Robert McGinn and E. M. Stanton Tuesday evening and filed with the Secretary of State on Wednesday morning. This petition takes into the new county four miles of the north side of the towns of Polk Centre, Black River, River Falls, Wyandotte Mayfield and Deer Park and all of the town of Hickory and all of the territory lying north thereof in Red Lake County. The name of the proposed new county will be Pennington.—Thief River Press.

Sold Town Bonds.

Charles Svensgaard, town clerk of the town of Clover Leaf, reports that the $5000 of town bonds of his town have been sold to the Security Trust Company Bank of St. Paul. This money will be expended in grading the roads in the town and this will be done by contract this year. The town of Clover Leaf has taken an action that we are certain it will not regret for it will get good roads where some of the other towns will get nothing and have an equally large expenditure.

Postmasters' Association to Meet.

SIXTEEN PERSONS HURT BY TORNADO

Storm Destroys Big Part of an Oklahoma Town.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 27.—Sixteen persons were injured, one perhaps fatally, in a tornado which destroyed a large part of the town of Centrahoma, near here.

A child of Rev. E. J. Matthews is thought to be dying. Mrs. Matthews and her four other children also were injured. Lee Grist was badly bruised. The others were not seriously hurt.

Not a building in the town remains wholly intact. Twelve buildings, including the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches, were totally wrecked. The town contains about 800 inhabitants. Many are homeless.

A terrific rain and hail storm followed the tornado, greatly adding to the damage.

GALLAGHER AS A WITNESS

Relates Incidents Leading Up to Indictment of Supervisors.

San Francisco, April 27.—With James L. Gallagher as witness and Francis J. Heney conducting his examination in the bribery trial of Patrick Calhoun, incidents leading up to the indictment of the former board of supervisors were reviewed.

A feature of the day was Judge Lawler's admission of a legal answer made previous to the present prosecutions, wherein Gallagher had made oath as to his innocence of wrongdoing imputed to him by the district attorney's office. Section by section the witness heard the document read, and at the end he confessed to the jury that the sworn statements were false.

Mr. Heney then drew from Gallagher all details of the plot to remove District Attorney W. H. Langdon and substitute Abe Ruef in his stead. The evidence was admitted to show that Gallagher, fearing indictment because of the employment of Mr. Heney and the pending empanelment of a new grand jury, had sworn to the document in the hope of saving himself and his colleagues from investigation.

Agreement Is Probable.

Scranton, Pa., April 27.—With every prospect that differences existing between anthracite mine workers and operators will be adjusted before the end of the week, the tri-district convention of the union miners in the hard coal field will convene here today to consider the latest propositions that form the basis for the expected final settlement.

Getting In Deeper.

"Who is that singing so dreadfully out of tune?"

"It is my wife."

"Perhaps the accompanist plays out of tune."

"She is accompanying herself." — Meggendorfer Blatter.

She Had Often Studied It.

Little Marie had returned from her first visit to Sunday school.

"And what lesson are you to study for next Sunday?" her mother asked.

"Nuffin' much," said the four-year old rather scornfully. "Her jest said to learn all about the catakissin', and me knowed that already." — Lippincott's.

Like the Bee.

"I, sir," said Mr. Dustin Stax, "am like the busy bee. I have industriously stored the good things of life."

"Yes. And anybody who tried to stop you was very likely to get stung." —Washington Star.

Force of Habit.

Captain of Signalers—G—G—G, what the deuce does the fellow mean? There's no word with three G's running. Corporal—Beg pardon, sir, but Signaler Higgins he stutters!—London Punch.

The Forecast.

Husband—Well, what did the phrenologist say about Willie's head? Wife—Nothing. He simply sighed and handed me my money back. Husband—Just as I expected. He's going to be a poet.—Exchange.

A man that hath not virtue in himself ever envieth virtue in others.—Bacon.

DUELING IN ITALY.

How the Count of Turin Came to Fight Prince Henry of Orleans.

The greatest duel of modern days in Italy was that between the Count of Turin and Prince Henry of Orleans. It came about in a curious manner. Prince Henry had insulted the Italian army after the battle of Adowa and one day received a telegraphic challenge to a duel signed "Victor Emmanuel." The challenge was accepted, and thus Crispi, who was prime minister, came to know of the crown prince's impulsive action and interfered. "But," said King Humbert, his father, "how can it be stopped? Our honor is now involved." Crispi thought a moment and then exclaimed: "I have it! The Count of Turin is Victor Emmanuel also!" And thus he was the one who fought.

This was followed by one of those genial practical jokes which convulsed Europe. France at that time hated Italy and never lost an opportunity to sneer at her. It must be explained that in Rome there was always at carnival time a characteristic figure of a little old man with an immense sword riding a donkey, who was a caricature of the age of chivalry and was called "General Mannaggia la Rocca."

One day in the French papers appeared an imposing announcement that General Mannaggia la Rocca threw his glove at the feet of the entire French nation and cast their base insinuations in their teeth, inviting any or all to mortal fight. Replies were not long in coming, one of which was from a noted fencer and duelist of his day, M. Tomeguenx, appointing his seconds and announcing their arrival in Rome. France was on the quivive, from government personages to the humble bargee, and when the trick played upon them was discovered all Europe shrieked with laughter, and France the loudest of all.—Pall Mall Gazette.

England's National Anthem.

There is a fourth verse of the national anthem with which very few Englishmen indeed are familiar. But it was given, apparently in all good faith, in an old Hanoverian musical work, and the daring of the last rhyme almost reconciles one to the shocking character of the sentiment:

God save great George, our king!
Long live our noble king!
God save the king!
Send us roast beef a store,
If it's gone, send us more,
And the key of the cellar door,
That we may drink.

—London Chronicle.

Bright Pupils.

"You have two very bright pupils, Miss Winsome," remarked Mr. Sweetly to the schoolma'am.

"Which ones do you mean, Mr. Sweetly?"

"Why, those in your eyes, to be sure."—Pathfinder.

He Dodged.

Mr. Meek—Did you trump my ace? Mrs. M.—Yes. What of it? Mr. M.—N-nothing, my dear. I'm glad it was you. If one of our opponents had done it we'd have lost the trick.—Cleveland Leader.

The Smart Ones.

"Do you believe that the world owes us all a living?"

"Yes, but the smarter fellows are collecting the debt for us on an 80 per cent commission."—Boston Transcript.

Mahnomen Is Lively.

The editor of this paper spent part of Tuesday at Mahnomen. This very prosperous little city excelled his expectations and its growth since 1905 is truly remarkable. At present, the town boasts a population of about 1000, all enterprising citizens who believe that the welfare of the town is just as important as their own. A contract has just been let for the construction of a $4000 electric light plant. The buildings in Mahnomen are all substantially built and business prosperity is evident on every hand. There is no doubt but that Mahnomen is a "Coming City."

H. T. McAnulty was a caller in Plummer Monday on business, driving over from Red Lake Falls.

County Auditor Dead.

County Auditor John B. O'Brien died at the hospital in Crookston on Friday night of last week, death resulting from an operation for appendicitis performed a few days previous. Friday, Mr. O'Brien seemed to be gaining in strength and his condition was considered most favorable. However, the change came suddenly and he passed quietly away at midnight. He had been feeling poorly for some time and early last week it was decided to perform an operation. The operation in itself, was successful and Mr. O'Brien withstood the shock remarkably well at the time and his early recovery was never doubted until Friday afternoon.

Elected to the office of County Auditor in the fall of 1906, by the Thief River Falls followers in the county seat fight, Mr. O'Brien assumed the reins of office on Jan. 1, 1907, and so faithfully performed the duties, that he was re-elected in 1908. Previous to his first election, he held the position of superintendent of the public schools at St. Hilaire, and was mainly responsible for their present high standing. At all times, he gave his entire time to his work, and never faltered, when he believed that his was the right course to pursue.

He was 45 years of age and is survived by his wife and daughter, Helen, nine years old. The funeral was held Monday in St. Paul. The affairs of the office will be looked after by Ami Latandresse, the former deputy, who has been appointed auditor to fill the vacancy.

Great Northern Changes.

The new time card which will go into effect on the Great Northern next Sunday at midnight, May 23 has been issued and several important changes are announced in the train service on the system.

The new card will only effect one train running into Crookston however, that being the Greenbush train. This train will run thru from Fargo and will leave Crookston for Warroad at the same time as at present, 8:40 a. m., but returning will arrive in Crookston at 6:15 p. m. instead of 9:50 as at present. The train coming from Warroad will leave that place at 12:05 in the after noon. This will necessitate the putting on of two trains, and they will lay over at Warroad every night alternately.

Ruling Is Reversed.

In his decisions in the land contest of Mitchell vs. Moon, involving a homestead claim in Lyman county, South Dakota. Secretary Ballinger his, it is said by those who have been following such decisions closely, reversed the policy of former men that entrymen shall reside continuously on the land.

In this case the entrymen had been on the land for about fourteen months during the last eight of which he had made some improvements and started cultivating, going on his claim probably three or four times a week. The contest was sustained by the local officers and the commissioners of the general land office on the ground of non-continuous residence.

The secretary, however, reversed the decision of the lower officers and dismissed the contest. He stated that while the residence and cultivation probably would not be sufficient to permit of the acceptance of final proof, it was sufficient to show good faith on the part of the entrymae and a contest against the entry could not be sustained on the ground of abandonment.

Under the Garfield administration of the interior department, entrymen were required to reside continuouly on their holdings, and the smallest deflection from that rule, it is said, was held to be sufficient ground for cancellation of the entry.

Shall We Play Ball?

That is probably one of the leading questions at present, and the answer depends upon the citizens and on the greater or lesser base ball stars who reside here. With a view of deciding on just what shall be done, those who have any baseball enthusiasm at all, are requested to meet at the bank corner Sunday afternoon, and help to decide the matter. There is plenty of material here for a fast team, and we can see no reason why this town should not be represented this summer. The ball grounds will be fixed up at once, and if a team is organized practice will begin immediately. So let's all get together Sunday on this proposition and push it through.

The Only Excitement.

The survey of the Soo railway line from Duluth to Thief River Falls seems to be almost the only incident of excitement these days. Two lines are now under survey, one running south of Leech lake and another north of Cass Lake, and when the surveys are completed and the costs counted and the benefits of the respective routes summed up the road will be located, and then, and not till then, may we speculate on the advantages to any of the towns already inhabited. To those who are acquainted with the country along the two routes the northern route seems most feasible and most probable; the country is almost a wilderness along this route and being heavily timbered and excellently watered it seems most likely to be the line chosen when the final choice is made.

Miss Emma Wichterman returned Monday morning from Wisconsin, where she has spent the past few weeks visiting with friends.

Mahnomen Is Lively.

The editor of this paper spent part of Tuesday at Mahnomen. This very prosperous little city excelled his expectations and its growth since 1905 is truly remarkable. At present, the town boasts a population of about 1000, all enterprising citizens who believe that the welfare of the town is just as important as their own. A contract has just been let for the construction of a $4000 electric light plant. The buildings in Mahnomen are all substantially built and business prosperity is evident on every hand. There is no doubt but that Mahnomen is a "Coming City."

H. T. McAnulty was a caller in Plummer Monday on business, driving over from Red Lake Falls.

County Auditor Dead.

County Auditor John B. O'Brien died at the hospital in Crookston on Friday night of last week, death resulting from an operation for appendicitis performed a few days previous. Friday, Mr. O'Brien seemed to be gaining in strength and his condition was considered most favorable. However, the change came suddenly and he passed quietly away at midnight. He had been feeling poorly for some time and early last week it was decided to perform an operation. The operation in itself, was successful and Mr. O'Brien withstood the shock remarkably well at the time and his early recovery was never doubted until Friday afternoon.

Elected to the office of County Auditor in the fall of 1906, by the Thief River Falls followers in the county seat fight, Mr. O'Brien assumed the reins of office on Jan. 1, 1907, and so faithfully performed the duties, that he was re-elected in 1908. Previous to his first election, he held the position of superintendent of the public schools at St. Hilaire, and was mainly responsible for their present high standing. At all times, he gave his entire time to his work, and never faltered, when he believed that his was the right course to pursue.

He was 45 years of age and is survived by his wife and daughter, Helen, nine years old. The funeral was held Monday in St. Paul. The affairs of the office will be looked after by Ami Latandresse, the former deputy, who has been appointed auditor to fill the vacancy.

Great Northern Changes.

The new time card which will go into effect on the Great Northern next Sunday at midnight, May 23 has been issued and several important changes are announced in the train service on the system.

The new card will only effect one train running into Crookston however, that being the Greenbush train, This train will run thru from Fargo and will leave Crookston for Warroad at the same time as at present, 8:40 a. m., but returning will arrive in Crookston at 6:15 p. m. instead of 9:50 as at present. The train coming from Warroad will leave that place at 12:05 in the after noon. This will necessitate the putting on of two trains, and they will lay over at Warroad every night alternately.

Ruling Is Reversed.

In his decisions in the land contest of Mitchell vs. Moon, involving a homestead claim in Lyman county, South Dakota. Secretary Ballinger his, it is said by those who have been following such decisions closely, reversed the policy of former men that entrymen shall reside continuously on the land.

In this case the entrymen had been on the land for about fourteen months during the last eight of which he had made some improvements and started cultivating, going on his claim probably three or four times a week. The contest was sustained by the local officers and the commissioners of the general land office on the ground of non-continuous residence.

The secretary, however, reversed the decision of the lower officers and dismissed the contest. He stated that while the residence and cultivation probably would not be sufficient to permit of the acceptance of final proof, it was sufficient to show good faith on the part of the entrymae and a contest against the entry could not be sustained on the ground of abandonment.

Under the Garfield administration of the interior department, entrymen were required to reside continouly on their holdings, and the smallest deflection from that rule, it is said, was held to be sufficient ground for cancellation of the entry.

BIG CONCERN FAILS

Receiver Appointed for Tracy & Co. of New York.

LIABILITIES ABOUT A MILLION

Suspension Due to Investments in Taxicab Company.

New York, May 18.—In the appointment of a receiver for Tracy & Co., members of the New York Stock Exchange and the Chicago Board of Trade, Wall street had a million dollar failure with an interesting variation from the usual. Taxicabs, not stock manipulation or market conditions, are said to be indirectly responsible for the firm's troubles. While no announcement as to the exact cause of the failure has been made, E. A. Benedict, receiver, said that he understood that money lost in backing a local taxicab concern figured in the outside ventures. The firm has no stock exchange obligations. The total liabilities are estimated at $1,000,000, the assets at half that amount. Both these sums are approximate.

Among stock exchange houses with Chicago connections, the embarrassment of the firm caused little surprise. The situation is regarded by friends of Mr. Tracy as a result, at least in part, of proposed taxicab legislation pending before the local board of aldermen. When a hearing was held with regard to proposed legislation some weeks ago, an attorney for taxicab interests announced to the committeemen of the board that any reduction in the rate of fare might mean bankruptcy for some persons interested. But the proposed bill was reported, though further consideration was postponed.

Besides the main New York office in Wall street, the firm maintained local branches in West Thirty-third street and at the Hotel Gotham. It had other offices in Chicago, St. Louis, Louisville, Milwaukee and New Haven, Conn.

DOZEN PERSONS ARE INJURED

Train Robbers Cause Collision on the Great Northern.

Spokane, Wash., May 17.—Twelve persons were injured in the wrecking of a Great Northern coast train by four masked robbers, who looted it fourteen miles east of this city, between Norse and Colbert.

The mail sacks were rifled, the amount of the robbers' haul being estimated at $20,000.

When the train was held up at Colbert the robbers, at the pistol's point, compelled Engineer William Miller and Fireman John Hall to run the engine and mail car about two miles and, after driving the crew from the cab and taking what they wanted, turned the engine and car back at full speed upon the standing passenger coaches.

The force of the collision was broken somewhat by the presence of mind of Conductor C. L. Robertson, who had ties piled in the way of the oncoming catapult, but only staggered it.

Before the collision Conductor Robertson had telegraphed Spokane of the holdup and two carloads of officers were hurried to the scene, followed by physicians to care for the injured.

WARM DEBATE IN SENATE

Members of Upper House Indulge in Personalities.

Washington, May 15.—Again the committee on finance was upheld when the senate voted down an amendment by Senator Cummins to lower the duty on round iron, etc., by a vote of 35 to 42 and upheld the house rate, which was recommended by the senate committee.

Almost the entire session was given up to a debate on the profits of the United States Steel corporation and toward the end of the day personalities were freely indulged in by senators. This occurred after Senator Root had spoken in defense of the finance committee and in criticism of senators who had complained of the failure of that committee to provide more ample information concerning various schedules. Mr. Money, addressing himself directly to the senator from New York, resented what he characterized as a lecture to the senate and said that if the senator from New York desired less speaking in the body "he should do less of it himself."

TROOPS AND OUTLAWS FIGHT

Five of Latter Killed by American Soldiers.

Manila, May 14.—Captain Rhodes, commanding two troops of the Sixth cavalry, struck a portion of the band of outlaws headed by Jikiri near Bamno last Wednesday and in a fight that followed five of the natives were killed. One of these was Jammang, noted as a trusted lieutenant of Jikiri.

Result of Family Quarrel.

St. Louis, May 17.—August Poos, a jeweler, killed his wife after he had been fatally wounded by his son. The tragedy took place in the Poos home over his store and followed a family quarrel.

SWINBURNE ON RETIRED LIST

Admiral Sebree Assumes Command of Pacific Fleet.

San Francisco, May 17.—Rear Admiral W. T. Swinburne, commanding the Pacific fleet, hauled down his flag on the cruiser West Virginia, having reached the age of retirement, and Rear Admiral Uriel Sebree, commander of the Second division of the fleet, took command of the whole, raising his flag on the cruiser Tennessee, which will hereafter be the flagship. The cruisers Tennessee, Washington and California sailed for Seattle to take part in the naval review at the opening of the Alaska-Yukon exposition and the other three cruisers will follow about May 21.

HAINS GOES TO PRISON

Given Sentence of From Eight to Sixteen Years.

Flushing, N. Y., May 17.—Captain Peter C. Hains, Jr., U. S. A., who was convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for the killing of William E. Annis at the Bayside Yacht club last August, was sentenced by Justice Garretson in the supreme court to an indeterminate sentence of not less than eight years nor more than sixteen years at hard labor in state's prison. John F. McIntyre, counsel for the defendant, made the usual motion for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence and also contrary to law. Justice Garretson denied these motions.

Within twenty-four hours after being sentenced Captain Hains was taken to Sing Sing prison.

ADLER IS DECLARED GUILTY

Verdict in Case Against New Orleans Banker.

New Orleans, May 14.—The jury in the case of William Adler, president of the defunct State National bank, who was charged in the United States court here with misapplying funds of the bank, brought in a verdict of guilty. Sentence was deferred.

The indictments against Adler embraced eighty-four counts and charged him with misapplying, embezzling and abstracting the funds of the bank. He was found guilty on the counts which charge misapplication. His attorneys will note an appeal.

TAFT TALKS VERY PLAINLY

Discusses the Emery Case With the Nicaraguan Commissioner.

Washington, May 18.—President Taft talked very plainly to Pedro Gonzales, who came from Nicaragua as a special commissioner to settle the Emery case, which has been a source of irritation between the two governments for several years and came near resulting in a rupture of friendly relations between them.

Mr. Gonzales expressed the opinion that the difficulties connected with the Emery case were not of such a nature as to interrupt or even to lessen the cordiality of relations between the two governments and might be disposed of within a short time by a definite agreement.

In his reply, the president emphasized his understanding that the envoy had complete authority to sign a definite settlement of the Emery case and added:

"In performing the acts which constitute your mission, I need not assure that you will be received by this government with that equitable and kindly disposition which has always characterized the attitude of the United States toward Nicaragau and which, coupled with mutual trust, sincerity and regard for justice is the only continued ground for relations."

Senor Gonzales is authorized to settle the case either by compromise or by arbitration and negotiations will begin promptly with attorneys of the Emery company. Their claim runs into the millions, which leads to the belief that recourse to arbitration will be necessary.

REOPENING OF OLD WOUNDS PREVENTED

Speaker Cannon's Ruling Cuts Off Discussion.

Washington, May 18.—A ruling by Speaker Cannon prevented, perhaps, the reopening in the house of old wounds of the Civil war. Mr. Hollingsworth of Ohio sought to justify as a matter of privilege his recent resolution objecting to the placing of the portrait of Jefferson Davis on the silver service to be presented to the battleship Mississippi because of editorials in certain Southern newspapers hurling all sorts of epithets at him. The editorials were read.

The speaker declared that, as the editorials did not attack Mr. Hollingsworth in his representative capacity, he could not continue. The result of Mr. Hollingsworth's attempt was to get into the congressional record a number of uncomplimentary remarks about himself and with nothing to offset them. As the editorials were read in turn the house was convulsed with laughter.

Although its consideration was completed, the Philippine tariff bill was not finally acted upon for want of a quorum.

Should a resolution by Mr. Burleson (Tex.), which was adopted, be complied with, the attorney general must furnish to the house information regarding steps taken by him to annul the contract whereby the United States Steel corporation absorbed the Tennessee Coal and Iron company, unless in so doing public interests would be affected.

DISCUSSES THE INCOME TAX

Senator Sutherland of Utah Makes an Extended Speech.

Washington, May 18.—A comprehensive discussion of the income tax by Senator Sutherland of Utah and an extended speech by Senator Depew in support of the pending tariff bill consumed most of the session of the senate. Mr. Sutherland argued against the constitutionality of a federal income tax law and declared that such a tax should be left as a means of revenue for the states.

Before adjournment a couple of hours were devoted to a discussion of the cutlery schedule of the tariff bill.

GETS THREATENING LETTER

Judge Told to Try to Get New Trial for the Boyles.

Cleveland, O., May 18.—The Cleveland police have learned that a threat has been made to dynamite the home of Judge A. W. Williams in Mercer, Pa., unless he lends his efforts toward obtaining a new trial for James Boyle and wife, recently convicted before him on the charge of kidnapping Willie Whitla.

The threats were sent in an anonymous letter, postmarked Cleveland and signed "A Friend of the Boyles." It warned Judge Williams that unless he did as the writer ordered, his home would be blown up and himself and family killed.

Judge Williams says he is not alarmed by the letter, which has been turned over to the postal authorities.

Heavy Snow In Canada.

Winnipeg, Man., May 18.—The most remarkable weather ever experienced is visiting Alberta. Reports from Macloud and Lethbridge state it has been snowing there for the past forty-eight hours, with no prospects of the weather clearing up. This is the center of the coal miners' strike and scarcity of coal makes the situation serious.

FLING AT SAMUEL GOMPERS

Embodied in Report to National Association of Manufacturers.

New York, May 18.—An attack on "methods of organized labor" broke the otherwise calm routine of the first day's session of the National Association of Manufacturers, which convened at the Waldorf-Astoria. This arraignment of certain phases of labor unions, including a fling at Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, was embodied in a report of the committee on industrial education, of which Anthony Ittner of St. Louis is chairman. After much discussion the report was referred to a special committee after the convention had gone on record as endorsing not an attack on organized labor, per se, but "methods of organized labor."

The attitude of delegates was made clear when the motion to refer the report to a special committee was made. Then Mr. Ittner rose and offered a suggestion, "that this committee to which the report is to be referred have the power to emasculate anything in the report that might appear to the members as improper as an unfair attack upon labor." He added that "we do not fight the labor organizations by themselves; we consider them beneficial, but we sight methods of organized labor—and some of them are damnable." His statements were followed by applause and the motion was adopted.

NOTED ENGLISH NOVELIST DEAD

George Meredith a Victim of Heart Failure.

London, May 18.—George Meredith, the English novelist, died at 3:35 this morning. The immediate cause of death was heart failure.

Mr. Meredith's illness began on May 15, and he had steadily declined since that time.

George Meredith was born in Hampshire, Feb. 12, 1828. On the occasion of his eightieth birthday he was showered with congratulations from all parts of the world and was visited by a deputation headed by Anthony Trollope and presented with an address signed by Algernon Charles Swineburne, Thomas Hardy, John Morley and more than 100 leaders in art, letters and scholarships.

Mr. Meredith was educated partly in Germany and was brought up in the law, which he quitted for literature. His first book, "Poems," appeared in 1851 and was followed in rapid succession by various novels and additional poems and ballads. "Diana of the Crossways" was published in 1885, and "One of Our Conquerers" in 1890. "Lord Ormont and His Aminta" appeared in the summer of 1894 and was followed in 1895 by "The Amazing Marriage," which is supposed to introduce as hero the late Robert Louis Stevenson.

In 1892 appeared the "Empty Purse," a volume of poems, and in the autumn of that year Mr. Meredith was elected president of the incorporated society of authors in succession to Lord Tennyson.

TO LOWER FREIGHT RATES

Railroads Will Reduce Them About Fifteen Per Cent.

Chicago, May 18.—A new freight rate schedule from all territory east of the Missouri river to all Western cities not located on the Pacific coast will go into effect on transcontinental lines July 1.

The new rates will be based upon rates which the interstate commerce commission ordered railroads to put on from St. Paul and Chicago to Spokane and will be an average reduction under the present rates of about 15 per cent.

The railroads decided to do this instead of fighting the order of the commission in the courts. This decision came as a result of the visit of J. C. Stubbs, traffic director of the Harriman lines, to the commission in Washington last week.

SHOT DOWN BY HOLD-UP MAN

Minneapolis Fireman Killed in Trying to Intercept Fugitive.

Minneapolis, May 18.—While trying to intercept a holdup man who was making a desperate effort to escape from pursuing detectives, John McNamara, lieutenant of truck No. 2, Engine Company No. 1, was shot and fatally injured. He died an hour later at the city hospital.

The man who did the shooting was captured after a chase which led through streets and alleys, and he is now locked up at central police station.

He gave the name of Frank Erickson and said that he is a Russian Pole.

Baby Strangled to Death.

Duluth, May 18.—The five-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Zubtz of Eveleth accidentally killed itself in its baby carriage. The child was left alone in the carriage for a short time, and when the mother returned she found that the baby had gotten its head between some of the frames that held the top and was dead from strangulation.

MRS. TAFT IS INDISPOSED

Wife of the President Suffers Nervous Breakdown.

Washington, May 18.—Mrs. Taft, suffering from a slight nervous breakdown, was taken ill when on her way from this city to Mount Vernon on the yacht Sylph with a party of friends and was hurried back to the White House. It is said that there is no cause for alarm and that Mrs. Taft probably will be all right again in a few days. She was unable to be present at an official dinner at the White House.

MRS. W. H. TAFT.

Mrs. Taft's illness probably will not interfere with the president's trip to Petersburg, Va., and Charlotte, N. C., on Wednesday and Thursday, but Mrs. Taft will not accompany him.

STORM IN SOUTHWEST

Number of Persons Killed and Scores Are Injured.

Kansas City, May 15.—A recapitulation of the storm, general over Northwestern Missouri and Eastern and Central Kansas and extending into Oklahoma and which in places reached the proportions of a tornado, shows three known dead, six others missing and fifty-five injured.

The principal damage was done at Hollis, a town of 150 inhabitants near Concordia, Kan., and at Mount Washington, Mo., a suburb eight miles east of Kansas City. In both of these places practically every house was either damaged or demolished and dozens of persons injured.

Near Great Bend a tornado killed two and injured twenty. William Ackerly, a Santa Fe engineer, was killed, as was Frank Nicholson, a conductor. The tornado wrecked the work train of which Ackerly was the engineer and blew it into a ditch.

Many washouts demoralized railroad traffic.

MONTANA TOWNS ARE SHAKEN

Severe Earthquake Felt at a Number of Places.

Butte, Mont., May 15.—A score of Montana towns were shaken by an earthquake at 9 o'clock tonight.

At Glendive the tremors came with a rush of wind and frightened people rushed into the streets, thinking a tornado was coming. A crowd in the Masonic temple fled precipitately.

A stone wall at Helena was shaken down, dishes rattled and furniture was thrown about.

North Glasgow, Havre and Great Falls were severely shaken and the shock was felt as far east as Dickinson and Fryburg, N. D., where telegraphers were frightened from their posts.

Reports indicate that the quake affected a wide territory, extending from Southern Canada into the northwestern part of the States.

KILLS WIFE AND CHILDREN

Well-to-Do Illinois Farmer Then Ends His Own Life.

Boylesville, Ill., May 15.—Henry Williamson, a well-to-do farmer living two miles east of here, killed his wife and two little children and then committed suicide. The cause of the tragedy is not known. He arose early, got his revolver, stepped to the bedside of his wife and children and shot all of them while they were sleeping. He then poured kerosene on the floor and set it afire, after which he killed himself. A neighbor's girl was sleeping in the same room. She was not molested. She says that when Williamson shot his wife it awakened her and when she saw him pointing the gun at her little playmates, she covered her head and believes she was unnoticed.

OLD WAGES TO BE RESTORED

Steel Company Employes to Be Paid Former Scale.

Youngstown, O., May 15.—Employes of the Republic Iron and Steel company have received notice that a readjustment of wages will be made June 1. While the terms of the readjustment are not given it is believed the men will be again placed on the scale in force prior to the 10 per cent reduction of April 1. About 4,000 men are affected locally. It is thought here the readjustment will be general in the Republic plants.

LAUNCH IS SUNK

Overcrowded Boat Lost In Ohio River Near Pittsburg.

TWENTY MEN ARE DROWNED.

Only Ten of the Passengers Known to Have Escaped.

Pittsburg, May 12.—Twenty men are known to have been drowned when a gasoline launch sank in the middle of the Ohio river near Schoenville, four miles below Pittsburg. Of the thirty occupants of the boat only ten escaped.

All the men were employes of the Pressed Steel company at the McKees Rocks plant. The men had been working overtime and left the works to cross the river in the launch. The boat is said to have been intended for not more than twenty persons and it is said it was dangerous to attempt to carry as many as twenty-five. But thirty men crowded in and when the boat reached the middle of the stream, where the water is twenty feet deep, it suddenly sank.

There was no explosion, no leak was sprung, but the boat simply sank beneath the weight. As it sank it caused a suction which took many of the men down with it. Others attempted to swim ashore, but were chilled by the cold water and became exhausted.

John Deer, who lives on the bank of the river and heard cries for help, went out in a skiff and saved nine lives. Part of that number of men he put into his boat, while others held to the side of it and were rowed ashore. One man swam to the bank and was saved.

SCORE KILLED BY DYNAMITE

Terrific Explosion in a Stone Quarry Near Albany, N. Y.

Albany, N. Y., May 13.—At least twenty men were killed by a premature blast of dynamite in a stone quarry operated by the Callanan Road Improvement company near South Bethlehem, eleven miles southwest of Albany.

One thousand pounds of dynamite exploded, and the bodies of the victims were hurled hundreds of feet by the concussion and so badly mutilated as to be almost beyond recognition.

The Callanan Road Improvement company furnishes crushed stone for road building. The preparations for the blast had been going on for six weeks. Thirteen holes, seventy-five feet deep, had been drilled at points about twenty feet back of the face of the big quarry, and the explosion of the dynamite with which they were to be loaded was expected to displace 40,000 tons of rock.

The workmen had placed 500-pound charges in six of the holes and were working on the seventh when a percussion cap was prematurely discharged. A terrific explosion followed which hurled tons of rock into the air and scattered bodies of the victims in all directions.

MEANS THREE YEARS' PEACE

Arbitration Agreement Binds All Union Men of Great Falls.

Great Falls, Mont., May 15.—An arbitration agreement of far reaching importance to this community was finally agreed to by the central labor body of this city and through its operation no labor disputes are likely to arise in Great Falls for the next three years.

This agreement, which was offered by the Cascade County Trades and Labor assembly to the board of commerce, representing the employing and business interests of the city, and including 21,000 union men, provides that for the next three years there shall be no increase or reduction of wages; that employers signing it shall employ union labor and that all disputes shall be submitted to a board of arbitration.

RIVAL COMMITTEES ON HAND

Columbus (O.) Democrats Anxious to Entertain Bryan.

Columbus, O., May 15.—Two rival committees with automobiles were at the Union station when William J. Bryan arrived here. The board of trade committee was represented by former Congressman Lentz, who, with former Sheriff George Karb, got hold of Bryan as he emerged from his car and escorted him to an automobile before the committee from the Jefferson club saw him. Bryan was taken to National Committeeman Harvey Garber's home.

VICTIM OF AN AUTO WRECK

Former Lieutenant Governor Riddle of Kansas Killed.

Salina, Kan., May 13.—A. P. Riddle, former lieutenant governor of Kansas, was killed near here in an automobile accident.

Mr. Riddle was on a pleasure trip, accompanied by a party of four. The machine struck an embankment at a point five miles north of Salina, throwing the three occupants of the rear seat into a ditch. Mr. Riddle struck on his head and lived but an hour.

The world was made for all to use but in using our share we have no right to make a slave of our brother.

To help a neighbor who can return the favor is not charity. Charity consists only of helping the fellow from whom you can expect no favors in return.

An eastern professor bemoans the fact that there is no monument to the memory of Adam. Had we been in Adam's place, our conscience would trouble us so much that we would not want to be so recognized. The sins of the present world are monument enough to the man who would let a woman tempt him to eat the forbidden fruit.

The county commissioners are called to meet today to issue and sell $35000 worth of 6 per cent bonds with which to build a court house in our county. So long as the proposition of the location of the county seat is still a question we are of the opinion that no money belonging to the poor taxpayer should be thrown away just to please any one bunch or locality. Let the question first be fairly decided on its merits and then if you please we shall vote 'yes' on the proposition of building a courthouse without regard for the town in which it will be located.

Last Monday we received a list of the lands to be sold during the month of June in the different counties by the State. It is very gratifying to note that of the counties lying as far north as ours does there is not one that does not exceed ours in the amount of acerage to be sold by the State. This is doubly gratifying when we take into consideration that all the state lands that are any good have been purchased before and that only the scraps remain together with such lands as have reverted back to the state by reason of the non-payment of taxes. Our county is extremely fortunate in having scarcely any land reverting back to the state by reason of failure to pay the taxes.

In the death of John B. O'Brien, Red Lake County loses an excellent official, a perfect county auditor and a man who was not afraid of the "interests" and did his duty in the face of strong inducements to do otherwise. Elected to the office, more on account of the fact that he was a partizan of the Thief River Falls cause than that he might prove a good man for the office, he excelled the ambitions of his friends and established a reputation for fairness and honesty. His genial nature, his pleasing and courteous treatment of all those who transacted business in his office, have paved the way for many a touching comment, notable for their sincerity. His loss is hard to bear and his death is regretted by many a resident of the county.

June 20th, 1909, marks the fifth anniversary of the opening of the famous Eleven Towns. The change is most remarkable and the five years that have passed have been an improvement in the northern part of the state. May 15th was also the 13th anniversary of the opening of the old reservation. Where once the Indian roamed in the glories of his freedom, now are grazing the heards of hundreds of thrifty and prosperous farmers, made so by the action of the United States government in opening these lands for sale. Few, if any, of the settlers regret the taking of the homesteads and if there are any who do regret the action, it is due more to the fact that they purchased the farms for speculation, than that the land was not fitted for agricultural purposes.

Mr. President and Members of the Village Council:—

The Plummer Pioneer rises to move that you, as the executive head of the village of Plummer, do designate a certain week within the next month as Clean-Up Week, and that you also urge the residents of this village to do all in their power to beautify the municipality. In view of the fact that Governor Johnson this year overlooked the designation of Arbor Day, it has devolved on many of the cities to name their own time and it is generally known as Clean-Up Week. Though not really bad, the appearance of this place is not at its best and it is our opinion that a raking up would be a great big benefit. Let's all get together and push this motion through, and in the end we will have a village that will please the eye of more than one transient over its border. Is there any second to the motion?

In our last week's issue we published an announcement from the government land office to the effect that all settlers on the Eleven Towns who have not made all the payments due will be required to do so within the next sixty days. It appears to us that this action was taken by the general land office in view of the fact that there are some of the settlers who have made only their first payment; and not only that but they had stated that they had no intention of making any further payments but would let the matter go by default. Thus it is due to the perverseness and stubbornness of a few that a large number are required to live up to the strict letter of the law. It has also been suggested to us that it was brought on by the bankers and money lenders who are anxious to get their money out on interest. This also is an absolutely false notion. We know personally that there was not a single banker in this city who knew that any such announcement was to be made or notice issued until it was in the hands of the printers and to most of them it was as much of a surprise when it appeared in the paper as it was to the settlers twenty miles out.

Red Lake Falls, Minn., May 17—P. F. Pouliot, assistant cashier of the Merchants State Bank, and Miss Alvina Lizatte, a popular young woman of this city, were united in marriage at St. Joseph's church. Rev. E. Fayolle officiating. They left for the west for an extended wedding trip.—Duluth Herald.

WILL ASK FOR EXTRA SESSION

Northern Counties Plan Petition Urging Need of Re-apportionment.

According to Harry S. Ives of St. Hilaire a monster petition is to be sent from northern Minnesota to Governor John A. Johnson, asking him to call a special session of the legislature to pass a legislative reapportionment bill. Mr. Ives was at the state capitol today and said the movement was already under way. He was a republican candidate for the house last fall in the district composed of Beltrami, Red Lake and Clearwater counties.

"We think the only chance for northern Minnesota to get justice in legislative representation is a special session called for the purpose" said Mr. Ives today. "There will be a federal census next year, but the result will not be out in time for the legislature of 1911 to use it for a basis of apportionment. Southern Minnesota will put us off again on the pretext that we must wait for the federal census. So it will go on year after year, unless the legislature's duty is brought up to it by a call for a special session. Our district has six times the population of some in southern Minnesota, even going by the 1905 census. A petition will soon be circuiated and will be signed by thousands of voters in northern Minnesota. Governor Johnson has called attention to the unjust condition of affairs, and I think it the public demand is made strong enough for reapportionment, he will make the call for the special session."—Minneapolis Journal.

This is one time when Harry Ives is certainly right. We cannot, judging by the action of the lately adjourned legislature, expect to get any more representation than we have at present for at least four years more. We have done everything in the way of urging and coaxing that we can do to get reapportionment of our state as to legislative representation. Now we see no easier, safer or more feaseable way of getting our just representation for at least four more years than to have a special session of the legislature called for the purpose of considering this proposition. We are certain that every voter in Red Lake county would sign a petition for a special session and we feel that all our neighboring counties, none of which are better represented than we are, would be glad to join in a a petition of this nature. It is absolutely wrong that the older counties in the southern part of the state should have from three to five times as many members in the legislature as we have for the same number of population.

Successful Sunday Journalism.

For several years the newspaper readers of the West have watched with interest the unique experiment embodied in the Sunday Magazine of The Chicago Record-Herald. The time has now come when it is no longer an experiment, but a sound and prospering success. Nothing else of the kind in newspaperdom can compare for a moment with this remarkable supplement.

The Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald is a real magazine, full of stories and articles by the best living writers, illustrated by eminent artists and carrying on its cover each week a masterpiece of color work.

Its prestige is now such that it can compete with the big monthlies for the most costly fiction in the market, sometimes paying as high as $25,000 for a single serial, as it did for Conan Doyle's "Sir Nigel." It captured Anthony Hope's "Sophy of Kravonia" when every other magazine in the country wanted the story. The most popular tale of humor now appearing in the United States—those of the inimitable Shorty McCabe—have been published exclusively in the Sunday Magazine of The Record-Herald from the start.

Its high literary quality has been steadily maintained and has "won-out". You will find one of the best novels of the day running serially in its columns at the present moment. It is not strange that hundreds of thousands of readers prefer The Sunday Record-Herald to all other papers.

A true friend will not ask you to do things which he would not do himself.

The saw mill of the S-P-K Lumber company at this place, will start its seasons work on Monday morning, if present plans materialize as expected. Dated at Plummer, Minn., May 22, 1909.—Board of Health.

Date Is June 9th.

A farmers' Institute is to be held at Plummer on Wednesday, June 9th, commencing at 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Prof. Wm. Robertson of the Crookston School of Agriculture, will be in charge of the institute and will be assisted by Mrs. Ida E. Tilson of West Salem, Wis., O. A. Storvick of the Dairy and Food department, and Supt. T. A. Erickson of Alexandria. All matters pertaining to farming in this part of the state will be ably discussed by the speakers and the farmers of this vicinity will miss a good thing if they fail to attend. Further announcements will be given next week.

Board Is Restrained.

The county board of commissioners were, on Saturday last, served with a restraining order by Court Commissioner S. T. Johnson, commanding them to appear before his lordship at Thief River Falls today, and to show cause why an injunction should not be issued, restraining them from issuing the $35,000 bonds for the erection of a new court house. The order was issued at the request of the Thief River Falls attorneys and practically means that the new building will not be erected this year. The matter will no doubt be carried through to the supreme court. The board also appointed—or hired—Atty. Boughton of Red Lake Falls, to represent them in the coming legal battles, despite the fact that the tax-payers are now paying the salary of one attorney and that one is County Attorney Michelet.

The board also decided to take a trip around the state with a view of "investigating the court houses in other counties." Commissioner Shaw refused to go on the junket, while Chairman Lindquist expressed himself as being very much in favor of taking the trip at the expense of the county's tax-payers.

He's Very Generous.

Of six applicants for citizen papers at Crookston, recently three of them were refused admission to citizinship because they did not understand the English language. All questions are asked in the streight U. S. language and you are not allowed to have them interpreted, and if you can not understand the questions and answer them you will not get your papers. We will exchange a limited amout of America talk for grubbing and brush cuting. If any young man will grub on our farm during the day we will talk English to him at night.--Sunbeam.

A Big Deal.

A deal was closed on Tuesday by which the Church Lumber & Coal Co., of Des Moines, Iowa, became the possessors of practically all the posts and poles of tee S-P-K Lumber Co. at this place. The Church company was represented by W. C. Church and the invoice calls for the delivery of 25,000 posts and 5000 poles This is one of the largest deals put through by the local company and is evidence that it is by no means a small concern.

Closing A Successful Year.

On Thursday of next week, the village schools will close for the summer vacation, and a very successful nine months term will come to a close. The closing exercises will consist of a picnic, given by the ladies, in the yard near the school Thursday afternoon. The following report of the year ending June 3, shows the very commendable results attending the efforts of the teacher, Miss Caldwell:

We Don't Doubt It.

The shaking of the buildings, rattling of the dishes or vibration of the telephone wires that you may have noticed at about 10:30 last Saturday night was caused by an earthquake shock. There was a quite heavy shock at Winnipig that night.

Many people felt the shock, among them Rev. Fr. Fayolle. Father Fayolle says there is no doubt that it was a slight earthquake shock. He has experienced similar sensations many times. In Africa where he was at one time stationed, slight shocks like that felt Saturday night were of frequent occurance.

All Figured Out.

The following from the Sunbeam, and told in Bro. Hunt's inimitable way, apparently states the situation as it could be. It's now up to the several officials to make Hunt's outline come true.

"The petition to divide Red Lake country has been fild with the secietary of state, and there it reman until three months before the next general election, then the governor nor issues his proclamation ordering it to be voted on at that election. Then it is placed on the ballots and if it gets a majority of the votes cast it carries. If there are more no's than yeses the proposition is defeated and if it gets more yeses than no's it carries. Then the law suit starts and it goes up to supream court, and they set the whole business aside, the same as they did Columbia county. There can be no special election called to vote on it."

J. B. Lynch, of Lillo, was in Plummer Friday calling on friends

Mill Is Running.

The S-P-K Lumber Company's mill started for the season Monday morning and is now cutting between 8000 and 10,000 feet daily. About twenty men are employed at present, but more will be added to the force later. The engine installed last week by Supt. Everritt, proved to be too light for the work and on this account the daily cut is not as large as desired. The trouble about the Clearwater Lake dam, which has been in court for several months, has been settled and no more inconvenience is expected from that source. The S-P-K people now have the privilege of using the dam to float their logs down the river, and as soon as rains come to raise the water, the second log drive will be brought down.

Entered at the Post-office in Plummer, Minn. as Second Class Mail Matter.

The price of May wheat on the floors of the Boards of Trade in the larger cities, is soaring high this week. $1.35¼ was the price recorded at any time, with every prospect of a further advance. The farmer with a few hundred bushels left, if there are any, is as independent as John D. Rockefeller.

The practice indulged in by some residents of Plummer, in allowing their stock to run at large, day and night, must be stopped. A careful perusal of the state law, governing "Estrays" and "Pond Masters," ought to be reason enough. Most people hate to wake up in the middle of the night with the idea that they are sleeping in a cow barn.

We are now positive that Spring is here. The sound of the kid's whistle is heard on every hand, combined with the song-birds notes of satisfaction. It won't be long before the bare-foot boys's two-finger sign of a daily bath, will be as much in evidence as his skates were two months ago. The combining of the Crookston Times and Journal, ends the life of a paper, at one time, the leading daily in the northwest, but which has of late years, slowly declined in its popularity. The new times, should be able to satisfy the ordinary business man who reads as daily for the efficiency of its daily news service.

According to Hunt's Sunbeam "The contract has been let to build the new Red Lake county courthouse at Red Lake Falls, and it is to be completed and all ready to move into in the fall."(!!) We can't understand how a newspaper man, residing in such a big town as Sunbeam, and editing such a popular sheet as he does could possibly be as far behind the times as Mr. Hunt. "To be completed!" Why, the building is finished, occupied and the bonds already paid $30,000 worth of bonds, too. The magnificent building, constructed out of the finest marble and granite, decorated in the latest and most ellegant style, has been so favorably commented upon, by the hundreds of visitors who have come thousands of miles to see it, that Red Lake Falls, and the county, too, has achieved a world wide reputation. But, gentle reader, our comment is just as much of a pipe dream as Mr. Hunt's astounding statement. And we don't smoke Peerless, either.

Precedent rules the U. S. Senate regardless of whether that precedent is right or wrong. In this respect that Honorable body—do we need to apologize for calling it thus? has decided that they are inferior to the humblest school-boy in the land. Every boy in all Uncle Sam's wide domain has some new idea that he wishes to inculcate into his surroundings. Not so with the U. S. Senate. There everything must follow the laws of precedent and if any young senator dares to open his head and suggest any new thing he is promptly squelched according to the dictates of the law of precedent. If these would be solons, put such a derogetory estimation on their own ability of forming good and substancial rules and regulations as this would indicate we believe that it is high time for us all to rise to a point of order and send in a few aggressive school-boys and return the old fogies to their former occupations where their practices of precedent will at least harm no one but themselves.

Farmers May Ask These Questions.

In the daily work on the farm many things happen that we cannot quite understand. We ask first one party then another and each usually gives us a different answer.

Many questions come to our minds about agriculture that we would like to have explained. How to feed roots; how to keep boys and girls on the farm; the hired man question; how to test our seed; how to grade up our cows; the best methods to follow in various work; the latest ideas in building and co-operation, and a thousand other every day questions. All of the above you have the privilege of asking at the Farmers' Institute, and will be answered by men who are paid by the state for knowing how to answer them. At Thief River Falls, June 15th'

FIRST FLOWING WELL ON THE RESERVATION

The Kratka Creamery is Favored Spot - - Water Flows into Tank on Second Story.

Last week a most striking discovery was made on the Eleven Towns. It has generally been supposed that a flowing well could not be found anywhere in this vast territory due to the fact that the land is at such a high altitude and also on account of the exceptionally dense strata of clay or hardpan that was found without interruption to a depth of a hundred feet or more.

While Emil Sedlacek was drilling a well for the Kratka Farmers' Co-Operative Creamery Association last Friday he dropped into a watervein at a depth of 208 feet that immediately caused the water to begin overflowing his casings. He attached the slush pump and after having given the well a thorough cleansing found that the 5⅝ inch casing at a distance of two feet above the surface was pouring forth a stream that meant 150 barrels per day. He declares that the pressure is so great that there is no question but that the water will readily flow into a tank in the second story. The water was also given a thorough test and was found to be considerably softer than the river water. All of these qualities tend to make this one of the most valuable wells in Red Lake County.

The people in the vicinity of Kratka certainly have good reasons for feeling elated over these results inasmuch as they have good prospects of having not only a good reliable well at their creamery for all time to come but every farmer is now looking anxiously forward to the day when he will have his own flowing well with an automatic lawn sprinkler and a nice little brook trickling down through the pasture.

MORE CUTE WORK BY COMMISSIONERS

County Fathers Appoint Own Attorney - - Will Make Expensive Junket.

Last Saturday, May 22nd, the board of county commissioners met at the auditor's office in response to their own call to issue and sell bonds with the proceeds of which to build a court house. For once they were detained from so doing by an alternative commanding them to appear before Court Commissioner S. T. Johnson in this city on the 29th to show cause why an injunction, restraining them from issuing these bonds, should not issue.

The board, finding themselves baffled in this attempt to put a burden on the shoulders of every taxpayer of the county, seem to have been determined on getting on just as big a load as they possibly could get on the poor taxpayers' back. Note what they did:

They hired Charles E. Boughton of Red Lake Falls to represent the board in all the proceedings at law in which this injunction case should be carried. And this in spite of the fact that the state law already provides them with a legal advisor and one who is elected and paid by the people to do their bidding. This they did even though County Attorney Michelet stood ready and willing to proceed at their commands.

Formerly the board has allowed Attorneys Boughton and Grady to act for them when these gentlemen were willing to do so without remuneration; but now although Mr. Boughton stated explicitly that he would not do it without pay, they hired him to do all the work he could pick up and THE TAXPAYER WILL HAVE TO FOOT THE BILL.

This was not enough. They are becoming weary of staying on their farms and would like to have a little outing. In order to be able to do this at the county's expense they passed a motion to the effect that the court house committee was to take a little junket over the state and look over various court houses and decide on which one has the most extravagant construction, for the mate to this we must have in Red Lake County if our present board is allowed to rule. Mr. Shaw declined the offer to go and Mr. Lindquist immediately expressed his willingness to take this pleasure trip at the taxpayers expense.

Now what is this junket for, and of what benefit can it be to the people who shall pay for it? Do these county commissioners intend to travel so extensively and study the matter so thoroughly that they may become more practical architects than a man who could be hired for a small sum? If this is what the county dads are figuring on the Press would like to suggest that it is rather hard "to teach an old dog new tricks" and they should not have neglected their training to this late date.

Then it would seem far more profitable for the county to send the next set of county commissioners to the school of fine building arts, than to educate this set; for these are very much liable to be dead and buried and their bones crumbled into dust before Red Lake County has a court house the drawing of which could not easily be made by any carpenter in the country. What do you think, Mr. Taxpayer? Are you satisfied with paying taxes for the support of the schools to educate your boys and girls or do you want to start a traveling school for our county commissioners? And mark you they have a right to charge not only the actual expenses of the traveling but the legal rate of ten cents a mile for every mile covered. Thus for instance if the committee takes a notion that it should inspect the court house at Minneapolis it will cost each of them less than $15 to do so but they will be entitled to over $60 in mileage each and their regular daily pay. At this rate, would you like to be a member of the junket committee?—Thief River Press.

DEFENDANTS ON THE STAND

Madden, Pouchot and Boyle Testify in Their Own Behalf.

Chicago, May 25.—Martin B. Madden, F. A. Pouchot and M. J. Boyle, labor leaders charged with conspiracy to extort, occupied the witness stand in their behalf in Judge McSurely's court. Their testimony dealt in detail with legitimate causes for calling a strike on the Joseph Klicka company's plant, and was vigorous and unanimous to the effect that no money had been paid, as charged, to settle the trouble.

George S. Andre's statement that he had at Madden's direction laid $1,000 on a desk in a private room in a saloon was flatly contradicted by Madden. Asked about Andre's visit, Madden said that there were a number of labor men present at the bar when it occurred, and that Andre stayed about ten minutes.

"Did you have any drinks?" he was asked.

"Yes, they all had something, but I wasn't drinking at the time."

"Did he come in alone?"

"Yes, and went out alone."

"Did you at any time retire to a private room with him."

"No."

"Did he give you $1,000, or any money whatsoever?"

"No."

The testimony of Boyle and Pouchot corroborated that of their chief.

HENEY INVADES DEFENSE'S CAMP

Gets Witnesses From Party He Is Prosecuting.

San Francisco, May 25.—Francis J. Heney, prosecutor of Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railroads, on a bribery charge, went into the camp of the defense for several of his witnesses during the day.

It appeared that the state was approaching the end of its long roll of witnesses and hopes were expressed that another fortnight would end the trial, which has entered on its twentieth week.

The afternoon's session was devoted to the examination of Thomas B. Gibson, a detective in the employ of the United Railroads; of George R. Francis, secretary of the company's legal department, and of Luther Brown, a Los Angeles attorney.

Mr. Heney asked Gibson to explain his part in the investigation of the dynamite explosion that wrecked the Oakland home of James L. Gallagher, one of the chief witnesses for the prosecution.

Mr. Heney's questions carried many charges that Gibson denied, but the witness admitted that he had been directed to look into the affair by Thornwell Mullalley, assistant to Mr. Calhoun. When asked what he discovered, Gibson said:

"I found that two men were arrested and held in Oakland for a couple of weeks and that one had bought ten pounds of dynamite. His name was Wilhelm and I suppose he was working for William J. Burns."

"What report of the matter did you make to William M. Abbott?" asked Heney.

"I told him I thought Burns and Wilhelm had a hand in it and that the explosion was brought about to create a feeling against Mr. Calhoun," said the witness.

"Did you think Burns wanted to kill Gallagher?" asked the prosecutor.

"I did not," replied Gibson. "I had reason to believe the people who lived in the house were all in the back yard by arrangement when the explosion occurred."

Mr. Heney asked Gibson if he had not attempted to interfere with Burns when the latter returned from the East and began an investigation of the dynamiting. The defense objected and Mr. Heney declared an attempt was made to silence Gallagher by assassinating him, and that agents of the United Railroads were instrumental in the effort to suppress evidence of crime.

LOCAL POLITICS BLAMED

Clerk Shot by Private Detective in Cincinnati.

Cincinnati, May 25.—At Vine street and Garfield Place, in the crowded downtown district, James Meyers, a clerk in the city auditor's office, was shot by Albert Maley, a private detective. His condition is precarious. Robert Cleary, who was with Meyers, was stabbed in the eye by some one in a party accompanying Meyers, who was arrested. The trouble is said to have been the result of a previous encounter on Sunday between the same parties, differences growing out of local politics being behind it.

Tacks Spoil Foot Race.

Winnipeg, Man., May 25.—A despicable trick was played on Acoose, the Manitoba Indian, in his fifteen-mile race with Appleby of England. The race was run in a rink, and someone sprinkled tacks on the course, and as the Indian ran in moccasins he started to gather them in. He was leading by a lap in the fourth mile when he stopped to pick the tacks out, losing three laps. Appleby, running in rubber shoes, did not gather any in. The Indian gave up in the ninth mile with bleeding feet, four laps behind, and Appleby finished alone.

Senate Kills McCumber's Free Lumber Amendment.

DOLLIVER DESERTS COMRADES

Opposes Progressive Position on Pending Schedule.

Washington, May 25.—No single piece of lumber was ever used more effectually as a seesaw by children than was the great lumber industry by the United States senate. The lumber schedule of the tariff bill was under consideration almost the entire day with Senators Root, Heyburn, Borah and Dolliver contending on the one hand for a protection for the industry, and Senators Clapp, Burkett and McCumber arguing as strenuously against that policy. The day closed with more than a two-thirds vote against Senator McCumber's free lumber amendment, the ballot showing 25 for and 56 against.

The surprise of the day was the attitude of Senator Dolliver, who heretofore has stood with the "progressives" throughout the present tariff fight. He took positive position against the radical demand for free lumber, but expressed the opinion that the industry would not suffer from a reduction of the Dingley rates.

COPYRIGHT BY HARRIS & EWING

SENATOR DOLLIVER.

Early in the day, Senator Owen made a sharp attack upon the present tariff on sugar, saying that it led to frauds by a "trust," and still earlier Senator Aldrich introduced a resolution providing for an investigation of expenditures of the various legislative departments.

ALDRICH IS TURNED DOWN

Senate Refuses to Set Date for Vote on Tariff Bill.

Washington, May 22.—Senator Aldrich made good his promise to try to get a day named for taking the final vote on the tariff bill. He named Wednesday, June 2, as his preference. He did not get it. His request for a ballot on that day covered not only the bill, but all amendments then pending. There was prompt objection from both the Democratic and Republican sides of the chamber.

Senator Daniel at once recorded his objection and Senator Cummins joined him. As unanimous consent is necessary there was nothing for Mr. Aldrich to do but submit. This he did with the best grace possible.

In replying to an inquiry by Mr. Hale Mr. Aldrich said the senate had disposed of a majority of the paragraphs that had been disputed. Mr. Aldrich stated he would later renew his request for unanimous consent for a time to vote.

IN BATTLE WITH BURGLAR

Mayor Carmody of Cedar Rapids, Ia., Dangerously Wounded.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., May 24.—A series of sensational burglaries came to a climax here when an unknown thief shot and dangerously wounded Mayor John T. Carmody. Previous to entering Carmody's house the burglar robbed Father J. J. Toomey's home, covering the priest with a revolver. While the police were investigating the Toomey affair the bandit entered the Carmody home, two blocks distant. The mayor grappled with the intruder and was shot in the abdomen. Carmody continued to fight, but finally fell exhausted at the bottom of the stairs, while his assailant escaped.

STEAMER RUNS DOWN TUG

Two Lives Lost and a Third Person Missing.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 24.—Two, and perhaps three, lives were lost in a collision between the steamer Western States of the Detroit and Buffalo Navigation company and the tug Princeton in the harbor off the United States lifesaving station. The two men drowned were firemen on the Princeton. The tug's engineer is missing.

Captain James Sullivan of the Princeton escaped by swimming to the lifesaving dock.

CASE AROUSES GREAT INTEREST

Supreme Court to Punish Six Men for Contempt.

RESULT OF NEGRO LYNCHING

Tennessee Sheriff, a Deputy Sheriff and Four Other Men Declared by Highest Court in the Land to Be Guilty of an Act of Contempt in Combining in a Conspiracy to Lynch a Negro After Tribunal Had Granted Him an Appeal.

Washington, May 25.—For the first time in so serious a case, the supreme court of the United States will, on next Tuesday, undertake to mete out punishment for the crime of contempt of the court itself, and the importance of the occasion will be enhanced by the number of defendants.

The proceeding will take place in connection with the cases of Sheriff Shipp and Deputy Sheriff Gibson of Hamilton county, Tennessee, and of four other residents of that county, Williams, Nolan, Pagett and May. These men were declared by the court to be guilty of an act of contempt in combining in 1905 in a conspiracy to lynch a negro named Johnson, who had been sentenced to death by the local courts on the charge of rape and in whose case the supreme court had interfered to the extent of granting an appeal, which had the effect of a supersedeas. On the night following the announcement of the court's action, Johnson was taken out of the jail in Chattanooga by a mob and lynched. There was no resistance on the part of the jail authorities, and Shipp and a number of his deputies, as well as about twenty citizens, were proceeded against on the charge of contempt of the federal court.

The case has been pending ever since, and the number of defendants was from time to time reduced to nine. Of these nine, three were found guiltless, while the other six were ordered to be brought into court next Tuesday for sentence. They will be taken into custody immediately and will appear in court in charge of Marshal Wright. The sentence may be either fine or imprisonment, or both.

The case is regarded as of exceptional interest because it is practically the first time that the highest court in the United States has ever undertaken to assert its dignity or to resent acts or words reflecting upon it.

IN FEAR OF MOB VIOLENCE

Sheriff Removes Negro Murderer From Hospital to Jail.

Lima, O., May 25.—Rumors that a mob was forming with the intention of lynching John W. Beam, a negro attorney under arrest here on the charge of murdering Mrs. Maude Diltz Sunday night, caused Sheriff Can Gunten to remove his prisoner from the city hospital to the county jail. Beam was escorted to jail under a heavy guard.

Beam is now in the strongest cell in the jail and a strong guard is being maintained about him. Officers on guard have been instructed to fire upon the first person who attempts to molest him.

The sheriff has received a report that the murdered woman's grandfather, Evens Atkinson, has threatened to avenge the murder, and that hundreds of his friends have expressed their willingness to aid in storming the jail and lynching Beam.

Dr. U. S. Beam, a brother of the prisoner and a wealthy citizen of Lima, closed his office and left for his old home in Kentucky. Negroes urged him to leave as they feared he might be lynched if he remained. Feeling ran high against him. Dr. Beam's wife is a white woman.

Physicians say the self-inflicted wounds of Beam will not prove fatal.

GEORGIA NEGRO LYNCHED

Taken From Jail by a Posse and Hanged.

Lincolton, Ga., May 25.—Albert Aiken, a negro, who wounded John Spires, a white farmer, near here last Thursday, was hanged by a posse of about 100 men. Aiken was in jail here and shortly after midnight the posse broke into the jail, seized the negro and carried him into the country.

His body was found marked by bullet holes and bearing this placard:

"Notice—This what will happen to all negroes in Lincoln county under similar circumstances."

KILLED WHILE AT PRAYER

Missourian Shot by Brother of Man He had Killed.

Kennett, Mo., May 25.—While kneeling in prayer at church services at Europa schoolhouse, Henry Culp was shot and killed by his brother-in-law, Charles Champ, eighteen years old.

A posse headed by the sheriff is searching for Champ.

Culp killed Harry Champ, brother of the slayer, last August after having been driven from home by the Champ brothers. He was acquitted.

BIG AREA OPENED

Proclamation Issued by President Taft.

REGISTRATION BEGINS IN JULY

Lands Are Located in Montana, Idaho and Washington.

Washington, May 22.—President Taft has issued a proclamation providing for the opening up to settlement and entry of about 440,000 acres of land in the Flathead (Mont.), 200,000 in the Coeur d'Alene (Ida.) and between 50,000 and 100,000 in the Spokane (Wash.) reservations.

Registration, which will commence on July 15 and close Aug. 5, must be executed and sworn to at either Kalispell or Missoula, Mont., for the Flathead land; at Spokane for the Spokane land and at Coeur d'Alene for the lands in the Coeur d'Alene reservation. Applications for registration must be delivered through the mails only to the superintendent of the opening at Coeur d'Alene, which will be the point of drawing for all three reservations. The drawing will begin at 10 o'clock Aug. 9 and will continue until completed. The time for making entries has been fixed as April 10, 1910, for all reservations in order to enable the successful applicants to make personal investigation of the lands which will be subject to entry.

Regulations regarding the opening of the lands will be available about June 1.

PARIS STRIKE AT AN END

General Federation of Labor Admits Defeat.

Paris, May 22.—The curtain was rung down upon the general strike amid recriminations by the leaders, who tried to throw the responsibility for the failure upon each other and the defeated postal employes. The end came when a few hundred laborers voted to resume work. The general federation of labor then threw up the sponge and issued a manifesto in which they seek to cover up their retreat, explaining that the postal employes were over confident of the success of their second strike, "which everything shows was prepared and instigated by the government, which was desirous of an opportunity for avenging itself against the leaders of the first strike."

With the surrender of the general federation of labor the strike of the postmen, which already had practically ended, collapsed entirely and the few men who were still on strike decided to return to their offices and try to secure their old positions. The postmen and a few other unions are now raising a fund from which to give the dismissed postal employes $30 a month until they can obtain other employment.

RACE LINE FIXED BY COURT

Ruling Makes Negroes Inferior to White Men.

New York, May 22.—A negro and a white man do not suffer equal humiliation in the eyes of law for false arrest, according to the appellate division of the supreme court, which sustained an order of Justice Dugro of the supreme court reducing the amount of damages awarded George Griffin, a Pullman porter, from $2,500 to $300.

The negro was arrested in Montreal charged with stealing a pocketbook, but the charge was not substantiated and he was released.

He brought suit against Daniel H. Brady, a New York manufacturer, who caused his arrest.

BIG COKE MERGER PLANNED

New York Interests Behind Proposed $70,000,000 Merger.

The amount involved in the deal is said to amount to between $65,000,000 and $70,000,000.

IN FAVOR OF INDEPENDENCE

Final Act of the Philippine General Assembly.

Four Children Burned to Death.

Toronto, Ont., May 21.—The four children of Ernest Oldfield were burned to death as the result of the explosion of a lamp in their home. The victims were aged one, three, five and seven years. The mother and nine-year-old son escaped by jumping from a window, but were badly burned.

JOHNSON DENIES INTERVIEW

Did Not Make Statements Quoted by Bailey.

St. Paul, May 21.—Governor John A. Johnson, when asked if he had read the statement made in the United States senate by Senator Bailey of Texas, in which Mr. Bailey criticised the governor for making alleged untruthful statements in regard to the minority in the senate in its attitude toward the tariff bill, said:

"So far as Mr. Bailey is concerned I do not care to make any denial of the charges he makes, but I do care to have other senators in the South know that I did not make the statement that the railways of the South influenced any of the Southern senators. Nor did I make any statement reflecting on any senator from the South or any other section.

"I did say that the Republican party would be held responsible for the result of the extra session and could not screen itself with the co-operation of a few Democrats acting with the conservative Republican element of the senate."

HOPKINS GAINS FEW VOTES

Still a Dozen Short of Number Necessary for Election.

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—On the ninetieth joint ballot for United States senator Senators Brown, Jones, Olson and Schmitt, who have been voting for Congressman Foss, changed to former Senator Hopkins. Senator Jones said Hopkins should receive the sincere support of the Republican legislators. Then if Hopkins could not be elected the Republican legislators should select and elect another candidate.

On the house roll call five representatives who have been voting for Foss changed to the Hopkins column. They were Representatives Hagan, Hamilton, Hull, Mills and Pierson. Hopkins received 87 votes, this being twelve short of a majority of those present and voting.

WHEAT STILL HIGHER

Sensational Advance in Price of All Active Options.

Chicago, May 24.—Wheat prices advanced sensationally on the board of trade, gains ranging from 1¾ cents in July to 2¾ in September. May wheat, the medium of the Patten operations, and the other active options, July, September and December, all established new high record prices, which were well held at the close. The best prices of the day were May, $1.34¼; July, $1.19¼; September, $1.12, and December, $1.09¾.

The relatively unimportant rise in July was due to the fact that that option was sold out by traders, who transferred their deals to September and December. There was evidence that December was bought on a huge scale by a prominent bull.

The excitement of the day was based on startling reports of prospective crop shortages in Kansas and Oklahoma. One authority declared that the two states combined would not produce more than 60,000,000 bushels. A private wire from Kansas City stated that flour mills were increasing their warehouse capacities in order to store more wheat, thus preventing its being shipped out.

These and other items of similar import aroused bullish enthusiasm fully the equal of any during the height of the Patten operations in May wheat.

FATAL FLOODS IN OKLAHOMA

Five Persons Drowned and Ten Seriously Injured.

Oklahoma City, May 25.—Five people are dead, at least ten seriously injured, several thousand acres of crops are inundated and every stream in the northern and eastern part of the state is raging as a result of almost unprecedented rains in the past twenty-four hours in Oklahoma. A number of houses have been washed away. The dead are:

Mrs. W. W. Brown and three children of Foraker; Mrs. Hattie Jones, negro.

Railroad tracks near Shawnee, Holdenville, Tulsa, Pawnee, Muskogee, Vinita and Oklahoma City are in bad condition, and sections of track are washed out. Bridges are unsafe along the Arkansas, Cimarron and Canadian rivers and traffic is generally delayed.

ATTRACTS LITTLE ATTENTION

Moving of $500,000,000 in Cash and Securities.

New York, May 22.—Without attracting more than the usual curiosity of pedestrians employes of the Knickerbocker Trust company moved more than $500,000,000 cash, stocks, bonds and securities from the former quarters of the institution at 66 Broadway to the new home of the company a few doors down Broadway.

A dozen policemen were stationed along Broadway and in the halls of the two buildings. The great bulk of the contents of the vault was made up of corporate and individual trusts.

Mrs. Gould Secures Divorce.

How About the Fourth?

Neighboring towns are already planning on their Fourth of July celebration, and we can see no logical reason why Plummer should not fall in line and plan the biggest blow-out in its history. Barely a month yet remains in which to perfect arrangements for a fitting observation of the nation's natal day, and, if we are to fall into line, it is nearly time we were getting at it. There is no doubt but that a large crowd of people would be attracted in case Plummer does celebrate, the good times had here in the past two or three years working favorably to that end.

A GALA DAY FOR THE FARMERS

Institute to be Held on Wednesday June 9th. -- Stores Offering Big Bargains. Several Special Features Have Been Secured. Thief River Falls Band to be Present.

On Monday June 9th there will be held in Plummer a Farmers Institute and from present indications the meeting will be one the biggest of its kind ever held in this part of the state. Considerable interest is being taken in the event, both by the farmers in this vicinity and by the business men of Plummer. All the stores are offering exceptional bargains and prizes and there is little doubt but that the village will offer several prizes to the farmers. The speakers have been chosen from among men and women whose years of experience have enabled them to qualify for their present vocations. Supt. Wm Robertson of the Crookston School of Agriculture will be in charge of the meeting and will address the farmers on clover, Rotation of crops, Fruits and vegitables and General Agriculture. Mrs. Ida E. Tilson will take up the subject of Poultry Raising and Household Economics. O. A. Storvick of the Dai and Food department will speak on Darying, Co-operative creameries, a the care of milk. Supt. Erickson will take up the subjects of Rural Sch and Industrial contests. The different subjects will be open for discuss. and the farmers are urged to ask questions on any phase of farming which they are not familiar.

A meeting of the Plummer business men was held Tuesday and a mittee of three composed of Messrs. Enderle, James Alrick, and Muss selected to have charge of the arrangements and they are now at Negotiations are being carried on with the Thief River Falls band and organization will come down on the morning train to play during the day. They will probably be accompanied by the local orchestra which will furnish music for a dance in the evening if desired. Several other little details are being attended to and the farmers are sure of a hearty welcome and a royal reception on Institute day. Owing to the fact that the Pioneer went to press yesterday we are unable to give a much fuller account of the many good things in store for visitors but there will sure be a big time for all.

May Be Extended.

Congressman Steenerson has introduced a bill into the fational congress granting entrymen seven instead of five years in which to pay for land in the ceded eleven towns on the Red Lake Reservation. This bill will if it is passed prove to be a very big benifit to hundreds of the homesteaders who have been unable to pay for their land, and who have been in danger of losing their farms by reason of such non payment. This bill has only been introduced and it is impossible to tell whether or not it will become a law. Mr. Steenerson has been very successful in his efforts to aid the settlers on the eleven towns and it is hoped by all, that this bill will be as successful as its predecessors.

Secretary Ballinger of the interior department has assured Congressman Steenerson that he will take no steps to perfect a forfeiture of any of the entries where the settler has kept up residence and cultivation, until Congress has had a chance to take some action on the bill as introduced by Senator Nelson and Representative Steenerson, extending the time in which entrymen may make payments for two years.

The secretary says that the only way he could reach an accurate conclusion as to what tracts have been abandoned by entrymen was by calling on them for payments. Under this call, however, those who have acted in good faith in entering those lands will not be disturbed, even if they are behind in their payments.

The School Picnic.

Thursday "the last day of school," was fittingly celelebrated by a town picnic held in the school grounds in the afternoon. The ladies of Plummer provided ice cream, cake, coffee and lemonade all the children enjoyed themselves immensely. Several citizens attended the picnic and helped the little folks spend a happy afternoon. Before the close of the festivilies the teacher, Miss Caldwell presented the scholars with several prizes and cards as rewards of merit. Those who have been perfect in attendance received neatly engraved certificates and a book as prizes. During her work here as teecher, Miss Caldwell has succeeded it bringing the standard of the Plummer school up to a very high degree, and deserves much credit for her services. She has not yet fully decided to return here next fall, but pupils and parents alike, hope she will again be secured as the teacher.

The New Time Card.

On Monday, June 7th the new time card on the Soo Line goes into effect and the time of the local passenger train is affected. Instead of goes north at 10:40 p.m., as at present, under the new card the train will go through Plummer at 8;50; giving every one a chance to go to Thief River Falls and have plenty of time to enjoy the evening. No information has been received concerning a Sunday service on this line and it will only be upon the urgent request of the people residing on the line, that this service can be secured.

We will buy all your potaoes and pay you more than the current market price.—Clearwater Mercantile Co.

That Bond Injunction.

Last Saturday before Court Commissioner Johnson at Thief River Falls were heard the arguments in the injunction proceedings against the county commissioners on the court house bond proposition. Atty. Boughton appeared for the commissioners and demurred to the complaint, admitting that all the facts and allegations were true. He also stated that there was not sufficient grounds for a cause of action. Judge Johnson over-ruled the demurrer and now either side is at liberty to take case up before Judge Watts, and after his decision is rendered the case can be appealed to the state supreme court at its October term.

Every person in the land has some idea of tariff revision except Aldrich.

We are all anxious to honor the dead soldiers. How many of us think of honoring those who are still with us?

The Greenbush Tribune has joined the "Goat Crowd" and has started to butt into the Red Lake county seat fight with an occasional comment now and then. But as these comments are generally colored with a Red Lake Falls tint, they appear as a "filler" more than news.

Have you made your flower garden yet? If you haven't its pretty near time you get started. Do something to beautify the town if it is nothing more than transplanting of a dandelion to your own front yard. It will show that your spirit is with those who believe in public pride.

The May wheat campaign of 1909 managed by James J. Patten, is over and the price of wheat is going back to a normal figure. The Patten interests cleared up several million dollars, and the farmer's of the Great Northwest, who had the wheat to sell, reaped a harvest of shekels as a fitting compensation. But the question now is, who received the most benefits, the farmer or Patten?

James J. Hill, in an address before the throngs gathered to witness the opening of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition at Seattle, Tuesday, said that the greatest service to the nation, to every state and to every city today, would be the substitution of a term of years of law enforcement for a term of years of law making thereby giving utterence to thought that is of more truth than fiction. Too many of our legislatures today pass bills which become laws and are laws for the time being, but which disappear into the past and are forgotten; long before the people are given a chance to become acquainted with their character. Mr. Hill was right. Enforce what laws we have now, and then when that is done pass more if we need them. There is little use in paying out $30,000 a year for the passing of laws whose main purpose is the taking up of enough time in their making to enable ths legislators to realize a small fortune for their services.

Wedding at Red Lake Falls.

Wednsday, morning June 2nd at 8 o'clock at Red Lake Falls, Mr. Harry B. Healey and Miss Lillian A. Buse were united in marraige at the home of the brides father Mr. Ernest Buse. The words were spoken that united them for life by Field Missionary, D.K. Laurie of Thief River Falls. After the ceremony the guests were entertained at breakfast at the home of Mr. E.L. Healey the father of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Healey left on the Northern Pacific train for the cities, and after a week will be at home to their friends at Detroit where the groom is engaged in business.

The best wishes of the people of Red Lake Falls go with them, where they both have grown to manhood and womanhood, and have won many friends. May joy, happiness and success be theirs.

LORIMER ELECTED

Chosen Senator From Illinois to Succeed Hopkins.

DEADLOCK ON SINCE JAN. 20

Democrats and Anti-Hopkins Republicans Form Coalition.

Springfield, Ill., May 26.—Congressman William Lorimer of the Sixth congressional district was elected United States senator by the joint session of the general assembly.

The election of a junior senator to represent Illinois in the upper house at Washington came about through a coalition of Democratic assemblymen and the anti-Hopkins Republicans. The hall of representatives, through the hours speeding the close of the deadlock, was crowded with a host of politicians. Strong efforts were made by former Senator Hopkins' aids to head off the break to Lorimer, but they were unavailing. The dramatic last act of the deadlock, which has waged since Jan. 20, played to a small crowd.

REPRESENTATIVE LORIMER.

In the many joint ballots of the deadlock nearly 150 candidates have been listed for the office of United States senator, the great majority of them being Democrats.

Of the eighty-nine house members who voted for Senator Lorimer forty-seven were Democrats and forty-two Republicans. In the senate six Democratic senators voted for Lorimer.

"When I return I will sign articles to meet Johnson and, take it from me, the fight will take place in this country if I have anything to say. Of course, I prefer to fight in California, but if better inducements are made by other promoters I am willing to accept."

BAILEY IN A FIST FIGHT

Clashes With Correspondent of New York Paper.

Washington, May 28.—Immediately after the adjournment of the senate Senator Bailey met W. Finker Manning of the Washington bureau of the New York Times in the corridor of the senate. Hard words were exchanged and blows followed.

Manning is said to have struck the senator first, using an umbrella. The men were badly mixed up when Senator Clapp, who weighs 240 pounds, separated them, dragging Bailey into the finance committee room.

The trouble was the immediate result of a speech delivered by Senator Bailey earlier in the afternoon, in which he denounced the New York paper and branded its correspondent, Mr. Manning, a liar.

A posse headed by Chief of Police Calder followed in pursuit, chasing them out of the woods at the park into a clearing beyond, where a running fight was had with two of the robbers.

One of the robbers was wounded. He succeeded, however, in getting to a swamp with his companion, where both were captured about half an hour later. The other two took a different route from the park and were seen to swim the Wisconsin river a short distance below the park.

Both the robbers caught are young men, one probably sixteen or seventeen years old, the other about twenty years old, and both are strangers here and apparently inexperienced as highwaymen. They had automatic rifles.

SENATE WORKS ON TARIFF BILL

Agreements Are Reached on Many Sections.

ARE NEARLY ALL DISPOSED OF

Paragraphs Relating to Agriculture Receive Favorable Consideration. Senator Bacon Enters Upon an Extended Discussion of the Proposed Increases Over the Rates of the House Bill on Bacon, Hams, Etc.

Washington, June 1.—Agreements were reached in the senate during the day upon many sections of the tariff bill, so that as the hour for adjournment approached the paragraphs relating to agriculture were nearly all disposed of. During the afternoon Mr. Bacon entered upon an extended discussion of the proposed increases over the rates of the house bill in duties on bacon and hams, lard, fresh beef, etc., and Mr. Aldrich surprised the senate by withdrawing the committee amendments, saying he believed the house rates, although below those of the Dingley law rates, were protective to those industries. This action provoked further discussion on the part of senators who favored the higher rates. Senator Rayner created considerable amusement by a humorous description of what Senator Aldrich had referred to as the "citadel of protection" and Senator Smith of Michigan advocated a free tariff or a tariff for revenue only.

Early in the day more than two hours were consumed by a debate on a proposition to increase the duty on lemons from 1 cent a pound as provided by the Dingley law to 1½ cents a pound. After earnest opposition by Mr. Root the increase recommended by the committee was sustained by a vote of 43 to 28.

Among other duties affected by the day's action was that on dried peas, which was reduced from 30 to 25 cents per bushel. The duties on chickory root, chocolate and cocoa were reduced, as was that on salt, from 12 to 10 cents per 100 pounds in bags and from 10 to 8 cents in bulk.

Stout, ale, beer and porter were given an increase of duty from 40 to 45 cents when in bottles, etc., and from 20 to 25 cents per gallon when in bulk.

The house duty on bacon and hams and on lard was restored upon motion of Mr. Aldrich, who withdrew the committee amendments increasing it.

An effort of Mr. Bacon to reconsider the paragraph relating to fresh beef, mutton, etc., in order to decrease the duties on those articles was defeated.

TAFT BACK IN WASHINGTON

President Returns From His Trip to Gettysburg.

Washington, June 1.—Returning from his three-days' trip to Pittsburg and Gettysburg, President Taft reached Washington at 8:15 p. m. He was accompanied by his brother, Charles P. Taft, his daughter, Miss Helen Taft, and Captain Butt, his aide.

The president at Gettysburg invited the secretary of war and Mrs. Dickinson, General Bell, the chief of staff, and several others to be his guests in his car on the return trip to Washington. All were delayed in getting back from the battlefield, however, and missed the train, which could not be held on account of the heavy movement of excursion trains.

The trip from Gettysburg was without incident. No intimation of the time of his arrival in Baltimore had been given and his private car stood in the union station there for half an hour without his presence aboard being discovered. Upon arriving here the president and his party entered automobiles and went directly to the White House. Mrs. Taft, who was unable to make the trip with the president because of a recent nervous breakdown, is said to be steadily improving.

NEW AIRSHIP IS DAMAGED

Count Zeppelin's Aerial Craft Comes to Grief.

IT BUMPS AGAINST A TREE

Covers Eight Hundred and Fifty Miles in Thirty-seven Hours and Then Is Wrecked While Maneuvering for a Landing Near Goeppingen—Position of the Airship Said to Be Dangerous.

Goeppingen, June 1.—After covering 850 miles in thirty-seven hours, Count Zeppelin's new airship on its return trip from Bittenfeld to Friedrichshafen, came to grief in an open field near here. In maneuvering for a landing, the airship came into contact with a tree, and its position is dangerous.

The damage to the ship is much more serious than at first thought. A cursory examination showed that the envelope had been torn and it was thought that the injury could be repaired and that the vessel could proceed at once. A more careful examination disclosed the fact that the prow was broken and that much time must elapse before the journey can be continued.

The position of the craft is extremely unfavorable, the ground being hilly. The bow rests on the ground, while the stern is about sixty-five feet in the air. A strong breeze sprang up, causing anxiety for the safety of the airship, which it was feared would be wrecked should a storm come up.

After much labor and with the assistance of some of those who had gathered at the scene, Count Zeppelin was unable to shift the position of was enabled to shift the position of ter protection from the wind.

When the accident occurred Count Zeppelin was landing for the purpose of replenishing his supply of benzine, which was nearly exhausted. The motors already had stopped and the airship was nearing the ground on a meadow when a sudden strong puff of wind drove the prow out of its course and against a pear tree. It struck with a great crash, smashing the prow almost up to the front of the gondola and crushing the aluminum stays into a shapeless mass, which became inextricably enmeshed in the branches. Nearly 100 feet of the envelop and frame were destroyed.

FIRE ON GASOLINE LAUNCH

Kills One Person and Injures Three Others.

Washington, June 1.—One was drowned and five others narrowly escaped a similar fate in the Potomac river when a large gasoline launch carrying three young married couples out on a holiday excursion caught fire from an explosion in the oil tank, forcing the occupants to jump overboard while the craft was 100 yards from the shore.

Mrs. May Wood, twenty-two years old, drowned while her husband, Carl D. Wood, in attempting to save her, narowly escaped death, but was rescued by the arrival of another launch.

The others who were rescued were Morgan Moore and wife, Arthur Wells and wife. All are residents of Alexandria, Va.

Mrs. Wood was terribly burned by the explosion. Her clothing caught fire and she sprang into the water. The flames forced the others to do likewise.

Mrs. Wells and Mrs. Moore were injured severely about the body and arms.

POSSE OUT AFTER A BANKER

Searching for Man Who Escaped From the Penitentiary.

La Porte, Ind., June 1.—A posse of officials and citizens are searching the marsh land northwest of Valparaiso, Ind., in an effort to find Robert Greene, a banker, convicted of horse stealing, who escaped from the Michigan penitentiary Friday morning and almost fourteen hours later, it is said, stole a horse and buggy from the barn of J. E. Payne, ten miles southwest of the prison. The horse and buggy were recovered Saturday night, but the driver escaped. While driving from the Payne barn Greene was detected and several shots were fired at him. Blood on the roadside indicates that the man was wounded.

Greene was formerly vice president of the Merchants' and Farmers' bank of Waynetown, Ind. With a view to recuperating his fortune, which had melted away in speculation in stocks and bonds, according to testimony in the trial, Greene took to stealing horses.

STREET CAR MEN ON STRIKE

Service at Philadelphia Only Partially Affected.

Philadelphia, May 29.—Philadelphia is in the tangle of a street car strike. The order of the executive committee of the Carmen's union was not generally obeyed, enough men reporting for duty to start the average number of cars.

The order to strike went into effect at 4 a. m., when the day service begins. At 9 a. m. cars were running on all but two of the lines of the Philadelphia Rapid Transit company, which operates the entire street railway system, but it was apparent that the company was having difficulty in maintaining the regularity of the service.

Mr. North's resignation is a direct result of his recent controversy with Secretary of Commerce and Labor Nagel.

COPYRIGHT, BY J. E. PURDY, BOS.

S. N. D. NORTH.

It had been supposed up to within the last few days that the controversy between Secretary Nagel and Director North had been amicably adjusted. The friction between the two continued, however, and at last Secretary Nagel put the matter squarely up to President Taft, saying that either he or Mr. North would have to leave the service, as existing conditions between them were impossible.

TWO SCORE DEAD

Others Fatally Hurt in Cyclone at Zephyr, Tex.

FIFTY HOUSES DEMOLISHED

Covers Only a Small Area, but Its Fury Is Terrific.

Temple, Tex., June 1.—Thirty-eight bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the little town of Zephyr, which was partially destroyed by a cyclone, and a number of others are fatally hurt. Over a score of injured have been brought to the Santa Fe hospital here.

The storm, which formed a half mile southwest of Zephyr, swept down upon the village, cutting a wide swath directly through the residence portions of the city.

Nearly fifty houses were entirely demolished. Lightning struck a lumber yard and started a conflagration which destroyed one entire business block. No effort was made to fight the fire as the care of the dead and wounded victims demanded all attention.

The storm was 300 yards wide and swept the earth for less than a mile. Its fury is considered the most terrific of any tornado ever experienced in this section.

The cyclone was preceded by a hail storm, which awoke the residents, who, as they tumbled from their beds in an effort to reach the street, were caught between falling walls and in a short time there were wild scenes of excitement.

Weeping women and children, clothed in the scantiest of attire, rushed about in the ruins seeking loved ones or looking for places of shelter from the storm.

Seilo Nelson came up from Mather, Wis., Saturday and will spend the summer here, acting as engineer on the L. T. Bergh ditching machine. Mr. Berg reports the work on the ditcher as progressing rapidly and states that they will probably be in shape to throw dirt about the latter part of next week.

A person is often judged by the kind of door yard he keeps. So is a town. If the people can see rubbish piles scattered about as they enter town on the train it does not speak well for us. There will no doubt be many people traveling up and down the line this summer and with a little care we can greatly improve our already nice natural surroundings.

G. A. Hovland, buttermaker of the Clearwater Creamery at Lillo, was in Plummer Thursday enroute to Fertile to attend the funeral of his brother, Alfred, whose death resulted Tuesday from a long siege of appendicitis. Mr. Hovland was thirty-one years of age and was a highly respected young man in his home neighborhood. The funeral services were held yesterday.

Moon Hid its Face.

Considerable interest was aroused Thursday night by an eclipse of the moon, one of the finest for number of years. The moon rose at 8 o'clock, totally eclipsed and at 9:15, had emerged from the shadow. The fact that it was a full moon added much to the beauty of the eclipse and many people watched the transition.

On Thursday June 17th there will be a total eclipse of the sun visible here as a partial eclipse. The phenomenon will take place at about 7:45 or 8 o'clock.

County Treasurer Sick.

County Treasurer O. T. Tandberg who has been in Minneapolis for some time is reported as being seriously sick. His family were summoned to his bedside last Sunday. From reports received this week it is learned that he is recovering slowly.

Hoppie, You're A Piker.

Hoppie, the Mahnomen pool shark, who has created some kind of a furore among the amateurs at that place, came up to Plummer several weeks ago and while here, handed challenges right and left. One of his breaks was taken up by a local player and a 200 point, ten or no count game was scheduled to be played here last Saturday evening, but the hoped-to-be "phenom" was a minus quantity when the crowd gathered. Hoppie may be a good pool player but local enthusiasts are of the opinion that he is a better piker.

Bad Wreck at Fosston.

Sixteen box cars of way freight jumped the track at Fosston on the Great Northern last Friday and piled in a heep by the track. The accident was caused by a "sun-warped" rail. The engine and two cars passed over safely but the balance of the train jumped.

Hans Peterson who was at Erskine on business went up to see the wreck. He reports that the rails were twisted into all sorts of imaginable shapes and that about all there was left of the cars was a pile of scrap iron.

Dan Shaw Resigns.

Daniel Shaw, 5th district representative in the county board of commissioners handed in his resignation at the special meeting held Tuesday. Mr. Shaw gave as his reason that the press of his Insurance business did not permit of the work attendant in the office of county commissioner. Just who will be elected to fill the vacancy is a matter for conjectur. Mr. Shaw has beed a decided success as commissioner and is mainly responible for the many improvements in the "north end".

O. T. Tandberg Dies.

County Treasurer O. T. Tandberg died in a St Paul hospital last Friday morning following an operation for appendicitis. He had been in poor health for a long time but his death comes as a surprise to all. The remains were brought to Thief River Falls and the funeral was conducted Monday from the Norwegian Synod church. Mr. Tandberg leaves a wife and several children to mourn his death, and they are the recipients of the sympathy of every citizen in the county.

Mr. Tandbery has held the office of county treasurer for several years, his remarkable tact of being accurate in his work making him an official hard to duplicate and one who will be missed by the many people whose business dealings with him have proved the making of a feeling of reverence.

The county board met Tuesday and following a heated discusion, elected Harry Ives of St Hilaire to fill the unexpired term as treasurer.

Still Another Railroad.

Surveying crews of from three to six men have been traversing different portions of the country east of Plummer this week. running preliminary lines for another railroad. The new company has for its object the construction of a direct air-line from Chicago to Winnipeg, and is known as the Great American Railroad. The company is incorporated under the laws of South Dakota with a capital of $150,000,000 with $72,000.000 available for right-of-way and other expenses.

The survey so far, has been run from the south line of the city of Thief River Falls to a point in Lambert, and passes about five miles east of Plummer. Members of the crews stated to a Pioneer man this week that the line would be pushed through. The reason for taking a course through Thief River Falls being that ties could be furnished for about half what they could be secured for at any other place. Most of the grading will be done by farmers along the right-of-way.

While in to the Institute Wednesday, H. T. Gulbranson purchased a large corn cultivator from O. O. Gullingsrud, for use on his farm this summer. This cultivator is one of the largest made and Mr. Gulbranson is to be congratulated on his investment,

The Farmers' Institute.

The Farmers' Institute held in Plummer on Wednesday was one of the most successful gatherings of its kind ever held here—successful not so much on account of the attendance as on account of the interest taken and the benefits derived. The very threatening weather of Wednesday morning tended to keep the farmers at home, though all of them desired to attend. The Red Lake Falls band was hired for the occasion and rendered several selections during the day. The meeting was held in the Carlson Hall and the room was packed to over-flowing. The different speakers were highly pleased with the attendance, and this fact helped considerably towards making it easier to handle their subjects. The enthusiasm of the audience also added to the success of the meeting and the questions showed the interest taken in the strife for better farming carried on by the farmers of this section.

To go into details regarding the different topics as discussed by the speakers would take more room in the Pioneer than is available at this time but arrangements have been made with Supt. Robertson for a series of newspaper lectures on the different topics discussed at the meeting Wednesday.

In the evening, the band gave a very fine concert on the Gullingsrud corner, and the large audience was very enthusiastic in its applause. Following the concert, the younger people adjourned to the hall where a big dance was started. The Freund Orchestra of Red Lake Falls furnished the music and this fact guarantees that satisfaction was the ruling factor in the evenings entertainment.

A Regular Feature.

Bro. John Eastman's regular weekly railroad story, as published in the Thief River Falls News, this week contains the information that the Canadian Pacific and Soo roads are to be merged, and that the C. P. R. will run trains over the Soo, and South Shore to eastern Canada. He also states that part of the road will be double tracked in order to accomodate the traffic.

Plummer May Celebrate.

Arrangements are being made to celebrate the Fourth of July in Plummer and though no definite agreemenc has yet been arrived at, in all probability this village will not be behind the rest of the neighboring towns in this respect. There is still a small balance on hand from the Institute fund and this will be used as a nest-egg for the celebration fund. A meet'ng of the business men will be called within a day or two for the purpose of deciding one way or another.

If New Jersey is the "Mosquito State", that pesky insect must be something fierce about this time in its native home.

This office was favored this week with a copy of the 1909 Blue Book of Minnesota through the kindness of Rep. J. J. Opsahl, of Bemidji. The book contains much interesting data and is a valuable addition to the editor's information reservoir.

June 14th has been designated as "Flag Day" and it behooves us to remark that none can do more towards showing their public interest, than to display the Stars and Stripes on that day. Be it ever so small, the American Flag deserves the courtesy of being displayed, not so much because it is the emblem of a free cruntry where every man is a man and no man is too small to be a patriot.

For the second time within a month the citizens of Red Lake county have been called upon to mourn the loss of an efficient county officer, Treasurer O. T. Tandberg, whose death occured last Friday. He proved himself an excellent man for the office given him by his friends; His painstaking care of the funds entrusted to him gave him a reputation for efficiency that almost beggars deception and compares most favorably with any other official in a like office in the state.

How many of the residents of Plummer have realized the importance of the gathering at the Farmer's Institute here Wednesday? Many have remarked regarding its success but few have taken into consideration the many benefits that are sure to result. Though the attendance was small on account of the threatening weather, those who did attend found the meeting a decided success not only as far as the event but as far as the sociability was concerned. The interest taken in the various topics, together with the enthusiasm aroused among the farmers whose ideas of farming lie in the quality of their fruits rather than in the quantity, gives every evidence that the results attained are many times more than was expected.

IMMENSE DAMAGE DONE

Canadian Forest Fire Covers Hundreds of Miles.

Dauphin, Man., June 4.—A forest fire covering hundreds of miles of timber is sweeping over the North Saskatchewan country.

The fire extends for hundreds of miles between Crooked river and Bowsman and from Hudson Bay Junction almost to the pass.

No loss of life is reported as yet, but it is feared that farmers living in comparatively sparsely settled districts and away from the railroad have suffered.

It is estimated $1,000,000 worth of property has already been destroyed.

The entire plant of the Ruby Lake Lumber company and saw mills on the Hudson Bay branch were wiped out.

Passengers arriving on trains from the north reported that the heat was so intense that they could feel it in the coaches. The windows were so hot they could not touch them.

The district is largely settled by United States immigrants.

Girl Maltreated and Murdered.

Omaha, June 7.—The body of Annie Nelson, a Danish girl aged twenty-two, who disappeared from the vicinity of Florence, Neb., May 22, was found in the Missouri river near South Omaha. There were evidences that the girl had been ill treated and murdered and her body thrown into the river to conceal the double crime. There is no clue to the murderer.

Hundred Residences Destroyed at Presque Isle, Me.

FIRE SWEEPS LARGE SECTION

High Wind Responsible for Rapid Spread of Flames.

Presque Isle, Me., June 8.—The entire northeasterly section of this village, comprising the district where were situated the most pretentious residences, was swept by fire, a high wind carrying the flames and embers from street to street until 100 dwelling houses and the Congregational church, the Masonic hall and several other structures had been reduced to ashes. The Canadian Pacific railroad station and two large storehouses for potatoes were burned. The total loss is estimated at $300,000.

Upward of 1,000 persons are homeless.

A high wind which prevailed all day is responsible largely for the extent of the disaster. It carried blazing embers a distance of a quarter of a mile in many cases, and new fires started after the first was well under way.

Several persons were reported injured, but there were no fatalities.

The burned section covers an area of half a square mile, including North Main street, Allen street, Third street, Blake street and South street to Main street.

The financial loss may exceed $300,000, but that figure is regarded as a reasonable estimate. The insurance will not exceed $150,000.

Presque Isle has a population of nearly 5,000. It is the center of the potato raising district of Aroostook county and is located on the Bangor and Aroostook railway and at the terminus is a branch of the Canadian Pacific railway running from Aroostook Junction. The total valuation of the town is $2,000,000.

KENTUCKY FEUD VICTIM

Ex-Sheriff of Breathitt County Shot From Ambush.

Jackson, Ky., June 7.—Ex-Sheriff Edward Callahan, noted for participation in the feuds that have disrupted Breathitt county for years, was shot from ambush and, it is believed, fatally wounded. The shooting took place in his home town, Crockettsville, sixteen miles from Jackson.

Callahan had swept out his store preparatory to opening for the day and was brushing the refuse from the door when the shot was fired. The ball took effect in the left side of his abdomen. Bloodhounds have been put on the trail of the assassin, who, it is understood, hid behind a pile of coal to fire the shot. Callahan was in Jackson Saturday in attendance upon court, a warrant having been served upon him for malicious shooting in a family affair some time ago. His case was continued and he at once left Jackson, telling one or two friends that lately he was fearful of his life.

It is said that the immediate cause for the shooting of Callahan was a dispute over the management of a church he built at Crockettsville and of which he is a deacon.

Callahan was the chief lieutenant of Judge James Hargis. Judge Hargis was shot and killed by his son, Beach Hargis, who has received a life sentence for the murder.

WESTERN TRIP POSTPONED

Illness of Mrs. Taft Causes Change in President's Plans.

Washington, June 5.—President Taft has been forced through the illness of Mrs. Taft to postpone his proposed Western summer trip until fall. Although he has made no definite announcement heretofore it had been the president's intention to depart in August on a ten weeks' tour of the West and Alaska.

develops that the possibility of Mrs. Taft being able to accompany the president with safety is slight, although she is making satisfactory progress toward recovery from her recent illness. Faced with the necessity of leaving her behind and the possibility that a relapse might occur Mr. Taft made up his mind to abandon the summer excursion altogether and endeavor to make a visit to the West in the early fall. If it is possible for him to go West in September he may be able to visit the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition in its closing days, but the Alaska trip hardly will be attempted.

SLAYS FIVE; WOUNDS THREE

Workman in Slaughter House Becomes Suddenly Insane.

Somerville, Mass., June 5.—Five men are dead and three others injured as the result of an attack by a workman who became suddenly insane at the North Packing company's plant here.

The workman, whose name is said to be Thomas Murphy, was seized with mania while at work in the slaughter house. Armed with a big knife which he used in his work he ran through the factory, lunging at every one within reach. Five of the eight men attacked are said to have been almost instantly killed.

SHARP CONFLICT IN THE SENATE

Aldrich and Beveridge Engage In Wordy Warfare.

COTTON SCHEDULE COMPLETED

Dingley Rates Are Restored on Hosiery, Making a Reduction From the Rates of the House Bill—Rhode Island Senator Victorious in Votes on Two Propositions—Indiana Senator Characterized as Leader of the Opposition.

Washington, June 8.—The senate chamber was again transformed into a mental arena and Senator Aldrich, leading the conservatives, and Senator Beveridge, heading the progressives, were the chief gladiators. Both of the senators were frequently on their feet and there were many sharp conflicts between them.

Beginning the session of the day with a vote on the recommendation of his committee for a duty of 3 cents a square yard and 20 per cent ad valorem on the fabric known as window hollands, Senator Aldrich was apparently somewhat encouraged over the prospect of making decided headway with the cotton schedule. His hopes were, however, doomed to early disappointment, for only a few moments afterwards Mr. Beveridge took the floor and before he concluded had opened such a gap that the Rhode Island senator himself could not resist the opportunity to walk in. Mr. Beveridge having said that he had been inclined to support the recommendations of the finance committee, the admission led the chairman of the committee to say that he had not shown such inclination by his vote. Coming back, the Indiana senator asserted his right to follow his conscience rather than the leadership of any individual.

Engaged in Joint Debate.

From that time forward the two senators were engaged in joint debate much of the time during the day. In the course of his remarks Mr. Aldrich, while contending that many prohibitive tariffs were justified, said he never had favored a prohibitive policy. He predicted that in time the South would become the greatest manufacturer of the finer grades of cotton goods. Replying to this assertion, Senator Bacon declared that if even such should prove to be the case he would not favor any increase of the customs duties. He believed that natural conditions in Georgia and other Southern states would prove the best protection for their measures.

About the middle of the afternoon the senate reached its second vote, which was on a proposition by Senator Dolliver which had for its purpose the striking out of the committee's provision fixing a duty of 1 cent a square yard for the process of mercerization. The amendment was lost by the unusually close vote of 32 to 38.

The narrowing of the margin was, however, due to the absence of senators rather than to the conversion of the progressives to the Aldrich standard.

It was after this vote that Senator Aldrich found occasion to again challenge the attitude of some of the Republican senators who are contending for lower duties. He charged them with playing the part of brigadier for the Democrats, and speaking of Senator Beveridge declared that he had associated with the Democrats so long that he was adopting their ideas. He characterized Mr. Beveridge as the leader of the opposition.

Beveridge and Cummins Replied.

Both Senators Beveridge and Cummins replied, the former asserting that he was simply standing on the Republican platform, while the latter stated that he had been so often charged with being a Democrat that the charge did not worry him. Senator Bailey found cause for congratulation in the situation, because, as he said, he believed it would inure to the advantage of the Democrats.

During the day Senator Smith (Mich.) found occasion to attack the position of Secretary MacVeagh as the mouthpiece of the administration on the tariff situation. He intimated that he did not consider the second member of the president's cabinet a reliable leader on this subject, because of his former Democratic proclivities.

Late in the day the progressive Republicans gained a concession from the finance committee in the removal of rubber goods from the cotton schedule, thus preventing the imposition of a duty on such goods because of the cotton in them.

The cotton schedule was completed at the night session of the senate. The Dingley rates were restored on hosiery, making a reduction of about 20 cents a dozen pairs from the rates of the house bill. The woolen schedule will next be taken up.

Butte Saloon Robbed.

Butte, Mont., June 8.—Two mounted and masked men blew open a safe in a saloon in Anaconda hall, in the center of Butte, seized $600 in cash and escaped.

ALDRICH A WINNER

Carries Point in Senate After Bitter Contest on Cotton.

CONSIDERED GREAT VICTORY

Radicals Made Hard Fight on This Portion of Bill.

Washington, June 5.—Senate radicals went down to another defeat today when the senate, by a majority of eleven, voted with Senator Aldrich and his combination of senators from New England, the Far West and the South to adopt sections 313 to 317 of the senate bill, covering the cotton paragraphs, which have been bitterly opposed all week by La Follette, Bristow, Dolliver and Nelson.

The paragraphs adopted today relate to the change from an ad valorem to a specific basis for the duties on cotton goods. Heretofore these goods have been taxed on the former basis, but now, if the senate bill should become a law, they will be taxed in the other way and the claim is made by the Central West radical senators that in making this change of base Mr. Aldrich has adroitly increased the duties on that class of goods to a point considerably above the duties charged in the Dingley law.

Several weeks ago Senator Aldrich declared in a speech in the senate that the textile schedules of the tariff bill constituted the keystone of the protection arch and his success in having them adopted is considered a great victory.

How the Senators Voted.

The finance committee amendment to the cotton schedule inserting specific rates instead of ad valorem rates on goods valued at from 7 to 14 cents per yard was adopted, 39 to 28.

A second committee amendment fixing specific rates for the purpose of preventing under valuation was adopted, 39 to 29.

Several inportant test votes were taken, on each of which Senator Aldrich again showed himself easily the master of the situation. The smallest majority by which the committee amendment was adopted on any test vote was ten. Two Democratic senators, McEnery and Foster of Louisiana, voted with the finance committee. The low tariff Republicans lined up with the Democrats with the exception of Senator Borah of Idaho and Senator Curtis of Kansas.

The following Republicans voted against the finance committee on every roll call: Beveridge, Brown, Burkett, Bristow, Clapp, Crawford, Cummins, Dolliver, La Follette and Nelson.

ALDRICH AGAIN VICTORIOUS

Carries His Point on Other Cotton Schedules.

Washington, June 7.—The senate, by a vote of 41 to 26, sustained the recommendation of the committee on finance on an amendment to levy a duty of 3 cents a square yard and 20 per cent ad valorem on cotton window hollands. Senators Foster and McEnery, Democrats, voted with the majority. Nine Republicans—Beveridge, Bristow, Brown, Burkett, Cummins, Dolliver, Gamble, La Follette and Nelson—voted with the Democrats.

By a vote of 30 to 28 the senate voted down Senator Dolliver's amendment striking out the duty of 1 cent a yard on mercerized goods.

Kijabe, B. E. A., June 5.—The Roosevelt expedition has left here for the Sotik district. Water for the expedition is being carried in ox wagons in charge of a Ulyate settler. The moon at present is full and the nights are bright. This will enable the party to travel day and night with scarcely a stop until water on the other side is reached.

President Congratulates Mogoon and Barry.

Washington, June 5.—President Taft has transmitted to congress with a special message the report of Charles E. Magoon, who served as provisional governor of Cuba during the last American occupation of the island. The president takes occasion to warmly congratulate Governor Magoon for his services both to the United States and Cuba and gives high praise to Major General Thomas H. Barry, who was in command of the United States forces.

Where The Soo Will Start

To state that the Soo road will begin its new Thief River-Duluth line at Plummer, seems, according to public opinion, to be the only correct thing at the present time. Several local parties, whose source of information is considered absolutely correct, state that the new line will branch off from the Winnipeg line at Plummer and take a course south of the rivers. Altho it is too early in the game to state exactly the route of the line, there seems to be a good prospect that Plummer will be the junction point. Just what will result from such a move is hard to say, but while construction work is in progress, Plummer will boom and prosper and on this account, everyone is anxious to see the road start from here.

Flathead Opening.

The Secretary of the Kalispell Chamber of Commerce has been notified that the proclamation opening the Flathead Indian Reservation has been signed. The opening will be held under the lottery plan, and applicants for homesteads can register at Kalispell, Mont. from July 15th to August 5th, inclusive.

This land is suitable for farming and fruitgrowing, and lies west of the Rocky Mountains in a mild climate. One-half of the great Flathead lake, with its noted fruit-producing banks lie within the Reservation. Good water is abundant, and three billion feet of timber are on the Reservation.

The City of Kalispell has passed an ordinance regulating the price of meals and lodging, and will hire detectives to keep away the crooks, and expects to handle the crowds in good shape. The Chamber of Commerce is answering hundreds of inquiries as promptly as possible.

Man, Poor Man!

Man is the only animal that walks on his hind legs and eats horse-radish in the spring. He sits in his office tipped back in a chair, and smokes his cigar with a satisfied air. He's home long enough to swallow his meals and he grumbles and tells how "rocky" he feels, or sets on the street on a roll of barb wire, and growls 'cause the tariff is making things higher; then fills up on Peerless and spits and looks wise, when his wife puts the screens up to guard against flies. He growls when it's fair and he growls when it rains; he growls at the mails and he growls at the trains, while his good wife at home is breaking her back, with her scissors and patterns and an old flour sack, to make the kids garments (and he takes his ease) and fix them up warm enough so they won't freeze, with "XXX roller process" so gorgeous and quaint on the bosom thereof in radiant paint. To eke out a living, she will do all she can, and wonder, as we do, Oh! Why is a man?

Killed By Vicious Bull.

Ole Swenson was instantly killed at his home in Section 1, of Garnes township, on Sunday evening by a vicious bull. Mr. Swenson was working with his stock in the farm yard when the animal attacked him unawares. The bull struck Mr. Swenson in the breast with such force that the man's neck was broken and death was instantaneous. Members of the family who saw the beast attack frightened him away at once and Dr. Clark was called out from here to see if anything could be done for the victim. When the doctor arrived Mr. Swenson had been dead for some hours and, beyond the broken neck, the body showed no marks. Mr. Swenson had purchased the bull a few months ago from Thos. Pugh, of Mayfield township, and while he knew that the animal was inclined to be ugly in temper, he was not afraid of him and had decided to keep him as he was quite well bred.

Deceased was a prominent farmer and has been engaged in the business of buying and shipping cattle. He was about 45 year old and leaves a widow and eight or nine children to mourn his sudden death. The funeral was held on Thursday.

J. C. Daily, one of old settlers of Equality township, arrived here on Wednesday from LeSueur, Minn., to look over things on his farm which he homesteaded thirteen years ago and still owns. He had a very pleasant visit with some of the old neighbors and returned Thursday morning.

That Great American R. R.

The chief promoters, or organizers, of the Great American Railway Co., whose project of railroad building was outlined in these columns two weeks ago, arrived in Plummer on Thursday evening with a crew of surveyors. They are making a preliminary survey of their line and the survey runs from Thief River Falls southward through the country east of the Soo line which it parallels at a distance of three or four miles.

Rumor has it that the purchase of right-of-way for their road will be commenced in the very near future. But rumors are always plentiful where any railroad project is concerned.

The gentlemen who were here did not have much to say when approached by a Pioneer representative. Such people are always somewhat reticent regarding their plans. However, opinion is somewhat divided as to whether or not the road will actually be built. Some allege that it is highly improbable that any road would be built so close to another as this survey runs to the Soo line, while others are firm in their belief that the road will be duly constructed but will be put in some distance further east than is indicated by the survey now being made. At Thief River Falls, where the surveying crew has had headquarters for the past three weeks or so, many of the people are satisfied that the project is bonafide while others are in a measure skeptical.

Further developements are looked for in the near future which will demonstrate for a certainty whether or not the road will be built.

Peter Hedeen and daughter drove down from their home in Kratka on Thursday. They brought in Mr. Hedeen's brother-in-law, Chas. Thunberg, and his bride, who have been spending a part of their honeymoon with Mr. Hedeen. The visitors left on the afternoon train for their home at Alexandria.

J. A. Walker came in from Equality on Thursday and brings the sad news of the death of his brother, George, at the old home at Tara, Ont., last Friday. Deceased formerly lived in Equality township and was well known to many of the settlers out there. Prior to the illness which caused his death he had been working as a locomotive engineer on the Grand Trunk railway. His death was due to tuberculosis from which he has been suffering for a couple of years past.

"First Minnesota"

Guests of Honor

An unusual and impressive feature of the first presentation of the big spectacular production. "Minnesota at Gettysburg," at the Minnesota State Fair on the evening of September 6th, will be the presence in the grand stand of many of the surviving members of the First Minnesota who actively took part in that portion of the battle of Gettysburg which is to be reproduced on the fair grounds each evening of the coming fair.

There are comparatively few of the original 262 men who made the gallant charge which changed the tide of the battle on July 2nd, 1862, who are now among the living and who are now residents in the northwest. Of the 262 who made that desperate charge all but forty-seven men who started from the wheat field down the hill to the Confederate line, were killed or wounded and while many who were wonded recovered, death has harvested in the ranks since Lee made his march on Washington.

At the annual re-union of the First Minnesota at Cannon Falls, May 29th in connection with the unveiling of the monument to the late Col. Colville, Secretary C. N. Cosgrove for the Minnesota Agricultural Society, extended to William May, President of the First Minnesota Association, an invitation to all surviving members of the First Minnesota to occupy seats in the grand stand, Monday evening, September 6th, as guests of the Minnesota State Fair management.

"The old boys" of the "Fighting First" are naturally showing a marked interest in the forthcoming spectacle, "Minnesota at Gettysburg" and President May assured Secretary Cosgrove that in so far as is possible, every surviving member of the original regiment will be present to witness the first production of the spectacle for the 1909 Fair.

Picnic Next Thursday.

Fire at Erskine.

Explosion of lamp at Erskine started quite a blaze. A kerosine lamp exploded in the living rooms over the Kromer store and the fire broke out through the windows and roof in a very short time. The damage to the building which belongs to Hanson and Nelson, will amount to $1,000.00, with only $500.00 insurance. The household goods of R. A. Kromer were a total loss and the damage to the general merchandise stock below by water and smoke is estimated at about $3,000.00.

Con Short, of Lillo, and the Misses Maggie and Nellie Short, spent last Friday attending to some business matters at the county seat returning home on Saturday.

If you are satisfied with what you are and what you are doing it is time for you to move. Dis-satisfaction should not breed discontent but progress.

A man may pick up gold nuggets in Alaska with the aid of a pick and shovel but in our locality he can just as easily secure them with a grain scoop, a hay fork or potato hoe.

Taft has taken the initiative in favor of an income tax. Certainly there could be no method more just on which to base a tax than that of income if one could only determine the true income of each legal tax payer.

Every farmer in the country should make an effort to see not only how much grain he can raise, how much hay he can cut or how much cream he can bring to the creamery but he should make an effort to see how few stunted calves can be found in the pasture and how little manure and rubbish can be found in the barn yard. The absence of some things is just as essential as the presence of other things.

Now that it is definitely decided that Plummer is to celebrate we think it would be proper for each man or woman, boy or girl to appoint himself or herself a committee of one to do everything that he or she can do to make this the greatest day that Plummer has ever known. Don't depend entirely on the committee that has been appointed to do all the work. These people all are just as busy as you, and if you leave everything for them to do you may just depend on that some of the little things that are so essential to make the day a success will be left undone. If we are to have a right proper Fourth of July celebration we will have to take hold and do our own little part.

Now Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont declares that the fight for women's suffrage will be carried to the extent of bloodshed between man and woman in case the woman does not receive her rights otherwise. Madam Belmont may not have taken into consideration the effect of such a war in case the women should faint at the sight of blood.

ONE ISSUE IN CASE

Abandonment Only Charge Left in Gould Divorce.

COURT RENDERS A DECISION

Allegations of Cruelty and Non-Support Stricken Out.

New York, June 15.—Abandonment will be the sole issue upon which the suit for separation brought by Katherine Clemmons Gould against her husband, Howard Gould, third son of the late Jay Gould, will be decided. This ruling was made in the supreme court by Justice Dowling after counsel for Mrs. Gould had rested the case for the plaintiff. This sweeps away several phases of the case—notably cruelty and non-support, and is a partial victory for Howard Gould. As to the charge of abandonment, the court held that this, too, might not stand unless the plaintiff was able to show that Howard Gould's stipulations for reconciliation with his wife were unreasonable. This phase of the case will next be argued.

Developments in the case during the day were perhaps the most interesting in the trial. George Gould, a brother of the defendant, testified and Mrs. Gould was excused from the stand after three days of searching cross-examination.

After the case for the plaintiff was rested, Delancey Nicholl, for the husband, made the usual motion to dismiss the suit on the ground that the plaintiff had failed to make out a case. "There have been no evidences of cruelty," he argued. "One of the allegations is that the plaintiff was surrounded by spies. Nothing has been adduced to prove it. Then there is the Hawley incident. Nothing in that bears out the charge of cruelty."

Refused to Sign the Pledge.

Referring to the abandonment charge, he said Howard Gould left his wife in July, 1906, but offered to return on perfectly reasonable terms, among other things, her abstention from intoxicating liquors. Mrs. Gould, he continued, refused.

During the foregoing argument Mrs. Gould became faint, left the courtroom and did not return. Then her counsel, Clarence Shearn, began argument against the motion of the defense to dismiss. "It is cruelty," he affirmed, "for a husband, without justification, to accuse his wife of being a bad character or to entertain against her, without cause, reflection against her honor.

"What kind of a conspiracy was Mr. Nicholl engaged in," he asked, "when he got habitues of a saloon to work in the purpose of proving Mrs. Gould a woman of bad repute? That was the acme of cruelty. Howard Gould's attempt to have his wife pledge herself not to drink in itself constitutes cruelty."

It was this clause in the agreement the husband had asked the wife to sign before he would consent to live with her again that Mrs. Gould most strongly objected to.

Inasmuch as the abandonment charge only is to be considered there will be no further mention of "Buffalo Bill," "Big" Hawley, the former convict, or Ed Sholes, the reputed gambler. But it still leaves open the question of Mrs. Gould's indulgence in intoxicants.

SELL FOR $8 PER HUNDRED

Highest June Price for Live Hogs Since 1882.

Chicago, June 14.—The highest June price for live hogs since 1882 was established at the Union Stock Yards. Best porkers sold at $8 per hundred pounds. With the exception of 1902 this is the highest price recorded for any month since the Cudahy pork corner in 1893, when live hogs sold at $8.75 a hundred weight.

The prevailing high prices are due to unusually light receipts of live hogs this spring at all Western packing centers, the extremely high price of grain last year prompting many farmers to dispose of stock rather than pay for feed stuff. Receipts of hogs at the nine leading markets of the West were 29,000 head less than for the corresponding day last week and 82,650 less than the receipts a year ago. As a result of the scarcity of hogs the price of provisions is now the highest in many years.

ONE HUNDRED DIE IN QUAKE

French Disaster Worse Than at First Reported.

Marseilles, June 12.—The earth shock was most severe in the departments of Herault and Bouches du Rhone. There are fifteen dead at Lambeso, ten at St. Cannat and twenty at Rognes. It is believed that the total of dead will reach 100. The temperature has fallen sharply throughout this region.

Food supplies are being dispatched from Aix to the afflicted districts and two battalions of troops have been sent forward to aid in the work of rescuing the wounded from the ruins.

The towns of St. Cannat and Rognes were completely ruined. A large proportion of the houses were wrecked and those still standing are cracked and threaten to fall at any moment.

ELEVEN KILLED IN STORM

Several Other Texans Are Seriously Injured.

Dallas, Tex., June 12.—Eleven persons are dead and several injured as a result of the storm in Central Texas, including one man who was killed when a wind storm blew a Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway passenger train from the Brazos river bridge north of Sweetwater. The towns of Haskell and Lueders were also swept by the storm, which was accompanied by a fall of hail. Thousands of dollars' worth of crops and orchards were destroyed.

Seven are dead at Haskell, Tex. Near Lueders three persons were killed and several seriously hurt, and ten or twelve buildings were wrecked.

In the wreck of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient train, J. E. Stamford, a traveling salesman of Cromwell, Tex., was killed and eleven persons were badly hurt.

The whole train except the engine and tender was blown from the track. Conductor Alexander was badly injured in the arm, Brakeman Van Zandt injured about the head and nine others were seriously injured.

REV. DR. HALE IS DEAD

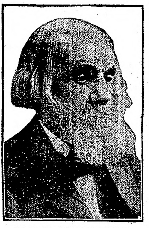
Noted Divine and Author Expires at Roxbury, Mass.

Boston, June 10.—Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States senate, is dead at his home in Roxbury.

News of the death of Dr. Hale shocked Boston to an unusual degree, because comparatively few knew that he was ill. A week ago he was present at a celebration in honor of the ninetieth birthday of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, his contemporary in many of the reform movements with which both had been identified for more than fifty years. To his family it had been apparent for some time that Dr. Hale's health was failing. A few days ago heart weakness was noticed and his condition became alarming. His great age, eighty-seven years, militated against him. However, he was up and about his apartment. In fact he had not been confined to his bed at any stage of the illness. He retired at the usual hour, but his physician had noted evidences that led him to warn the immediate members of the family that the end was not far off. As the night passed Dr. Hale constantly became weaker until the end came about 3 o'clock in the morning.



EDWARD EVERETT HALE.

MEAT INSPECTOR RESIGNS

Could Not Tolerate Conditions at the Stock Yards.

St. Louis, June 10.—After eighteen months' service as a United States meat inspector in East St. Louis packing houses J. F. Harms has resigned and has written a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Wilson demanding an investigation of the meat inspection system at the National stock yards.

Harms, who has gone to his home in Fremont, O., asserts that he resigned because he could not tolerate the conditions he saw and that inspectors in charge of the bureau of animal industry are too lenient with the packers. He says no animus prompted his letter.

SELLS READY PRINT PLANT

St. Paul Dispatch Disposes of Northwestern Newspaper Union.

St. Paul, June 14.—The Northwestern Newspaper Union, which before the sale of the Pioneer Press to the Dispatch was operated by the former, has been sold. No statement has been made as yet by the latter company, but undoubtedly within a short time the ready print papers on the Northwestern Newspaper Union's list will be transferred to the Western Newspaper Union's list.

Receives Undivided Attention of the Senate.

CRITICISES ITS PROVISIONS

Senator Bristow Objects to Clause Providing a Duty on Sugar Admitted Into the Philippines Equal to That Brought Into the United States and the Exemption of Three Hundred Thousand Tons of Philippine Sugar From Duty.

Washington, June 15.—Sugar was the stirring subject before the senate. It was brought to the front in connection with the consideration of the finance committee's substitute for the house provision of the tariff bill regulating the admission of Philippine articles into the United States and it continued to receive practically the undivided attention of the senate throughout the day.

During the first hour that the amendment was before the senate there was some discussion of the effect of the provision on the tobacco interests of Connecticut, but an amendment looking to the introduction of Connecticut tobacco into the Philippines for wrappers had the effect of relieving the situation in that quarter.

Immediate attention was then directed to the clauses providing a duty on sugar admitted into the Philippines equal to that on sugar brought into the United States and exempting 300,000 tons of Philippine sugar from duty when brought into the United States. Senator Bristow criticised both provisions and his criticisms opened the way for a general debate, which was participated in on the one side by Messrs. Bristow and Clapp and on the other by Senators Aldrich and Lodge.

Would Benefit Sugar Trust.

It was contended on the one hand that the two provisions combined were intended to promote the interests of the American sugar trust and not to benefit the Philippine producers, while it was argued by the supporters of the provision that to admit sugar into the islands free of duty would be to open the way for its admission into this country. It was also argued that the sugar producers of the Philippines would be directly benefitted by the admission of their sugar into the United States without requiring the payment of a duty on it.

The only vote taken during the day session was on an amendment by Mr. Bristow admitting sugar into the Philippines free of duty. It was lost, 11 to 49.

Senator Stone of Missouri gave notice that he would soon offer an amendment declaring for the independence of the Philippine islands within fifteen years, an agreement having been meanwhile arrived at with the world powers for the maintenance of the independence of the islands.

It was freely stated around the senate chamber that the Philippines paragraph had the endorsement of President Taft in his own handwriting and late in the day Senator Aldrich stated that it had been endorsed by the president. Senator Clapp expressed incredulity on that point.

The waning of interest in the tariff proceedings was evidenced by the small attendance in the galleries when the senate met at night. Not more than half of the membership was present.

Discussion of the Philippine free trade section of the bill was resumed by Mr. Stone of Missouri. He declared that congress had no constitutional right to assess import duties on products from the Philippine islands.

AGAINST EXPELLING FOSTER

Baptist Ministers' Conference Votes by Large Majority.

Chicago, June 15.—The Baptist ministers' conference by a vote of 37 to 14 decided against expelling from membership Professor Burman Foster of the University of Chicago, whose published utterances on religious subjects have been criticised by Baptist ministers as being heretical.

The show of strength came on a resolution offered as a substitute for the resolution to expel Professor Foster. The adopted resolution is a reaffirmation by the assembled ministers of their allegiance to the Baptist church, of their belief in the diety, the bible and the cardinal doctrines of orthodoxy, regardless of the beliefs or words of Professor Foster or any others.

The adoption of the substitute resolution defeated the original resolution and without further discussion the conference adjourned.

JAP PROTESTS TO GOVERNMENT

Complains to Tokio of Alleged Violation of Treaty.

HIS PRIVATE PAPERS SEIZED

Members of the Editorial Staff of a Japanese Paper In Honolulu Asserts That Action of Territorial Authorities Was Without Due Process of Law—Sheriff Henry Admits Search Was Made by Force of Arms.

Honolulu, June 15.—The situation growing out of the indictment by the grand jury of the seventeen leaders in the strike of the Japanese plantation laborers was given an international turn when M. Negoro of the editorial staff of the Jiji, a local Japanese publication, who was taken into custody when the offices of that paper were raided by the authorities last Friday, made formal complaint to the Japanese foreign office at Tokio of the violation of his treaty rights.

The alleged violation of his rights as a Japanese subject, guaranteed under the treaty between the United States and Japan, he sets forth in his complaint, consists in the search of his office and the seizure of his private papers and documents by the territorial authorities without due process of law.

Territorial Sheriff William Henry admits that the search and seizure were made by force of arms and without search warrants or process of law, but claims that the papers seized contained evidence of criminal purpose and that the courts of the territory are open to Negoro for redress if he has been damaged.

Negoro was rearrested, together with Y. Sogo, Y. Tazaka and K. Kawamura of the editorial staffs of the Nippu and the Jiji, upon indictments returned by the grand jury charging them with conspiring by indirect sinister and unlawful methods and means of intimidation, inciting to riot and threatened violence to prevent and hinder the Honolulu, Oahu, Ewa, Waialua and Kahuku plantations from carrying on their business.

Strikers attacked and seriously stabbed a Japanese restaurant keeper at Kahana for having refused to furnish them with food. The place is distant and inaccessible, but the sheriff has started for the scene to make an investigation. Most of the Japanese have returned to work on the Ewa and Waialua plantations and there are full forces of strike-breakers on the Honolulu and Oahu plantations.

It is reported from Hilo that the Japanese there have selected a delegation to come to this city and join in the formal demand upon the planters' association for an increase in wages to $1 a day.

RIFLES IN PIANO BOXES

Supposed to Be Destined for Venezuelan Revolutionists.

Norfolk, Va., June 15.—Packed in piano boxes and evidently ready for shipment, a quantity of rifles and ammunition, believed to be destined for Venezuelan revolutionists, was discovered at Franklin, Va. The rifles are said to be a part of a consignment of 15,000 Mauser weapons shipped from New York to St. Louis and back to Franklin billed as pianos and packed to weather the trip to South America. The filibuster suspect steamer Nanticoke was lying near Franklin and in the back water below the steamer was her consort, the tug Dispatch.

The revenue cutter Pamlico is blockading the two suspects and it is not believed that either could pass her even in the darkness. Orders have been issued from Washington to seize the vessels in case either should lift anchor.

The Nanticoke is not built for deep sea navigation, but the Dispatch could navigate far off shore and the officers in charge of the situation believe that the plan of the filibusters was to transport the arms to another steamer at sea.

IN TURPENTINE TRUST CASE

Officials of American Naval Stores Company File an Appeal.

New Orleans, June 15.—Another chapter was added to the record in the so-called "turpentine trust" prosecution when officials of the American Naval Stores company, recently convicted in the federal court at Savannah, Ga., on the charge of entering into a conspiracy in constraint of trade, filled an appeal in the United States circuit court of appeals here.

The appellants are E. S. Nash, president; Spencer P. Shotter, chairman of the board of directors; George M. Boardman, treasurer, and J. F. Meyers, vice president of the company, and Carl Moller, general manager of the National Transportation and Terminal company of Jacksonville, Fla. The assignment of errors upon which the appeal is based contains fifty-three allegations, among them that the verdict was presented against the defendants as individuals and that no mention was made of their connection with the American Naval Stores company.

EDWARD DANA DURAND.

GRANT GIVEN OVATION

Confederate Veterans Honor Son of Civil War Hero.

Memphis, Tenn., June 11.—A frenzied demonstration of welcome by the men in gray for the son of the man who defeated them marked the final scene of the nineteenth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans. It took place during the parade. In the reviewing stand stood General Frederick Dent Grant of the United States army. A cavalry division approached and its commanding officer, old and grizzled, peered steadily at General Grant a moment. Then he turned in his saddle and yelled: "Come on, you kids; here's General Grant come to life again in his son."

With one of the oldtime rebel yells, the division charged on the stand and jostled one another for an opportunity to shake the hand of the son of their oldtime enemy. From that moment, every gray-clad veteran who could reach the stand rushed up to shake hands with General Grant. The stocky army officer's cold gray eyes filled with tears and his shoulders shook with emotion as he murmured: "God bless you all, boys. God bless you."

SENATORS IN ROW

La Follette Scores Aldrich Until Called to Order.

WOOLEN SCHEDULE FINISHED

Progressives Strong in Debate but Weak in Votes.

Washington, June 11.—This was field day in the senate for Republican progressives, who in debate tore to shreds the wool schedule reported by Chairman Aldrich and his committee on finance.

The progressives, as heretofore, were strong on argument, but weak on votes, and on each roll call they were bowled over by the stalwarts, led by Senators Aldrich, Hale and Lodge.

Late in the day the senate refused, by the decisive vote of 59 to 8, to recommit the wool schedule to the committee on finance on motion of Mr. Cummins and thus finally concluded the consideration of that schedule.

There was a lot of plain talk in connection with the tariff bill. Senator Cummins of Iowa predicted that if the measure became a law in its present shape the Republican party would go down to defeat in the next elections.

Senator Aldrich then lectured the Republican progressives, declaring that their present opposition to the pending bill would come up to plague them in the future. They would have to explain their votes, he said.

Galleries Applaud Clapp.

Senator Clapp interjected this observation: "Instead of explaining our votes we will be kept busy explaining the votes of some others in this chamber."

Loud applause in the galleries greeted this sally.

Senator Aldrich said that he would have to make no explanation to his constituents.

The fiery progressive from Wisconsin then took the floor. He went after Aldrich hammer and tongs. He took as the text for his discourse the statement of Mr. Aldrich that he would not be called upon to make any explanation to his constituents. Mr. La Follette intimated that the Rhode Island senator was not answerable to his constituents; that senators were elected in a peculiar way in Rhode Island and he told of one instance wherein he alleged Mr. Aldrich lobbied through the legislature of that state a 999-year railroad franchise.

Mr. La Follette followed along this line until the rule was invoked by Mr. Gallinger, the chair expressing the hope that all senators would observe the rule.

PRESIDENT OF BRAZIL DEAD

Sudden Passing of Head of South American Republic.

Washington, June 14.—President Penna of Brazil is dead. The news was received in a dispatch to the state department from the American ambassador at Rio de Janeiro.

The death of Dr. Penna was evidently sudden. Other than a dispatch received from Rio de Janeiro saying that he was gravely ill and that as a consequence the ministers had been summoned to the palace, there has been no intimation that he was in ill health. The last report of his doings concerned his message at the opening of the Brazilian congress May 4 and his refusal two weeks later to accept the resignation of the Brazilian minister of finance.

ICE KING IS OUT ON BAIL

Charles W. Morse Will Be Free for Four Months.

New York, June 17.—Charles W. Morse, convicted banker, was released on bail pending the taking up of his appeal in the United States circuit court of appeals next October. For nearly four months Morse will be free to go and come as he pleases. At the end of that time the court of appeals will either order a new trial or affirm the sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment imposed upon the former ice king in November of last year.

The bail bond for $125,000 was signed by twenty wealthy friends of Morse who volunteered for this service several months ago, and Morse quit the custody of the United States marshal.

IDENTIFIES THE NEGROES

Wounded Brakeman Says They Shot His Comrade.

Des Moines, Ia., June 22.—Alva C. Bechtell, the brakeman who was probably fatally shot by negroes at Vaile, is still alive. He was reported dead Sunday night.

He has identified Henry Clark and Chesley Hubbard, two negroes arrested at Manila charged with the murder of Brakeman Lee C. Warner, as the men who did the shooting.

GUILTY, BUT ACQUITTED

Remarkable Verdict of Jury In Murder Trial.

Amsterdam, N. Y., June 19.—Frank Denatto, a wealthy Amsterdam Italian saloon keeper, who has been on trial at Fonda for the past four weeks for being accessory before the fact in the murder of William E. McLachlan of Cranes Hollow, in July, 1907, was acquitted by a jury, which handed up one of the most remarkable verdicts ever rendered in a homicide case. The document reads:

"While in our own minds and opinion, we, as men, regard the defendant as guilty, yet after considering our oaths as jurors and carefully considering the evidence as placed before us, we cannot find sufficient evidence to convict and therefore render a verdict of not guilty."

The jury was roundly scored by Justice Spencer, who declared that they apparently had failed to give full attention to the case, and in conclusion he ordered the clerk to remove their names from the list of available jurors for future service.

She was sentenced by Judge Reed to three years in the state prison. In her statement to the court the girl claimed that Lucas had made defamatory remarks about her character and that she was justified in stabbing him.

CORPORATION TAX

President Would Collect Two Per Cent of Net Incomes.

SENDS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

Urges Adoption of Amendment to the Constitution.

Washington, June 17.—Recommending legislation looking to the placing of a 2 per cent tax on the net income of corporations and also the adoption of an amendment to the Constitution providing for the imposition of an income tax without an apportionment among the several states, President Taft sent to congress a message embodying his views on the subject. This action followed a protracted special meeting of the cabinet.

In his message the president speaks of the apparent inability of congress to agree to an inheritance tax, and as regards an income tax he refers to the decision of the supreme court in the case of Pollock vs. the Farmers' Loan and Trust company, in which the court held the tax to be unconstitutional unless apportioned according to population.

"It is," says the president, "undoubtedly a power which the government ought to have. It might be indispensable to the nation's life in great crises."

The amendment, therefore, he declared was the only proper course. Such an amendment to the Constitution, he contended, was preferable to the one proposed of reviving a law judicially declared to be unconstitutional.

Banks Exempt From Tax.

The amendment which he proposes should be made to the tariff bill provides for the imposition upon all corporations and joint stock companies for profit, except national banks (otherwise taxed), savings banks, and building and loan associations, of an excise tax of 2 per cent on the net income of said corporation. This, it is estimated by him, will bring an annual revenue of $25,000,000.

"This is a tax on privilege and not on property," he says, "and is within the federal power without apportionment according to population."

The president points out that another merit to the tax on corporations is the federal supervision, which will give to the government, the stockholders and the public knowledge of the real business transactions and the gains and profits of every corporation in the country. The adoption of the amendment, he says, will make a long step "toward that supervisory control of corporations which may prevent a further abuse of power."

SENATORS TALK ON HIDES

Consider Proposal to Restore the Dingley Law Rates of Duty.

Washington, June 22.—The amendment of the senate committee on finance taking hides from the free list and restoring the Dingley law rates of 15 per cent ad valorem, was before the senate all day, and it was not disposed of.

Senator Warren of Wyoming and Senator Carter of Montana supported the provision and in vigorous language attacked the attitude of the free hide advocates, while Senator Page of Vermont defended the action of the house in placing hides on the free list. Mr. Warren declared that the senate had been insulted by the charge that the Dingley provision had been inserted as the result of a midnight conference, and he declared that free raw material would be the death knell of protective policy if it should be adopted, while Mr. Carter asserted that if the farmers were to be compelled to sell their products in the open market they would demand the right to buy manufactured articles in the same kind of market.

DUTY ON PAPER INCREASED

Senate Raises Tariff to Four Dollars a Ton.

Washington, June 19.—Just before adjournment the senate adopted by a vote of 44 to 32 the amendment of the senate committee on finance fixing a duty of $4 a ton on print paper, in place of the house rate of $2 a ton, but the other amendments to the wood pulp and print paper schedule had not been acted upon when the senate adjourned.

ENDS IN A DISAGREEMENT

Trial of Frisco Street Car Magnate Charged With Bribery.

San Francisco, June 21.—The trial of President Patrick Calhoun of the United Railroads terminated in a disagreement of the jury, with ten men determined on acquittal and two steadfastly resolved on conviction.

Five months and a week have transpired since the street car magnate, a descendant of Patrick Henry, made his first appearance in court to answer to the charge of offering a bribe of $4,000 to a supervisor to obtain a privilege for his corporation.

Not until each juror had pronounced as hopeless the prospect of a verdict was the order for their liberation made by Judge Lawlor, prosecution and defense giving assent.

WILL PRESENT DEMURRERS

Calhoun's Counsel Will Ask That Indictment Be Set Aside.

San Francisco, June 22.—When the case against Patrick Calhoun, president of the United Railways, charging that he offered a bribe of $4,000 to supervisor John J. Furey to secure an overhead trolley franchise is called in Judge Lawlor's court next Monday counsel for the defense will move that the indictment be set aside.

They will present demurrers alleging that Judge Lawlor, on account of his conduct of the trial just concluded, is not qualified to sit in the new case and that Francis J. Heney is disqualified from acting as assistant district attorney because of the alleged fact because he was at time of his appointment by District Attorney Langdon and is now, an assistant to the attorney general of the United States.

Heney declared that he was not and never had been an assistant attorney general of the United States, although he had been offered that office by Attorney General Knox. He denied also the allegation made by Moore that he had drawn large sums of money from Rudolph Spreckels for his services during the prosecution of graft cases. All money paid to him by Mr. Spreckels, he said, had been paid out by him in turn to his assistants for salaries and expenses.

ONE PERFORMANCE IN HARVARD STADIUM

Maude Adams Will Be Seen as Joan of Arc.

Cambridge, Mass., June 22.—Never in the history of the American stage has there been a performance such as that of "Joan of Arc" to be given by Maude Adams in the Harvard stadium tonight. According to those who have witnessed the rehearsals and have grasped the scope and purpose of the play the only dramatic representation with which it can be compared is the Passion play at Oberammergau.

In a series of splendid dramatic pictures, drawn on a vast scale, Miss Adams will depict the life of the young peasant girl who delivered France from the English invaders in the Fifteenth century. All sides of the character of the Maid of Orleans will be shown—her life in her native cottage, the visitation of voices that led her to the saving of her dearly beloved France, her leadership of the French forces to victory and her martyrdom.

The performance will be adequately staged. There will be 1,300 active participants, including about 800 men in armor on horseback, monks, citizens of both sexes, nobles, choir boys, English and French soldiery. The great historic figures of the time will be represented by actors well able to carry out the illusion of reality and the stage settings and costumes will show the results of an immense amount of historical research. The play is an English version of Schiller's "Joan of Arc."

Miss Adams has had the co-operation of Charles Frohman, the well known manager, in her preparations for the representation of "Joan of Arc." All his resources have been drawn upon freely for the success of the play. The purpose of the performance is the raising of money to help in the erection of a new building for the Germanic museum of Harvard university. Only one performance will be given. After the play tonight the company will be dispersed and the properties shipped to New York.

CAUSE OF QUARREL UNKNOWN

Chinaman Killed in a Fight in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, June 22.—During a fight between Chinamen in a laundry at Tenth and Locust streets Lee Kee, the proprietor, shot and fatally wounded Lee Sing. The shooting occurred in the presence of a crowd of nearly 1,000 persons who had collected on hearing a revolver shot in the laundry. Lee Sing was seen to rush out of the building carrying a hatchet in his hand. He was closely followed by Kee, who it is said carried a smoking revolver. At the doorstep another shot was fired and Sing fell with a bullet in his breast. A conductor of a passing trolley car jumped from his car and arrested Kee. Sing was removed to a hospital. Kee Kong, who was in the laundry at the time, was also placed under arrest. What caused the quarrel is unknown. The three men are cousins and belonged to the same Tong.

Milwaukee Men Drowned.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 22.—Oswald Lippold, thirty-five years of age, and William Arnold, twenty-one, both of Milwaukee, were drowned in the mill race here while swimming, and William Cole, also of Milwaukee, was rescued in an unconscious condition. Lippold and Cole were teaching Arnold to swim and the fatality occurred when Arnold ventured beyond his depth and pulled down the other men when they swam to his assistance.

Iowa Boys Drowned.

Marshalltown, Ia., June 22.—While bathing in Linn creek, Carl Johnson, aged eight, and his brother, Leonard, aged seven, were drowned.

MANY BATHERS DROWNED

Waters Claim Several Victims in the Northwest.

St. Paul, June 22.—Impetuous and inexperienced bathers added a considerable list to the drowning fatalities in the Northwest during the high temperatures that prevailed generally over this part of the country.

Another list was added by the efforts of unfortunate swimmers who tried in vain to rescue comrades or relatives, but succumbed to cramps in the cold undercurrents of the rivers and lakes. Many were taken from the water near to death and brought to life only after heroic efforts.

The drownings reported are:

Leslie Nelson, Valley City, N. D., ten years old, in Hill creek, near Dazey, N. D.

George Griffin, Valley City, N. D., nineteen years old, attacked with cramps in Hill creek while trying to rescue Nelson.

Otto Sievertson, Hannaford, N. D., twenty-five years old, home in Minnesote, drowned in Hill creek.

—— Ponquist, Blue Earth, Minn., girl, six years old, while fishing.

John Pearson of Marble, Minn., a car repairer for the Duluth Northern, in Twin lakes on the Western Mesabi, while bathing: taken with cramps.

—— Anderson, a diamond drill man, twenty-five years old, in Snowball lake on the Western Mesabi, while swimming.

Two unidentified men were drowned in the Calumet river near East Chicago. They jumped off a bridge while trying to avoid to train.

PROFESSOR FOSTER OUSTED BY BAPTISTS

Dropped From Roll of Chicago Ministers' Conference.

Chicago, June 22.—Professor George Burman Foster of the University of Chicago, whose denial of the divinity of Christ in a recent book has stirred Chicago Baptists to a high pitch of resentment, was dropped from the Baptist ministers' conference of Chicago.

Hisses, yells and general confusion made the meeting one of the stormiest ever held by churchmen in Chicago, and it was referred to by one preacher as resembling a political meeting in a rowdy ward.

Speakers who had been howled or hissed down sat with flushed, indignant faces while the chairman pounded for order.

The young son of Professor Foster was present.

"It's a shame and unfair," he shouted as he left the hill.

The conference has not the power to expel him from the church, and while such an event seemed to be desired by those present, no definite plan of action was mapped out.

E. H. HARRIMAN IS NOT SICK

Reports of Railroad Magnate's Illness Denied.

Vienna, June 22.—There is no truth whatever in the reports which seem to have been current in many parts of the world that E. H. Harrigan is seriously ill. Mr. Harriman's health on the whole is considered satisfactory. Certainly there have been no serious complications of any kind since his arrival here. He has been driving daily and has shown a lively interest in all Vienna's social events. On Saturday Mr. Harriman was among the guests of the emperor at the Neuehandels academy and on Sunday afternoon he witnessed the trotting races and took a drive through the principal streets.

Mr. Harriman, accompanied by his family, will leave here today for Semmering in the eastern Alps of Austria-Hungary, where he intends to stay for several weeks.

Innumerable telegrams were received here from all parts of the world making inquiries as to Mr. Harriman's condition and it is believed by his representative that the unfavorable rumors regarding his health have their explanation in maneuvers which have been going on in certain bourses and stock exchanges.

LANDSLIDE WRECKS TRAIN

Thirty Persons Injured in Accident in Montana.

White Fish, Mont., June 22.—The Great Northern westbound Oriental Limited passenger train was derailed near Ural on the Kootenai river. Thirty passengers were injured but none was killed. A landslide caused the accident.

Woman Confesses to Crime.

York, Pa., June 22.—Mrs. Minnie Tracey, arrested Saturday pending an investigation of the sudden death of her husband, Joshua Tracey, has, the police say, confessed that she poisoned him. She implicates her brother-in-law, William Brown, who also is in jail, declaring that he purchased and gave to her strychnine which she mixed with her husband's whiskey.

Two Boys Drowned.

Washington, June 22.—Charles Salvey and William Hook, nine and eight years old, respectively, were drowned while bathing in the eastern branch of the Potomac river near this city.

RESTS ITS CASE

Defense In Gould Divorce Suit Completes Testimony.

REBUTTAL EVIDENCE OFFERED

Witnesses Swear to Good Behavior of Mrs. Gould.

New York, June 22.—Sensation seekers and the curious who have attended daily the sessions of Katherine Clemmons Gould's suit for separation from her husband, Howard Gould, were sadly disappointed at the resumption of the hearings before Justice Dowling in the supreme court when it was announced that the defense had rested and that Howard Gould would not take the stand. It had been expected that his direct testimony and his cross-examination by Clarence J. Shearn, counsel for the plaintiff, would take two full days.

Mr. Shearn apparently was greatly surprised by the announcement that Mr. Gould would not testify. Gould himself seemed relieved and Mrs. Gould annoyed.

"Since the recess of last Friday, your honor," said Delancy Nicoll, counsel for Gould, "my associates and I have decided that the testimony which we have offered is so complete that there is no necessity for going further. We therefore have decided to rest at this time."

Rebuttal Testimony Offered.

When he recovered from his first astonishment Mr. Shearn led off the rebuttal with testimony designed to show, he explained, "the falsity of the charge that Mrs. Gould was continually and habitually intoxicated from 1902 to the present date."

"Do you regard such evidence as necessary?" asked the court.

Necessary or not, counsel for the plaintiff thereupon produced a stream of below-stairs witnesses, whose testimony was followed by the reading of depositions of guests and friends who swore that Mrs. Gould never, to their knowledge, drank to excess and that she was always affable, reserved and modest in her language—testimony directly opposed to that the defendant's witnesses had given previously. It was on account of the unexpected attitude taken by the defense that Mr. Shearn had run short of witnesses late in the day and was obliged to introduce the depositions.

MYSTERY STILL UNSOLVED

No Further Progress Made in Sigel Murder Case.

New York, June 22.—After a bit of police flurry, an hour or two of unverified reports and telephoning between cities, the murder of Elsie Sigel, daughter of Paul Sigel of this city and granddaughter of General Franz Sigel of Civil war fame, resolved itself into an unsolved crime again.

Chung Sin, who formerly occupied a room adjoining that where the girl's body was found, is held by the police at the little up-state city of Amsterdam, N. Y., but what has been learned from him has served to clear the case little, if any. At Schenectady, the Chinaman arrested Monday, at first thought to be Leon Ling, or William L. Leon, who is sought as the girl's murderer, has, according to all indications, pretty well established that he is an unoffending Celestial who formerly worked in a restaurant in New York and whose arrest was brought about merely through a strikingly unfortunate resemblance to Leon Ling.

In the midst of all the police activity the body of Elsie Sigel was quietly buried in Woodlawn cemetery. As the father had announced that he wished to avoid any more publicity, the coffin containing the mutilated form was taken directly from the morgue to the burying ground in a plain undertaking wagon.

NO TRACE OF POISON FOUND

Young Married Couple Apparently Died Natural Death.

Williamsport, Pa., June 19.—The mysterious death of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Munroe, bride and groom of a week, has been explained by Coroner Hardt following an autopsy. No traces of poison were found; instead the conclusion was reached that the young woman had a fatal attack of heart paralysis and dropped dead at her husband's feet. The husband was overcome, the coroner declares, and also suffered a heart attack, falling forward with his face in the bed clothing and smothered to death.

OCEAN RECORD AGAIN BROKEN

Mauretania Clips Fifty Minutes Off Previous Best Time.

Queenstown, June 21.—The Cunard line steamer Mauretania has clipped another fifty minutes off the best previous eastward record, which also is her own. She accomplished her latest journey from New York in 4 days, 17 hours and 21 minutes, the best previous being 4 days, 18 hours and 11 minutes. The total run was 2,933 knots, made at an average speed of 25.88 knots an hour. The best previous average speed was 25.70 knots an hour.

IN USUAL VIGOROUS STYLE

Roosevelt Writes Regarding Methods of "Wicked Rich."

New York, June 17.—From the wilds of far off Africa ex-President Roosevelt has sent another appeal to the American people "to wrest the control of the government from the hands of the rich men who use it for unhealthy purposes."

Under the caption, "The Thraldom of Names," Mr. Roosevelt writes in the current Outlook with customary vigor of the necessity of continuing the fight against crooked business and declares that "if business is hurt by the stern exposure of crookedness and the result of efforts to punish the crooked men then business must be hurt, even if good men are involved in the hurting."

ATTACK BANK GUARANTY ACT

Bankers Apply for Injunction, Asserting Measure Is Confiscatory.

Omaha, June 21.—Fifty-two national and state bankers of Nebraska have filed applications in the federal court at Lincoln for an injunction to restrain the enforcement of the state guaranty of bank deposits act.

The petition contends, among other things, that the act is confiscatory in appropriating one man's property to settle the liabilities of another.

TEN KILLED IN CRASH

Disastrous Collision Occurs at Baileytown, Ind.

South Bend, Ind., June 21.—Ten persons were killed and forty injured in a wreck on the Chicago, Lake Shore and South Bend railroad in Porter county, two of the big electric cars colliding head-on. According to General Manager H. U. Wallace the wreck was due to a disobedience of orders by Motorman George A. Reed of the eastbound car, who was killed.

Reed received instructions at Gary to wait at Wilson, a short distance west of Baileytown, the point at which the disaster occurred, for the westbound car to pass. The impact of the cars was so great that they were reduced to a mass of wreckage.

Of the forty injured only two of them, Nan Larson of Chesterton, Ind., and Paul Wilson of Michigan City, Ind., are probably fatally hurt. Most of the others were cut and bruised.

VERDICT OF CORONER'S JURY

Dr. Cleminson Held to Grand Jury on Murder Charge.

Chicago, June 18.—Dr. Haldane Cleminson was held to the grand jury by a coroner's jury at the inquest over the body of his wife, Mrs. Nora Jane Cleminson. The verdict of the coroner's jury implicated him in the death of his wife.

DR. HALDANE CLEMINSON.

BRITISH STEAMER FIRED ON

Approached Too Near Rendesvous of Russian Emperor.

Viborg, Finland, June 17.—The British steamer Northburg was fired upon by a Russian torpedo boat for approaching too close to the bay on the Finnish coast where Emperor Nicholas and Emperor William were to meet.

The Northburg was hailed off Wirolahti, island of Bjorke. The projectile from the torpedo boat pierced a steampipe and one member of the crew of the English vessel was wounded. The incident shows the extreme nervousness for the safety of Emperor Nicholas, even at sea.

Russian torpedo boats have been patrolling Pitkipas bay, the rendezvous of the two emperors, and it was one of these guard vessels that fired on the British ship.

BEAR RAID ON THE MARKET

Starts Simultaneously With Rumor of Harriman's Illness.

New York, June 21.—An unconfirmed rumor that E. H. Harriman was very seriously ill in Vienna was circulated simultaneously with a bear raid on the stock market. At the Union Pacific offices prompt denial of the rumor was made and it was asserted that a cablegram had been received from Mr. Harriman on some business matters.

When the wife carries the stove and the husband the pipe it is a sure sign of a hard time.

The man who pays for popularity in the coin of character is heading for the abyss of moral bankruptcy.

The editor is back at his desk after a ten days absence so the devil is relieved of considerable responsibility.

The work of the present congress proves that if you touch the tariff cliff there is an abundant gush of the waters of selfishness.

When we note the rapid progress of our present congress we believe that the American people would be justified in praying that the "big stick" should be substituted with a stuffed club.

Plummer need not fear the coming of more railroads. It may be true that if a road should be built thru the country lying east of us some of our territory would be cut off but while it might cut off some territory it would greatly enhance the value of the part that remained. We are of the opinion that there need be little fear that this section will ever have so many railroads that they will become a detriment.

A large number of the banks in this this state and other adjoining states that bank on their scissors for material with which to fill their editorial page have fallen into the trap of stating for the benefit of the concentrate creameries and to the detriment of all the Farmers Co-operative Creameries that only a few of the latter kind of factories have peen built in these states in the last few years where a large number of those already in existance have been forced to discontinue doing business. This is absolutely false and is a false-hood that has been concocted by the concentrators that are jealous of the Farmers and their progressive ways of doing business. There has been established numerous new farmers creameries every year throughout this and adjoining state and in no instance have any of these creameries that have been backed by the farmers failed. We would advise some of our brother editors to sieve their clippings a little closer before they boost the unknown.

Exposition Stamp.

The postoffice has just received a new supply of postage stamps. A large portion of these stamps, are the special 2 cent stamp which is published specially for the Alaska-Yukon. Pacific exposition. These will be on sale only for a limited time and in very limited numbers and will be used exclusively during the exposition season.

Heavy Rain in N. Dakota.

Such a heavy rain fell at Fairdale, North Dakota last Saturday that it completely destroyed over 100 feet of the railroad bed. The fact that this washout had occured was quickly sent to this city by wire and a large crew of men and a load of ties were soon on their way to repair the damages done. So speedy were the operations that when the west bound train went out on Monday the work had progressed sufficiently so that the train crossed on time. Thus the company, though it sustained a very heavy loss, made good and filled in the break and this in time so that not a single train on the line was delayed a single minute. This certainly should be set down by every traveler as one point in favor of the "Soo" railroad company.

Relief For Settlers.

Through the efforts of Congressman Steenerson it has now become a certainty that the settlers on the eleven towns who are complying with the requirements of the law regarding residence and cultivation of their claims will not be compelled to make their payments on these lands at this time. The following letter has been received by this paper from Hon. R. J. Montague, Register of the U. S. Land Office at Crookston and makes this plain.

Crookston, Minn., June 23, 1909.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office yesterday telegraphed us not to issue the notices proposed to be issued requiring homestead entrymen on the Eleven Red Lake Towns to show cause why their entries should not be canceled by reason of their failure to pay past due installments, so such notices will not be issued. The reason is that Mr. Steenerson has introduced a bill in Congress extending time to make such payments by all persons who are complying with the law as to residence and cultivation on those lands. It appears certain that no person who is complying with the law as to residence and cultivation will be troubled or bothered in any manner on account of any failure to make payments until after Congress next winter shall have time to act on the matter. The bill in some form will in all probability be passed during next winter. Please give this as wide publicity as you can.

Reviving Drowned By New Method.

If the discovery by Dr. H. K. Whitford, of Elgin, Ill., proves to be what he predicts, hundreds of lives will be saved every year. He declares he is able to revive human life after it has been submerged in water up to six hours.

The theory advanced by Dr. Whitford, is deemed an entirely new one. In speaking of his method, he says:

"It is impossible for a drop of water to enter the lungs of any person who enters the water alive. This is in contradiction to the time honored belief that the lungs of a drowned person are filled with water.

"The water striking the larynx causes a spasm which closes the lungs, and prevents the entering of water for a period of nine days, until relaxation commences. Drowning, so called, is merely suspended animation and not death.

"To restore animation I proceed first to thoroughly warm the body chilled by long submersion. This is accomplished with hot water, in which the subject is immersed for 20 minutes or longer. Following this the old and ordinary methods of restoration are resorted to.

This process, he says, makes possible the saving of lives of persons who have been submerged for a time not exceeding six hours. Dr. Whitford claims never to have failed in his method of resuscitation, and believes that it will be adopted universally.

There were over 300 deaths from drowning in this country from January to June 10th, and before the snow flies this number will be almost doubled.

Prominent Editor Dies.

Hon. Richard H. Medicraft, editor of the Roseau Region, and a prominent lawyer and politician of that place, died at the Roseau hospital on Monday, June 21st. He had been suffering for nearly a week with a neglected case of typhoid fever and this, with a weak heart, caused his death. He entered the hospital on the Thursday preceding his death and was delerious until the end. His untimely death is deplored by the entire community, and more so on account of the fact that no one was aware of his illness until death came.

Mr. Medicraft's career has been a most brilliant and successful one. He served his district in the state legislature for one term, and served one term as County Attorney of Roseau county, besides holding many minor offices in the smaller organizations of his home town. As an editor, he was probably as well known as any in the state, and it is from the fraternity that the most heartfelt expressions of sympathy will come to the sorrowing relatives.

A Fine Rain.

This section of the state was visited the first of the week by one of the most beneficial rains of the season. On both Monday and Tuesday, heavy showers fell and the crop prospects were bettered many hundred per cent as a result. The rain was accompanied by much lightning and several of the neighboring towns report damage. At Red Lake Falls, George Gamache, 23 years old, was struck and instantly killed by a lightning bolt. He was the third boy in the family to die within the past six months. At Warren, the city hall was struck and practically ruined. Two officials who had just left the building, would have been killed had they remained but a few minutes longer. At the Grand Forks fair grounds, several buildings were more or less injured and one was totally destroyed. The city of Crookston also reports considerable damage from both the wind and the lightning, and several towns in North Dakota also suffered more or less.

PITTSBURG STRIKE ENDED

Efforts of the Mayor Result in Settlement of Dispute.

Pittsburg, June 29.—The street railway strike, which has cost the city of Pittsburg over $200,000 in two days, has been officially declared to be at an end. In the private offices of Mayor William A. Magee articles were signed by officials of the Pittsburg Railways company and an executive committee from the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employes which will for years to come prevent another tie-up of the 400 miles of street railway tracks in and about Greater Pittsburg and Allegheny county. The strike, it developed, was the outcome of but two points of difference between the car company and the motormen and conductors, one being the alleged neglect upon the part of the car company to shorten "swing runs," and the other of the refusal of these railway officials to reinstate discharged men without proper hearing.

FIVE OF THEM AMERICANS

Eleven Persons Drowned on Lake Killarney, Ireland.

Killarney, Ireland, June 24.—A large rowboat carrying five American and four English tourists and four Irish boatmen was swamped in a gale while crossing Lower Killarney lake. All of the tourists and two of the boatmen were drowned. The victims were Mrs. A. A. Hilton and son of Tacoma, Wash.; Mr. and Mrs. Longhead, or Loughead, of Boston; Miss M. H. Catum of Massachusetts (town not known); Rev. B. Barton and sister of London, and Miss Florence Wilkinson and cousin of Brentwood, Essex; Boatmen Con Tooney and Con Gleeson. None of the bodies were recovered.

SLAYER ENDS HIS LIFE

Murderer of Mrs. Woodill Commits Suicide.

St. Michaels, Md., June 26.—The last chapter in a story of crime unparallelled in this section of the country was written in the half light of an early summer's day when the man accused of the heartless murder of pretty little May Edith Thompson Woodill—a spectre-like form fleeing in a skiff from a posse of determined, relentless pursuers—stood for a moment facing the men who had cornered him on the waters of a narrow creek, then fired a bullet into his heart and fell a lifeless lump into the bottom of the boat which he had hoped would carry him to a landing place where flight might be possible.

Taking his fate into his own hands and blotting out untold the story of the death of a girl who had moved in the highest social circles of Baltimore, Washington and Los Angeles—a beautiful, talented girl who had been a protege of Lyman J. Gage and of former Governor Frank Brown of this state—the man known here as Emmet E. Roberts, but who in reality was Robert Emmet Eastman, a failed broker of the Consolidated Stock Exchange of New York, passed beyond the reach of the law and with his going there vanished the hope of clearing up the motive and the baffling details of this strange tragedy.

The verdict of the coroner's jury declares "that Robert E. Eastman either killed or was accessory to the murder of Edith May Woodill."

SULTAN'S POSITION SERIOUS

American Minister Tells of Situation in Morocco.

Washington, June 25.—A dispatch came to the state department from H. Percival Dodge, the American minister to Morocco, saying that the sultan's troops have been defeated by forces led by the old pretender, Roghiand, and that among nearly all the troops about Fez rebellious tendencies are growing rapidly in favor of several other pretenders. It is reported that foreigners are preparing to leave Fez. The American government has no consular representative there and the British minister at Tangier has instructed the consul of that country at Fez to extend the necessary protection to Americans who may be residing there. Mr. Dodge says that it is apparent the government of the sultan is in a rather critical situation.

SHATTUCK WINS BIG SHOOT

Columbus Man Champion Trap Shot of the United States.

Chicago, June 26.—Fred Shattuck of Columbus, O., won the Grand American trap shooting handicap when the quadruple tie, resulting from Friday's shooting, was shot off. John R. Livingstone of Springfield, Ala., was second.

Shattuck, Livingstone, William A. Wettleaf of Nickols, Ia., and George Burns of Cleveland each shot at twenty birds. Shattuck broke twenty straight and Livingstone nineteen. Burns missed two and Wettleaf three.

La Crosse Strike Settled.

La Crosse, Wis., June 28.—The street railway strike has been finally and positively settled. The men gain all points except that the company is to operate an open shop.

VERDICT IS A COMPROMISE

Coroner's Jury Reports on the Woodill Murder Case.

EASTMAN KILLED THE WOMAN

Or If He Did Not He Was an Accessory to the Crime, in the Opinion of the Jury—Petty Politics Mixed Up in the Verdict—Authorities Believe That Murderer Had Blackmailed His Victim.

St. Michaels, Md., June 29.—With the compromise verdict of the coroner's jury that Robert E. Eastman either killed or was accessory to the murder of Edith May Woodill and the declaration of State's Attorney Taylor that he was through with the case, the strange dual tragedy which has for nearly a week focused the eyes of the entire country upon this little out-of-the-way hamlet of Maryland's famous Eastern shore became a closed incident.

Four of the twelve jurors who listened to the testimony at the reopened inquest refused to sign the verdict until the words "or accessory to," were added to the draft approved by the majority. None of the four dissenting jurors would say that any other person than Eastman was responsible for the girl's death. They merely wished to protest, they said, against the manner in which the inquiry was conducted, declaring that much available evidence was not adduced.

The letter left by Eastman for his wife in which he declared that Mrs. Woodill had been killed by a woman in a jealous frenzy was not read to the jury. The officials seemed to take it for granted that all of the evidence unearthed since the finding of the body was well known to the residents of the community and that it was unnecessary that it should again be rehearsed. There was just a bit of petty politics mixed up in the verdict too, for some of the members of the jury have been bitter political enemies in Talbot county affairs.

Jury Sat in the Bungalow.

The jury sat for a time in the lonely bungalow within sight of Eastman's unmarked grave not fifty feet away. Mrs. Eastman had visited the place earlier in the day and had stood dry-eyed for a time beside the new-made mound. Some one with ill-judged humor had planted a tomato vine on the grave. Mrs. Eastman, thinking the vine a native flower, asked what it was. No one had the temerity to tell her. She stood by the grave until at last a convulsive shudder shook her shoulders. Then she was led away.

Much of the testimony given before the jury made clear many points in the tragedy which heretofore have been matters of conjecture. The mysterious launch which was reported as having been seen near the bungalow on the Sunday following the disappearance of Mrs. Woodill, did not materialize in the evidence adduced. Residents of the neighborhood of the bungalow were plied with questions as to the launch, but none had seen it.

No one was seen about the bungalow on the Sunday when Mrs. Woodill was slain. There was absolutely no evidence that any one other than Eastman could have been responsible for the crime.

And the final theory of the authorities is this: That Eastman was in need of money; that he probably had been getting money from Mrs. Woodill for some time; that he undoubtedly knew something of her past life and that he had been blackmailing her; that he attempted to continue this practice and that the woman rebelled, intimating that she, too, had found out certain things about Eastman and that if driven to it would expose him.

Eastman's dread of serving a term in the penitentiary is well known. His wife has said that he told her he would rather commit suicide than he confined in prison. The pawning of the jewelry the authorities set down to the desire of Eastman to get away. When cornered the man decided that his race had been run and that he had better make an end of it all. As to why Mrs. Woodill went to the bungalow there was no evidence.

Young Men Killed by a Train.

Deerfield, Mo., June 29.—The dead bodies of Charles Brown of Wichita, Kan., and Allen Wilson, Chicago, young men, were found alongside the railway tracks near here. It is believed they were struck by a train while asleep.

Ends Life on Eve of Wedding.

Knoxville, Tenn., June 29.—After securing a license to wed, Dennis L. Minton, aged twenty-three, committed suicide. It is claimed he was about to be forced into a marriage by friends of the young woman in the case.

House Holds Brief Session.

Washington, June 29.—After adopting the conference report on the census bill the house adjourned until Thursday. No other business, except the introduction of bills and resolutions, was attempted.

FINISH SCHEDULES

Senators Finally Conclude Their Long Discussion.

Placing of Cotton Bagging on Free List Unexpected.

Washington, June 29.—After seventy days of almost continuous debate the senate concluded its discussion of the schedules of the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill. Five minutes afterward the senate adjourned for the day to permit the slight preparation possible in so short a time for the debate on the corporation and income tax questions, which will begin soon after the senate convenes.

Cotton bagging and cotton ties and incidentally binding twine, occupied much of the senate's time. Senator McLaurin moved to place bagging on the free list, and contrary to the general expectation the motion prevailed. The Southern senators were, however, not so fortunate with cotton ties, which they also desired to have made free of duty. Senator Culberson proposed the change in ties. He came within seven votes of winning, the vote standing 31 to 38.

The duty on structural iron and steel valued at more than nine-tenths of a cent a pound was increased from three-tenths to four-tenths of a cent per pound, being an addition to the house rate of one-tenth of a cent. The rate on steel of a lower value was left unchanged. On zinc in pigs there was also an addition of half a cent a pound over the house rate of one cent.

Plaintiff Had Asked for Quarter of a Million Yearly.

New York, June 26.—After a trial which lasted nearly three weeks, Katherine Clemmons Gould obtained a legal separation from her husband, Howard Gould, third son of the late Jay Gould, by a decision of Justice Dowling in the supreme court. With the exception of alimony, her victory was complete, but in this phase of the case the court decided that $36,000 a year was sufficient, although in her suit Mrs. Gould asked for $250,000. She has been receiving $25,000 a year from Mr. Gould, so that the amount fixed by the court is but a slight increase compared with the amount sued for.

It was in the vindication of charges of intoxication and her alleged relations with Dustin Farnum, the actor, that Mrs. Gould scored most strongly, for notwithstanding the long array of witnesses for Mr. Gould, who gave such testimony as to make Mrs. Gould appear as defendant rather than plaintiff, the court held that the alleged "intoxication" might have been due to excitement. As to Dustin Farnum, it was held that her association with him came after Mr. and Mrs. Gould separated and that the husband apparently made no objection.

Immediately after the decision Delancey Nicoll, for Mr. Gould, asked for a sixty-day stay of judgment, and Clarence J. Shearn, for the plaintiff, was on his feet to object. He asked for an immediate judgment. Justice Dowling compromised by making the stay thirty days. Mr. Shearn then asked for an extra allowance for counsel fees and the court gave him $2,000. This, together with the $10,000 allowed recently and the original allowance of $5,000, will bring his fees to $17,000, with an additional sum of $3,900 for expenses.

NEW THEORY IS ADVANCED

Leon Ling May Not Have Murdered Elsie Sigel.

New York, June 29.—The failure to find any trace whatever of Leon Ling caused the police to give some attention to the theory that the missing man may not have killed Elsie Sigel and that he was himself the victim of the same hand that killed the girl. This line of reasoning necessitates the rejection of the story told by Chung Sin, who said he had seen Leon in the room over the Eighth avenue restaurant where Miss Sigel's dead body lay, but the authorities declare that Chung's statements have shown discrepancies with known facts in several particulars.

In considering the possibility that Leon was killed it is regarded as probable that his body was placed in a trunk, as was the girl's, and this has drawn renewed attention to the baggage checked to Schenectady, N. Y., near where Chung Sin was found, and rechecked by a Chinaman from Schenectady to Cleveland.

SHOOTS TWO AND HIMSELF

Ill Health and Domestic Discord Cause of Tragedy.

Quincy, Ill., June 28.—George Gurney shot and killed his father, Dr. Seneca Gurney, seventy-nine years old, wounded his sister-in-law, Mrs. Seneca Gurney, Jr., aged thirty-seven, and then killed himself by sending a bullet into his right ear. Mrs. Gurney, Jr., was shot in the right cheek and the back of the neck.

Ill health and worry over the death of a daughter and his separation from his wife are supposed to have affected the slayer's mind.

Farmers Evicted by High Water.

St. Joseph, Mo., June 28.—The Missouri river is rising rapidly. As a result of the high water and heavy rains much land in the Missouri and Kansas bottoms is inundated and farmers in some localities are moving out.

The farmers of Mayfield get together tomorrow for a social celebration of Independence day at the Carl Magnell home. And it would not be a bad idea for some of us Plummer people to attend and reciprocate some of the visits of the Mayfield farmers to Plummer when occasion offers.

On Monday the village of Plummer will be called on to act as host to hundreds of visitors. Let us all join hands in friendship,—for the one day at least—and show our guests that Plummer is the real thing when it comes to sociability. It might also be wise to fix up the yards and add what we can to our town's appearance.

The rains of the first of the present week, came as a Godsend to the farmers of Northern Minnesota and many have stated that the rain was worth thousands of dallars. Present prospects seem to indicate that the crop this year will be the feature in history and it is safe to say that the Minnesota farmer will wear "the smile that wont come off" ere snow flies.

Editor Medicraft Dead.

The Hon. R. J. Medicraft, editor of the Roseau Region and at one time county attorney of Roseau, county passed to his reward last week. Medicraft was a well educated man and one of great ability. He was once a member of our state legislature and while there did some good work. He had one failing, that of excessive intoxication. Except for this Mr. Medicraft could well have been considered one of the shining stars in the literary fields as well as before the bar.

One Editor Satisfied.

So many times in his career, is an editor called upon to lie a little regarding the contracting parties in a marriage ceremony, that when he becomes the center of attraction in an occurrence of like nature, you can depend upon it, "the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth" is going to result. Bro. C. O. Ofsthun, of the Karlstad Advocate, became a benedict on Wednesday, June 23rd, when Rev. Ordahl pronounced the words uniting him for life with Miss Betsy West, the ceremony taking place at the home of the bride in Hallock. Bro. Oftshun tells it in this way, begging his pardon for the abridgements:

"We have always had a weakness for brides—probably because we never before had one of our own. * * * Of course, it was a "quiet wedding"—we did not notice anyone raising a row about it. Everyone seemed to sympathize with the bride, though, and looked at the groom as though they sould scarcely trust so dear a a treasure to his keeping forever. This bride as usual, was "beautiful and accomplished." She was appropriately attired in white. The groom while he was still in his right mind, referred to her as looking dainty as a spray of apple blossoms, in which the minister, who kept his head all thru the performance, concurred. She is a good, sensible sort of a girl of a kind disposition. Besides this, judging by the job she has undertaken, she is doubtless a girl of unusual courage. She has lived in this village long enough to get used to the climate and meet the man she will now spend a life time civilizing. She really had no reason for throwing up her position as instructor in the village public school in order to marry an editor unless it be that she just took pity on him. The groom wore the conventional black, that is, he wore a dark rig-out and a frightened expression. The expression was his own property. He is neither "handsome" or "popular." He is just a plain blunt man. He had carefully adjusted his complexion and pinned back his ears. To do him full justice in description, which is never done for grooms by a newspaper, we will say that he looked "like all the candy." He has been exposed to matrimony many times, but it has never been contagious enough to catch him. There is no doubt that during a part of the ceremony he held a "pat hand," for it was the hand of the girl he had selected for a companion as, hand in hand, they journey down the avenues of life's pathway. It is said that most matches of this kind are made in Heaven, but this one is believed to have been framed up largely in the beautiful village of Karlstad on the Soo."

The Mendicant.

There are those who ascribe the word "mendicant" to the silly appellation put forth as a conundrum, meaning a poor wretch beyond the power of mending. But something very close to the term was in use as long ago as when Chaucer wrote his "Canterbury Tales." In the "Sompnoure's Tale" this occurs:

> Therefore we "mendiants," we sely freres,
> Ben wedded to poverte and continence,
> To charitee, humblesse and abstinence,
> etc.

The "sompnoure" of Chaucer was, of course, a summoner, or apparitor, and a person of low estate, and here we have, it is believed, the origin of the word, which came into common employment later.

A DARING BUCCANEER

Edward Thatch, Who Was Known as the Blackbeard Pirate.

HIS BATTLE WITH MAYNARD.

After the Hand to Hand Conflict the Desperado's Head Hung at the Bowsprit End of the Lieutenant's Sloop as She Sailed Back to Virginia.

It is almost 200 years since Edward Thatch, better known as the pirate Blackbeard, was a name with which to terrorize the Atlantic coast of the then new country of America. As a buccaneer whose deeds of desperate daring made him feared wherever his name was known he stands a close rival of the famous Captain Kidd, if indeed in some respects he did not surpass that notorious freebooter.

The date of Thatch's birth is lost in history, and his native place is variously given as Bristol and Jamaica. He first appears as a foremast hand to Major Stede Bonnet, a gentleman of Barbados, who, although a man of property and having small knowledge of the sea, thought proper to fit out a sloop and take to a life of piracy, the explanation of his being "a little distracted" being charitably given by one biographer. However that may be, his crew missed in the major the qualities of a successful commander. They deposed him and elected Thatch in his place. Bonnet was tried and executed in 1711.

Thatch's first independent exploit of which we have a detailed account took place in June, 1718, when he captured two French ships near the Bermudas, one laden with sugar, the other empty. Transferring to the latter the crew of the laden vessel and letting them go their way, he sailed with his prize of vessel and sugar for Bathtown, N. C., with the governor of which place, Charles Eden, he had previously arrived at a pleasant understanding.

Thatch gave out that he had found the French ship deserted. Governor Eden received sixty hogsheads of sugar as his share. Tobias Knight, his secretary, took twenty, and the remainder fell to Thatch and his crew. Thatch lingered there for some months, plundering and insulting the merchants of the place. These, understanding at length the futility of expecting redress from Eden, applied to the governor of Virginia to rid them of the pest.

The governor, after consultation with the captains of the Pearl and Lime, then lying in the James river, agreed to provide two sloops, the warships to furnish a complement of men. Lieutenant Maynard of the Pearl was placed in command, and the punitive expedition sailed on Nov. 17, 1718. On the 21st the pirates were sighted in an inlet about sixty miles from Bathtown, and Maynard anchored for the night.

On the following morning Thatch, maneuvering to elude attack, ran his vessel aground, but Maynard's sloop, drawing more water, though she had no guns on board, failed to get to close quarters. The lieutenant, however, threw out his ballast and in answer to a truculent defiance from Thatch promised to be "soon aboard him with his sloop." Coming at last within close range, a broadside from the pirate killed or wounded twenty of Maynard's crew and nine on board his consort.

Maynard now ran alongside the pirate, when, under cover of a discharge of grenades, Thatch and fourteen followers boarded the king's ship. Maynard and Thatch, pistol and sword in hand, engaged in a desperate personal encounter. The lieutenant's sword broke, and more than once he narrowly escaped a fatal injury. But at last Thatch, having received sixteen wounds, fell dead in the act of cocking a pistol. His followers jumped overboard and cried for quarter. Maynard hung Thatch's head at the bowsprit end, sailed for Bathtown, where he seized the governor's storehouse, and then, still with his grisly sign of triumph swinging in the wind, rejoined his ship in Virginia, where thirteen of the captured pirates were hanged.

One of the Blackbeard's crew who obtained pardon was Israel Hands, who makes his appearance in "Treasure Island." Shortly before Thatch met his death Hands had been lamed for life by a pistol shot in the knee fired by Thatch from under the cabin table, at which he, with Hands and others, was carousing, just to remind his crew in general "who he was." Such an act was only one of the many eccentric brutalities of Thatch's career.

When he felt himself in the vein or was going into action his appearance was somewhat startling—his bushy black beard tied up with ribbons, the ends of which were thrown over his ears; a fur cap on his head, with a lighted match on either side, and three brace of pistols slung across his shoulder. Of the usual condition of himself and his crew much may be gathered from the fact that "our company somewhat sober" was a circumstance deemed worthy of note in the diary found after his death.—London Globe.

PLUMMER MAKES A RECORD.

Her Independence Day Celebration is one of the Best in the History of the town. Large attendance From Thief River Falls

From sunrise Monday morning when the first gun was fired in salute to the 133rd anniversary of the birth of the nation, until the weary heads of the participants in the celebration were laid to rest on their pillows, early Tuesday morning, Plummer acted as host to the largest gathering in its history. Everyone be he young or old, did everything possible, not only to entertain the visitors, but also to add to his own enjoyment. The first consignment of pleasure seekers arrived on the local passenger in the morning. The Thief River Falls band and orchestra, the mill Ball Team and about 100 followers constituted this quota of visiting guests, and those were soon followed by the farmers of the neighboring territory who began to arrive early, in order not to miss any of the days fun.

The morning exercises were held in the bowery. Following a few selections by the band Mayor Rothsten welcomed the visitors and gave them the freedom of the village. Before concluding his short address, Mr. Rothsten introduced the speaker of the day, Hon. E. M. Stanton of Thief River Falls. Mr. Stantons address was characteristic of himself and was full to the brim with inspiring sentiments and well worded eulogies to the martyrs whose sacrifices made the days celebration possible. After the excercises, and following the dinner, the sports of the day were taken up.

The first feature was the ball game between Lillo and the Thief River Falls mill team, the latter winning by a score of 16 to 6. The game was full of scores and though not exciting was full of comedy.

The race program was next taken up and the races were pulled off on central ave, between the Gullingsrud and Alrick corners. A list of the races with the repective winners is published below.

After the sports, the bowery took the attention of the younger set, and it was not until the "weesma' hours" of "the day after" that the dancing was brought to a close. The Thief River band rendered a concert in the evening at 7:30, and received much applause. Thongh still a new band, barely a year old, the organization made a fine showing here Monday. Under the efficient leadership of Prof Maxwell there is no reason why it should not in time compare with any other like organization in this part of the state.

In connection with the other things attendant in the celebration it might not be amiss to give some mention of of the attendance from Thief River Falls. Over 100 return tickets were sold at the Thief River Falls station, while Agent Suprey of the station here reports the sale of 186 tickets to Thief River Falls. It is safe to say that over 300 people came down to help us celebrate and this is most commendable fact and one which we should not forget. Lets' all remember it at Fair time.

Following are the results of the races:

Horse race—Louis Sieff, 1st; Ed Miller, 2nd.

100 yd dash—Halseth, 1st; Oscar Johnson, 2nd.

Boys race under 18—McMahon, 1st; Lemieux, 2nd.

Boys race under 12—John Tanem, 1st; Jonas Wichterman, 2nd.

Girls race—Emma Waldal, 1st; Inga Haaven, 2nd.

Girls race under 12—Hulda Magnusson, 1st; Carrie Mikkelson, 2nd.

Three legged race—Oscar Johnson and Albert Brekke, 1st; Theo Steen and Olaf Holton, 2nd.

Wheelbarrow race—Alfred Waldal 1st; Albert Brekke, 2nd.

Flag race—won by the line composed of Elleanor Rose, Emma Waldal, Sarah Magnusson and Esther Anderson.

Potatoe race—Jonas Wichterman, 1st; Clarence Ellingson, 2nd.

Sack race—Oscar Johnson, 1st;

Fat man's race—(substituted for Ox race)—F. E. Rose, 1st; Joe Morrisette, 2nd.

Tug of War, was won by Plummer after a very pretty struggle.

Goes To Find Brother.

Chas. Sall of Equality, was in town Thursday on his way to Crookston to consult Atty. Loring on matters connected with the disappearance of his brother, Oscar. Some time ago, Oscar Sall left for Valdes, Alaska, where he had extensive mining operations that demanded his attention. After some time time, letters failed to arrive at home and the relatives began to worry about the strange silence.

Mr. Sall has finally decided to make a personal investigation and left on Thursday with that end in view. He goes from Crookston to Spokane and will be met there in a few days by Mr. Loring and the two will proceed from there to Alaska in search of the missing brother.

Agent Suprey has been receiving many compliments this week on his efforts to please the Fourth visitors. He opened the depot Tuesday morning in order to give the Thief River people a chance to purchase tickets before boarding the Flyer. It is the acts like this that have given Mr. Suprey the popularity he has in this village and vicinity.

Saffered Bad Accident.

Miss Sophia Steen, daughter of Knute Steen, residing north of Plummer, suffered a very painful accident Monday evening while returning to her home from the celebration. In company with several friends, she was walking up the track, a short distance from town. In attempting to pass the other members of the party, her foot became wedged between the rail and the ties, and she lost her balance. The result was a bad fall in which the foot was badly bruised and twisted. The accident will confine Miss Steen to her home for several weeks.

Regarding the Plummer celebration the Thief River Press says: "As for Plummer, they certainly had a celebration that was anything but slow. There was something doing all the time until one almost felt like saying 'Now give us a rest.' But the rest never came, for no sooner was one thing finished than another was going at full blast. The hospitality of the people of Plummer will long be remembered." Bro. Quist says a lot more but we are too modest to reprint it.

The Attorney General has ruled that when a house becomes vacant by the removal of the owner or occupant and such absence extends over a longer period than thirty days, even tho furniture and furnishings remain in the house, the house is vacant. The insured, in order to protect himself, must have a vacancy permit attached to his policy to co ver this hazard.

Big Time At Brooks.

The celebration at Brooks on Monday was, according to all repors, a very successful one. Although the Red Lake Falls band was not present as advertised, this fact did not seem to interfere with the program. The dance was the biggest feature of the day, something over $185 being taken in. A ball game between pick-up teams and the customary list of races, combined with the other feature to make the 1909 celebration a most memorable one.

Drum Corps Engaged.

A special feature for the production of the new Minoesota State Fair spectacle, "Minnesota at Gettysburg" in front of the grandstand, September 6 to 11, has been engaged by Supt. of Amusements B. E. Gregory in the samous Morgan G. A. R. Drum cords. This corps is composed of veterans of the Civil War and has the distinction of being the only fife and drum corps of ten members, all of whom fought for the preservation of their country during some of the years 1861 to 1865. The corps was also a feature of the "Fort Ridgely in '62" spectacle of last year and contributed materially to its success, and it was deemed especially fitting that it should qe reengaged for the spectacle this year, since the production is founded on the historic charge of the gallant First Minnesota on the field of Gettysburg, July 2, 1862.

Austin Resigns.

George L. Austin, buttermaker for the St. Hilaire Co-operative creamery, has tendered his resignation to the board of trusees to take effect on August 1st. Mr. Austin has accepted a traveling position with the Hazelwood Co., of Spokane, Wash., and will buy butter and eggs for that concern in this section of the country. His headquarters will be at Crookston but he will continue to live at St. Hilaire for the present at least.

During the five years that Mr. Austin has been buttermaker here he has carried on the good work so nicely begun by former buttermakers in the creamery here until concerns all the way to both coasts have made strenuous efforts to secure an option on the total output of its product and were willing to pay top-notch prices for it. At the convention of the State Dairymen Association held at Montevideo last winter Mr. Austin's butter took the first prize and he was awarded a gold medal. Mr. Austin has proved to be an efficient and conscientious workman and the Hazelwood Co. is the gainer in securing his services while the local creamery will be the loser. He has the best wishes of the community in his new field as well as their hearty congratulations in having escured so lucrative a position.—St. Hilaire Spectator.

Plummer is slowly recovering from the effects of her celebration and she has every reason to be proud of the results of her efforts.

Many women complain that they are not getting their rights. But at the same time, while hubby is boiling in the hot sun in order to support her, his wife sits at home on the back porch in a Mother Hubbard and tells her neighbor "how comfortable it is out here."

Judge Watts has set aside the injunction issued some time ago by Court Commissioner Johnson at the request of Thief River Falls, restraining the county board from issuing bonds for the erection of a new court house. The matter is to be carried to the supreme court and then——?

"Keep your coats on in church," advises Rev. Faville, pastor of the Congregational church in LaCrosse, Wis. Rev. Faville evidently has little confidence in his abilities to persuade LaCrosse gentlemen to walk the straight and narrow path.

Rep. G. H. Mattson of Roseau has assumed the editoral management of the Roseau Region to fill the vacancy caused by the death of R. J. Medicraft. Mr. Mattson is a "green hand" at newspaper work but bids fair to be a success in his new line. He has our well wishes.

The Fourth of July of 1909, is a thing of the past, and its usual toll of dead and wounded has been collected. However, in those cities where it is custom to enjoy a 'sane" celebration the accidents were fewer than in previous years. This year's record to date calls for 44 deaths and 2361 serious injuries.

BIG DAY AT PLUMMER

Thief River Falls Well Represented. Day Well Filled With Program.

Did Plummer celebrate? Almost every body in Thief River Falls seems to have been informed of the fact that the village down the line was to be the center of attraction in the county last Monday.

When the local passenger train pulled out in the morning it carried about 150 passengers all bound for Plummer. Several people who like to drive traveled thither by team and when the freight train pulled out in the afternoon it carried a special passenger car in which to transport the crowd. Yet this car was not enough to accommodate the crowd so a large number of the people rode down on a flat car. Even this was not enough for when the south bound flyer passed thru at 10:10 p. m. there was still a large number of people who wanted to go to Plummer and take in the hop and so they went. How and when and in what condition they all got back the reporter was unable to keep track of. It will suffice to say that every body appeared to be having a good time while there and judging by the haggard faces and weary steps that were seen about the streets here the next day one would certainly think that a large number of people had had too good a time.

As for Plummer they certainly had a celebration that was anything but slow. There was something doing all the time until one almost felt like saying "Now give us a rest". But the rest never came for no sooner was one thing finished than another was going at full blast.

The hospitality of the people of Plummer will long be remembered and the people in this city will be glad to see all of their people come up here and take in our fair that will take place on the 4th, 5th and 6th of August.—Thief River Press.

The man who considers his judgment better than all the rest of humanity must be a pretty big fool.

No Increase in Cigar Tax.

Washington, July 6.—Cigar manufacturers who were given a hearing by the subcommittee on finance succeeded in defeating the proposed increase from $3 to $3.60 a thousand in the internal revenue tax on cigars.

Cripple Frightfully Burned.

Memphis, Tenn., July 6.—A spark ignited a bunch of fire crackers carried in the shirt bosom of little Charles Bedonis, a crippled newsboy. He was frightfully burned and will probably die.

Cyclone Devastates a Portion of Saskatchewan.

Winnipeg, Man., July 3.—A cyclone passed over the Gainsboro (Sask.) district, accompanied by hail the size of hens' eggs, killing three people, injuring thirty others and rendering eleven farmers' families homeless. The dead are Peter Raymond, C. Hackett and child. Ten others are in a critical condition.

Threshing machines were twisted and carried half a mile, while buildings were scattered into kindling wood over the prairie. Reports from Indian Head, Pierson, Waskada and Melita indicate that the storm was widespread and while not as destructive as around Gainsboro did much damage to buildings and crops.

FOURTH'S CASUALTY LIST

Forty-six Killed and Over Fifteen Hundred Injured.

Chicago, July 6.—The Record-Herald summaries of the three-day countrywide celebration show that 46 people were killed and 1,575 were injured. Deaths due to tetanus numbered eighteen. The fire loss was $446,500.

More rigid laws and the growth of public sentiment for a sane celebration of the Fourth have had their result all over the country in reducing the number of killed and wounded in the annual holiday.

Full returns of the celebration this year show a falling off in the number of killed from the record of 1908.

Desperate Fight Takes Place on Jolo Island.

Manila, July 6.—In a desperate fight near Patian, on Jolo island, Jikiri, the famous Moro outlaw chief, was killed and his entire band exterminated by detachments of regulars and constabulary under Captain George L. Byram of the Sixth United States cavalry, operating in conjunction with a naval flotilla of the mosquito fleet under Lieutenant Commander Signor. The American loss was one private killed and three officers and twenty enlisted men and one sailor wounded.

Private O'Connell of Troop A, Sixth cavalry, was the one man killed among the Americans and the officers wounded are Lieutenants Kennedy, Miller and Arthur H. Wilson of the Sixth cavalry.

Captain Byram's cavalry, with a few scouts and constabulary and a detachment of sailors under Lieutenant Commander Signor, located and attacked the outlaws in the mountains not far from the coast. The Moros fled and took refuge in a large cave. The column of troops and sailors surrounded the place, but Jikiri refused to surrender. A concerted attack was made, the Moros fighting desperately in the mouth of a cave until the last member of the band was dead.

INVOLVED IN SUGAR SCANDAL

Twenty-three Jap Politicians Sent to Prison.

Tokio, July 8.—Twenty-three Japanese politicians, members either of the present diet or of the preceding one, were given sentences of varying lengths for complicity in the sugar scandal. Five of the twenty-three were sentenced to ten months' imprisonment, four to serve seven months, five to serve five months and nine to serve three months. Only one of the men brought to trial was ac-

Terrific Shocks Terrorize Inhabitants of City.

Messina, July 2.—Messina experienced two terrific earthquakes at about 7:30 o'clock a. m., which were accompanied by roaring sounds and are said to have had a stronger and more undulatory movement than the earthquake of last December, which destroyed Messina, Reggio and other cities, laid waste many villages in Calabria and killed 200,000 people.

Although the latest shocks had such terrible consequences, the 25,000 residents of this city were thrown into a state of terror. They ran into the streets panic-stricken and nearly the entire population is encamped in the open places, fearing to return to the structures which have served them as homes since the city was destroyed.

The broken walls of the old ruins were thrown to the ground and Messina was for a few minutes smothered in a cloud of dust.

The casualties were few and the only persons killed so far as known were a young woman and her infant.

Reggio suffered almost as severe a shock as Messina. Walls were overthrown, but no casualties have been reported at that place.

RAYNER MAKES A STRONG FIGHT

Opposes Customs Court Feature of Tariff Bill.

DELIVERS A LENGTHY SPEECH

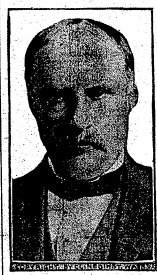
Declares That the Proposed Tribunal Would Be Found to Be Unconstitutional—Sharply Criticises Mr. Aldrich, Whom He Frequently Reminds That the Rhode Islander Is Not a Lawyer.

Washington, July 6.—The senate put in a busy day. From 10 o'clock in the morning until 5:35 o'clock in the afternoon the senators labored. The day was devoted in the main to the consideration of the administrative provisions of the bill and to the Brown resolution providing for the submission of the question of income tax to the legislatures of the various states, which, while not a part of the tariff bill, is so related to it as to have made it necessary to consider it in connection with the bill. The best fight of the day was made by Senator Rayner against the customs court feature of the administrative amendment.

He undertook to puncture the provision, and he made a long speech in which he set forth with much emphasis the declaration that the court would be found to be unconstitutional because, while dealing with questions at common law, it makes no provision for trial by jury, which he said every suitor under the common law has a right to demand. He sharply criticised Mr. Aldrich, whom he frequently reminded that he was not a lawyer and could not be expected to understand legal and unconstitutional questions.



COPYRIGHT, BY CLINEDINST, WASH.

SENATOR ISIDOR RAYNER.

The provision was defended by a number of the Republican lawyers, but Mr. Root said that he had not favored the creation of the court. The provision occupied the attention of the senate for about three hours and ultimately was accepted without division, though not until it had been amended in accordance with Mr. Rayner's suggestion so as to exclude criminal cases from its operation.

The proposed court is to consist of five members and it is intended to supersede the United States circuit courts in customs matters.

Little Left to Be Done.

Not since the tariff bill has come into the senate has so much been accomplished within a day. Indeed, when the sitting came to an end a summary of the proceedings showed that there was very little left to be done. The principal item still to be considered is the tobacco tax, the figures on which had not been completed by the committee when the senate adjourned.

Attention was given to the drawback feature of the bill, relative to which the finance committee made no recommendation beyond striking out the house provision, which would have the effect of throwing the whole question into conference. In the senate, however, several amendments were made, some of which were permitted, at Senator McCumber's instance, to satisfy the grain producers of the Northwest. A number of other minor additions were also made, and all the administrative features disposed of.

Early in the day the income tax resolution of Senator Brown of Nebraska was adopted. The resolution submits to the legislatures of the states an amendment to the national constitution providing that "the congress shall have power to lay and collect taxes on incomes, from whatever source derived, without apportionment among the several states and without regard to any census or enumeration."

There were three hours of debate over this measure, the principal contest being over an amendment by Senator Bailey submitting the amendment to conventions in the states instead of the various state legislatures. The amendment was defeated, the division being largely along party lines. The Brown amendment was adopted unanimously.

NOW PART OF BILL

Senate Approves Taft's Corporation Tax Amendment.

CARRIED BY LARGE MAJORITY

Vote on Provision Is Sixty for and Eleven Against.

Washington, July 3.—The Taft-Aldrich corporation tax scheme was incorporated in the tariff bill by the decisive vote of 60 to 11. There were two test votes taken before the final one was reached. Each of the test votes resulted 45 to 31. They were:

First—On the proposition to amend a dummy amendment offered by Senator Lodge by incorporating with it the finance committee amendment providing for a corporation tax.

Second—Substituting the Lodge countervailing duty amendment as amended for the Cummins-Bailey income tax scheme.

Of the thirty-one negative votes seven were cast by progressive Republicans. The latter were Dolliver and Cummins of Iowa, Bristow of Kansas, La Follette of Wisconsin, Borah of Idaho, Clapp of Minnesota and Heyburn of Idaho.

Those Republicans also voted against the final adoption of the amended amendment, as did Bulkeley of Connecticut.

The other three of the eleven negative votes were cast by Democrats—Shively of Indiana, Hughes of Colorado and Chamberlain of Washington.

PROVIDING FOR INCOME TAX

Senate Adopts Resolution for Constitutional Amendment.

Washington, July 6.—Having refused to amend the Brown resolution for a constitutional amendment providing for an income tax the senate adopted the resolution unanimously, the ayes being 77 and the noes 0.

When discussion of the amendment was resumed Mr. Bristow presented an amendment to the resolution requiring the election of senators by a vote of the people and Mr. Bailey presented two amendments, one providing that the ratification of the proposed amendment be by state conventions instead of by state legislatures and the other providing for a graduated income tax.

Before a vote was taken the vice president ruled out of order the amendment of Senator Bristow for the election of senators by popular vote, thus bringing to the front Mr. Bailey's amendment to refer the ratification of the proposed amendment to state conventions instead of the legislatures. The amendment was rejected, 30 to 46. The Democratic senators generally voted for the Bailey amendment and the Republicans generally against it.

MURDER AGITATES BRITONS

England Deeply Stirred by Crime of an Indian Student.

London, July 3.—The murder of Lieutenant Colonel Sir William Hutt Curzon Wyllie and Dr. Cawas Lalcaca of Shanghai by Mardar Lelof Dhinagri, an Indian student, Thursday night at the Imperial Institute, has stirred England in a manner unknown since the Phoenix Park murders. It has been a subject for self-congratulation by Englishmen that Great Britain was immune from political crimes of this nature, and it is a great chock to feel that public men no longer are safe from the attacks of assassins. Great sympathy is felt for Viscount Morley, secretary of state for India, the difficulties of whose position will be greatly increased by the murder.

A Word In Warning.

The practice of several farmers of th's vicinity, of coming to town in the morning and leaving their teams stand tied to a post until late in the evening, is one that should be discontinued. Generally the owners can be found in the saloons, having a good time, while the poor horses stand in the hot sun, tormented by flies and insects and without food and water for ten or twelve hours at a stretch. The horse has feelings the same as a person, and it will show some of our appreciation of the services of these dumb animals, if the teams were taken care of, by the authorities if not by the owners. There is a state law governing this offence and it would do some farmers good it they could be brought under its influence once or twice.

THE KEY OF TEBALDO

Curious Messenger of Death Invented by an Italian.

TRAGIC LEGEND OF VENICE.

Unique Weapon With Which the Man of Mystery and Murder Sought to Slay His Way to the Hand of the Woman He Loved.

The chronicles of Venice tell that in the earlier part of the seventeenth century a certain stranger, a man of dark and sinister aspect, arrived in the city. His name was Tebaldo. He appears to have been a man of unruly passions, of great intellectual power, but one whose talents found their chief outlet in crime.

One day he observed a beautiful girl leaving church, attended in a manner which showed she belonged to a family of high degree. She was, in fact, the daughter of an ancient and noble house. He fell violently in love with her. Though far removed from him in station, his blind passion took no count of this fact, and he determined to sue for her hand.

There proved to be, however, a more insuperable obstacle to his suit. The girl was already betrothed to another, a young nobleman of almost equal rank and fortune. The knowledge did not deter Tebaldo, who boldly presented himself before the girl's parents in the capacity of a suitor for her hand. As might have been expected, he met with a curt and unceremonious rebuff.

The repulse rankled in his mind. Enraged beyond measure, he shut himself up in his own house and there secretly studied a means of revenge. Profoundly skilled in the mechanical arts, he allowed himself no rest until he had invented a most formidable and death dealing weapon. This was a large key, the handle of which was so constructed that it could be turned at will. When it was thus turned a secret spring was disclosed, which, on being pressed, launched from the key head a fine needle or lancet. The latter was of such delicate construction that it penetrated the body of the victim and buried itself deep in the flesh without leaving any external trace.

The marriage of the betrothed couple was fixed to take place in the principal church in Venice on a certain day. Before the ceremony Tebaldo, cunningly disguised, stationed himself at the church door armed with his diabolical weapon. As the bridegroom was about to enter the building the concealed watcher pressed the spring and sent the deadly steel lancet into the breast of his victim. The young nobleman had no suspicion of injury at the moment. In the midst of the ceremony, however, he was seized with a sharp spasm of pain and sank fainting on the steps of the altar. He was hurriedly conveyed to his home, where the leading Venice physicians were summoned to attend him. In spite of their unremitting efforts he sank and died, nor were they able to discover the nature of the mysterious and fatal seizure.

With the removal of his rival, Tebaldo once more presented himself before the girl's parents and renewed his request for her hand. Their refusal to listen to him sealed their doom. In what manner he accomplished it is not known, but within a few days both had been done to death in the same sudden and mysterious fashion.

The exalted rank of the victims created a profound sensation, and when, on examination of the bodies, a fine steel instrument was found in the flesh terror became universal. The citizens feared for their lives. The utmost vigilance was exercised on the part of the authorities, but as yet no suspicion fell upon Tebaldo.

The bereaved girl retired to a convent, where she passed the first months of mourning in sorrowful seclusion. Tebaldo, however, sought her out in her retreat and begged to speak to her through the grating.

His dark, evil face had always been displeasing to her, but since the death of her betrothed and parents it had become repulsive. When, therefore, in the course of the interview he pressed her to fly with him he met with an instant and indignant refusal. Her scorn stung him to the quick. Beside himself with rage, he brought his deadly weapon once more into play and succeeded in wounding the girl through the grating, the obscurity of the place preventing his action from being observed.

On her return to her room the girl felt a sharp pain in her breast. Examination of the spot showed that it was dotted with a single drop of blood. Physicians were hastily summoned. Taught by past experience, they wasted no time in vain conjecture, but cut into the flesh and extracted the slender steel, thus saving the girl's life.

The dastardly attempt occasioned a public outcry. The visit of Tebaldo to the convent became known and caused suspicion to turn upon him. The emissaries of the law descended suddenly upon him, his house was searched, and there the abominable invention was discovered. Swift justice followed, and he ended his days upon the scaffold.

The key is still preserved in the arsenal at Venice.—Chambers' Journal.

THE BEY'S GUEST.

He Was Ready For the Emergency and Conquered the African.

A show of force is often the best kind of diplomacy. A writer in the Paris Temps tells a story of the French admiral Dupetit-Thouars, who had been intrusted with the mission of exacting reparation from an African bey who had insulted a French consul.

As Dupetit-Thouars' demands were supported by the forcible argument of loaded cannon, the bey acknowledged that he had been too hasty and proffered profuse apologies. He even invited the admiral to his table and had a sumptuous repast prepared for his guest.

The consul warned the admiral to be on his guard.

"The bey is inclined to be malicious," said he, "and when he strokes his beard and smiles you may be sure that he is concocting some mischief."

"We shall see," was Dupetit-Thouars' reply.

He reached the bey's palace in good time. Profuse compliments and salutations were exchanged. All at once the admiral's foot met some soft, hairy substance lying on the carpet under the table. He bent down and saw a huge lion showing his formidable teeth. The bey smiled and stroked his beard.

Dupetit-Thouars did not wince, but called his dragoman.

"My pistols," was all he said.

The servant saluted, retired and brought back a pair of pistols on a silver tray. The admiral took them and placed them on the table before him. But the bey, still smiling, continued to stroke his patriarchal beard.

"Tell the commander," he said to the dragoman, "that if those pistols are for the purpose of blowing out my lion's brains they are quite insufficient and perfectly useless."

Then, like a skilled fencer countering his opponent's thrust, after the bey's ironical advice had been translated Dupetit-Thouars replied:

"Tell his highness that my pistols are not there to kill his lion, but to blow his own brains out at the first movement of this objectionable carpet."

Gravely, but a little pale, the man interpreted.

The smile died away on the bey's lips, and he no longer stroked his beard.

"My lion," said he, "is too well trained even to scratch one of my guests, but since he is not wanted he shall be sent away."

At a word from the bey the lion slowly and heavily left the room, like an obedient dog.

MOOSE LAKE IS HEADQUARTERS

Foley Bros., Contractors For Thief River Falls--Duluth Line Will Make Their Business Headquarters At That Place. Grading Has Commenced.

It has been finally decided that Moose Lake, 80 miles southeast of Duluth on the Soo Brooten line, will be the financial headquarters for the new extension from Duluth to Thief River Falls. C. F. Mannke, president of the Moose Lake commercial club, was in St. Paul recently, and while there had a consultation with the Foley's who assured him that his town would be their headquarters. This means a big thing to the town, as all the checks for work will be payable there and a large accounting office force will be maintained at that point. An office building, 40 by 26 is being erected and the work is being rushed to a speedy completion.

The Foley's are probably the largest railroad contractors in the west and have secured the contract for building the Thief River-Duluth line, the work to be finished by November 1st, 1910. The contract calls for 220 miles of road, starting at Moose Lake and running in a northwesterly direction east of Cass Lake, between Cass and Winnibigoshish Lakes. From that point west, little is know beyond the fact that the road finally terminates at Thief River Falls.

Whether the new line will connect with the Winnipeg line at Plummer, or whether it will run direct to Thief River Falls is a matter for conjecture at present and it will probably not be until late in the fall or next spring that anyone will be able to say positively. In either event, the new line will not help Plummer. If it runs east from here, the benefits to be derived will be greater than if Thief River Falls is the terminal. The pay station being located at the east end takes away a considerable amount of the good that would otherwise come. And then the possibility of a new town east of Plummer at a distance of between fifteen to twenty miles will cut off a part of the business now done by Plummer business men. In case the road runs out of Thief River Falls, it must run between the Red Lake and Clearwater rivers. In this event, the harm to Plummer would be greater than if it went from here. A new town in the vicinity of Rhoda would take a large amount of business away from this village, and the new town would grow and possibly increase at a faster rate than Plummer. But it will be at least two years before a townsite will begin to develop into a live town and until that time, we can still keep on booming Plummer and Plummers territory, with the earnest conviction that there is no better farming land or better class of farmers in any community than there are around Plummer. And if a new town is started east of us it will open a field for competition and in the end the farmer will be gainer.

The construction work on the new line is being pushed as much as possible. Thoreen & Sandeen, who have the contract for the six miles from Moose Lake have a large force of men at work cutting out the right of way and making the grade. Men are being sent out as quick as they apply for work and it will not be long before a army of workers will be working day and night. The crews are composed mostly of Dagoes and Austrians but there number is comparitively small when considered with the general supply usually found in railroad construction camps.

Will Make Exhibit.

At their meeting this week, the county commissioners appropriated $500 to be used in preparing an exhibit of Red Lake county produce at the Minnesota State Fair. Ed Healy of Red Lake Falls, Julius Pleth of Plummer, and Dan Shaw of Thief River Falls were named as a committee to take charge of the exhibit. Red Lake county is capable of producing a first-class exhibit, and it is the duty of every person in the county to assist the committee as much as possible. If you have anything in the line of produce that you think is a little better than the rest, notify any member of the committee and he will do the rest. A little co-operation by every farmer in the county will help the committee a whole lot and may result in the securing of a prize by Red Lake county. The commissioners also appropriated $250 for the benefit of the county fair association to be used for the fair at Thief River Falls on August 4, 5, and 6.

Died Sunday Morning.

On Sunday morning last, the two weeks old baby boy of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Alrick died from an infantile disease and was buried on Monday in the family lot at McIntosh. For the first few days following its birth, the baby gave every indication of good health, but later developed the malady which caused its death. The funeral services were conducted here Sunday by Rev. Palm of St. Hilaire. Mr. and Mrs. Alrick have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

We desira to extend to our many friends, our most sincere and heartfelt thanks for the assistance so kindly rendered during the sickness and at the death of our baby son and brother.—Mr. and Mrs. A. Alrick and family.

Auction sales have been very numerous for the past month and in all probability, will continue for some time to come. Today, Elias Stephenson is holding a big sale; on Thursday Fred Anderson will dispose of a large list of property and on Saturday, C. D. Whaley will sell some of his stock. Mr. Whaley has about fifty head of stock and will sell about half of his herd. He has some fine stock—in fact, they all have—and persons who desire to increase the value of their herds, can do little better than to attend these sales.

From the number of accidents caused by cannon crackers on the Fourth of July many of them resulting fatally, it can readily be seen that the law prohibiting the sale of cannon crackers in this state is a good one, as there was no damage done in Minnesota as a result of the explosive cannon cracker.

Shipping Some Butter.

If anyone should happen to ask you which are the leading butter shipping points in Red Lake county, by all means don't forget to mention Plummer. And if that person should seem doubtful of your statement, tell him that if he will show up at the depot on any Saturday, he will have no reason for his doubt.

Last Saturday the shipment was one of the largest of the season, and at that, it was but a very little over the average. The shipment consisted of 123 tubs of butter, aggregating 8733 pounds and was consigned to New York points. There were also several cheeses and fifteen or twenty cases of eggs, the latter being billed to Alexandria.

The only undesirable feature about the regular weekly shipments of butter from this point is the fact that the Soo people do not see fit to leave a refrigerator car here so the butter can be loaded during the day. As it is the tubs must stand on the depot platform in the hot sun for several hours before being loaded, and this not only lowers the quality of butter but causes a big delay here for the freight trains on account of the time taken for loading. Agent Suprey has asked several times for a car but has not yet been able to secure one, and it is up to the creamery men to kick. The freight on last Saturday's shipment amounted to over $75 and it does seem queer that the railroad company does not consider this evidence enough of the fact that we need a car here every week. The butter is all of the best grade and brings the highest price on the eastern markets. The Plummer and Lillo creameries both ship from here and the big Garnes cheese factory also makes occasional shipments of their product.

Training School In Session.

The annual session of the teachers' summer training school for Red Lake county opened at Red Lake Falls on Monday, July 5th, with over eighty teachers enrolled. Miss Eleanor Donaldson of Minneapolis, is in charge of the school and is assisted by Misses Erickson and Hawkes. The work is progressing very satisfactorily and there is no boubt but that there will be a record-breaking attendance before the end of the term. At present there are no teachers enrolled from Plummer or immediate vicinity but there will probably be several later.

Lillo Bros. Are Ditching.

The Lillo Bros. ditching machine, which has been the subject of much discussion during the past few weeks is now operating between the Clearwater river and a point about four miles southeast. The work done by the machine is highly satisfactory and the boys are well pleased. The machine is built along lines designed by the owners at their home at Lillo.

Lillo Bros. have the contract for the construction of the Kratka-Mayfield ditch, and their many friends are full of confidence that, when thru with the work, the boys will have every reason to be proud of the result of their efforts.

Viewing Wilson Ditch.

County Surveyor Martz of St. Hilaire; Fred Zaiser of Red Lake Falls, G. K. Haavi of Thief River Falls and Geo. Lindquist of Wylie, were in the village Tuesday on their way to view the Wilson ditch in Mayfield. This ditch is another that will prove a big benefit to the farmers living along the route, and will add considerable good land to that already tillable in Mayfield township.

Haying is on in full blast and from now till late in the fall, Mr. Farmer will be the busiest man under the sun. The machinery business has seen the present activity but few times, nearly all the dealers being sold out in one or more lines. Farmers in general voice the sentiment that the crop this year is sure a big one and are investing in the necessary machinery now while they have the time.

We want all your butter and eggs and will pay more than the highest market price for them. Clearwater Mercantile Co.

Yankee Goods Widespread.

As evidence of the wide distribution of American manufactures, the U. S. bureau of statistics has issued statements showing a part of the volume of American trade. In the case of mowers and reapers, for example, it is shown that no less than seventy-five countries and colonies were the destinations of this class of manufactures. Russia in Europe is stated to be the heaviest purchaser. American plows and cultivators are turning up the soil in more than seventy countries and colonies of the world: American billiard balls were largely exported: stove polish in immense quantities found its way into the United Kingdom, Mexico, Cuba, Central America, Australia, New Zealand and the Dutch East Indies: American candles light homes in more than forty countries; nearly five million dollars worth of automobiles were sent to various parts of the world; street railway cars to more than fifty countries, watches to seventy-five countries, cotton clothes to seventy-five countries and binder twine to seventy countries.

Estell, the six year old daughter of Postmaster A. Laniel of Brooks died last Tuesday of apoplexy. She was perfectly well and happy at noon and ate a hearty dinner. After the meal she went out in the yard to play but in a short time returned and gasping for breath threw herself in her father's arms and in less than five minutes had passed from these earthly cares. She was the oldest child in the family and all of Brooks appears to share the sorrow of the bereaved parents.

A local business philosopher remarked to us yesterday; "If the Aldrich tariff bill passes Congress I'll bet a new hat with any one, that the sale of men's sox will increase 100 per cent at least before Jan. 1st. 1910." And his lady clerk looked at us and smiled the smile that plainly says "He knows."

Up at Warroad business men have subscribed to a fund which will be used in the purchase of milch cows. These cows will be sold to farmers on time at liberal rates with a view of assuring the success of the local creamery. This plan is a new one but on its face it presents a very favorable aspect. The business men of any creamery town derive almost as much benefit from the creamery as the farmers and it is to their own interests that they help the farmers increase the quality and at same time the quantity of their herds.

Both Sen. Clapp and Sen. Nelson of Minnesota voted against the passing of the Aldrich bill in Congress last Thursday. And still there is talk of a successor to Sen. Clapp. It is doubtful if the residents of Northern Minnesota will stand for any one but Sen. Clapp as their representative in the natural senate when it is considered that he is doing valiant work at every session in order to relieve the settlers on the reservation lands from the oppressions of the Interior Department.

Several of the larger papers in the country are advocating the abolition of the practice of most editors of receiving farm produce on subscription. They argue that with the increased cost of the paper, the higher wages asked by employees and the high cost of living, the farmer pays approximately fifty cents on the dollar for the paper. This may all be true, but at the same time the produce means one hundred cents on the dollar to the farmer and it is no more than right that he should be allowed to pay his subscription in the goods which are to him what the paper is to the editor.

The state supreme court by a unanimous decision last week declared illegal, the "Porkbarrel appropriation" made by the last legislature for the improvements of the public highways. This would be little, but several of Minnesota's counties have already done more or less road work in anticipation of the available funds "that were to be." The result is that there will be little if any improvement made in the roads of the state for two years to come—unless it be done at the county's own expense. There are at present few counties in Minnesota with available funds enough to carry on the road building operation necessary and the decision of the highest court in the state will set more than one hopeful farmer thinking.

New Butter Maker at St. Hilaire.

The St. Hilaire Co-Operative creamery association by its board of directors on Wednesday hired Nels N. Larson to take the place of Mr. Austin who has resigned and will leave on August 1st.

Mr. Larson was formerly our buttermaker here and many friends here will be glad to know that he has landed so good a place as that at the St. Hilaire Creamery.

The St. Hilaire creamery has risen to its highest pinnacle in its last months work. It paid to its patrons above the expense of running the creamery the immence amount of $10,000, or at the rate of 29 cents per pound of butterfat. This is certainly a big industry for a small village like St. Hilaire but it is there never-the-less.

Bagley,s Mill Burned.

Bagley, Minn., July 13.—The Bagley flower mill burned early Tuesday and was a complete loss, except a portion of the stock. The loss is about $22,000, with insurance of only $10,000. The cause was spontaneous combustion, originating in the basement.

The long drouth in the vicinity was relieved yesterday afternoon by one and a quarter inch precipitation. The rain saved surrounding property at the mill fire.—Mpls. Journal

VOTE IS 45 TO 34

Senate Passes Tariff Bill With Many Amendments.

TEN REPUBLICANS OPPOSE IT

Not Satisfied With the Measure as Completed.

Washington, July 9.—The tariff bill passed the senate by a vote of 45 to 34.

Republicans voting in the negative were Beveridge (Ind.), Bristow (Kan.), Brown (Neb.), Burkett (Neb.), Clapp (Minn.), Crawford (S. D.), Cummins (Ia.), Dolliver (Ia.), La Follette (Wis.), Nelson (Minn.).

McEnery of Louisiana was the only Democrat recorded in the affirmative.

As it passed the senate the bill contains almost 400 paragraphs. The senate made 840 amendments to the house provisions.

The discussion throughout the final hours had been chiefly by Senators La Follette and Gore, both of whom criticised the bill, but neither of whom aroused much enthusiasm in the thoroughly wearied senate. When it appeared that a vote could be taken Mr. Beveridge announced the determination of the so called progressive Republicans to cast their votes against the bill.

The announcement called forth a sharp rejoinder from Chairman Aldrich of the finance committee, in which he undertook to remind the independent senators that, being in the minority, they were without authority to speak for the Republican party.

Senators Crawford, Clapp and Nelson responded with spirit, contending for their right to vote in accordance with the dictates of their own judgment and conscience. All declared with venemence their independence of the Rhode Island senator and Mr. Nelson asserted that "after the little state of Rhode Island has disappeared from the map Minnesota will be casting her 5,000,000 Republican votes." Neither Rhode Island nor Rhode Island's senator could, he said, tell Minnesota and her senators what they should do.

Senators Aldrich, Cullom, Hale, Burrows and Penrose, Republicans, and Daniel, Money and Bailey, Democrats, were appointed conferees on behalf of the senate.

BILL SENT TO CONFERENCE

Scene of Tariff Fight Shifted to Joint Committee.

Washington, July 10.—The tariff question has been shifted from both houses of congress to a conference committee.

After one hour and a half of debate the house by a vote of 178 to 151 made a rule whereby all of the 847 amendments of the senate were disagreed to and the conference requested by the senate granted. Eighteen Republicans voted against the rule and one Democrat for it.

The debate at times waxed warm, and disclosed the fact that there were some Republicans, in addition to the so-called "insurgents" who were yet to be pacified before they would give their votes on the final passage of the bill. The Democrats held up the majority party to scorn for having, as they charged, violated its ante-election pledges. A feature of the discussion was an appeal by Chairman Payne to his colleagues to send the conferees to the senate unhampered by instructions. He promised to rigidly exact an explanation of every amendment made by the senate, in order that the house conferees might report back a bill which would meet the approval of the majority and of the country at large. His appeal was granted.

RATE WILL BE CUT IN TWO

Agreement Reached on Corporation Tax Amendment.

Washington, July 12.—The new draft of the corporation tax amendment will provide for a tax of 1 per cent, instead of 2 per cent, on the net earnings of corporations. This was decided at an informal conference at the White House.

ENDEAVOR CONVENTION ENDS

Stirring Scene Marks Close of Meeting at St. Paul.

St. Paul, July 13.—As a fitting close to the great Christian Endeavor convention several thousand young men and women, consecrating themselves anew to the cause of Christ and the church as represented by the Christion Endeavor movement, took part in the most impressive and stirring ceremony of all these wonderful gatherings. Every state in the Union, the territories and the new colonies, as well as many foreign lands, represented in some cases by able orators and in others by trembling women just courageous enough to lisp their pledges, joined in a mighty promise to push forward the work of their master.

Banners and pennants abounded. President Clark called the roll of the states according to alphabetical order, and as he did so one or more representatives stepped forward with flag and banner and before the whole convention made covenant to do their part of the work in increasing the number of members and in adding zeal to the cause.

When the pledges had all been made the representatives of the states and territories, with banners flying, formed in line of march and marched around the stage, the entire audience rising and singing "Onward Christian Soldiers."

As the parade ended Dr. Clark invoked blessings upon the marchers and the states they represented, and with cheers for the founder of the great brotherhood the 1909 convention ended.

ELKS ASSEMBLE IN LOS ANGELES

Thousands Attend Convention in California City.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 13.—The City of the Angels is entertaining today thousands upon thousands of "the Best People on Earth." At any rate, so the members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks call themselves jocularly, and the hospitable folk of Los Angeles, happy to welcome the throng of good fellows from all parts of the United States, are not inclined to dispute the claim.

The city is lavishly decorated with royal purple and white, the colors of the Elks, and countless representations of the elk's head and the clock with hands pointing to 11 are to be seen. The convention is the biggest in the forty years' history of the order.

The convention will remain in session three days, dispersing to send the delegates on excursions to Seattle, Colorado and other parts of the West. The main business will be the selection of next year's convention city and the election of officers. For the high position of grand exalted ruler of over 300,000 Elks there are two candidates—Garry Herrmann, the well known Cincinnati baseball magnate, and J. U. Samis of Le Mars, Ia. Edward Leach of New York has no opposition for re-election as grand treasurer and is the candidate of the East and Middle West for grand exalted ruler in 1910. There is also no opposition to the re-election of Grand Secretary Fred C. Robinson, who has held the office several years. Detroit is in the lead as a candidate for next year's convention and Boston for the 1911 gathering.

MILLIONS ARE REPRESENTED

National Council of Women Meets in Seattle.

Seattle, Wash., July 13.—The sixth triennial session of the National Council of Women of the United States will begin here this evening with a reception to the officers, delegates and visitors to the council. The three days' business sessions of the council will begin tomorrow morning and close on the evening of July 16.

The council is composed of twenty-two national organizations, representing as many phases of thought and activity, such as the National Woman's Suffrage association, the National Woman's Relief society, National Woman's Relief corps, the Universal Peace union, the Council of Jewish Women, the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic, etc. There are also nine local councils, consisting of more than 200 federated societies. In all more than 3,000,000 women are represented. The council was organized in 1888 with Frances E. Willard as president and Susan B. Anthony as vice president at large. It represents organized effort along the lines of education, industry and philanthropy, as well as moral and government reform.

Among the subjects to be discussed at the present meeting are the following: Modern methods of child saving, peace and arbitration, woman's progress in education, political equality, divorce reform, laws concerning domestic relations and legal status of women and children.

Engineer Scalded to Death.

St. Paul, July 13.—John Youngren, engineer at the American Linseed company's plant, Hampden avenue, Merriam Park, was literally scalded and burned to death by an explosion in the boiler room of the building and died five hours later at St. Joseph's hospital.

TO ATTEND GINGLES TRIAL

Women Resort to Trickery and Forged Passes.

Chicago, July 13.—Ella Gingles continues to bask in the white light of public interest here. Judge Brentano's courtroom, where the young Irish lacemaker is on trial for larceny, a charge which she declares was made only to cover attempts to lead her into "white slavery," was jammed with women, several of whom obtained entrance through trickery and forged passes.

The state during the day dealt the Gingles defense several telling blows. The story of the Wellington hotel bathroom incident was impeached in many important features. Attempts of counsel for the defendant to bring into the case the names of well known men as being behind the plot against the girl met with failure.

Dr. Arthur E. Price, one of the medical experts for the state, gave testimony tending to support the theory that the girl is suffering from a form of hysteria. Dr. Price saw the girl at the hospital after she was found injured in the bathroom. He thus described what he found:

"Besides a few scratches on her body I found a small lump on the back of her head. When I pressed the lump she screamed, saying it pained her. Later, while she was talking to Mr. Short, I pressed the lump, but she paid no attention to it."

"When you touched the other wounds on her would she say anything?"

"When she saw what I was doing she would comploin and then when her attention was districted she would not say anything."

"How deep were these scratches?"

"At the most about one-twentieth of an inch."

"What is your opinion of the wounds?"

"I think that they were self-inflicted."

NATIONALISTS ENTER TEHERAN

Fighting at Once Begun in the Persian Capital.

Teheran, July 13.—One thousand Nationalists entered Teheran at 5 o'clock this morning by three gates. The Cossacks occupied the central square and surrounding streets.

Fighting started at once and is vigorously proceeding.

The shah is momentarily expected to take refuge in a foreign legation.

CATHOLICS MEET IN BOSTON

Educators Begin a Three Days' Convention in That City.

Boston, July 13.—With mass in the cathedral and an address of welcome by Archbishop O'Connell the Roman Catholic educators of the United States began today a three days' convention in this city. The business meetings of the convention will be held in Boston college and in the Catholic Union clubhouse. The educators have been divided into three departments, the seminary, the college and the parochial schools, which include also the Catholic high schools.

Delegates from all parts of the country have assembled in Boston for the convention. One order of sisters, who conduct parochial schools, has sent nearly 200 delegates, while hundreds of priests and brothers as well as delegates among the laymen are in attendance.

FOUR BANTAMWEIGHTS MEET

One of the Elimination Bouts Proves Inconclusive.

New York, July 13.—Phil McGovern and Charlie Goldman and George Coster and George Wanger, four of the best bantamweights in the East, were the principals in two ten-round bouts at the Bedford Athletic club of Ridgewood. McGovern and Goldman fought to a draw, but Wagner easily had the better of Coster. It was announced that the winners would fight a week hence for the right to meet Monte Atell of California for the bantam championship, but as the McGovern-Goldman bout was inconclusive, there will have to be further preliminaries.

Koch Elected Commander.

St. Paul, July 13.—Hugh V. Koch of St. Paul was re-elected commander of the Minnesota department of the United Spanish War veterans at the fifth annual encampment, which opened a two days' session at the old capitol when about fifty delegates answered the roll call. Other officers elected were: L. H. Dibble, Faribault, senior vice commander; M. J. Murray, Duluth, junior vice commander; A. J. Rick, Winona, inspector; J. W. Finehout, St. Paul, judge advocate; Dr. L. French, Duluth, surgeon general; R. L. McKinnion, Minneapolis, chaplain; G. Koschel, Winona, marshal.

Great Northern Train Wrecked.

Columbia Falls, Mont., July 13.—Great Northern "Oriental Limited" left the rails five miles west of Rexford, Mont. It is reported that the engineer, fireman and one messenger were seriously injured. Traffic will be delayed for ten hours. The cause of the accident is unknown.

FOURTEEN DROWN

Lake Steamer John B. Cowle Sunk in a Collision.

DISASTER OCCURS IN A FOG

Vessel Goes to Bottom Three Minutes After Crash.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 13.—Three minutes after the steel steamer Isaac M. Scott and John B. Cowle collided in Lake Superior about a mile and a half off Whitefish Point lighthouse, the Cowle went to the bottom in fifty fathoms of water carrying with her fourteen members of her crew. The Scott, although badly damaged about the bows, put back to this port, where she arrived with part of the crew of the Cowle.

A heavy fog was responsible for the collision. The Scott, a new boat on her maiden trip to the Head of the Lakes, had just passed the light at Whitefish Point, and straightened out her course up the lake when suddenly the John B. Cowle loomed up through the fog, broadside on to the Scott and only a few feet away. The Cowle was down bound with 8,000 tons of iron ore.

The ships were so close that it was impossible to avoid a collision, and the Scott crashed into the side of the heavily laden Cowle. For fifteen feet the bow of the Scott penetrated the side of the Cowle. Tons of water rushed into the great opening and in three minutes the Cowle had settled to the bottom of the lake.
